In United States District Court, Boston, Massachusetts, on March 4, 1968, Raymond Patriarca, "boss" of La Cosa Nostra in New England, and two associates, Henry Tameleo and Ronald Cassesso, went on trial charged with Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling (ITAR - G). This charge arose from a June, 1965, conspiracy on the part of the defendants to murder Providence, Rhode Island, hoodlum, Willie Marfeo, in a dispute over the control of Marfeo's dice game. Boston hoodlums Cassesso and Joseph Baron were imported to Providence from Boston to kill Marfeo, but the murder plot was canceled at that time because of police "heat."

Although the plot to kill Willie Marfeo in June, 1965, was canceled by Patriarca, Marfeo was the victim of a gangland-type murder perpetrated in the summer of 1966. The murder has not been solved. Marfeo was reputedly the strongest of seven hoodlum brothers. In recent months the brothers have finally developed enough courage to fight back against some of Patriarca's confederates. In the middle of the night of February 28, 1968, an as yet unidentified person fired a shot through the bedroom window of Willie Marfeo's [redacted] in Providence, in an attempt to kill him. It is not thought that this murder attempt has any connection with the ITAR - G trial in Boston, as the surviving Marfeo brothers have remained true to their gangland code and refused to cooperate with the authorities. None of the brothers was to be a witness in Patriarca's trial.

Dear [Redacted]

In United States District Court, Boston, Massachusetts, on March 8, 1968, a trial jury returned a verdict of guilty against Raymond L. S. Patriarca, Henry Tameleo, and Ronald Cassesso after trial on charges of Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling.

The conviction of Patriarca, particularly, is an event of major importance in the FBI's continuing drive against organized crime. Patriarca is the leader in the New England area of the nefarious criminal organization known as La Cosa Nostra. The other two men are also members of La Cosa Nostra and close associates of Patriarca.

Leg
The charges against the three men arose from a conspiracy to murder a man by the name of William Marfeo, who, in 1965, at Providence, Rhode Island, was operating a dice game and defied orders of Patriarca with reference to the time, place, and manner of its operation. Because of Marfeo's defiance of Patriarca, the latter, through his subordinate, Tameleo, arranged for the travel of Cassesso and another Boston hoodlum to Providence, Rhode Island, for the purpose of murdering Marfeo. The plans to murder Marfeo in June, 1935, were canceled shortly after orders were issued; however, approximately a year later, Marfeo was murdered by an unknown assailant in Providence, Rhode Island. The murder is unsolved.

For many years, Patriarca has been known to us as one of the most powerful and vicious criminals in organized crime throughout the country. In the New England area, he and his henchmen have dominated all of the lucrative rackets. He has attained that domination by his utter ruthlessness in ordering the murder of anyone standing in his way. For reasons of this background, Patriarca has continuously been given investigative attention by the FBI as a prime target for ultimate prosecution. The current conviction is to a great extent attributable to these continuous efforts on the part of the FBI.

The Attorney General has also been advised of the foregoing.

Sincerely yours,

SAC Handley, Boston, called at 3:00 p.m. to advise that La Cosa Nostra leader of New England Raymond Patriarca was convicted on all counts of violation of the Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling Statute today in Boston. Also convicted with Patriarca were La Cosa Nostra member Henry Tameleo and Ronnie Cassesso, who while not identified as a member, has long been associated with La Cosa Nostra activities in New England.

This is a most significant Bureau accomplishment resulting in the conviction of a major La Cosa Nostra leader in the United States.

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA,
AND OTHERS
INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION IN AID OF RACKETEERING - GAMBLING

I would like to comment concerning the significance of the March 9, 1968, conviction in United States District Court, Boston, Massachusetts, of Raymond L. S. Patriarca and two associates after trial on charges of Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling. As you know, these charges arose from a conspiracy in 1935 to murder one William Harbo, Providence, Rhode Island, operator of a dice game, who refused to abide by instructions issued by Patriarca in connection with the gambling operation.

This conviction is of major importance because of Patriarca's national standing in the nefarious criminal organization known as La Cosa Nostra. Patriarca is the "boss" of the New England "family" of La Cosa Nostra and is known to have been, in the past, a member of the nine-man "Commission" which rules La Cosa Nostra throughout the country. He may be a member of the "Commission" at the present time, although it is not definitely known.

I assure you that the FBI's drive against the evil forces of organized crime will continue unabated, not only in New England, but throughout the country. This significant investigative and prosecutive success is also being brought to the attention of [redacted] at the White House.

At that time, they will inform U.S. Attorney that any revocation of bond should be handled in such fashion that security of informant's life will not be jeopardized. RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA;

INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION IN AID OF RACKETEERING - GAMBLING

Reference is made to my letter of March 11, 1968, concerning the conviction of Raymond L. S. Patriarca and two associates after trial on charges of Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering. The verdict of guilty was given on March 8, 1968, in United States District Court, Boston, Massachusetts, and Patriarca's bond was continued, with the sentencing date set for March 22, 1968.

A confidential informant has advised us that Patriarca is contemplating leaving the United States in order to avoid serving a prison sentence. One of his emissaries, ostensibly a legitimate businessman, has been negotiating for property in the Republic of Haiti, where Patriarca plans to erect a gambling casino. According to our informant, it is to this location that Patriarca is planning to flee. Special Agent in Charge James L. Handley, of our Boston Office, has advised United States Attorney Paul F. Markham of the information set forth above, with the thought that revocation of Patriarca's bond might be sought. Mr. Markham was advised of the confidential nature of the information and that the informant's life would be in jeopardy if his identity as the source of the information should become known to Patriarca.

We are not maintaining a physical surveillance of Patriarca, while at liberty on bond, because the nature of the community in which he resides and maintains his office precludes employment of such a procedure.

The matter of TAMELEO and Attorney [redacted] attempting to obtain information concerning the testimony of JOSEPH BARON before a Federal Grand Jury had been taken up with the U.S. Attorney at Boston. He planned no action pending the outcome of the trial of PATRIARCA, et al, which ended on 3/8/68. Attorney [redacted] who would also be a possible witness against [redacted] is still hospitalized for the bomb blast in his car. The U.S. Attorney at Boston is still considering this matter and Bureau will be kept advised.

Attached teletype reports the conviction of Patriarca, Tameleo and Cassesso for Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling. This is a most significant achievement by Bureau in that it convicts a top U.S. La Cosa Nostra (LCN) leader and 2 of his associates. Patriarca controls all of New England for LCN and was responsible for numerous gangland murders. Teletype recommends incentive awards for SAs Kehoe, [redacted] and [redacted] of Boston for handling of investigation and informant which resulted in this conviction. Special Investigative Division concurs in this recommendation and notes that this investigation and development of informant by these Agents continued over extended period of one year. Teletype also recommends letters of commendation to Department Attorney [redacted] and U.S. Attorney Paul F. Markham and Asst. U.S. Attorney [redacted] of U.S. Attorney's Office, Boston, for their handling of prosecution. Special Investigative Division concurs. In addition, Special Investigative Division recommends letter of commendation for SAC, Boston, and Bureau Supervisor C.L. Green, both of whom handled over all direction of case in field and at SOG. There have been no prior awards in this case.* If approved, appropriate letters will be prepared. Letters on this accomplishment being directed to White House and Attorney General.

The conviction on March 8, 1968, of Patriarca, La Cosa Nostra leader in New England and one-time Commission member of that organization, and two of his associates, Enrico Tameleo and Ronald Cassesso, for violation of the Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling Statute resulted in extensive publicity in the Providence-Boston area.

This conviction culminated an extensive FBI investigation into the activities of Patriarca and his associates during which we developed, through our prior confidential sources, detailed information of Patriarca's involvement in numerous gangland slayings in the New England area. It will be recalled that in excess of 45 such gangland slayings have occurred within the Boston area within the last three years. In addition, our inquiries developed extensive efforts on the part of Patriarca and his associates to corrupt public and police officials in New England. Some of our material was previously disclosed in a hearing on a case involving Rhode Island hoodlum Taglianetti, when a U.S. District Court Judge in Providence made some of the results of our microphone surveillance of Patriarca available to the press.

The conviction of Patriarca and his associates is an outstanding accomplishment and in addition has certain interesting aspects which might indicate a trend by hoodlum figures to avoid confrontation with the results achieved by our prior microphone coverage. In the current trial, although the results of our microphone coverage were made available to the court and to the defense, it is interesting to note that the defense did not attempt to suppress any evidence by reason of our microphone surveillances. It appears the defense might well have decided to forego this available defense rather than face risk of further exposure of their activities in gangland murders and related matters which information is set forth in detail in our microphone logs. In addition, the defense did not place any witnesses on the stand and merely rested their case after the Government had completed its case.

Honorable J. Edgar Hoover

Dear Mr. Hoover:

The recent conviction of New England Cosa Nostra leader Raymond Patriarca, and two of his cohorts is one of the major accomplishments in the Organized Crime Drive Program.

I have been advised by the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section and Mr. Paul Markham, the United States Attorney in Boston, that without the outstanding work performed by Special Agents [redacted] these convictions could not have been obtained. We commend their ability, initiative, patience and resourcefulness, under the most difficult circumstances, in the handling of the Government's key witness prior to indictment and trial. These agents worked long hours and rendered immeasurable assistance to the attorneys who prosecuted this case during the grand jury presentation, the pre-trial preparation and throughout the trial itself.

In addition to Special Agent [redacted] who was an excellent witness, the Government called representatives of the Rhode Island State Police, the Providence City Police, the Boston and Revere, Massachusetts Police Departments as well as an undercover agent of the Treasury Department. This prosecution is certainly one of the most significant examples of Federal-State cooperation.

It is indeed a pleasure to bring this matter to your attention. Please convey my sincere appreciation to Special Agents [redacted]

Sincerely,

Ramsey Clark

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Thank you for your gracious and thoughtful letter of March 12, 1968 concerning the successful prosecution of Raymond L. S. Patriarca. I am certain that the outstanding efforts of Special Agents [redacted] in securing the conviction have been brought to your attention. I wish to add my personal commendation for their exemplary work.

However, it would be unfortunate if the contribution of their immediate supervisor, Special Agent John F. Kehoe, was not also brought to your personal attention. From the beginning, Mr. Kehoe played a vital role in the investigation and the ultimate conviction.

It was indeed thoughtful of you to write on April 9th and comment as you did concerning the work of Special Agent [redacted] in the case involving Raymond Patriarca. I am pleased to know his investigation was of assistance in obtaining the successful prosecution, and he joins me in thanking you for your favorable remarks.

J. Edgar Hoover, Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation
Washington, D. C. 20530

Dear Mr. Hoover:

In my earlier letter to you in connection with the successful prosecution of Raymond Patriarca, I neglected to mention the excellent work done by Special Agents of the Providence Office of the Bureau.

An important part of this case involved both the Providence Police Department and the Rhode Island State Police. In view of the relationships that had been built up between these agencies and the Bureau, it made our job so much easier. In particular, I would like to commend to you Special Agent [redacted] of your Providence Office. He was instrumental in developing this aspect of the case. In addition, Special Agent [redacted] knowledge of the defendant Patriarca and others in the Providence area was extremely helpful to us both prior to and during the trial. He did a fine job.

I, along with the other members of the prosecution staff, Assistant United States Attorney [redacted] and [redacted] of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, wish to express our sincere appreciation.

Very truly yours,

Paul F. Markham

RAYMOND PATRIARCA, et al
Defendants, Appellants

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
Appellee

CONSOLIDATED DESIGNATION OF PARTS OF RECORD APPELLANTS PROPOSE TO PRINT AND CONSOLIDATED STATEMENT OF POINTS UPON WHICH APPELLANTS INTEND TO RELY

Pursuant to Rule 23(2), the appellants state that they propose to print the following parts of the record in their consolidated appendix to their brief:

✓1. Docket entries

✓2. Indictment

✓3. Defendants' motions to dismiss indictment

✓4. Defendants' motions for severance

✓5. Defendants' motions to strike

✓6. Defendants' motions for change of venue

✓7. Defendants' motions for continuance

✓8. Defendants' motions for judgment of acquittal

9. Entire trial transcript [except summations to jury by the three defense

10. Judgments

11. Notices of appeal

Further, appellants state that the points upon which they intend to rely are that the trial court erred as follows:

1 - A ① In denying their motions to dismiss the indictment. law and reason

2 - B ② In denying their motions for severance. law

3 - C ③ In denying their motions to strike certain language from the indictment.

4 - D ④ In denying their motions for change of venue.

⑦ In admitting evidence as to arrangements made for the employment of the witness Baron at the Blue Bunny Lounge. (Trial transcript, pages 287 - 292)

⑧ In denying their motions to strike evidence and for mistrial in connection with the testimony of the witness Baron that a certain letter written by him was prompted by the fact that "two or three of my friends had been killed and about $70,000 of some money meant for me was taken away." (Trial transcript, page 295)

⑩ In instructing the jury that "It is the privilege of a United States Attorney not to indict a co-conspirator as a defendant". (Trial transcript, page 312)

⑪ In incorrectly instructing the jury as to the definition of the word "attempt"

as used in the indictment, both in the formal charge to the jury and in response to a question put by the jury.

Living
12. In refusing to correct the argument of the United States Attorney, made in the course of his final summation to the jury, expressing his personal belief in the credibility of the Government's principal witness, Baron.

Inspection Service for the Internal Revenue Service

A representative of the Rhode Island State Police

A representative of the U. S. Senate Subcommittee

BARON advised that since he started out with the FBI he would like to have the Agents present when he is interviewed by other law enforcement agencies so that he will have confidence that what he says will be reported accurately.

BARON also stated that since he is going to be in custody for such an extended period of time he would just as soon get some other cases going, and he indicated that he probably could be of some assistance in the murder of JACKSON. (It should be noted that this is in reference to JOHN W. JACKSON, age 47, who was shot to death on 9/28/66, on Queensbury Street in the Back Bay section of Boston.)

For the information of the Bureau, JACKSON was a bartender at a Boston cafe and had testified before a Suffolk County Grand Jury relative to the murder of MARGARET SYLVESTER whose body was found cut up on 11/10/64, in the upstairs of Luigi's Restaurant. Luigi's was operated by the father of [redacted] two well known Boston hoodlums. BARON said that the murder was committed by [redacted] and TOMMY DE PRISCO. (DE PRISCO is now deceased, having been murdered in gangland style at the Nite Lite on Commercial Street Boston, Mass., on 11/15/66.)

BARON furnished some of the details concerning this murder which will be the subject of a separate FD-302.

This information was disseminated orally to District Attorney GARRETT H. BYRNE of Suffolk County, Boston, Mass., who advised that this matter would have to be gone over carefully before any consideration "to move on this case" is given because of the two cases presently pending appeal; e. g. the RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA case and the six murder convictions in Suffolk County as a result of EDWARD "TEDDY" DEEGAN's slaying.

BARON furnished his personal knowledge of [redacted] at the time of the interview, was an "Unlawful Flight" fugitive-Murder, having escaped MCI, Norfolk, Mass., where he had been confined for murdering a Boston Police Officer.

This information is not being set forth inasmuch as [redacted] was apprehended this date by Agents and Boston Police Officers.

BARON advised that he believes that [redacted] who was wounded at the time ARTHUR PEARSON was murdered, 10/4/68, will ultimately be murdered because he could be a potential witness against the individuals that did him (PEARSON) in. BARON advised that [redacted] could possibly be persuaded to talk and testify. He said that PEARSON and [redacted] were doing a lot of stealing and had a close relationship with well known fence, [redacted] in connection with these thefts and that [redacted] was a real close associate of HENRY TAMELEO just prior to TAMELEO's arrest, and TAMELEO is believed to be [redacted] "silent partner" in his fencing operations.

It should be noted that [redacted] has indicated that she did not think that she [redacted] another year and that she never realized that this was [redacted] was asked what would have happened if the FBI had not gone to talk [redacted] in the first place, and she replied that he would have [redacted] the Suffolk County District Attorney and [redacted] and [redacted] She also indicated that [redacted] this past Summer and it is apparent that [redacted] at any time.

It should be noted that BARON indicated that he has heard that his Attorney [redacted] was going to make an appearance on television which would deal with the bombing of [redacted] and "organized crime" and he indicated [redacted] said that he was going to "cut" him (BARON) in on a percentage of the fee that he receives.

It should be noted that [redacted] appeared in an hour-long taped TV program for WBZ-TV Thursday, 10/10/68, and that this is going to be released after the Westinghouse Broadcasting System has cleared it with its Legal Department in NYC, and [redacted] is safely out of the Boston area. There is a possibility of obtaining the copies of the tape prior to its release and, if this is accomplished, the Bureau will be advised.

APPEALS FROM THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

McENTEE and COFFIN, Circuit Judges.

Francis J. DiMento, with whom Charles A. Curran and DiMento & Sullivan were on brief, for Raymond Patriarca, appellant.
Ronald J. Chisholm for Ronald J. Cassesso, appellant.
Joseph J. Balliro for Henry Tameleo, appellant.
Edward F. Harrington, Assistant U. S. Attorney, with whom Paul F. Markham, United States Attorney, and Walter T. Barnes, Special Attorney, Department of Justice, were on brief, for appellee.

October 14, 1968.

CORFEN, Circuit Judge. These are appeals from judgments of conviction following jury verdicts on an indictment in three counts. The first count charged all of the appellants with conspiracy, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371, to travel and use the telephone in interstate commerce with intent both to commit murder to further an unlawful gambling enterprise, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1952(a)(2), and to promote such enterprise, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1952(a)(3); and thereafter to attempt to commit such murder and acts of promotion. The chief witness for the prosecution, one Baron, was named as a co-conspirator but not a defendant. Other substantive counts charged appellant Tameleo with using a telephone facility in interstate commerce and appellants Patriarca and Tameleo with causing Baron and appellant Cassesso to travel in interstate commerce pursuant to the same intent, followed by an attempt.

The district court is alleged to have erred in denying a motion for continuance and change of venue because of prejudicial publicity; in refusing to grant a mistrial for prosecutorial expression of belief during the closing argument; and in denying various motions to strike part of the indictment, to grant a severance, to enter judgments of acquittal, and to make a requested instruction.

MOTIONS FOR CONTINUANCE AND CHANGE OF VENUE

Appellants, in alleging error by the court in refusing their motions for continuance and change of venue filed on February 20, 1968 and at the opening of trial on March 4, 1968, refer in their brief to

"... a long history of publicity, beginning with the widely publicized 'Valachi hearings', so-called, of 1963, which named the defendant Patriarca as 'Boss' of the New England 'Cosa Nostra' or 'Mafia' and the defendant Tameleo as one of his subordinates. It is a matter of common knowledge that the publicity, surrounding Patriarca, at least, multiplied and persisted uninterrupted down to May, 1967, when the Government disclosed, in connection with a tax-evasion prosecution in Rhode Island, unconnected with Patriarca, that his office in Providence had been 'bugged' for three years and that both he and Tameleo had engaged in highly compromising conversations with others."

Subsequently, in May of 1967, newspapers in Boston published stories that a Mafia "strongarm", one Joe (Barboza) Baron, had been "singing" to the FBI, referring to appellant Patriarca as a Cosa Nostra boss. Then on June 20, 1967, the date of the indictment in this case, there were more newspaper headlines and accounts concerning all appellants and Baron. The newspaper clippings included as exhibits in the record before us contain no items between July 10, 1967 and October 27, 1967, when appellant Tameleo was named as having been indicted, after grand jury testimony by Baron, for a slaying unrelated to these appeals and as being an aide to "New England Cosa Nostra boss Raymond Patriarca".

On October 30, 1967, pursuant to appellants' first motion for change of venue on July 26, 1967, hearing was had in camera. Counsel for appellant Patriarca, alleging nationwide publicity, waived his motion for a change of venue and requested a continuance of four or five months. The court stated that the case would not be tried until after the first of the year and on January 22, 1968 set the date of trial for February 6.

In the meantime, on January 16, 1968, there had been several newspaper accounts of the indictment of appellant Cassesso for conspiracy to incite a fellow prison inmate to confess falsely to a murder. These, however, were of small moment compared to the figurative and literal bombshell of January 30, 1968 when Baron's attorney, John E. Fitzgerald, Jr., was almost killed by a bomb wired to the ignition of his automobile. Widespread reporting of and editorializing on the bombing ensued.

On February 2, 1968, appellants moved for a continuance, which was granted until March 4. On February 20 motions for continuance and a change of venue to New York were filed, hearing was had in camera, and the motions were denied on February 27, the court observing in a memorandum that the newspaper articles on which the motions were based concerned the Mafia and Cosa Nostra and made no specific reference to defendants; that such articles are constantly appearing in New York as in New England; and that the climate for a fair trial was far more favorable than on October 30, 1967. Similar motions were filed on the day of trial, March 4, based on recent publicity, and were denied for the reasons given on February 27. These two rulings are now before us.

Appellants argue that the prejudice created by the February news accounts, was "the connection of the defendants, in the public's mind, to the bombing incident." The record of newspaper clippings before us, apparently assembled through a clipping service, contains, exclusive of duplications, seventy items from newspapers in Boston and five other major Massachusetts cities covering the period from January 31 to March 4. While not complete and not including any data on television and radio reports, we must take it as reasonably representative. We report the results of our scrutiny in the margin.¹

Jan. 31 - Feb. 6 (1 week)	50
Feb. 7 - Feb. 20 (2 weeks)	10
Feb. 21 - Mar. 4 (13 days)	2

In addition, between February 21 and March 4, there were 8 articles reporting only appellants' February 20 request for change of

In none of the newspaper accounts were appellants linked with the Mafia or Cosa Nostra or with the Fitzgerald bombing. In none were the acts alleged in the indictment reported. In only one article, published one month before trial, was Baron labelled a Cosa Nostra informer; he was elsewhere uniformly referred to as an underworld or gangland informer. Even more significant are the facts that the amount of coverage diminished sharply after the week following the bombing and that, subsequent to appellants' filing motions on February 20, the subject matter was almost wholly that of the making and disposition of the motions themselves.

Under these circumstances, we cannot say that the court abused its discretion. Indeed, the sharp diminution of decibels after the first week following the Fitzgerald bombing indicates that a month's delay was a realistic estimate. That a rash of stories centered about moves for further delay was inevitable; if such could be ground for continuance, cases would never be tried.

We are mindful of the authorities relevant to this issue. But there is here lacking as of the time of the relevant motions, the kind of incriminating nexus that was present in Rideau v. Louisiana, 373 U.S. 723 (1963) (out of court confession widely seen); in United States v. Dioguardi, 147 F. Supp. 421 (S.D. N.Y. 1956) (publicity of recent trial testimony incriminating defendants); in Delaney v. United venue and decision thereon. These made no reference to the bombing.

Only two articles (apart from one report of the court's memorandum of February 27, summarized above) mentioned the Cosa Nostra, these occurring a month before trial. Two of three articles mentioning Baron as a government witness appeared over a month before trial as did two references to Fitzgerald being a possible witness.

There was only one reference to appellants Cassesso and Tameleo, this in connection with another indictment. Of the fourteen references to appellant Patriarca, one referred to the indictment, five to the February 2 postponement, and eight to the February 20 motion for change of venue.

States, 199 F.2d 107 (1st Cir. 1952) (widely publicized Congressional hearings on the "scandal" involving defendant); in Marshall v. United States, 360 U.S. 310 (1958), and in Coppedge v. United States, 272 F.2d 504 (D.C. Cir. 1959), cert. denied, 368 U.S. 855 (1961) (widespread publicity of excluded or inadmissible information).

Nor do we find a suggestion of the kind of prejudicial statements or records of conviction, arrests, or indictments emanating from a public official, zealous attempts by the media to arouse a community on a particular trial, reports of refusal to submit to certain tests, pejorative characterizations of a defendant, description of evidence against the accused or reports of plea negotiation cited as presenting the "greatest hazards" to a fair trial by the ABA, Standards Relating to Fair Trial and Free Press, (Tentative Draft, Dec. 1966), pp. 25-40.²

Following the denial of the motions for continuance and change of venue, there was another opportunity for counsel to mitigate any possible effect of pre-trial publicity—on the voir dire. Counsel for one of the appellants requested that the court "ask a question of the jury in connection with this case, in the light of all the publicity." The court replied that it would "put to them a general question and ask them if there is any member of the jury here who feels that he would not be able to give the defendants a fair and impartial trial." Counsel said, "Fine, thank you, your ² What we have said on the issue of pre-trial publicity also disposes of appellants' motions for severance which were sought on the same basis as the original motions for change of venue, preceding the continuance granted on October 30, 1967, and not thereafter renewed. Absent "a strong showing of prejudice", Sagansky v. United States, 358 F.2d 195, 199 (1st Cir.), cert. denied, 385 U.S. 816 (1966), which we do not find here, it is customary to try conspirators together. Opper v. United States, 348 U.S. 84, 95 (1959). To the extent that claimed prejudice may arise from association with others, such association would be revealed in any event from the factual situation presented at the trial.

Honor." The question was put. No response was forthcoming. The court stated that it assumed that all were "in agreement on this particular question." The jurors were then sworn and thereafter sequestered.

While the court did all that was requested at this juncture, and cannot under the circumstances of this case be charged with error in not inquiring further, sua sponte, we feel bound to concede that such a single question posed to the panel en bloc, with an absence of response, achieves little or nothing by way of identifying, weighing, or removing any prejudice from prior publicity. In cases where there is, in the opinion of the court, a significant possibility that jurors have been exposed to potentially prejudicial material, and on request of counsel, we think that the court should proceed to examine each prospective juror apart from other jurors and prospective jurors, with a view to eliciting the kind and degree of his exposure to the case or the parties, the effect of such exposure on his present state of mind, and the extent to which such state of mind is immutable or subject to change from evidence. In this we are in accord with the suggestions of section 3.4 of ABA, Standards Relating to Fair Trial and Free Press, (Tentative Draft, Dec. 1966), pp. 130-137.³

PROSECUTORIAL SELF-REFERENCE

Appellants seek not only reversal of their convictions but judgments of acquittal because of the conduct of the prosecutor in injecting his own belief into his closing argument. They describe the comment as "outrageous", in bad faith, and utterly unprovoked by any defense argument. Appellee denies that any comment was made by the prosecutor expressing personal belief in the testimony and that even if such comment were to be so interpreted, it was justified by the "vicious attacks" of appellants' counsel. Finally, appellee argues that the comment could not have been prejudicial. We disagree with all but the last of these positions. We hold that the comment was a prohibited one, to which timely objection was made, that it could not be justified by the argument of appellants' counsel, even though parts of such argument might be interpreted as provocation, but that there was no possibility of its prejudicing the jury under the circumstances of this case. F. R. Crim. P. 52(a).

This conclusion stems from our evaluation of the challenged comment against the background of all the arguments which we now summarize. The gist of the alleged conspiracy was a plan involving the appellants and Baron to kill one Marfeo, the proprietor of a gambling establishment in Providence. This establishment, which continued to operate after once being raided, had caused overt police surveillance in the area to increase to the point where it caused a decline in the patronage of another gambling establishment in which appellant Patriarca allegedly had an interest. Marfeo refused Tameleo's and Patriarca's requests to cease operations and the decision was made to kill him. Baron and appellant Cassesso agreed to do the job, travelled to Providence and viewed places such as restaurants and bars which Marfeo was known to frequent. Further action was postponed since the police had learned of Tameleo's and Patriarca's dispute with Marfeo.

The testimony of Baron was central to the prosecution's case. All of the evidence of the plan, the phone calls, other conversations, travel, and visits to Marfeo's haunts to implement the plan came from his lips. Other witnesses, principally police and federal agents, filled in the background—the raid on Marfeo's establishment, Marfeo's continued operations, accelerated surveillance in the area, a police request to appellant Patriarea to try to persuade Marfeo to close shop, the large scale gambling activities of appellant Tameleo, the identification of places Marfeo frequented.

Baron was a highly vulnerable witness. Not only had he spent almost half of his life in prison, but he had been assured that he would not be indicted for the crime at issue here if he testified before the grand jury. In addition he was told that his cooperation in this matter would be brought to the attention of the prosecution in other pending criminal cases. Money from his unlicensed loan operations continued to be sent to him while in prison. Fears for the safety of his wife and child led to her being allowed to live with him in protective custody. On at least two occasions discussions were had on his behalf with writers relating to a book based on his revelations and movie rights, both promising large returns. Letters which he sent from prison referred to FBI representatives saying to him "If you help us, we will help you"; to the purpose of his transfer to the Barnstable House of Correction as being "to brainwash me"; to having "a few aces" up his sleeve; to his doing something sensational with the result that "30 would go" whether innocent or not. After he began to talk to the FBI about the subject matter of this case, there were some fourteen visits in each of which he would add some new detail either previously overlooked or concealed.

Appellants' three counsel zeroed in on their target. They touched all the bases in vigorous, evocative language. The theme was clearly enunciated in these words of the argument: "I say to you that Mr. Barboza—Mr. Baron—is just a liar. That his story is fiction, and it was made up, coolly calculated, in that very cold blood that he admits he has and for very good reasons." Counsel then colorfully delved into the reasons which he described as "the most tremendous inducements for anybody to lie . . . sex, . . . liberty, and . . . money."

In the course of the ensuing argument for the defense, on the whole proper and evidence-oriented, counsel occasionally made remarks which could be construed as either a personal belief or an attack on the integrity of the prosecution. A failure to introduce evidence alluded to in the prosecution's opening, because of defense counsel's objection, was made the basis for rhetorically asking the prosecution where the promised witnesses were and for remarking to the jury that "that was put in your mind". The word "inducement" was used six times.⁴

The problem with "inducement" is that it does not merely mean "motive". Its primary meaning is "the act or process of inducing", Webster's Dictionary (3d Int. Ed.) p. 1154; it can be easily understood as connoting purpose on the part of the prosecution as well as response on the part of the prospective witness. This possible understanding was reinforced by an appellant's counsel stating, "He is not going to be found guilty of anything"—implying without foundation in the evidence that, with regard to other prosecutions pending against Baron, more than calling the attention of the prosecutor to his cooperation had been promised. A similar observation may be made of counsel's question whether the fact Baron was allowed to live with his wife was "because he is delivering something? Is that the consideration for his being with his wife?" Again the interpretation of a two-way bargain between the prosecution and Baron for incriminating testimony is not unreasonable. Another oblique remark is a reference to the government's "advantage of everything else they might have going for them here". So also with "Now let me get back to show you the type of job that they are trying to do on my client. . . ." and ". . . I'm going to show you the artfulness in this thing."

⁴The analysis of the evidence began with the statement "I don't think they [sex, liberty, money] necessarily have to be argued in any particular order, but let's try it this way: inducement." One example referred to the promise of immunity from indictment for the present offense in the words: "I suggest that it is a pretty darned good inducement for some of them to lie and say anything he might think someone wants them to say, because what the heck he doesn't have to worry, he is not going to be indicted."

One counsel for appellants occasionally also spoke in a way permitting the inference that personal belief was being expressed. For example, "When . . . [Baron] looked at [counsel who was cross-examining] in a cold stare and he said yes, and I have seen a lot of things and I have tried murder cases but it made me wince, and do a little shuddering"; ". . . I believe the evidence was that not one of these persons is guilty"; ". . . I think [a verdict of not guilty] is justified by the evidence."

Counsel for the prosecution began by paraphrasing the defense as saying that ". . . Baron's testimony is not fact, it's fiction." He added, "If you accept that, you also accept the fact that that fiction was written, produced and directed by the United States Attorney's office, by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, by the police in Revere and the police in Boston. . . ." Objection was taken and the argument was ordered stricken. The prosecutor then addressed himself to the theme of the defense that Baron had made up the story he told. He sought to verify it by corroboration from other witnesses. In his catalogue of corroboration he cited testimony that Baron knew Tameleo and Cassesso, that Marfeo was running a crap game, that Tameleo was a large scale gambler, that a Providence police captain told Patriarca that he wanted the Marfeo gambling operation closed down, that there was a raid, reconstruction of the premises, renewed operations, increased surveillance or "heat", that Baron's description of the interiors of places of alleged conversations and observations was both detailed and not challenged, that Baron's identification of Marfeo hangouts checked with police identification.

At this point the prosecutor noted the coincidence of police identification of Marfeo hangouts as of a time prior to the alleged conspiracy with that of Baron. He asked if that was fiction. Then he said, "I say that is an insult to your intelligence, and I also say that if Joe Baron is guilty of making it fiction, then I am guilty of making it fiction, and the FBI is guilty of making it fiction and every other witness who testified in this case is guilty of making up fiction." Objection was taken but the court said "That may be argued" and the questioning continued.

A short time later the argument concluded and counsel for appellants moved for a mistrial, citing as a second reason the above quoted argument. The court, referring to its prior ruling at the commencement of the prosecution's argument, asked if the prosecutor had again "put himself in the picture". The prosecutor said, "No, Judge. I said if this is fiction, then every witness who appeared here is fiction." When asked again by the court "You weren't a witness. Did you put yourself in there?" the prosecutor answered, "I asked a few leading questions on occasion, Judge." The court noted that all lawyers commit such an error and denied the motion for mistrial. The case was adjourned overnight and the jury was charged the following day.

The question sharply posed by appellants is whether Rule 15 of the Canons of Professional Ethics of the American Bar Association, as applied by us in Greenberg v. United States, 280 F.2d 472 (1st Cir. 1960), has been violated. Greenberg (having to do with a flagrant self-vouching of a prosecutor as a "thirteenth juror") thrusts farther than Rule 15 and some other judicial authorities. Rule 15 pro-scribes a lawyer from asserting a personal belief in his client's innocence or the justice of his cause. Such authorities as Lawn v. United States, 355 U.S. 339, 359-60 n. 15; Gradsky v. United States, 373 F.2d 706, 710 (5th Cir. 1967); United States v. Medlin, 353 F.2d 789, 795 (6th Cir. 1965), cert. denied, 384 U.S. 973 (1966); Jones v. United States, 338 F.2d 553, 554 n. 3 (D.C. Cir. 1964); and United States v. Battiato, 204 F.2d 717 (7th Cir.), cert. denied, 346 U.S. 871 (1953) seem to define the impermissible conduct as any expression of belief which indicates that the prosecutor is relying on information other than that which has been presented in court.⁵ Greenberg proscribes expression of personal belief in the testimony, not only because counsel would then in effect be a witness not under oath or subject to cross-examination but because the false issue of credibility of counsel, with government having the advantage, would be injected.

In Greenberg we recognized that at times "special circumstances" may justify a reply but found no such circumstances. Nor do we find such here. We concede that the prosecutor could interpret parts of the defense argument as a subtle, veiled attack on the prosecution's motives and integrity. But we cannot say that counsel for appellants deliberately indulged in excessive argument. At most their comments, as we have endeavored to show, were cloaked in ambiguity. Moreover, if seriously disturbed, counsel for the government concealed that fact for he raised no objections. At least under these circumstances we do not consider that a trespass by the defense gives the prosecution a hunting license exempt from ethical restraints on advocacy.⁶

⁵ Appellants argue that the prosecutor's reference to the FBI, when only one agent testified, implied that that agency was in possession of secret evidence. We think it clear from the context, however, that the reference was to the corroborating evidence adduced in court which the prosecutor had just summarized.

Coming to the prosecutor's remarks, we observe first that just as the defense argument was ambiguous, so were these. In context, the prosecutor was pointing to corroborating items of testimony given by police and other witnesses, such as places Marfeo was known to frequent, which matched testimony given by Baron. He was arguing that either such items were true or false. If false, not only one police witness was lying, but all were. And since the instruments of the lies were the prosecutor who asked the questions and the witnesses who answered them, it could arguably be said that on this hypothesis the statement that he was "making fiction" was simply factual and not a statement of belief.

This interpretation, while arguable, is not probable. A more likely interpretation is that this was a back-handed way of laying one's credibility on the line. Prosecuting attorneys and law enforcement officials wear an invisible cloak of credibility by virtue of their position; to make it explicit may too easily tip the scales. Moreover, the same play on the "fiction" metaphor had overcarried earlier, stimulating an objection which was sustained.

Nevertheless, viewing the case as a whole, the arguments, and the charge, we cannot find any possibility of prejudice. First, while the case depended wholly on the credibility of

Baron's testimony, all of the many factors which made it susceptible to impeachment were fully presented and fully argued. The occasional oblique expressions of opinion from both sides against the background of a long trial, much evidence on the issue, and lengthy argument addressed to the evidence could not loom sufficiently large to have influence.⁷

Second, all available timely action was not taken to confront the court with the precise language which had been used. The nature of the objection was not clear to the court at the time, as the subsequent colloquy in the motion for mistrial indicated. The appellants see bad faith in the pro-

⁷ Our survey of cases involving expression of personal belief has revealed reversals for far grosser improprieties than were exhibited here. See, e.g., Greenberg, supra; Gradsky, supra, ("[The government] has every opportunity to check out and judge the credibility and truthfulness of Mr. Zane and Mr. Gilmore in this case, and in that context . . . we offered you this testimony."); Dunn v. United States, 307 F.2d 883, 885 (5th Cir. 1962) ("This case is replete with fraud and is one of the most flagrant cases we have ever tried in the Southern District of Georgia.").

We have also noted gross improprieties not resulting in reversals. See, e.g., Del Cristo v. United States, 327 F.2d 208, 209 (5th Cir. 1964) ("My final word, ladies and gentlemen, is my sincere belief—and again I must say that defendant's counsel lead you to believe that I don't believe this story, that I am here because I have a job to do—but I believe this man is guilty of the crime charged or I would not be standing here right now prosecuting him. . . ."); Henderson v. United States, 218 F.2d 14, 19 (6th Cir.), cert. denied, 349 U.S. 920 (1955) ("I am going [to prosecute] . . . if I believe a man guilty. And if I don't believe he is guilty, no one is going to make me . . . prosecute him. . . ."); United States v. Battiato, supra at 719 ("If I, in my own mind, thought for one minute that these defendants were not parties to this case I certainly would not have the courage to stand up here and argue before you that they were guilty. It is never our intention to prosecute and try innocent men.")

All of these relied to some extent on the justifying effect of provocation, which we have said we do not recognize as automatically absolving the prosecutor.

We have found no case reversing for a statement of as marginal an impropriety as that here considered, whether or not provocation was present.

secutor's turning off the court's inquiry with a quasi-humorous admission, in answer to a question whether the prosecutor had been a witness and injected himself into his argument, that he had indeed asked a few leading questions. While the prosecutor's answer was clearly not responsive, we do not understand from oral argument that it was devious or calculated to mislead, there having been a superficial response accepted as such at that point. In any event it is clear both that the court did not recall the precise language which the prosecutor had used and that counsel did not feel it important enough to have such language read back. There is an obligation on counsel to make a reasonable effort to see to it that the court has before it the facts on which a requested ruling is predicated. Cf. Corley v. United States, 365 F.2d 884, 885 (D.C. Cir. 1966); Camps v. New York City Transit Authority, 261 F.2d 320, 323 (2d Cir. 1958). Had this been done, the court, even if it is likely that a mistrial would not have been granted, could have taken pains to devise a proper instruction. For this was not such an egregious comment as to be incurable. As it was, the charge was not given until the following day. The court did include a general instruction that only the evidence must be considered. No special requests were made on this point and no objections taken.

For these reasons we deem this error harmless within the meaning of Fed. R. Crim. P. 52(a).

OTHER ALLEGED ERRORS

Two other asserted errors related to the fact that Baron was named in the indictment as a co-conspirator but not a defendant. The first is that this form of the indictment stemmed from improper prosecutorial influence on the grand jury. The second is that in the course of trial the court went out of its way to say that the government had the privilege not to indict a co-conspirator and in so doing undercut defense efforts to impeach Baron's "inherently suspect testimony".

The first point is based solely on pre-grand jury promises by the prosecutor to Baron that he would not be indicted if he testified. Testimony from an accomplice in a criminal conspiracy is often a sine qua non for effective prosecution. Hoffa v. United States, 385 U.S. 293, 311 (1966). Such testimony will often not be available in the absence of a prosecutor's commitment to grant immunity from prosecution for the criminal acts which are the subject of such testimony. Whether or not a promise of immunity from indictment is technically within the prosecutor's unfettered power to implement, cf. United States v. Cox, 342 F.2d 167 (5th Cir. 1965), cert. denied, 381 U.S. 935, and Fed. R. Crim. P. 48(a), it is highly improbable that a grand jury, on understanding the circumstances resulting in Baron's testimony before it, would indict him. This is entirely proper. Here there is no suggestion of anything more, such as participation by the prosecutor in the deliberations of the grand jury which occurred in United States v. Wells, 163 Fed. 313 (9th Cir. 1908). Nor have appellants cited any authority requiring that Baron's designation in the indictment as a "coconspirator but not as a defendant" be struck under the circumstances of this case.⁸

Appellants' second contention, that the court erred in twice interjecting the comment in the course of cross-examination about the promise that Baron would not be indicted if he testified to the grand jury, that it was the government's privilege not to indict a co-conspirator as a defendant, is no more substantial. Not only was this a correct statement of the law, Cox, supra, but defense counsel made no objection to the first sua sponte comment by the court nor to the same instruction in the final charge. The impeaching effect of the promise of immunity from indictment was not only fully argued at trial but overargued when counsel said "He is not going to be found guilty of anything". The court's charge contained standard provisions both as to assessing credibility in general and as to scrutinizing the testimony of an accomplice with great care. Nothing more was requested. We see no error.

Appellants' final argument is that motions for judgments of acquittal on the substantive counts were improperly denied because of a failure of any evidence to establish an "attempt" to commit a crime of violence. Both sides agree, however, that the imposition of concurrent sentences on both the conspiracy count and the substantive counts would require decision on this issue only in the event of a new trial.

Affirmed.

Enclosed for information of the Bureau is a copy of the petition for writ of certiorari in the case entitled RAYMOND PATRIARCA, RONALD J. CASSESSO, and HENRY TAMELO vs. the U.S., case number 725 Appellate. Decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, decided 10/14/68, is appended to the petition.

The Bureau is requested to return this petition to WFO when it has served its purpose so that it may be returned to the USSC in accordance with request of [redacted] Assistant Clerk, who made it available.

Instant petition was filed in the USSC 11/12/68. It discloses a indictment was returned 6/20/67 in three counts: Conspiracy to violate Title 18, U.S. Code Section 1952 (a) (2) and (3) with intent to commit murder to further an unlawful gambling enterprise. The second and third counts charge substantive violations of Section 1952 (a) (2).

On 3/4/68 in the U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts, the jury returned verdicts of guilty as to each defendant as to every count in which he was named. Convictions were affirmed on appeal.

The petition contains references to, but no allegations against, FBI Agents investigating and testifying in this case.

The questions presented in the petition are quoted below for the information of the Boston Office:

1. (a) Should motions for continuance or change of venue have been granted where an attempt on the life of the attorney for the chief prosecution witness occurred on 34 days before commencement of trial and precipitated a barrage of prejudicial publicity which fed the public suspicion that the defendants were the culprits?

(b) Should the additional publicity generated by goodfaith motions for continuance or change of venue be disregarded in assessing the prejudice to defendants?
2. (a) Was it error to permit Government counsel to argue in effect that disbelief by the jury of the only witness to the corpus delicti, whose credibility was the sole issue in the case, was the equivalent of calling the prosecuting attorney and investigative agency perjurers?

(b) Does the fact that the argument was repeated after being struck by the court on the first occasion require entry of judgments of acquittal where an immediate corrective instruction was forestalled by Government counsel's denial that he had made the argument?
3. Is an attempt to perform an act of committing a crime of violence, within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. 1952, established merely by evidence that defendants pointed out to a hired killer the haunts of the intended victim?

WFO will follow progress of this case in the Supreme Court.

USA PAUL F. MARKHAM, Boston, Mass., on 11/26/68, advised that Assistant Attorney General FREDERICK VINCENT, in Charge of the Criminal Division, had conveyed to Departmental Attorney [redacted] the fact that the Government should turn JOSEPH BARON back to GARRETT H. BYRNE, District Attorney for Suffolk County, Boston. USA MARKHAM advised that the Government is obligated to maintain a security force of U. S. Marshals for [redacted] but that, evidently, VINCENT feels that it would be difficult to justify the continued expense for maintaining BARON until the expiration of his sentence in 9/69.

USA MARKHAM advised that in his, MARKHAM's, opinion, VINCENT, in all probability, feels that the next administration might criticize his handling BARON. USA MARKHAM advised that he was in telephonic contact with Suffolk County District Attorney GARRETT H. BYRNE the morning of 11/26/68, who is in Los Angeles, Calif., and he advised BYRNE of VINCENT's decision, and District Attorney BYRNE stated that he could not take him back; that if he was turned over to him, he would have to put him into a prison within the confines of Massachusetts, and this would be tantamount to giving him the death sentence.

USA MARKHAM advised that he plans on going to Washington with Suffolk County District Attorney GARRETT H. BYRNE when BYRNE returns to this area sometime around 12/6/68. USA MARKHAM advised that he hopes that between him, Departmental Attorney [redacted] and District Attorney BYRNE that they can persuade Assistant Attorney General VINCENT to "change his decision." USA MARKHAM pointed out that if JOSEPH BARON is returned to prison, not only will his life be in danger, but the chances of the Government obtaining another cooperative witness in organized crime cases will be diminished tremendously. b6 b7C

USA MARKHAM advised that if the Bureau could support his position with the Department, that their chances of keeping JOE BARON in Federal custody would be greatly enhanced.

It is pointed out that if JOSEPH BARON were returned to this area and incarcerated, it would be tantamount to a victory for the LCN and would make it virtually impossible to get a witness to testify against the LCN in the future.

It is further pointed out that even if they return BARON to State authorities, they still must continue protection [redacted] and it is not felt that the expenditures would be that much more by keeping BARON in their custody. It is not felt that Assistant Attorney General VINCENT's concern of an examination of the entire situation relative to BARON by a new administration should even be a consideration in this matter. b6 b7C

The Justice Department made an agreement with Suffolk County District Attorney GARRETT H. BYRNE to keep BARON at least until RAYMOND PATRIARCA's appeal was exhausted, and District Attorney BYRNE has cooperated "to the utmost" and spent a great deal of Suffolk County's money in connection with the over-all situation.

Finally, it is felt, for future prosecutions, the Department of Justice should hold up its obligation to District Attorney BYRNE, even though it is fully realized that BARON, because of his personal makeup, presents a great many problems. If deemed advisable, it is recommended that the Bureau support the position of USA MARKHAM and Suffolk County District Attorney BYRNE to keep BARON in Federal custody.

USA PAUL F. MARKHAM recontacted the office this date (12/27/68) and advised that he learned from [redacted] Departmental Attorney, that Assistant Attorney General [redacted] in charge of Administration, has evidently convinced [redacted] that it will be difficult for them to justify the expenditures in maintaining control of JOSEPH BARON. b6 b7C

USA MARKHAM also advised that a date of 12/9/68 has been set for USA MARKHAM, District Attorney GARRETT H. BYRNE of Suffolk County, and Departmental Attorney [redacted] to meet with Assistant Attorney General VINCENT in Washington, D. C. b6 b7C

Enclosed herewith are six copies of an LHM concerning instant case.

On 12/18/68, Boston Police Commissioner EDMUND L. MC NAMARA furnished information relative to Attys. [redacted] of [redacted] Boston, Mass., who represent some of the hoodlum element in the Boston area. This information was obtained from Sgt. Det. [redacted] and is self-explanatory.

It is to be pointed out that Attys. [redacted] and [redacted] represent the ANGIULO interest and, in fact, are occupying space over Jay's Lounge, which building is owned by Huntington Realty Trust Co., which is a trust company controlled by GENNARO J. ANGIULO and his brothers. [redacted] represented various members of the La Cosa Nostra (LCN) in the Boston area, particularly RONALD CASSESSO, in his State trial concerning the EDWARD DEEGAN murder in 1965, and also CASSESSO in subject case.

The following information was obtained from Boston Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara on December 18, 1968, which information was developed by Sergeant Detective [redacted] of the Boston, Massachusetts, Police Department:

On November 26, 1968, Detective [redacted] contacted the office of Attorney [redacted] Boston, Massachusetts, on the basis of information received from the telephone company that a device had been located on the phone of [redacted] was not present, and on November 27, 1968, Attorney [redacted] telephonically called [redacted] and said that his associate, Attorney [redacted] both of whom share offices at [redacted] Boston, did not wish to say anything about his telephone at that time. [redacted] admitted he was aware of the device being found on the telephone in his office by the telephone company and that [redacted] had the device in his possession, and neither wished to show the device nor discuss the matter with anybody [redacted]

On December 2, 1968, Sergeant [redacted] interviewed [redacted] a PBX repairman for the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, who stated that he had received a call concerning trouble on telephone line [redacted] and [redacted] listed to Attorney [redacted] Boston, Massachusetts.

[redacted] examined the phone and located a foreign device contained in the phone, it being noted that the complaint of the secretary was that she could not hear incoming calls. [redacted] removed the foreign object and re-wired the phone. The object was described as a cylinder coil, two inches in length and a half inch in diameter. He removed the device and, thereafter, the phone became operable. After he removed the device he placed it on the desk and an individual came from the inner office and picked up the device.

[] mentioned that he had serviced the phone once or twice in the past two years and the man replied, "It did not make any difference because they knew you were coming up on a complaint and they removed the tap." [] asked to whom did he refer, and he replied, "The FBI," and that "they put the tap on because of a case they had in the office."

b6

This individual refused to return the device to []

b6
b7C

Numerous efforts by representatives of the telephone company and the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office, Boston, were made to obtain the device but neither Attorneys [] nor [] would furnish same, and on November 27, 1968, [] of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Boston, was informed by [] that he did not want to discuss the case any further.

b6

On December 3, 1968, [] refused to discuss the matter with Sergeant Detective [] but stated that he did not know where the foreign device was and said that he believed he threw it in the wastebasket.

b6

On November 27, 1968, [] told [] of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company that he had been bothered by the State Police, the Boston Police, the District Attorney's Office, Boston, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and did not wish to discuss the case with them or anyone from the phone company.

b6

On November 22, 1968, information was received from a reliable source of the telephone company concerning the very brief facts of an object located on the telephone

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

Boston, Massachusetts.

b6
b7c

It should be noted that Attorney [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] represented Ronald Cassesso in instant case. b6
He also represented Cassesso in the Edward "Teddy" Deegan b7c murder trial in Suffolk County Superior Court, Boston, Massachusetts, which murder occurred in 1965. [REDACTED] is an attorney utilized by Gennaro J. Angiulo in his corporate work and is considered by the above-mentioned reliable source to be a "drunk."

b6
b7c

The offices of Attorneys [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are located in a building owned by Huntington Realty Trust Company, which company is controlled by the Angiulo brothers of Boston.

In view of the above, no investigation is being conducted relative to this matter.

Reference is made to letter of January 24, 1969, captioned "United States v. Raymond Patriarca," from Acting Assistant Attorney General Nathaniel E. Kossack, Criminal Division.

Mr. Kossack's letter advised that Joseph Baron, who was the key government witness in the successful prosecution of Patriarca, leader of the La Cosa Nostra in New England, may be paroled within the next three months by Massachusetts state authorities. It is proposed that Baron be relocated, possibly in Australia, by the Department. The letter further asks if the FBI has any objections to such an arrangement.

Baron has been in Federal custody as a witness against Patriarca and two associates in a case prosecuted in U. S. District Court at Boston, Massachusetts, on charges of violating the Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling Statute. The case involved a conspiracy in 1965 to murder Providence, Rhode Island, hoodlum, William Marfeo, because he refused to abide by Patriarca's wishes in the operation of a dice game.

In view of the fact that the U. S. Supreme Court has denied certiorari in this case, the FBI investigations stemming from information furnished by Baron have been completed. Therefore, we have no objection to the relocation of Baron as proposed.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATIVE DIVISION

Patriarca is New England La Cosa Nostra boss who with two associates was previously sentenced to five years in connection with their efforts to control gambling game which efforts have resulted in death of operator. Matter appealed to Supreme Court and latter denied review of case. U. S. District Court Judge Ford, Boston, has now granted a stay of orders requiring Patriarca's incarceration pending an additional petition for rehearing before the Supreme Court.

SUBJECT: United States v. Raymond Patriarca

As you know, in 1967 Joseph Baron was serving a state sentence in Massachusetts. Shortly after he started cooperating with the Bureau he was, pursuant to court order, taken into custody by the Federal Government. He thereafter was the key witness in the successful prosecution of New England Cosa Nostra leader Raymond Patriarca.

Baron is still in Federal custody. However, we have recently been advised by District Attorney Garrett Byrne, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, that there is a possibility that Baron may be paroled within the next three months. If such proves to be the case, we feel we have the responsibility to relocate [redacted] Accordingly, we have made some preliminary inquiries and determined that it may be possible to send Baron to Australia.

In light of the foregoing, it would be appreciated if you would advise us whether the Bureau has any objection to such an arrangement.

Acting Assistant Attorney General Kossack, Criminal Division of the Department, has asked if the FBI has any objection to the Department's plans to relocate Joseph Baron, key witness in the successful prosecution of Patriarca, "Boss" of La Cosa Nostra in New England, and two of his associates.

The conviction of Patriarca has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals and certiorari denied by the Supreme Court. Baron has been serving a state sentence in Massachusetts but has been in Federal custody because of the prosecution against Patriarca. Word has been received by the Department that Baron may be paroled within the next three months.

In view of the extreme personal danger faced

ACTION:

Attached letter to the Attorney General advises that the FBI's interest in Joseph Baron has been concluded; therefore, proposed.

The principal witness in captioned case, JOSEPH BARBOZA BARON, has been in the Massachusetts area this week for contact with a writer with whom he and [redacted] are preparing a book about the gangland situation in Boston over recent years. BARON, yesterday, at his request met with Boston Strike Force Attorney [redacted] and SA'S [redacted] and [redacted]. He had desired also to meet with Attorney [redacted] who is in charge of the Boston Strike Force but [redacted] sent word from Washington that he was ill.

BARON complained that he had been "shafted" by the Government in that he was never assisted in getting a job by the Department of Justice; that Attorney [redacted] had promised to help in getting plastic surgery and had not done so; and he was told that he would be reimbursed for expenses that he and his family incurred while they were in protective custody and [redacted] had never had him reimbursed.

BARON hinted to Attorney [redacted] that he could let the press know that the Government "shafted" him and thereby hurt the war on Organized Crime as it would influence other potential witnesses not to come forward and assist the Government.

 ITAR - GAMBLING

The principal Government witness in the above matter which resulted in a conviction on 3/8/68, JOSEPH BARBOZA BARON, has been in continuous contact with [redacted] reported with the Boston Herald. They have been negotiating on a book and BARON made a taped TV show for [redacted] furnished no money to BARON and accordingly has been subjected to great pressure from BARON for funds. [redacted] has been looking for a way to discontinue his association with BARON.

[redacted] on Monday, 6/15/70, went to Suffolk County District Attorney GARRETT BYRNE and discussed with BYRNE his dealings with BARON. Incidental to the conversation, he mentioned that BARON told him a few months ago that [redacted] who was convicted in the EDWARD DEEGAN murder case in Suffolk County Superior Court, was not in the alley at the murder scene. BYRNE simply felt that BARBOZA was using this tactic to obtain further assistance from the District Attorney's Office. However, BYRNE became concerned on Wednesday, 6/17/70, when a very close associate of LCN leaders told him he heard that [redacted] had been to see BYRNE and told him that BARON said [redacted] was not in the alley at the time of the murder. This, of course, conflicts with BARON's testimony in Suffolk Superior Court.

Additionally, BYRNE discovered that [redacted] was brought to his office by [redacted] another LCN associate whom the defense in the GENNARO J. ANGIULO trial in Federal Court recently had planned to use as a defense witness.

The Suffolk County District Attorney had arranged for [redacted] to be formally interviewed on 6/22/70, but [redacted] did not keep the appointment. The District Attorney also plans to interview BARON relative to his alleged statement just as soon as possible.

[redacted] Deputy Chief of the Strike Force, Boston, Mass., was made fully aware of this situation by the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office. [redacted] advises that he has been in touch with JOSEPH BARBOZA BARON telephonically and BARON denies ever having made such a statement to [redacted] BARON said he would make himself available for interview by Suffolk County authorities as soon as feasible.

The Bureau will be kept advised of any further developments in this matter.

AID OF RACKETEERING - GAMBLING

Joseph Barboza was the principal prosecution witness in the 1968 conviction of Raymond Patriarca, New England La Cosa Nostra "boss." Barboza was relocated in California by the United States Department of Justice Strike Force following his testimony and given new identity.

Without the knowledge of the Strike Force, Barboza returned to New Bedford, Massachusetts, and was arrested by the New Bedford Police Department early on the morning of July 17, 1970. The arrest came as a result of Barboza and [redacted] stopping adjacent to a car occupied by four Negroes at a stop light and waving a gun at them. When arrested, Barboza was carrying a loaded .25 caliber pistol and [redacted] a loaded .38 caliber pistol. Found on the front seat of the car was a loaded M-1 rifle and a package of marijuana.

On July 20, 1970, the charges against Barboza were nol-prossed by the District Attorney's Office in that Barboza's rights had been violated as he was not represented by counsel. Barboza was released; however, the parole board revoked his parole and returned him to the Massachusetts Correctional Institution, Walpole, Massachusetts, where he is supposed to stay until October 5, 1970.

Our Boston office has advised that the Strike Force in Boston and the District Attorney's Office, Suffolk County, are attempting to have Barboza transferred from the Massachusetts Correctional Institution because his life could be in danger from other inmates.

This matter will be followed and you will be advised of additional pertinent information.

Joseph Baron (Barboza), was principal witness against Raymond Patriarca, La Cosa Nostra "boss," in Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling (ITAR-G) conviction and in murder trial in State Court, Massachusetts, resulting in conviction of ~~six~~ subjects. Since Baron was arrested on gun assault charge, New Bedford, Massachusetts, on 7-17-70, he has given affidavits recanting portions of his testimony in the two cases wherein it pertains to the subjects of Italian background. A motion requesting a new trial in the murder case filed this date and one also filed with Rhode Island State authorities requesting dismissal of murder indictment involving same facts as the ITAR - G case against Patriarca.

Boston office expresses agreement with opinion of State District Attorney at Boston that Baron may have received a large sum of money and has given affidavits as a self-protection measure against retaliation by fellow inmates while incarcerated on the current charges.

The District Attorney also has received information that his office will be picketed on 7-30-70 by a large group of sympathizers with the subjects of Italian background convicted in cases in which Baron testified.

On 8/3/70, Deputy Chief of the Strike Force [redacted] met with Suffolk County District Attorney [redacted] and Assistant District Attorney [redacted] who prosecuted the DEEGAN case. Mr. [redacted] advised that at this meeting, the District Attorney said that the affidavit signed by JOSEPH BARBOZA BARON and filed in connection with the motion for a new trial on the DEEGAN murder case was not sufficient to warrant a hearing as it simply contains a general statement. The District Attorney is going to confer with Superior Court Judge FELIX FORTE and request that the motion be denied on this basis. The District Attorney also plans to confer with [redacted] who testified in the DEEGAN case.

For the information of the Bureau, Boston informant reports that BARON had been seeking $250,000 from the defense on the promise of helping them out.

[redacted] has advised that BARON, in the past, wanted him with BARON to contact Chief Defense Attorney [redacted] and try to obtain money from him with promise of changing testimony.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

JOSEPH BARBOZA,

Petitioner

v.

ROBERT MOORE,

PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

To The Honorable The Justices Of The Supreme Judicial Court:

1. Now comes your Petitioner, by his attorneys, and states that he is presently confined at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution located at Walpole, Massachusetts.

2. The Respondent is the superintendent of said Massachusetts Correctional Institution.

3. On October 5, 1966 Petitioner was arrested and charged with violations of Chapter 269, Section 10 of the General Laws of Massachusetts. On January 25, 1967, having been convicted thereof, Petitioner was sentenced to State's Prison for a term of not less than four years nor more than five years, receiving credit for the duration of incarceration commencing with his arrest.

4. On or about April of 1967 Petitioner's incarceration at Massachusetts State's Prison was terminated and, in lieu thereof, he was placed in a certain status of Federal and State custody, enforced and supervised by representatives of both sovereignties.

5. On or about March, 1969 Petitioner's custody, as hereinabove referred to, was terminated and his subsequent activities were conditioned solely upon supervision by representatives of the Federal Government. From on or about March of 1969 to on or about July 17, 1970, Petitioner did journey, on several occasions, from foreign states to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts with the knowledge, approval and/or assistance of the Federal Government.

6. On or about July 17, 1970 the Massachusetts Parole Board, upon learning of Petitioner's arrest in New Bedford, Massachusetts, revoked his parole on the ground that Petitioner's return to this Commonwealth violated one of the conditions thereof. Pending criminal charges stemming from Petitioner's New Bedford arrest were subsequently dismissed and as a result of a warrant based upon his alleged parole revocation, Petitioner was transferred to the Correctional Institution where he is presently detained.

7. At no time did Petitioner receive a written specification of the terms and conditions of the parole granted him by the Massachusetts Parole Board in violation of the mandatory terms of Chapter 127, Section 131 of the General Laws.

8. Prior to July 17, 1970, but subsequent to his presence in this Commonwealth on several occasions, as hereinabove referred to, Petitioner received oral information to the effect that one of the conditions of his parole prohibited his return to this Commonwealth.

9. During the summer of 1970, it became necessary for Petitioner's wife and children to return to this Commonwealth in order to visit Petitioner's mother-in-law, a Massachusetts citizen. Petitioner, fearful of his family's safety and wishing to protect them during their presence in this Commonwealth, requested of three representatives of the Federal Government, permission to return to Massachusetts for that purpose. For a subsequent period of approximately five weeks, Petitioner received no answer to his request despite his demand for a response.

10. As a result of this lack of response, Petitioner's concern for his family's welfare coupled with his most equivocal information with regard to the alleged conditions of his Massachusetts parole, Petitioner did journey to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts during which stay the incident of July 17, 1970, hereinabove referred to, occurred.

11. The Respondent presently is detaining and imprisoning the Petitioner and refuses to release him.

12. Petitioner's 1967 sentence is now completely served in that he is entitled to a good conduct reduction of sentence, as prescribed in Chapter 127, Section 129 of the General Laws with particular reference to the period of from March, 1969 to to July, 1970.

13. Petitioner alleges that his present detention complained of, in view of the above-stated attending circumstances, is unconstitutional on the following grounds:

a) The condition of his Massachusetts parole prohibiting his return to Massachusetts, the violation of which serves as the predicate for his present incarceration, is unconstitutional and effectuates a denial of Petitioner's rights to equal protection of the laws and due process of law as contained in the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution.

b) Assuming, arguendo, the constitutionality of the prohibitive condition of Petitioner's parole, same has been waived by:

1. The repeated inviting by Federal authorities of Petitioner's return to Massachusetts during his parole period.

2. The failure of Federal and State authorities to provide protection for Petitioner's family for an indefinite period of time at all places especially in Massachusetts.

as promised to Petitioner by former United States Attorney Paul Markham and Suffolk County District Attorney Garrett H. Byrne.

c) That provision of Chapter 127, Section 129 of the General Laws denying Petitioner the benefit of good time deductions until and unless he serves six months of imprisonment as a result of parole violation, is unconstitutional as it pertains to Petitioner and therefore denies him his rights to equal protection of the laws and due process of law as contained in the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution.

WHEREFORE, your Petitioner prays:

1. That a Writ of Habeas Corpus issue to said Robert Moore, Superintendent of the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Walpole.
2. Alternatively, that an order be directed to said Respondent ordering him to show cause why the petition should not be granted and the writ to issue.
3. That the said Petitioner be released from the custody of the Respondent and discharged forthwith.

Special Attorneys, Boston Field Office Organized Crime & Racketeering Section

Interview with Joseph Baron

On August 28, 1970 at approximately 11:00 A. M., [redacted] Massachusetts Commissioner of Corrections, telephonically advised [redacted] that Joseph Baron had requested in writing to speak to [redacted] and Special Agent [redacted] to contact [redacted] at Walpole for the exact wording of the request. [redacted] called [redacted] at Walpole and [redacted] read Baron's written request, a copy of which is attached to this memorandum. [redacted] advised [redacted] that [redacted] and [redacted] would leave immediately for Walpole.

[redacted] and [redacted] conferred with Joseph Baron at Walpole Correctional Institution from approximately 1:00 P. M. until 2:15 P. M. Baron requested [redacted] and [redacted] to repent [redacted] in light of the fact that their whereabouts had become public knowledge, having been disclosed by his counsel, [redacted] at a prior court proceeding. [redacted] and [redacted] did not make any response to this request. Baron also requested that his probation revocation warrant be withdrawn. [redacted] and [redacted] advised Baron that they had no control over the Massachusetts Parole Board and that they could make no promises in this regard.

During the course of the conversation, Baron made the following statements:

Baron stated that it was his original intention to inveigle members of the underworld into giving him money on the pretext that he would retract his testimony given in previous trials and that, when he received the money, he would leave the area without re-entailing;

Baron also stated that his counsel, [redacted] "made him sign the affidavit" and that "they" have [redacted] in return for his signing the affidavit; that [redacted] acknowledged to him that the affidavits themselves were not sufficient to warrant the granting of a new trial, but that it would be necessary for Baron to testify as a witness, which Baron does not desire to do.

Baron also advised that his testimony in the Deagan case was truthful and that he had signed the affidavits only for money; that he is not going to take the lie-detector test on August 31, 1970, for he feels that once he has taken the test [redacted] will have no further use for him and that his life will be in danger; that he will tell [redacted] that he had spoken with [redacted] and [redacted] merely to tell them that, if they were going to pressure him by initiating criminal charges, he could open up a "Kendall's box." He stated that this statement would be merely a pretext so that [redacted] will not distrust him on account of his seeing them.

Baron stated that if he took the lie-detector test it would prove that he told the truth during the Deagan trial, but that he will not take this test until he is out of custody and beyond the control of [redacted].

Baron stated that two of his trips from California to Boston were made at the instigation of the underworld and that he was paid for these trips through the books of Hi-Lo Construction Company of Providence, Rhode Island, an officer of which, [redacted] Baron met on several occasions in this connection.

[redacted] and [redacted] told Baron that they would and could make no promises to him but that they would merely pass the results of their conversation onto District Attorney Garrett Byrne, which was done by [redacted] at approximately 3:30 P. M. on August 26, 1970.

Joseph (Barboza) Baron was the Government's principal witness in the successful prosecution of New England La Cosa Nostra (LCN) "boss" Raymond Patriarca, in addition to a number of other leading racketeers, and was relocated to the West Coast by the Department. Baron, known for violent and erratic behavior, returned to the Boston area and was recently arrested locally in an assault. Since then, Attorney [redacted] has engineered a move to have Baron retract on his testimony.

Boston advises that Baron has forwarded through [redacted] a message requesting an early morning meeting 8/27/70 with Agent [redacted] of our Boston office and officials of the Boston Strike Force supposedly to explain his position, with meeting not to be known to Attorney [redacted] SAC, Boston, recommends Baron's request be made known to Strike Force Attorney [redacted] and that no Boston Agent participate. Re Boston teletype to Bureau dated 9/8/70.

JOSEPH BARBOZA BARON's parole violation time expires on 9/23/70. BARON being brought into Suffolk Superior Court on that date to be arraigned on Probation Violation charges. Suffolk County District Attorney plans to have the Probation Violation proceedings continued pending the outcome of motions filed for new trial in the DEEGAN murder case, so as to insure BARON's presence in this area. District Attorney contemplates confining BARON in a local county house of correction. Indications are that BARON will be indicted on gun charge in Bristol County stemming from his arrest on gun charges in New Bedford, Mass. on 7/17/70.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATIVE DIVISION

[redacted] associate of Joseph Baron (Barboza), New Bedford, Massachusetts, has told Boston Agents of negotiations by Baron with La Cosa Nostra (LCN) leaders in connection with recanting Baron's testimony which resulted in conviction of LCN "boss" Raymond Patriarca in Federal Court and of several LCN members in state court, both in Massachusetts, for the murder of hoodlum Edward Deegan. Baron, since arrest in New Bedford on assault and gun charges in July, 1970, has given affidavit to attorney [redacted] which has resulted in court motions seeking to nullify both convictions. b6 b7C

[redacted] says Baron initiated moves during 1969 and agreed with LCN representative, Providence businessman [redacted] to recant testimony in both cases for payment of $500,000. Baron represented in negotiations by [redacted] Two thousand dollars, promised immediately to Baron for expenses. b6 b7C

Attorney [redacted] met Baron at [redacted] home in New Bedford in July, 1970, and delivered final $800 of $2,000 promised by [redacted] also told Baron at that time that "the people" had agreed to pay the $500,000 but that [redacted] would not act as the go-between. b6 b7C

[redacted] says that later [redacted] obtained the affidavits concerning the two cases from Baron and immediately caused legal action to be taken despite a promise to not do so until Baron was out of jail. [redacted] also says that [redacted] is now pushing the state prosecution at New Bedford to "bury Baron." b6 b7C

[redacted] is willing to testify concerning the foregoing information but would need protection for himself and family. He will call a Boston Agent to see if testimony desired and if requested protection can be provided; if not, he said he will go into hiding with his family as he fears for his life. b6 b7C

Boston is discussing matter of protection and the legal aspects involved with the Department Task Force attorney and advising the state district attorney who prosecuted the Deegan murder case.

[redacted] was interviewed in a Federal Bureau of Investigation vehicle in the parking lot of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Brockton, Massachusetts. He advised as follows:

Sometime in winter 1969, JOSEPH BARBOZA had his [redacted] contact Rhode Island hoodlum [redacted] relative to a deal of BARBOZA changing testimony to help RAYMOND PATRIARCA get out of jail for a large payment of money to BARBOZA.

[redacted] did nothing about this proposition but about November 1969 [redacted] attended a meeting in the Canteen Rest, Rhode Island, with [redacted]

[redacted] and close friend of RAY PATRIARCA. BARBOZA's proposition came up again and [redacted] was incensed to find that [redacted] did nothing to help their friend RAYMOND PATRIARCA, when [redacted] had first heard about the proposition.

[redacted] went to [redacted] garage in Rhode Island and [redacted] close friend of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, gave them $1,000.00 to have BARBOZA come on to iron the matter out. When they were unable to reach BARBOZA they returned the $1,000.00 to [redacted]

[redacted] then agreed to send BARBOZA $2,000.00 to come on and [redacted] picked up $1,200.00 from [redacted] and sent it to BARBOZA.

In May 1970, BARBOZA came east and there was a meeting in the woods in Freetown, Massachusetts, with BARBOZA, [redacted]

[redacted] present. [redacted] told [redacted] that BARBOZA told [redacted] he would get PATRIARCA out of jail for $250,000 and said he would get the four guys in Walpole out for a total of $500,000.

[redacted] was told, was doing the dealing for GERRY ANGIULO, [redacted] from Rhode Island.

In July 1970, Attorney [redacted] flew into New Bedford Airport. It was the same day a Lt. [redacted] of the New Bedford Police was leaving the airport. [redacted] went to the house of [redacted] described above, and a meeting took place with [redacted] BARBOZA, [redacted] and a skinny kid who was with BARBOZA and is now in Canada.

[redacted] handed BARBOZA an envelope with $800 which BARBOZA counted and [redacted] said he didn't want anyone to know he transported the money. This $800 was the balance of the $2,000 promised by [redacted] told BARBOZA that "the people" agreed to pay the $500,000 but he, [redacted] would not act as the go between. [redacted] told BARBOZA he would represent him but must know the absolute truth. [redacted] was retained for BARBOZA by [redacted] for the organization. [redacted] said his strategy would be to get BARBOZA immunity to get people out of jail just as he got immunity to put them in jail. [redacted] said it would be his biggest case ever as he would be going up against the government and he, [redacted] was nationally known.

A few days or so after this meeting BARBOZA was arrested as he was returning from a meeting with [redacted]. [redacted] He was trying to get the Suffolk County Grand Jury minutes of the DEEGAN case which [redacted] was supposed to have. After this [redacted] went to see [redacted] and he said he wasn't sure where the papers were. They were accompanied by [redacted]. [redacted] went to see [redacted] later and he said he didn't have the papers.

[redacted] got BARBOZA to sign an affidavit at Walpole to help spring RAYMOND PATREARCA and the four guys in Walpole. [redacted] immediately turned the affidavits over to Attorney [redacted] and he used them. This incensed BARBOZA as [redacted] was not supposed to use the affidavits until

BARBOZA was out of jail. He said that on the day the charges in New Bedford were nolle prossed against BARBOZA and [] [] had picked up [] at District Attorney DINIS's restaurant "The Skipper". [] says [] and DINIS are now going to bury BARBOZA in New Bedford for his turnabout, and [] was called in from Tennessee to make sure BARBOZA got indicted this week.

[] said that BARBOZA stayed at his house for a week about two and one half weeks before he got arrested in New Bedford.

[] says [] is in constant touch with [] and Attorney [] "The people" agreed to give BARBOZA's wife $1,000 per month. [] sends her $800 and sees that JOE BARBOZA gets the other two hundred. [] says that he, [] BAILEY, and [] will all testify for the organization, [] and [] have signed papers for the organization. [] and [] have signed papers for Attorney [] but were told not to mention the $500,000.

[] said they are all pulling away from BARON and going over with the organization side. [] and BAILEY, said they have it beat without BARBOZA now.

Today [] told [] if he thought he could get away from "the people" by taking the 5th amendment or disappearing he was crazy.

[] feels he is in great danger from the likes of ANGIULO, [] and the outfit in general.

If his testimony is wanted he simply wants to be protected with []. If testimony not wanted he is leaving area. Will not return to New Bedford under any circumstances.

[] said after he testified he would simply go out of the area with [] and go to his usual profession as waiter or 'matre-d'.

[redacted] turned over five letters which he received from JOSEPH BARBOZA, while BARBOZA was in custody, and the code for these letters.

Re your airtel 4/22/71.

The Bureau has no objection to your office furnishing the material and conducting the investigation requested by Attorney [redacted] for the purpose of opposing the motion filed by Patriarca to vacate judgement in this case, except the point by point interview and resulting affidavit of Joseph Baron.

In view of the fact that Baron has been indicted and is awaiting trial for an alleged murder described by [redacted] in one of his affidavits, it is felt that it would be unwise to take this particular action without first obtaining the Department's approval as to its propriety. Boston and San Francisco will be advised upon receipt of the Department's opinion in this matter.

In behalf of Patriarca, leader of La Cosa Nostra in New England, there was filed in U. S. District Court, Boston, Massachusetts, on April 21, 1971, a Motion to Vacate Judgment of his conviction in that court in March, 1968, for violation of the Interstate Transportation in Aid of Racketeering - Gambling Statute. Filed with the motion were six affidavits obtained from who is serving a life sentence in Massachusetts for murder. Two copies each of the motion and accompanying affidavits are attached.

who in his affidavits alleges that key witness Joseph Baron admitted to that he had perjured himself in the trial of Patriarca and two associates, was in a cell adjoining that of Baron in the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Walpole in that State from July through September, 1970. Apparently for the purpose of imputing veracity to Baron's alleged admissions to the latter's affidavits also recite two claimed admissions by Baron of murders he committed but not related to the situation forming the basis of Patriarca's prosecution. Baron has been indicted for one of these alleged murders and is confined in the Sonoma County Jail in California awaiting trial.

With reference to the truthfulness of Baron's testimony in the March, 1968, trial, it is pointed out that Patriarca and another of the defendants, Henry Tameleo, were charged with having arranged for Baron and the third defendant, Ronald Cassesso, to travel from Boston, Massachusetts, to Providence, Rhode Island, for the purpose of killing a Providence hoodlum, Willie Marfeo, who had refused to abide by an edict from Patriarca to discontinue the operation of an illegal gambling enterprise. period of time this Bureau had microphone coverage of Patriarca's office in Providence and during this coverage, specifically on June 22, 1965, a conference among Patriarca, Tameleo, Cassesso and Baron in Patriarca's office was monitored. The information obtained in that monitoring confirms completely the story later related by Baron in his testimony at the trial. All of the information obtained from the Patriarca microphone coverage was made available to the court for examination by the defendants at the time of the trial in March, 1968, but they made no move to utilize any of this material in their defense.

With regard to the allegations in [redacted] current affidavits, he recently furnished information to the Norfolk County, Massachusetts District Attorney's investigators that he had been paid by notorious Boston La Cosa Nostra leader Gennaro J. Angiulo and his associates to induce [redacted] to submit affidavits designed to obtain the release of persons convicted on Baron's testimony. On the same date that [redacted] executed the current affidavits, he executed an additional one [redacted]

[redacted] A fellow inmate of Baron and [redacted] prepared similar affidavits during October, 1970, but later admitted that Baron had not told him anything about any cases except to admit the murder in California and that [redacted] had been induced by [redacted] to prepare false affidavits.

Department Attorney [redacted] has requested our Boston office to furnish some relevant material and conduct certain investigation for his use in opposing Patriarca's motion. No problem arises in connection with this except for a request that Joseph Baron be interviewed point by point on the motion and accompanying affidavits and that an affidavit be obtained from Baron. This Bureau would appreciate receiving an early opinion from the Department as to the propriety of questioning Baron while under indictment and awaiting trial for one of the alleged murders included in the material to be exhibited to him.

TO VACATE JUDGMENT

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Section 2255, the defendant Raymond Patriarca moves that the judgment herein entered against him on April 9, 1968, be vacated and set aside and that he be discharged or granted a new trial as may appear appropriate, for the reason that sentence herein was imposed in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States and is otherwise subject to collateral attack. The defendant states that the testimony of Joseph Barboza Baron, now also known as Joseph Bentley, the Government's only witness to the substance of the alleged offense, was perjured in all material respects and was knowingly and intentionally used by agents of the Government in order to secure this defendant's conviction.

In support hereof, the defendant attaches hereto copies of the affidavits of William R. Geraway, marked "A", "B", "C" and "D", respectively. Additional affidavits, marked "E" and "F", relating to the murder by Barboza of one Carlton Eaton are submitted as corroboratory of the extent to which the said Barboza confided in the affiant Geraway.

As additional evidence of the knowledge and intent of certain agents of the Government with respect to Barboza's perjury, the defendant will offer to prove the following: The same agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who originally interviewed Barboza and who were responsible for the instant prosecution are also involved as the original investigating agents in other prosecutions pending in this Court and in the State of Rhode Island against this defendant. Said prosecutions are similarly based on perjured testimony, but of another person, one John J. "Red" Kelley, reputed mastermind of the so-called Plymouth Mail Robbery. Kelley falsely claims to have participated with the defendant in planning the murder of Rudolph Marfeo (brother of the William Marfeo whose murder was the basis of the instant prosecution). [The defendant will produce a witness of excellent reputation who will testify as follows:]

The witness has known Kelley since 1962 and, from that time until Kelley's arrest in 1969, has talked with Kelley at least once a month and, probably, more often.

At some time in 1966, Kelley attempted to intimidate the witness by saying, "Can you imagine the F.B.I. crediting me with killing more than a dozen people?" and, also, by saying to the witness, "If I were ever arrested for a robbery and named you as an accomplice, whose word do you suppose they would take, mine or yours?"

On one occasion, with reference to a series of armored car and bank holdups then occurring, the witness told Kelley that, if he were involved, he would eventually get caught. Kelley replied, "If I were ever caught in a robbery, I would give them the names they want to hear: Gambino, Patriarca and Angiulo. Those guineas are my aces up the sleeve."

On another occasion, with reference to a newspaper account of the murder in Rhode Island of one Marfeo, Kelley observed, "Too bad it wasn't Raymond Patriarca." When asked whether Patriarca was his enemy, Kelley said, "Never met the guy in my life, but from what I hear about him someone ought to bury him."

[Said evidence will establish that the use of perjured testimony in these prosecutions and in the instant prosecution constitutes a pattern of conduct by certain agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, designed to obtain convictions against this defendant for the purpose of enhancing their personal prestige and that of the said Bureau and, in the course of so doing, to punish this defendant for other crimes of which the defendant has never been convicted but of which said agents presumptuously believe the defendant to be guilty.

The defendant respectfully requests an evidentiary hearing.

By his attorney,

Francis J. DiMento

AFFIDAVIT IN BEHALF OF RAYMOND PATRIARCA

I, William R. Geraway, make the following affidavit in behalf of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, without threat, duress, or promise by said individual.

1) In the month of July, 1970, Joseph Barboza Baron was placed in the Departmental Segregation Unit at the M.C.I., Walpole as a parole-violator. He was, as I am, held in protective custody and was placed in a cell immediately next to mine. The cells are open-fronted and conversation, even of a private nature, is easily carried on between them.

2) Baron and I had known each other vaguely for some years, and shared a couple of strong mutual friends. On one occasion I helped prevent his indictment on counterfeit money charges; on another occasion I had several favorable comments made about him in the news media. With this foundation as the basis of our relationship, plus what appeared to be, on his part, a compulsion to talk, he confided many things to me of a critical and secret nature before leaving this unit on September 23, 1970. We talked from cell to cell; when I was in the corridor in front of his room once a work program; in the exercise periods which were a daily occurrence and during which time we shared the same, or adjoining exercise pens.

3) One of the things he discussed was the pending state-level charge against Raymond Patriarca, and also involving Henry Tamlico and Ronald Cassese. The charge stems from the murder in Rhode Island of a man named Willie Marfeo. Patriarca and the other two men have already received sentences in Federal court as a result of the same charge, and Baron was to appear as a witness in Rhode Island on the 14th of September, 1970.

4) Baron stated that the "entire case" against these three men was "a complete frame." He stated further that, prior to his appearing as a witness in Federal court pursuant to the same charge, he had been shown a series of photographs by prosecuting officials, and he was to memorize these photographs, which Baron claimed he did; he was shown diagrams which he was to likewise memorize. Baron stated that he then testified on the witness stand that he had actually been to these places and described them but not from memory of the actual places, but rather, from his memory of the photographs and diagrams.

5) Baron stated to me further that recordings were played for him with regularity and that he had to memorize the contents of the recordings and testify to what he had heard afterwards on the witness stand. He stated that he was supplied day to day with a copy of his testimony so that he would remember what he had said and be prepared for the following day's testimony.

6) Baron stated that the case "looked bad" for the government and that he rehearsed the final argument to the jury with the prosecutor, telling the prosecutor what he, Baron, felt would be appropriate courtroom drama for swaying the jury. He told the prosecutor to make him, Baron, look as bad as possible, explaining that the worse Baron looked, the more likely it would seem to the jury that such a man as he would be approached to commit a murder. He said that he'd told the prosecutor to say something to the effect of, "The world would be a better place without the Barons, but it is the Patriarca's who make work for the Barons of this world." Baron said his words were used by the prosecutor.

7) When Baron received word at this unit that he was to appear as a witness on a state level against the three men on the - - of September, 1970, he stated to me that he would have to ask for a continuance until he was released from this prison. The reason he gave was that authorities would have to refresh his memory as to what to say before a grand jury or a trial jury, since he'd forgotten most of what he'd testified to and said that he did not want to make a mistake.

8) Baron then wrote a letter which he let me read, addressed, I believe, to a Mr. Desimone, in which he asked for a continuance on his appearance there, and as an excuse Baron claimed, I believe, that he was not feeling well at that particular time. In the letter he praised the authorities in Rhode Island, particularly a man named Walter Stone.

In summation, Baron stated to me that the entire case against Raymond Patriarca and the other two men was a fabrication inspired by government officials, in which he, Baron, was an actor who played the role of state witness. He was promised, before proceedings even began, that he would be given his freedom and a sum of money for his testimony.

I SWEAR that the contents of this affidavit are true to the best of my recollection, and would like to add that I have never met nor seen Mr. Patriarca.

Respectfully,

William R. Geraway

AFFIDAVIT IN BEHALF OF HENRY TAMALCO

I, William R. Geroway, make the following affidavit in behalf of Henry Tamalco of my own free will, and attest to it before a Notary Public.

- 1) That, while confined in the same unit with me, the Departmental Segregation Unit at H.C.I., Walpole, one Joseph Barbosa Baron was placed in a cell adjoining mine for a period of approximately two-and-a-half months, and during that time we discussed, constantly, various cases in which Baron had been a witness. One of the cases involved the slaying in Rhode Island of one Willie Marfeo. Baron stated that he had testified in Federal Court against three men, Raymond L. S. Patriarca, Henry Tamalco and Ronald Cassese.
- 2) Baron stated that the case was a complete frame and the result of a strong desire on the part of certain government officials to "get Patriarca," and Baron further indicated that he had manufactured evidence and that the government assisted him in doing so in order to secure a conviction on a federal level. Baron stated that the same procedure was to be followed in state court on the same charge against the three men.
- 3) Other pertinent information regarding the structure and injustice of the charge against the above-named man, Henry Tamalco, can be found in the affidavit filed in behalf of Raymond L. S. Patriarca.
- 4) Accompanying this affidavit, and the affidavit in behalf of Patriarca will be a formal request for a lie detector test if the government or state wishes, to verify the credibility of this testimony.

AFFIDAVIT IN BEHALF OF RONALD CASSECO

I, William R. Germany, make the following affidavit of my own free will and swear to it before a Notary Public.

- 1) That, while confined in the Departmental Segregation Unit at M.C.I., Walpole, One Joseph Barboza Baron was placed in a cell adjacent to mine. During the time he was in this unit he confided to me the details of various cases in which he was a witness, one case being that of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, Henry Tancleco and Ronald Cassese allegedly involved in the slaying in Rhode Island of one Willie Marfeo.
- 2) Baron stated that this case was a fabrication, both on a federal level, where the man have already been convicted on what Baron termed "rehearsed" and "manufactured" evidence, and on a state level, where Baron said he was scheduled to be a witness.
- 3) He stated that the main thrust of the federal and state's case was aimed at placing Raymond Patriarca in prison, and accompanying this affidavit is one in behalf of Mr Patriarca in which the details of the case are set forth more clearly and more cohesively.
- 4) He stated that Ronald Cassese was entirely innocent in this case, as well as the other two men tried with Cassese. He said that the case was government-inspired and a product of manufactured evidence by Baron, government officials, and the showing to him of various photographs, diagrams, transcripts and other data, to which he testified on the witness stand, and which testimony he intended to repeat on the stand on a state level. The photographs, diagrams and recordings and transcripts represented facts which he, Baron, was supposed to have known from actual memory and experience, but which he indeed did not until the government accepted his testimony and added to it and augmented it with materials which were before that time alien to Baron's memory.

I Am prepared to undergo a polygraph test for either the government or the state to establish my credibility in this matter. Most of the evidence which Baron had given in federal court, where a conviction was secured, was to be repeated in state court or before a grand jury in September of 1970, but Baron admitted to me that he would have to postpone such testimony until after his expected release from prison, since he had forgotten much of the case and wished the government to "refresh" his memory.

AFFIDAVIT RE: POLYGRAPH TEST IN MARFEO CASE

I, William R. Geraway, have made three affidavits for use on a state and/or federal level in regards to the murder of one Willie Marfeo in Rhode Island. The affidavits were made in behalf of RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, HENRY TAJ ELMO, and RONALD CASSESO.

IN THE affidavits I state that the state and federal government's key witness against these men, Joseph Barboza Baron, admitted to me that he had not only committed perjury, but had helped manufacture the entire case against the men involved at trial, as named above. I maintain in these affidavits that Baron admitted to me that the case was a complete frame and that all three of the men were entirely innocent of any part in the crime. I NOW request that the federal or state government administer to me a polygraph test to assert that what I have set forth in the three affidavits is the complete truth.

IN AN unrelated matter, but concerning evidence which was supplied to me through conversations with Baron, I was given a polygraph test by state police and passed it. The test involved a murder Baron admitted that he had carried out in the state of California. I would add that, at the time I gave statements to the police and underwent the polygraph test, no such victim was known to have been murdered in that state, but after the test, and after my repeating details supplied through conversations with Baron, California authorities discovered, in a shallow grave as I said it would be, the body of one Clayton Wilson, shot in the head as I said he would be, and police discovered two witnesses to the crime as a result of my information. Baron has been charged with first degree murder in that case, and my credibility as regards conversations with Baron should be well established by virtue of that fact, but to relieve authorities of any doubt in the case mentioned above, I will submit to a polygraph test prior to my testifying in behalf of these men.

AFIDAVIT RE: MURDER OF CARLTON EATON / by WILLIAM R. GORAWAY

Personal to the Office of the District Attorney of Norfolk County
I, William R. Goraway, make the following statement of my own free will, without promise or duress of any sort. I direct it to the District Attorney of Norfolk County because his office is, at the present time, the only one that I trust to proceed against the murderer in this case.

1) Between July 20, 1970 and September 23, 1970, JOSEPH BARON BARN was in an open front cell next to mine in the protective custody section of the Departmental Segregation Unit (D.S.U.) at Walpole State Prison. During that time he supplied details to me on a number of murders that he has committed. One of them was the murder of Carlton Eaton.

Baron said that, in the Fall of 1968, around his (Baron's) birthday, he and Nicky Pemia were in a motor vehicle with Carlton Eaton. Baron was, he said, in the driver's seat, Pemia in the back seat and Eaton was in the passenger's seat. At this particular time, Eaton was smoking marijuana, and Baron said he was almost catty corner in the passenger's seat, half-dozing from the effects of the drug.

3) Eaton had offended Baron in numerous ways, which I shall outline verbally, along with other details, to the Norfolk County investigators.

4) At one point, Eaton reached his arm out to touch Joe's shoulder and said, "Oh, Joe," with his eyes closed, beginning a comment. Baron said that, at that moment, he placed a gun near Eaton's head and pulled the trigger, hitting Eaton in the head. Baron indicated it was a revolver and a heavy caliber, I believe a .357 Magnum.

5) Whatever part of the brain was hit apparently affected Eaton's motor apparatus, for, according to Baron, Eaton stiffened up, went rigid and shook, or "vibrated" for a few seconds.

6) Baron said that he then pushed Eaton upright so that too much blood would not go on the car. Baron then shot him in the head again, he said, first commenting to Pemia in the back seat, "Imagine this guy, Nicky? I'm having a conversation with him and he goes to sleep."

7) Baron said that he had planned the murder the day before, or the night before, and had told someone, "Watch the papers tomorrow and you'll see what happens to a punk."

BARON supplied further details which I am intentionally holding back regarding various points that can be chemically checked through police reports and other data which could be known only to the murderer, police and someone (me) that the murderer told. I WILL proceed on an indictment basis if the government has the courage to press this issue as soon as Baron is removed to California to face a murder charge there. If he is not removed there by February 1, 1971, I will proceed regardless of where Baron is or where I am. ACCOMPANYING this affidavit will be a notarized request for a lie detector test to assure the validity of my testimony on this matter.

Respectfully,

I, Joseph Bentley, also known as Joseph Baron, also known as Joseph Barboza, being duly sworn hereby depose and say:

I have examined a copy of the Motion of Defendant Raymond Patriarca to Vacate Judgment and copies of the Affidavits of William R. Gernsey, attached thereto, and marked A, B, C, D, E and F, respectively.

I did not tell William R. Gernsey that my testimony in the federal case against Raymond Patriarca, Henry Tamelo and Ronald Cassesso was false and perjurious; nor did I tell Gernsey that agents of the government knowingly and intentionally aided and assisted me in the fabrication of false testimony in order to secure the convictions of said Patriarca, Tamelo and Cassesso.

I hereby unequivocally reaffirm the truthfulness and accuracy of my testimony in the federal case against Raymond Patriarca, Henry Tamelo and Ronald Cassesso and assert that my testimony in said case was not perjurious in any respect and further assert that no agents of the government knowingly and intentionally aided and assisted me in the fabrication of false testimony.

Reference is made to your memorandum of April 29, 1971, captioned as above, with which you transmitted a copy of the motion of Raymond Patriarca to vacate judgment and copies of the various affidavits executed by [redacted] in support of the motion. [redacted] in his affidavits, alleges that the key Government witness against Patriarca [redacted] admitted to him that he had perjured himself at the trial.

Mass.
We agree, as suggested in your memorandum that [redacted] should not be questioned by Bureau agents concerning any matters relating to the charges for which he is awaiting trial.

Enclosed is a proposed affidavit, prepared for [redacted] in which he reaffirms the truthfulness of his testimony at the trial of Patriarca. It would be appreciated if you would present this affidavit [redacted] and ask him to execute it in the presence of a notary public.

Also attached are affidavits prepared for execution by Special Agents [redacted] and [redacted] in which they deny fabricating testimony in the Patriarca case.

It is requested that after these affidavits are executed that they be forwarded immediately to Department Attorney [redacted] in Boston.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

JOSEPH BARON, Plaintiff vs.
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant
CIVIL ACTION NO. 71-299-2

MEMORANDUM FOR DECISION

Now comes the United States of America, the defendant in the above-captioned action, by and through its attorney, James P. Harrington, Special Attorney, United States Department of Justice, and hereby moves this Honorable Court to strike from the complaint all references to the alleged perjured testimony of one John J. Kelley on the ground that the witness Kelley did not decide to cooperate with the United States Government until June, 1960, subsequent to the convictions in the case of United States v. Edward Rosenberg, et al, Criminal No. 67-103-2, which occurred on April 9, 1960, and whose testimony does not relate to the subject matter involved in the case of United States v. Edward Rosenberg, et al, Criminal No. 67-103-2, and thus any reference to Kelley under the captioning is totally irrelevant to the plaintiff's complaint. The plaintiff's complaint, which seeks to void a judgment of the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts entered on the alleged perjured testimony of one Joseph Baron.

A further ground for this motion is that the complaint fails to specifically charge that agents of the Federal government aided and abetted one Kelley in the fabrication of false testimony. The plaintiff alleges by language "a pattern of conduct by certain agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation," based on the allegation that the same agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who originally investigated Baron were also involved as the original investigating agents in the prosecution of the plaintiff Patricia which resulted from the testimony of John J. Kelley.

The government represents that Special Agent Dennis M. Gahan of the Federal Bureau of Investigation did not participate in the investigation involving the planning of the murder of Rudolph Hurlee, did not participate in the development of John J. Kelley as a cooperating government witness, and did not conduct the interview of Kelley in which he made the statements relating to the plaintiff Periarson's involvement in the planning of the murder of Rudolph Barker.

DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS

Now comes the United States of America, the Defendant in the above-entitled action, by and through its attorney, Edward F. Harrington, Special Attorney, United States Department of Justice, and hereby moves this Honorable Court to dismiss the action on the ground that the complaint fails to state a claim against the Defendant upon which relief can be granted, in that the complaint is insufficient as a matter of law and fails to set forth sufficient facts indicating that the charges against the plaintiff were false, as it contains statements of a conclusory nature supported by evidence of a hearsay character.

In order to assist the Court in determining the competency of the witness Garney, upon whose hearsay testimony the plaintiff solely supports his complaint, there is attached hereto and made a part hereof a copy of an affidavit made by Lawrence Wood, dated November 23, 1970, marked Motion to Dismiss "Exhibit A."

MOTION TO DISMISS "EXHIBIT A"

CRIMINAL BUSINESS

AFFIDAVIT OF THE SOLICITATION OF PERJURED AFFIDAVITS REGARDING THE DEEGAN MURDER CASE AND THE CASE OF RAYMOND PATRIARCA BY ATTORNEYS RONALD CHISHOLM AND JOHN M. RUSSELL, JR.

In the latter part of July or the early part of August, 1970, I, Lawrence Wood, was moved to the protective custody side in the upstairs section of the segregation unit located at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at South Walpole, Massachusetts.

Two of the inmates confined with me on the same side at this time were Joseph "Barboza" Baron and William Geraway. On September 23, 1970 Joseph Baron left. Shortly thereafter William Geraway, who was doing custodial work during the day in the corridor, asked me if I would be willing to make out four affidavits for attorney Ronald Chisholm corroborating four affidavits that Chisholm had asked Geraway to write in support of a motion for a New Trial for the men convicted of the Deegan murder and in support of a new trial for Raymond Patriarca.

I stated that I knew none of the facts on either of these cases, but Geraway told me this meant nothing, as Chisholm had told him exactly what to tell me to write so that both sets of affidavits would be convincing.

I then asked Geraway what I would receive for this as this would be perjury on a capital case and was a serious offense. He stated that in conversations with the men on death row concerned in this matter that he had agreed on a figure of $55,000. (SIXTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS), $35,000. (THIRTY-FIVE

I asked Geraway if Chisholm would handle our money but he told me that Chisholm was afraid to do this although he knew about it.

The first payment was to be $12,000. (TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS). Geraway had no one that he could trust to send his money to, so I told him that I knew a lawyer who was honest and that he had defended me some time ago. I told him that I would send for him and ask him to handle the money for a large retainer. This of course was a complete improvisation on my part as I had no way of knowing whether he would or not, although I doubted it. There were three calls made to this lawyer to come down to Walpole to see me. The last one was made by Ronald Chisholm, at least he said he called him (this could be checked). Meanwhile, the affidavits were made out, the plan being that they would be given to Chisholm. He would check them, delete what he did not want included, add what he wanted put in and then return them to myself and Geraway, all typed up. We would then sign them, have them notarized and return them for submission to the Court.

On October 14, 1970, in the early evening I was told that I had a lawyers visit, that his name was Russell and did I want to see him. I replied "Yes". I was then taken out to the visiting room and this man introduced himself to me. I had never seen him in my life before. He was accompanied by Ronald Chisholm. I sat across from Russell and Geraway sat across from Chisholm. Between us and the lawyers there is a mesh screen with wide holes. Russell asked me if I had some papers for him. I said yes. I then took the affidavits, rolled them up one at a time, and put them through the screen to Russell. He started to read the first one and while reading asked me what was important about the word recant. I told him to keep reading and he would understand. He then continued reading. As he did, I started to listen to what Chisholm was saying to Geraway. He was talking about the affidavits. I heard him say "Make sure that his affidavits" and he nodded at me, "have no mistakes in them and go along with yours and whatever he doesn't know, make sure that you tell him so these won't be fucked up.". Geraway said "Don't worry they will be perfect". The only other thing Russell said to me was when I asked him how they sounded was that I had not put in any specific dates. I told him the reason that I didn't was that these conversations had taken place day after day and I wasn't positive of the exact dates. Russell told me that he would give the affidavits to Chisholm when they got outside. They then would be gone over, typed up with whatever changes were necessary and brought back for my signature and notarization.

At this time Russell made believe that he was just acting as a form of messenger boy for Chisholm. I did not believe it but at the time I could not disprove this.

Sometime after this, Geraway told me that the initial payment had not been made I asked him why and he said that the guys downstairs, meaning the men on row, had received word from Anguilo that they were afraid to give the money to this lawyer, as he was such an unknown quantity. I then asked Geraway what we were going to do. He said that he had talked to Ronald Cassese and had agreed to wait for his money but that he could not speak for me and that he would have to find out what I wanted to do. This of course was a dilemma for me as I really had no place that I could have this kind of money sent to. I told him that I would give it some thought. At this time Geraway had already given Chisholm three of the affidavits and shortly after on a Sunday visit he gave him the No. 2 one which Geraway told me consisted of 44 pages handwritten.

On November 2, 1970, I was transferred to the Bedham House of Correction.

On November 4, 1970, Attorney Russell came down here to see me. He told me that Ronald Chisholm (who was notified that I had been transferred the night before) had asked him to come down and talk to me. I immediately went into a long tirade saying that certain promises had been made to me, that I wasn't going to submit perjured affidavits without being paid, that I had kept my end of the deal but that they had not kept theirs, that I was without a lawyer to help me and that I had been promised a lawyer, etc. Russell tried to appear noncommittal but I know from the way he listened that he was well aware of the exact circumstances of the whole scheme and had been sent down here to sound me out. He told me that he would talk to Chisholm and find out just what Chisholm wanted him to do. I told him that he better tell Chisholm to do something, that I would not take this passively and again I reiterated that I had been promised a certain sum of money and that I had fulfilled my part of the bargain and that I expected them to fulfill theirs. He left with a full understanding of the whole situation as I told him in no uncertain words that my affidavits were perjured, that I had given them to him and that if nothing was to be done with them I wanted them back as they were my property. I had not given them to him but only lent them to him for corrections.

Russell did not return. I waited sometime and then wrote him a letter. In it I told him that if I did not hear from him immediately that I was going to Justice Felix Forte and the District Attorney to get my papers back for me and that I would tell them the whole thing. Russell no sooner got my letter than he immediately came down here to see me. I asked him if he had read my letter to Chisholm and he admitted that he did. He asked me what it was that I wanted and I told him that an agreement had been made that I had kept my part of it but that Chisholm and Gennaro Anguilo had not kept theirs. I demanded the return of my papers that I had given Russell. He did not deny that I had given them to him. He again asked me what I wanted and I again told him that I wanted my money. I accused him of knowing that the affidavits were perjured. He denied this but I told him he was a liar as I had specifically told him the affidavits were perjured. I also told him if he was so honest why hadn't he gone to the Courts or the District Attorney and reported that these affidavits were perjured. He was quite perturbed and was continually telling me to lower my voice while we were talking here. I told him if somethint wasn't done for me I would go to someone who would help me. He left here in an extremely agitated state. Telling me that he was going to talk to Chisholm. This is where the matter stands at present.

FITZGERALD stated that he has previously conferred with Departmental Attorney HARRINGTON, Chief of the Strike Force in Boston concerning this matter and that he has also informed HARRINGTON that petitions bearing a thousand signatures protesting FITZGERALD's transfer to Chicago are being forwarded to KNEBEL in Washington, D. He stated that he is preparing to file a damage suit against KNEBEL in U. S. District Court in Denver and that he is being represented in this matter by DONALD CONN of the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office in Boston. FITZGERALD stated that he feels that he has placed his life in jeopardy by testifying against organized crime figures in Boston; that the SBA is wilfully ignoring the service he has rendered to the Government and that he does not intend to be "pushed around" by KNEBEL and that he will take any legal action available to him to force cancellation of his transfer to Chicago.

through the aorta and upper chest cavity. The three shots represented one tight group approximately nine inches in diameter. A .30 caliber carbine was also fired from the van. The shot which missed Baron, entered his automobile and was recovered in the interior of the vehicle. A 1912 Winchester pump shotgun was recovered along with three expended shotgun shells, two unexpended shotgun shells still in the shotgun chamber, and one .30 caliber carbine casing.

The van, originally an Airporter Bus, was converted by the assailants. The first two rows of seats were removed. A blanket was strung over a wire directly behind the driver. The windows inside the van were spray painted with black paint. Peep holes were scratched out on the side and rear windows of the van. The van was dusted for fingerprints and a partial print, piece of hair and paper were recovered. The white piece of paper found under the driver's seat had a few words scribbled on it.

The van was subsequently identified as having belonged to a San Mateo, California barber, RICHARD LE-ANUES, who advertised and sold it through a San Mateo newspaper two weeks prior to the killing. A white male American using the name RANDY or RUDY, 20 to 25 years of age, 5' 8" to 5' 9", 155 to 165 pounds, shoulder length brown scraggly hair, sloppily dressed, paid $1,600 in $50 bills for the van.

During the first few weeks of their investigation, San Francisco Police Department (SFPD) Homicide Inspectors Stephen Maxoutopoulos and Hobert Nelson attempted to link the Baron murder to an incident which happened involving Baron during the week prior to the murder. Baron visited a local San Francisco pornographic film dealer, Don Palmer, at his store. Baron confronted Palmer with the fact that he owed him (Baron) $500 and then hit Palmer in the face with a smashing left hook. Palmer was knocked down and not seriously injured but did give Baron $500.

Also Known As

The Baron - Palmer incident became known to the SFPD following Baron's murder. To date, the SFPD has concluded that Baron was attempting to set up some type of "protection racket" but efforts ceased due to his murder. Currently representatives of SFPD, Homicide Detail, have stated they have developed no worthwhile information which would "solve" the murder.

The glass windows inside the murder van were sent by the SFPD to the FBI Laboratory for analysis of various numbers and letters scratched into the black spray painted glass. On April 2, 1976, the FBI Laboratory advised that the windows were scratched by a mechanical pencil and that nothing could be deciphered.

Telephone toll records for Baron's telephone at his residence, 1250 La Playa, Apartment 303, San Francisco and two telephones located at Sharliss' residence, were subpoenaed by the Federal Grand Jury, Northern District of California, San Francisco, California. Toll records have been analyzed and reflect a significant series of telephone calls made by Sharliss to the Boston area just prior to the murder.

During the period August, 1975 through January, 1976, Sharliss made several calls to the Coliseum Restaurant, 54 North Street, North End, Boston and Happy's Cafe, 14 Maverick Square, East Boston, Massachusetts. Happy's is known to Boston FBI Office as AJ's Cafe. Both Boston locations are considered primary hangouts for Boston La Cosa Nostra (LCN) and in particular LCN Lieutenant Joe Russo, well-known "outfit" hit man.

Telephone toll records were subpoenaed for the crucial period which were the weeks before and after Baron's murder on February 11, 1976. Records reflect several calls made by Sharliss to the two LCN hangouts mentioned above commencing on February 4, 1976 and terminating on February 10, 1976, the night before Baron's murder. It is noted that toll

Boston Federal judge has granted defense motion in Patriarca gambling case requiring Government to provide more specifics concerning crime alleged and requiring Government further to provide argument with respect to defense claim of delay in bringing charges which denied defendant's speedy trial.

By way of background, Patriarca and others are charged with interstate transportation in aid of racketeering - gambling in connection with their efforts to control a Rhode Island gambling operation in which instance they negotiated for the murder of the operator.

More than one of the above can apply in a case.

You are reminded that in those instances when the identity of the nonconsenting party is not known at the time of the request, a letterhead memorandum should be forwarded to the Bureau within 30 days following termination of monitoring which will identify the nonconsenting party.

In the event a renewal of this authority is deemed warranted, submit your request with full justification (Manual of Rules and Regulations, Part II, Section 8, Page 3a) at least seven days prior to the expiration of the existing authority.

In addition, you should insure that all persons identified as having been monitored, are suitably included in the field office and FBIHQ ELSUR indices, commensurate with existing instructions as outlined in Bureau airtels to all offices dated April 12, 1977, June 8, 1977, and October 21, 1977, entitled "Microphone and Telephone Surveillances." Strict administrative controls must be established to insure these requirements are met.

Re: Andrew F. Merola

You are reminded that in those instances when the identity of the nonconsenting party is not known at the time of the request, a letterhead memorandum should be forwarded to the Bureau within 30 days following termination of monitoring which will identify the nonconsenting party.

In the event a renewal of this authority is deemed warranted, submit your request with full justification (Manual of Rules and Regulations, Part II, Section 8, Page 3a) at least seven days prior to the expiration of the existing authority.

In addition, you should insure that all persons identified as having been monitored, are suitably included.

 BY RICHARD CARELLI

WASHINGTON (AP) -- THE SUPREME COURT TODAY REFUSED TO ORDER THE RELEASE OF FILES COMPILED FROM ILLEGAL FBI SURVEILLANCE OF REPUTED NEW ENGLAND CRIME BOSS RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

THE JUSTICES, WITHOUT COMMENT, LEFT INTACT A LOWER COURT RULING THAT THE FBI FILES CAN BE KEPT SECRET BECAUSE THEIR RELEASE WOULD VIOLATE PATRIARCA'S PRIVACY RIGHTS.

BETWEEN MARCH 1962 AND JULY 1965, FBI AGENTS USED A WIRETAP TO INTERCEPT ALL OF PATRIARCA'S TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS FROM HIS OFFICE AT THE NATIONAL CIGARETTE SERVICE IN PROVIDENCE, R.I.

THE SURVEILLANCE WAS CONDUCTED WITHOUT A COURT WARRANT, AND LATER WAS RULED UNCONSTITUTIONAL. THE FBI DECIDED TO ERASE ITS TAPE RECORDINGS OF THE PHONE CONVERSATIONS, BUT FIRST COMPILED FILES SUMMARIZING THEM.

PATRIARCA REPUTEDLY IS THE MAFIA CHIEFTAIN FOR MUCH OF NEW ENGLAND. THE FBI NOTES FROM HIS PHONE CONVERSATIONS REPORTEDLY TOTAL MORE THAN 7,000 PAGES.

IN 1976, THE PROVIDENCE JOURNAL NEWSPAPER ASKED THE FBI TO RELEASE ITS PATRIARCA FILES UNDER THE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT, A LAW PASSED BY CONGRESS IN 1966 TO CURTAIL GOVERNMENT SECRECY.

THE JOURNAL FILED AN FOIA LAWSUIT AFTER THE FBI REFUSED TO RELEASE THE FILES, AND U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE RAYMOND PETTINE IN PROVIDENCE ORDERED THE AGENCY TO RELEASE AT LEAST SOME OF THE REQUESTED FILES.

PETTINE'S MAY 15, 1978, RULING ORDERED THAT ALL NOTES ON PATRIARCA'S CONVERSATIONS WITH OR ABOUT PUBLIC OFFICIALS AND PUBLIC FIGURES BE RELEASED.

BUT THE JUDGE SAID NOTES ABOUT CERTAIN CONVERSATIONS, SUCH AS FAMILY RELATIONS AND PERSONAL FRIENDS, SHOULD NOT BE DISCLOSED. PETTINE ALSO ALLOWED THE FBI TO WITHHOLD ANY NAMES OF ITS AGENTS AND INFORMANTS THAT APPEARED IN THE FILES.

THE 1ST U.S. CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS REVERSED PETTINE'S RULING LAST JULY 27, STATING THAT NONE OF THE FBI FILES SHOULD BE GIVEN TO THE NEWSPAPER.

"CONGRESS HAS, IN THE CLEAREST WAY, DECIDED THAT THE PRIVACY INTEREST OF A VICTIM OF ILLEGAL ELECTRONIC SURVEILLANCE IS TOO GREAT TO PERMIT ANY DISCLOSURE AT ALL," THE APPEALS COURT SAID.

INSTRUCTIONS

GENERAL

All photographic work must be submitted under the substantive case caption when it relates to an investigative matter. Include FBIHQ file number when available. All other photographic processing forms (including FD-482) are obsolete and should not be used. The FD-523 is to be utilized for all photographic processing work forwarded to FBIHQ except employee identification and/or credential cards. Requests for official FBI identification and credential cards must be submitted on form FD-464, Attention: Property Procurement and Management Section.

The FD-523 may be filled out in legible hand printing or typing so that all six pages can be read. The following information is set forth to assist in properly filling out this form. Remove third sheet only (yellow field copy) and submit the remaining five pages.

1. ENCLOSED PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK RELATES TO:

All photographic work submitted should be checked as Current Investigation, Mug Shot, or OTHER in appropriate block. If "OTHER" is checked a short description of what it is should be stated under item #4 (Remarks).

2. ENCLOSURE(S):

Film To Be Processed - Check appropriate column for Color, Black and White film, alongside the size of the film. Also, indicate the number of sheets or rolls or cassettes in the quantity column. Slides refer to EKTACHROME ONLY, DO NOT SEND KODACHROME.

Movie Film Or Microfilm - Check appropriate block for size and quantity. DO NOT SEND COLOR MOVIE FILM.

Negatives To Be Printed - Check appropriate block for size, Color or Black and White and quantity submitted. If 135mm negatives are to be printed, indicate by frame number, do not cut up into individual frames. The same applies to any roll film.

Other - Enclosures to be copied, e.g. photographs, documents, objects, etc.

3. WORK REQUESTED:

Processing - Only means to develop the film and NO COPIES or PRINTS e.g. microfilm.

Process and Print - Means to develop film and make one or more prints.

Slides To Be Processed - Means Ektachrome film to be developed and slides mounted.

Slides To Be Duplicated - Means process slide film and make one or more duplicates of each slide.

Prints To Be Made - From 135, 126 and 110 film, check size 3 1/2 x 5 or 5 x 7. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers. Check Color or Black and White.

From 120 and 4x5 Film - Check size 4x5 or 8x10 and indicate Color or Black and White. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers.

Slides - Prints made directly from slides. Machine prints can be made in sizes 3 1/2 x 5, 5 x 7 and 8 x 10.

Custom Prints - From any size negative or slide, indicate quantity and size of prints either Color or Black and White. Custom prints are available in various sizes but require extensive special handling. This type of printing is done on special request and proper justification must be furnished under item #4 (Remarks).

4. REMARKS:

Justification for custom prints. Any special instruction or short description of "other" photographic work in item #1 of this form.

No Personal Work should be submitted for processing. Any requests which may be misinterpreted as personal in nature should be explained and approval granted by the Special Agent in Charge or his/her designee.

GENERAL

All photographic work must be submitted under the substantive case caption when it relates to an investigative matter. Include FBIHQ file number when available. All other photographic processing forms (including FD-482) are obsolete and should not be used. The FD-523 is to be utilized for all photographic processing work forwarded to FBIHQ except employee identification and/or credential cards. Requests for official FBI identification and credential cards must be submitted on form FD-464. Attention: Property Procurement and Management Section.

The FD-523 may be filled out in legible hand printing or typing so that all six pages can be read. The following information is set forth to assist in properly filling out this form. Remove third sheet only (yellow field copy) and submit the remaining five pages.

1. ENCLOSED PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK RELATES TO:

All photographic work submitted should be checked as Current Investigation, Mug Shot, or OTHER in appropriate block. If "OTHER" is checked a short description of what it is should be stated under item #4 (Remarks).

2. ENCLOSURE(S):

Film To Be Processed - Check appropriate column for Color, Black and White film, alongside the size of the film. Also, indicate the number of sheets or rolls or cassettes in the quantity column. Slides refer to EKTACHROME ONLY, DO NOT SEND KODACHROME.

Movie Film Or Microfilm - Check appropriate block for size and quantity. DO NOT SEND COLOR MOVIE FILM.

Negatives To Be Printed - Check appropriate block for size; Color or Black and White and quantity submitted. If 135mm negatives are to be printed, indicate by frame number, do not cut up into individual frames. The same applies to any roll film.

Other - Enclosures to be copied e.g. photographs, documents, objects, etc.

3. WORK REQUESTED:

Processing - Only means to develop the film and NO COPIES or PRINTS e.g. microfilm.

Process and Print - Means to develop film and make one or more prints.

Slides To Be Processed - Means Ektachrome film to be developed and slides mounted.

Slides To Be Duplicated - Means process slide film and make one or more duplicates of each slide.

Prints To Be Made - From 135, 126 and 110 film, check size 3 1/2 x 5 or 5 x 7. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers. Check Color or Black and White.

From 120 and 4x5 Film - Check size 4x5 or 8x10 and indicate Color or Black and White. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers.

Slides - Prints made directly from slides. Machine prints can be made in sizes 3 1/2 x 5, 5x7 and 8x10.

Custom Prints - From any size negative or slide; indicate quantity and size of prints either Color or Black and White. Custom prints are available in various sizes but require extensive special handling. This type of printing is done on special request and proper justification must be furnished under item #4 (Remarks).

4. REMARKS:

Justification for custom prints. Any special instruction or short description of "other" photographic work in item #1 of this form.

No Personal Work should be submitted for processing. Any requests which may be misinterpreted as personal in nature should be explained and approval granted by the Special Agent in Charge or his/her designee.

Enclosed you will find one copy of an affidavit prepared by Special Agent [redacted] of our Providence, Rhode Island, Office. This affidavit seeks authorization for a court order authorizing the interception of oral communications [redacted] Information set forth in this affidavit has identified this location as [redacted] in which organized crime individuals [redacted] activities. Based upon the facts contained in this affidavit, your authority is requested for the filing of an application supported by this affidavit with the United States District Court, District of Rhode Island.

Information has been developed through investigation in Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New York which indicates that several individuals are involved in a continuous criminal enterprise involving murder, robbery, theft from interstate shipment, and gambling; which are all acts of racketeering under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Statute. There is detailed information in this affidavit which outlines the existence of an organized crime structure involved in the orchestration of vicious criminal activities. It is believed that the evidence obtained through the utilization of electronic devices in connection with this investigation will lead directly to the identification of other unknown individuals who are involved in this conspiracy and will assist in obtaining the necessary evidence which has been futile by other investigative techniques.

Proposed minimization procedures will be maintained while this electronic surveillance technique is being utilized.

It is believed that this affidavit contains sufficient probable cause justification for the interception referred to in this memorandum pursuant to the provisions of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

in these matters and a copy of the memorandum of authorization of the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division, the Honorable Philip B. Heymann.

3. This application seeks authorization to intercept oral communications of RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

b7C

[REDACTED] and others as of yet unknown concerning offenses enumerated in Section 1962(c) of Title 18, United States Code, that is, participating in the conduct of the affairs of an enterprise affecting interstate commerce through a pattern of racketeering activity and a conspiracy to do so, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(d), which have been committed by RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and others unknown.

4. He has discussed the circumstances of the above offenses with Special Agent [REDACTED] of the Providence, Rhode Island office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who has directed and conducted the investigation herein, and has examined the affidavit of Special Agent [REDACTED] (attached hereto as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference herein) which alleges the facts therein to show that:

b6

(a) There is probable cause to believe that RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

b6

[REDACTED] and others as yet unknown, are associated in fact, in an enterprise, as defined in Title 18, United States Code, Section 1961(4), the activities of which affect interstate commerce, to wit, a group associated in fact to conduct gambling, robbery, murder, theft from interstate shipment, and other criminal activity in Rhode Island and elsewhere, and are planning, discussing, and participating, directly and indirectly, in the conduct of their affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity including murder (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956; 11-23-1), robbery (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-39-1), interstate travel in aid of racketeering-gambling (Title 18, United States Code, Section 1952), theft from interstate shipment (Title 18, United States Code, Section 659), and are conspiring to do so, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(c) and 1962(d).

(b) There is probable cause to believe that the premises known as the ground floor, 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, is being utilized by RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and others unknown within certain areas of the ground floor, 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, that is, those areas designated [REDACTED] on the diagram incorporated into paragraph H3 of the attached and incorporated affidavit of Special Agent [REDACTED]

(c) The attached affidavit contains a full and complete statement explaining why normal investigative procedures either have been tried and failed or reasonably appear unlikely to succeed if continued, or reasonably appear unlikely to succeed if tried.

5. No previous application to any judge for authorization to intercept, or for approval of interception of, wire or oral communications involving any of the same persons, facilities, or places specified in this application are known to the individual authorizing and making this application with the exceptions of those applications set forth in paragraph G8 of the attached and incorporated affidavit of Special Agent [redacted] b6 b7C

WHEREFORE, your applicant believes that there is probable cause to believe that RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] and others unknown are engaged in the commission of the offense of participating in the affairs of an enterprise affecting interstate commerce through a pattern of racketeering activity and a conspiracy to do so, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(c) and (d); that the premises known as the ground floor, 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, is being utilized by RAYMOND L.S. with [redacted] will be intercepted with the possible exception of social amenities. [redacted] and [redacted] are on the opposite side of the building from where the electronic eavesdropping devices will be placed and consequently the possibility of the interception of privileged communications between [redacted] and their clients is remote.

CHIEF UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT JUDGE

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF RHODE ISLAND

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION : OF THE UNITED STATES FOR AN :
ORDER AUTHORIZING THE INTER- : CEPTION OF ORAL COMMUNICATIONS :

ORDER
AUTHORIZING INTERCEPTION OF ORAL COMMUNICATIONS

Application under oath having been made before me by [redacted] an attorney with the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the United States Department of Justice, and an "investigative or law enforcement officer" as defined in Section 2510(7) of Title 18, United States Code, for an order authorizing the interception of oral communications pursuant to Section 2518 of Title 18, United States Code, and full consideration having been given to the matters set forth therein, the court finds:

(a) There is probable cause to believe that RAYMOND L.S.
PATRIARCA, [redacted]

unknown, are presently associated in an enterprise to conduct gambling, robbery, murder and theft from interstate shipment and other criminal activity in Rhode Island and elsewhere, and are planning, discussing and participating, directly and indirectly, in the conduct of their affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity including murder (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-23-1), robbery (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-39-1), interstate travel in aid of racketeeringgambling (Title 18, United States Code, Section 1952), theft from interstate shipment (Title 18, United States Code, Section 659) and are conspiring to do so, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(c) and (d).

(b) There is probable cause to believe that particular oral communications concerning these offenses will be obtained through the interception, for which authorization is herewith applied. In particular, these oral communications will concern murder, robbery, interstate travel in aid of racketeering-gambling, theft from interstate shipment, and other criminal activity, the identity of the participants, and the precise nature and scope of the illegal activity. In addition, the communications are expected to constitute admissible evidence of the commission of the offenses.

(c) Normal investigative procedures either have been tried without success and reasonably appear unlikely to succeed if continued or reasonably appear unlikely to succeed if tried.

(d) There is probable cause to believe that the premises known as the ground floor, 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, has been and is being utilized by RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and others unknown, in connection with the commission of the above-stated offenses.

WHEREFORE, it is hereby ordered that special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are authorized, pursuant to application authorized by the Assistant Attorney General of the United States, Criminal Division, the Honorable Philip B. Heymann, pursuant to the power conferred on him by Section 2516 of Title 18, United States Code:

To intercept oral communications of RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

as yet unknown concerning the above-described offenses from the premises known as the ground floor, 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, only during such time that it is determined by visual means (including videocamera) that one or more of the following individuals is within the ground floor, 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island: RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

In the event that the authorized electronic surveillance intercepts a communication between an attorney and client which is privileged, the monitoring shall cease immediately and the substance of the overheard conversation shall be put on a separate log and sealed by the court. The fact of such monitoring shall be reported to the supervising attorney with the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the United States Department of Justice as soon as practicable. Furthermore, such information shall not be disseminated to any other law enforcement agency nor shall the Federal Bureau of Investigation conduct further investigation based upon the contents of the privileged communication. Such privileged conversations shall not be included in the copies of the tapes retained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The conversations shall be recorded on the original tape that will be sealed by and remain in the custody of the court. Any such interception shall be reported to the court on the next business day following the interception.

Such interception shall not automatically terminate when the type of communication described above in paragraph (b) has first been obtained but shall continue until communications are intercepted which reveal the manner in which RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and others as yet unknown participate in the conduct of the affairs of an enterprise affecting interstate commerce through a pattern of racketeering activity, and a conspiracy to do so, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(c) and (d) and which reveal the identities of their confederates, their places of operation, and the nature of the conspiracy involved therein, or for a period of 30 days from the date of this order, whichever is earlier.

It is further ordered that special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are authorized to enter 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, surreptitiously for the purpose of surveying, installing, repairing and/or removing electronic surveillance devices to be utilized pursuant to the authority granted by this order; said entries are not to exceed three in number without further order of the court. Said electronic surveillance devices are to be installed only in those areas of the subject premises which are denoted as [REDACTED] [REDACTED] as depicted in the diagram contained within paragraph H3 of the affidavit submitted to the court this date in support of the issuance of this order.

PROVIDING THAT, this authorization to intercept oral communications shall be executed as soon as practicable after the signing of this order and shall be conducted in such a way as to minimize the interception of communications not otherwise subject to interception under Chapter 119 of Title 18 of the United States Code, and must terminate upon attainment of the authorized objective or, in any event, at the end of thirty (30) days from the date of this order.

PROVIDING ALSO, that shall provide the court with a report on or about the 5th, 10th, 15th, 20th and 25th days following the date of this order showing what progress has been made toward achievement of the authorized objective and the need for continued interception.

CHIEF, UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT JUDGE

IN THE MATTER OF AN APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA FOR AN ORDER AUTHORIZING THE INTERCEPTION OF ORAL COMMUNICATIONS

[redacted] Special Agent of the Providence Resident Agency, Federal Bureau of Investigation (hereinafter FBI), being duly sworn, states:

A1. I am an investigative or law enforcement officer of the United States within the meaning of Section 2510(7) of Title 18, United States Code; that is, an officer who is empowered by law to conduct investigations of and to make arrests for offenses enumerated in Section 2516 of Title 18, United States Code.

A2. I have been a Special Agent of the FBI for the past ten years, during which time I have been primarily involved in the conduct of criminal investigations.

A3. This affidavit is executed to supply probable cause for the authorization of the interception of oral communications concerning offenses involving violations of Section 1962(c), Title 18, United States Code, and a conspiracy to violate this statute, in violation of Section 1962(d), Title 18, United States Code, which are probably being committed by Raymond L. S. Patriarca,

[redacted]
[redacted] and others, as yet unknown.

I have supervised the conduct of this investigation and, as a result of my personal participation in this investigation and of reports made by other Special Agents of the FBI and officers of the Providence, Rhode Island, Police and Rhode Island State Police (RISP) Departments that I have reviewed, and other individuals connected with law enforcement agencies, I am familiar with all circumstances of the investigation. On the basis of this familiarization, I allege that:

EXHIBIT B

A3(a). There is probable cause to believe that Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and others, as yet unknown, are associated in an enterprise, as defined in Title 18, United States Code, Section 1961(4), affecting interstate commerce, to conduct gambling, robbery, murder, theft from interstate shipment and other criminal activity in Rhode Island and elsewhere, and are planning, discussing and participating, directly and indirectly, in the conduct of their affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity including murder (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-23-1), robbery (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-39-1), interstate travel in aid of racketeering (gambling) (Title 18, United States Code, Section 1952), theft from interstate shipment (Title 18, United States Code, Section 659) and are conspiring to do so, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1962(c) and 1962(d).

A3(b). There is probable cause to believe that oral communications of Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [REDACTED] [REDACTED] and others, as yet unknown, concerning these offenses will be obtained through the interception of oral communications at the premises known as the ground floor of 165 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, which houses [REDACTED] and others.

A4. Normal investigative procedures reasonably appear unlikely to succeed.

Source 7 has provided detailed information regarding the members, associates and organization of the Gambino, Genovese, DeCalvacante, Colombo and Patriarca Organized Crime "Families" as they exist in Connecticut, which information has been relied upon by the FBI to identify and investigate the activities of those elements in Connecticut, and which information has been independently verified and corroborated by the FBI. The information supplied by Source 7 has led to the [redacted] [redacted] as well as to over [redacted] for state and/or Federal gambling offenses, the majority of which have resulted in convictions. The information provided by Source 7 has also led to the issuance of search warrants, the executions of which have resulted in the seizure of evidence and contraband. Source 7 has never been known to provide false information. All information provided by Source 7 set forth below, unless otherwise stated, is based upon Source 7's personal observation and knowledge, and gathered from participating in and/or overhearing conversations between Frank Piccolo and his criminal associates, and/or from statements made to Source 7 by persons known by Source 7 to be criminal associates of Piccolo.

D. Organized Crime in Southern New England

D1. From my experience as a criminal investigator and from communications with other law enforcement officers, I believe there exists within the United States an organized and continuous criminal conspiracy known variously as "La Cosa Nostra" (LCN), "The Outfit" or simply "The Mob." Geographic areas of the United States are apportioned to the leaders of this conspiracy for the conduct of illegal activities. Within this organized criminal conspiracy there are "families" made up from a group of criminals in a particular locality. Each "family" is headed by a boss, an underboss, and several "capos." The "families" have been traditionally involved in the conduct of gambling, loansharking, extortion, murder, labor racketeering, hijacking and other Federal and State crimes. Members of this organized criminal conspiracy are frequently involved in criminal activities with persons who are not "made members," that is, persons who are not formally initiated into a "family."

D2. I have reviewed testimony given on the subject of Organized Crime and Illicit Traffic in Narcotics by members of La Cosa Nostra and knowledgeable law enforcement officials before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations, United States Senate, 88th Congress, First Session in 1963. That testimony revealed that Raymond L.S. Patriarca was at the time the boss of an organized crime "family" in Southern New England.

D3. I have reviewed testimony given on the subject of Measures Relating to Organized Crime given before the Subcommittee on Criminal Laws and Procedures of the Committee on the Judiciary, United States Senate, 91st Congress, 1st Session, in 1969. That testimony revealed that as of 1969, Raymond L.S. Patriarca was the boss of the New England "family" of La Cosa Nostra (LCN). Those committee hearings also revealed that Aniello Dellacroce was the underboss of the LCN "Family" headed by Carlo Gambino in New York. I know that Gambino has since died.

D4. Special Agent [] FBI, has advised me that on September 24, 1971, Dennis Raimondi (now deceased) told him that he (Raimondi) had been made a member of the New England "Outfit" in May 1970. D10. I am aware of an investigation of [] and others conducted by the Providence Resident Agency of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the RISP during 1979. Electronic surveillance of [redacted] which was authorized by court orders, revealed that [redacted] was in contact with certain individuals in New York City by calling [redacted] which is listed to [redacted]

b7c

[redacted] The Federal Bureau of Investigation, New York Division, has advised the Providence Resident Agency that members of the Dellacroce (Gambino) Organized Crime Family frequent this location.

D11. According to background information obtained from FBI files, surveillances by Agents of the FBI and information obtained from other law enforcement agencies in the State of Connecticut, I know the following:

Frank Piccolo was born July 2, 1923, in New York City and uses several aliases including "Pic" and "Cigare." Piccolo currently resides at 3200 Park Avenue, Bridgeport, Connecticut. According to information provided by source 5 during the period February 1974 through October 1978 and corroborated by Source 7, Piccolo is a "capo" in the Gambino crime family of New York and has replaced [redacted] as the group's leader [redacted] Piccolo is currently one of the two most powerful organized crime figures in the State [redacted] being the other one, and is responsible for the delivery of [redacted] organized crime proceeds to the Gambino family leadership in New York. Piccolo's illegal activities range from gambling and shylocking to narcotics and murder.

b7C

D12. Source 5 has advised the FBI that at least since 1975 Frank Piccolo has represented the Gambino family's interests in Connecticut. In 1975 Source 5 advised the FBI that in March or April of that year Frank Piccolo went to New York and met Carlo Gambino, who was then head of the Gambino crime family and furnished Carlo Gambino with a portion of the proceeds of Piccolo's activities in Connecticut. Source 5 further advised the FBI that through conversations and observations of Frank Piccolo he learned that in June of that year Piccolo again went to New York and met with [redacted] [redacted] of the Gambino family. [redacted] advised that Carlo Gambino was ill and that Piccolo would now furnish the Bridgeport, Connecticut, money to [redacted] Piccolo made arrangements to meet with [redacted] on a regular basis.

D13. Source 5 further advised that in October of 1975 during a visit to Carlo Gambino in New York City, Gambino instructed Piccolo [redacted] to pay a courtesy visit to Raymond Patriarca in Rhode Island, as he wanted them to be friendly with the Patriarca organization.

D14. Source 5 stated that in March of 1976, Piccolo met with Carlo Gambino in New York. Gambino advised Piccolo that he was in semi-retirement and that [redacted] Paul Castellano were running the organization for him. Gambino stated that Nicholas Patti was going to be asked to retire and that he (Piccolo) would be placed in charge of the Gambino family's interests in Connecticut. b6 b7C

D15. Source 5 learned in June 1976 that Piccolo was appointed capo of the Gambino family in Connecticut by Carlo Gambino. [redacted] was instructed to notify the members of [redacted] group of the appointment. b6 b7C b7D

D16. In July of 1976, Source 5 stated that [redacted] [redacted] was instructed by Carlo Gambino to mediate a money dispute between Nicholas Patti and the Whitey Tropicano-Billy Grasso interests in [redacted] according to Source 5, represents Raymond L. S. Patriarca's interests [redacted] Patriarca's [redacted] interests are closely aligned with the Genovese crime family in New York. b6 b7C b7D

D17. Source 5 stated that in June 1978, Paul Castellano informed Piccolo that he was upset about the Patriarca and Genovese families taking over Connecticut while he (Piccolo) sat around and let them do it. At the same meeting, Neil (Aniello) Dellacroce, underboss of the Gambino crime family, advised Piccolo to regroup his crew in Connecticut because [redacted] wanted them to be placed under the control of [redacted] b6 b7C

D18. In July 1978 Piccolo advised Source 5 that he met with Raymond Patriarca in Providence, Rhode Island, to settle several disputes between the Gambino family and the Patriarca family.

D19. On September 3, [redacted] met with [redacted] of the New Haven Police Department; the conversation was tape recorded by [redacted] told [redacted] that he had operated a casino gambling business in the form of a "crap game" at his business at [redacted] [redacted] told [redacted] that the proceeds from the game b6 b7C were divided so that he and other operators of the game received a percentage and that a percentage of the winnings went to Raymond Patriarca in Rhode Island through Billy Grasso, and that a percentage of the winnings went to New York through a Bridgeport courier by the name of [redacted] one of [redacted] associates. (This "crap game" was raided by the FBI [redacted] and approximately $37,000 was seized as well as records indicating that the bankroll for this gambling business was $63,641.00. [redacted] and others have been indicted for violations of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1955 and 371.)

[redacted] further advised [redacted] that Billy Grasso became the Number 1 man in [redacted] because Grasso became friendly with Raymond L. S. Patriarca while they were both serving time together in prison and Patriarca pressured Grasso to come with him. [redacted] further stated that Grasso personally delivers Patriarca's share of the proceeds of Grasso's illegal operations to Raymond Patriarca himself in Providence, Rhode Island, that Grasso first meets someone named [redacted] (believed by the FBI to be [redacted] in Rhode Island and together they meet Raymond L. S. Patriarca.

D20. Through investigation by the FBI and other law enforcement agencies and through reports made available to me of information supplied by confidential reliable informants (sources), I know that the organized crime family in Rhode Island has historically been involved in murders, robberies and gambling activity, among other crimes.

D20a. [redacted] has advised me that he has received from Source 6 information relative to the following murders shortly after each of them occurred. This information has been corroborated by other informants not only of the Providence Police Department, but also of the Rhode Island State Police and/or FBI. The information was obtained by Source 6 directly from the participants in the murders or those in conspiracy with them in organized crime activity.

D20b. Louis "The Fox" Taglionetti and Elizabeth.

McKenna were murdered in Cranston, Rhode Island, on February 6, 1970. Source 6 advised that Raymond L. S. Patriarca ordered the murder of Taglionetti because Taglionetti had appealed a conviction against Patriarca's orders thereby bringing adverse publicity on Patriarca. Patriarca, in prison at the time, blamed this appeal for the heat placed upon him by the FBI. McKenna was killed because she was a witness. Source 6 stated that [redacted] (subsequently murdered), Gerry Christy (subsequently murdered) and [redacted] committed the murders.

D20(c). Joseph Shiavone was murdered in Cranston, Rhode Island on November 27, 1974, on the orders of [redacted]. Source 6 advised that [redacted] one of whom was an escapee, committed the murder. This information was corroborated by [redacted] who was a co-conspirator with [redacted] and others in the Bonded Vault Robbery. [redacted] told the Providence Police that [redacted] [redacted] an escaped felon from [redacted] from Massachusetts murdered Shiavone. [redacted] said that he learned all of the above from [redacted].

D20(d). Ralph Imperatore and William Lavin disappeared from Warwick, Rhode Island, in the early part of August 1977. Source 6 advised [redacted] Basmajian (subsequently murdered), Gerry Christy (subsequently murdered) [redacted] for drug money totalling hundreds of thousands of dollars. On August 14, 1977, members of the Rhode Island State Police found in Imperatore's yard approximately $120,000 in cash. Gerry Tillinghast (who was later convicted of the murder of George Basmajian) has been indicted for the murder of Imperatore and Lavin and said indictment is still pending.

D20(e). Source 6 advised that Raymond L. S. Patriarca was upset about the murders of Imperatore and Lavin because it was done without authorization and he therefore ordered the murder of Gerry Christy because this was the second time that Christy had committed an unauthorized murder. The first time was the murder of [redacted]

Raymond L. S. Patriarca ordered Nicola Leonardo [redacted] to kill Christy. On or about September 1, 1977, Gerry Christy's body was found in the trunk of a vehicle in Malden, Massachusetts. As a reward for carrying out this murder and for other favors done, Raymond J. Patriarca gave Nicola Leonardo the card game to run at the Teapot Club on Charles Street in Providence.

D20(f). Source 6 further stated that prior to [redacted] obtaining his [redacted] members of Patriarca's organization oftentimes used the office at Federal Discount House on Atwells Avenue owned by Nicholas Pari. (Pari was convicted of the murder of Joseph Scanlon, a Providence police informant, in 1979 and is presently serving a life sentence.) D23. I know that Raymond L. S. Patriarca was convicted in Rhode Island Superior Court of conspiracy to commit the murders of Rudolph Marfeo and Anthony Melei which occurred in 1968 in Providence. The motive for these murders of Marfeo and Melei was a dispute over gambling activity. The conviction occurred on March 27, 1970.

D24. I know that on March 25, 1968, Raymond L. S. Patriarca was convicted of violating Title 18, United States Code, Section 1952 (interstate travel in aid of racketeering - gambling). The evidence at Patriarca's Federal trial showed that Patriarca caused another to travel in interstate commerce in order to murder Willie Marfeo. This murder was perpetrated in furtherance of Patriarca's gambling activity.

D25. Investigation by the FBI has revealed that:

D25(a). Carlo Gambino died of natural causes in New York on October 15, 1976. John Angelone died of natural causes in the Bronx, New York, in December of 1978.

D25(b). Neil (Aniello) Dellacroce is presently under indictment in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida on charges of RICO - murder, Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962.

D25(c). Ralph Tropiano, also known as Whitey was shot to death in Brooklyn, New York, on April 2, 1980.

E. Use of [redacted] for the Conduct of Criminal Activity

El. [redacted] has advised me that Source 6 has known Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted]

[redacted] and [redacted] for in excess of ten years. Source 6 is

[redacted] as well as being [redacted]

[redacted] advised me that he was advised by Source 6 that a meeting took place sometime during the first week of June [redacted] at the [redacted]

[redacted] between [redacted] and others. Source 6 learned about the meeting from one or more of the individuals named above who were either present at the meeting or who identified themselves (himself) to Source 6 as part of the scheme to dispose of the stolen gold mentioned below and who in turn learned it from a participant in the meeting. The purpose of the meeting was that one of the individuals in [redacted] wanted to ask [redacted] to intercede on his behalf with Raymond L.S. Patriarca. Source 6 advises that [redacted] is the only recognized "go-between" with Raymond L.S. Patriarca for persons wanting to do criminal business with Patriarca. Because [redacted] was not present in his office, the individual told [redacted] that he possessed gold from the shipment stolen from Quonset Point a few days earlier. The individual further told [redacted] that the gold was so pure that he was finding it impossible to dispose of it in the Rhode Island area. He requested that [redacted] ask [redacted] to contact Patriarca and ask Patriarca if he could get rid of the gold through his (Patriarca's) contacts. [redacted] advised the individual that he would do so.

E2. I have been informed by [redacted]

[redacted] that on May 24, 1980, two or more individuals broke into an enclosed area at the Quonset terminal in North Kingstown, tied up a guard at gunpoint and stole gold in pellet form valued at $172,493.00 and silver valued at $17,234.00 from a trailer located therein. Said precious metals were owned by Handy and Harmon Company of Attleboro, Massachusetts and were consigned to International Armored Services and were enroute from Attleboro, Massachusetts to Fairfield, Connecticut.

E3. I am informed by [redacted] of Handy and Harmon that the gold stolen from Quonset terminal has a 59.3 percentage of gold content which is of higher purity than is normally used in industry and thereby readily identifiable.

E4. Source 6 further told [redacted] during the week of May 18, 1980, that Source 6 learned from one of the individuals named in this paragraph that sometime during the week of May 11, 1980, that the individual was at a meeting with others at the office of [redacted] and participated in a conversation inside that office whereby [redacted]

[redacted] expressed their worry that [redacted] indicted on May 8, 1980 in United States District Court for the District of Rhode Island, was about to turn Informant for the Rhode Island State Police. In addition to [redacted] pending indictment, [redacted] were worried about the constant pressure being applied by the Rhode Island State Police to unnerve [redacted] These three individuals were of the opinion that [redacted] could not do time in jail and that he was in a position to "sink" all of them. They discussed the possibility of having to kill [redacted]

E5. Source 6 has further advised [redacted] who in turn has advised me that on or about March 18, 1980, Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted] and [redacted] met at the [redacted]. Two or three other unknown hoodlums from out of state were also present. Other individuals were used as lookouts. The topic of this conversation was unknown to Source 6.

E6. I am advised by [redacted] that shortly after March 18, 1980, Detective [redacted] of the Warwick, Rhode Island Police Department advised him that he observed a meeting in the [redacted] on March 18 between Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted] and other persons unknown to him.

E7. I have been advised by the New Haven Division, FBI, of the following: Ralph "Whitey" Tropicano was murdered gang-land-style on April 2, 1980 in Brooklyn, New York. In 1972, "Whitey" Tropicano was incarcerated in federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas where he was interviewed by FBI agents. Tropicano [redacted] activity in Connecticut. [redacted] he advised the FBI that he had been taken to [redacted] and proposed for membership in the [redacted] family. Tropicano further related that on one occasion [redacted] contacted him and arranged for a dinner meeting in New Haven at which time he (Tropicano) was introduced to Raymond L.S. Patriarca who he later learned to be the LCN boss of New England. Since that meeting Raymond L.S. Patriarca had contacted Tropicano on several occasions asking for favors such as having Tropicano collect money owed to Patriarca and bring it from New Haven to Providence to a vending machine company operated by Patriarca. Tropicano further described in this interview the operations in 1972 of

b7D

Frank Piccolo, a member of the Carlo Gambino family. Tropiano related that when he was on the street he got much of the sports line from Raymond L.S. Patriarca's brother in Providence. Since that initial meeting in 1972, Tropiano was for the most part uncooperative with the FBI.

E8. Testimony given on the subject of Measures Relating to Organized Crime given before the Subcommittee on Criminal Laws and Procedures of the Committee on the Judiciary, United States Senate, 91st Congress, 1st Session, in 1969 reflects that Joseph Profaci was the boss of a La Cosa Nostra (LCN) family in New York City in the 1960's which was subsequently taken over by Joseph Colombo.

E9. Previous investigation by the FBI, Providence Resident Agency, has revealed that Raymond L.S. Patriarca operates a vending machine business, National Cigarette Service, which is located at 170 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

E10. Special Agent [] has advised me that on September 24, 1971, Dennis Raimondi (see paragraph D4) told him that Joseph Patriarca (deceased), brother of Raymond L.S. Patriarca who was then incarcerated, was the "on-the-street" head of the Providence organized crime family.

E11. Source 7 has advised the FBI that in the early part of 1980, a power struggle was going on between Tropiano and William P. Grasso. On April 3, 1980, Source 7 advised as follows: Approximately six months previous, Tropiano had sold his daily numbers action (gambling business) to Grasso for $30,000. The agreement was that Grasso would pay a weekly percentage of his action to Tropiano. Tropiano was getting

Tropiano received his weekly percentage until three weeks prior to April 2, 1980, at which time Grasso told Tropiano that he would not make any more payments. Tropiano went to New York to discuss this and other problems he was having with Grasso with an unknown LCN figure and sought approval to have Grasso murdered. An individual who is a close associate of Grasso leaked word of the impending "hit" to Grasso. Grasso immediately contacted Raymond L.S. Patriarca who in turn authorized the murder of Tropiano. On April 2, 1980, Ralph "Whitey" Tropiano was murdered in Brooklyn, New York.

B12. I have been advised by the New Haven Division, FBI, that on May 13, 1980, the Honorable T. Emmet Clarke, Chief Judge, United States District Court for the District of Connecticut, authorized the interception of wire communications over telephone numbers [redacted] and [redacted] located at the [redacted]

[redacted] wire communications over telephone numbers [redacted] and [redacted] located at [redacted]

a 30-day period. Intercepted conversations confirm that Frank Piccolo and his associates have hundreds of thousands of dollars in loanshark money on the street and control a large bookmaking operation. As a result of the interception of oral communications at [redacted] it was learned that on June 2, 1980, Frank Piccolo told [redacted] that he was with "Neil," (believed to be a reference to Neil Dellacroce, he was very upset that he was not allowed in the meeting with Patriarca. Piccolo stated that Neil Dellacroce and Paul

[] to see Patriarca for family business. Piccolo stated that Dellacroce [] are extremely upset over [] close association with the Genovese LCN family in New York and

[] of the Genovese LCN family. Piccolo advised that Patriarca had been coming to the defense of [] in his many illegal activities in the Connecticut area. Piccolo advised that because of the problems that [] and others were having, a number of sit-downs had been held. Piccolo complained that at all of these sit-downs he, Piccolo, had been overruled, mainly because of Patriarca's intervention.
[] stated that the reason for [] and he going to meet Patriarca was to request that Patriarca cease from becoming involved with people and territories that were not within his (Patriarca's) jurisdiction. Piccolo also stated that since [] and Patriarca met in private and because of the problems they were having with the Genovese LCN family, he is sure that a big "hit" is coming down possibly on [] [] or [] Piccolo stated to those he was sitting with that since [] went all the way from New York to Providence to meet Patriarca at the request of Dellacroce and Castelano, he is certain that "a hit on a big boss is coming."

E15. My review of the hearing given on the subject of Measures Relating to Organized Crime given before the Subcommittee on Criminal Law and Procedures of the Committee on Judiciary, United States Senate, 91st Congress, 1st Session in 1969, reveals that one of the La Cosa Nostra (LCN) families in New York City is the Vito Genovese "family" which is named after its former boss, Vito Genovese (deceased). Those hearings identified Aniello Dellacroce and Paul Castelano as underboss and capo of the Gambino LCN "family" respectively.

E16. I have been advised by the New York office of the FBI that [] is the [] of the Gambino LCN family. Source 7 has told special agents of the FBI that [] works for Piccolo in Piccolo's illegal activity.

E17. Source 7 has further advised the New Haven FBI office that sometime during the week of June 15, 1980, Source 7 overheard Piccolo state that Patriarca would find out within a week what the FBI is doing in Connecticut. Information received from Source 7 indicates that Piccolo suspects that the Backstage Restaurant may be bugged (see paragraph E12).

E18. Source 7 has further advised that during the last week of March 1980, he overheard Frank Piccolo telling his associates that he had information that [] a gambler, was cooperating with the FBI and was going to testify against "them." Piccolo stated that all efforts should be made to find [] and eliminate him. I know from FBI, New Haven Division that [] committed suicide on June 12, 1980. Also on March 27, 1979, Chief Judge Raymond J. Pettine of the United States District Court for the District of Rhode Island entered an order authorizing electronic surveillance for wire communications over telephone number [] listed to [] and oral communications at that location. This order was extended for a ten-day period by Chief Judge Pettine on April 26, 1979.

E19a. On April 25, 1979 at 11:25 a.m., [] placed a call from [] to the [] [] asked [] to, "Set up a meeting with that [] He is going to arrange it for me." The surveillance of these three subjects ended as a result of the subjects going down a one way street. [] were identified through intercepted references made to meetings and the surveillance of those meetings as well as identifications made by participants to the telephone conversations and the identification of the telephone facilities called.

E19f. Special Agent [] and I believe from the context of the intercepted conversations and physical surveillances that [] called [] to set up a meeting with [] in order for him to get approval from [] Raymond L.S. Patriarca for [] to have [] run a weekly card game. This is based upon our knowledge that: a) Raymond L.S. Patriarca gets a cut of every illegal activity conducted by [] (see paragraph D6), b) the role of [] as the go-between for the Patriarca and [] factions (see paragraph E19a), c) the surveillance on May 1, 1979, and d) the reference by [] to [] and [] which we believe to be a reference to Boston. Furthermore, [] comment, "I heard he did okay with the poker" appears to be a transparent reference for approval for a Poker game. [] question, "So the guy said it was okay?" to which [] responded affirmatively and [] exclamation, "Beautiful!" was in our opinion indicative that [] needed approval before he and his [] could run a "Poker" game. As related above, a few minutes after talking with [] [] called [] and said, "The thing is legitimate now, it's okay. . . I got the message, it's bonafide." F. Physical Surveillances of [redacted] Atwells Avenue
Providence, Rhode Island

F1. On April 24, 1980, the FBI set up automatic photographic surveillance at the [redacted] [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. Full coverage began on April 25, 1980. Time sequence between photographs is approximately two to three seconds. The hours of this surveillance vary but on most weekdays the surveillance ran from approximately 8:00 a.m. to approximately 8:00 p.m. with some limited surveillance on Saturdays. For various reasons, surveillance was not conducted everyday. Because of vehicle traffic blocking the front door of the offices, there are many occasions when an individual was photographed entering the premises but not leaving and vice versa. Also some individuals have entered and/or left through a rear door by way of the alley.

F2. According to conversations other Special Agents of the FBI, Providence Office, have had with [redacted]

Consequently, he [redacted] constantly almost everyday. Another individual [redacted] almost everyday is [redacted] the Superior Court of the State of Rhode Island. He was observed opening and closing the office on several occasions and was observed coming in on Saturdays to open and close even when no attorney entered the office that day. On most court days [redacted] is rarely observed [redacted] between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

G. Need for Electronic Surveillance

G1. All but two of the confidential informants referred to in this affidavit have stated that they will not testify before a Grand Jury or in court, concerning these matters. Each of the informants has indicated that public knowledge of his cooperation would probably result in harm to him or his family. Further, even if each testified, they would be unable to prove the involvement of each member of the group and the full extent of his activities in illegal enterprises. They further refuse to wear consensual electronic surveillance devices because they know that would necessitate their appearance in court. Sources' 4 and 5 are no longer informants and steadfastly refuse to cooperate in any way with the Government.

G2. In addition to the information contained in this affidavit, all but two informants referred to in this affidavit have provided and continue to provide information pertinent to criminal activity by these persons and others. To reveal the identities of these informants would compromise their continued usefulness in these investigations.

G3. As indicated in this affidavit, physical surveillances have been conducted on numerous occasions in the past in an effort to obtain evidence pertaining to the various offenses committed by members of this criminal enterprise. In reference to surveillances conducted in connection with this investigation, surveillances have been useful in corroborating information provided by informants and alerting law enforcement officers of general patterns of conduct. These surveillances in particular have verified that these individuals are associated and utilize certain places for meetings. However, physical surveillances are not likely to result in obtaining sufficient admissible evidence to support a prosecution of the members of the criminal conspiracy who are under investigation.

G4. Investigations focusing on members and associates of this enterprise have been conducted for the past several years. Various arrests and convictions have resulted, but each has concerned at most a sub-group of the enterprise and isolated criminal conduct. As a result, the continuing criminal activity has never been severely affected. When low-ranking members are imprisoned, others take their place. Only a broad-based attack on the leadership of this criminal group and directed at all forms of its illegal conduct can truly be successful. Since the subjects of the instant request for electronic surveillance usually remove themselves from direct participation in crimes, such traditional investigative techniques as surveillances and development of citizen witnesses will be unavailing. Further, these techniques can only relate to isolated instances of crime and not the overall pattern of criminal conduct.

G5. Your affiant and other special agents of the FBI have given consideration to infiltration of this group with undercover agents. However, based on the nature of this criminal group and recent undercover investigations in the Providence area, it does not appear that the limited results that would be likely could justify the danger to such agents. The subjects and their key associates work through the network of trusted, long-time associates who are mentioned in this affidavit. Only a very few highly placed participants in the enterprise could hope to introduce an outsider to the group and even then, it is very unlikely that members of the enterprise would speak openly about criminal conduct in the presence of an outsider. The use of an FBI special agent in an undercover project during the spring and summer of 1978 proved the cautious nature of the leaders of criminal activity in the Providence area. The agent, introduced through a career criminal who was loosely associated with various organized crime groups in the area, was unable to meet any of the major figures in on-going criminal conduct.

G6. It is doubtful that members of this criminal enterprise maintain permanent records. This is because many of the crimes committed are of the sort in which no records of any kind are kept, such as theft offenses, extortion and murder. While these offenses may result in physical evidence that could be seized with search warrants, such evidence would not indicate the participation of the leaders of the criminal enterprise. In such offenses such as gambling, which do involve at least some records, my experience and that of the other law enforcement officials who have investigated the bookmaking activities of this and other groups in the Providence area is that permanent records are rarely kept for long periods of time. When they are maintained, bookmakers immediately, before or during a physical search, attempt to destroy them. Destruction is facilitated by the use of water soluble or highly flammable "flash" paper to keep records. Even when records are seized, they are so cryptic and incomplete that they are difficult to interpret and are of little or no significance without further knowledge of the gamblers' activities and codes. Even the seizure of complete, readily understood records in this case would be ineffective to the purpose of this investigation. As with surveillance and undercover evidence, such records would do no more than indicate isolated criminal conduct by only a few of the members of this enterprise.

G7. I have met with attorneys of the Providence Field Office of the New England Organized Crime Strike Force concerning the potential of a grand jury investigation into the overall criminal enterprise directed by Raymond L.S. Patriarca. They advised that a successful grand jury investigation would be unlikely at this stage of the investigation because of the following:

(a) The only witnesses which could provide sufficient evidence of the many different aspects of criminal activity by this group are highly placed members of it who would not voluntarily testify based on the fact that it would involve confessing to major continuing criminal conduct.

(b) While evidence from such traditional investigative techniques as surveillances and searches, along with testimony from citizen witnesses might result in indictments against low-level associates of the enterprise, such indictments would not be against the major figures of this group.

(c) Sufficient facts are not now available to make an intelligent determination as to whether or not any of the subjects of the investigation should be compelled to testify pursuant to Title 18, United States Code, Sections 6002 and 6003. The roles of various individuals and the scope of their overall knowledge of the operation is simply not known enough to ensure that those compelled 1) can give admissible damaging testimony, 2) would testify rather than being held in contempt of court and 3) are not themselves so involved in criminal conduct that foregoing prosecution of them would be a miscarriage of justice.

(d) Even if the Assistant Attorney General were to authorize an application to the United States District Court for a compulsion order granting immunity, sufficient facts are not available to evaluate the truthfulness of any resulting testimony, so it is unlikely that perjury prosecutions could result in the event of a compelled witness lying to the grand jury.

G8. No previous application to any judge for authorization to intercept, or for approval of interception of, wire or oral communications involving any of the same persons, facilities or places specified in this application are known to the individual authorizing and making this application with the following exceptions:

H. Need for Surreptitious Entry to Install Oral Listening Devices

H1. As detailed above, the ground floor of [] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, is being used as a frequent meeting place by Raymond L. S. Patriarca, []

[] and their criminal associates. Affiant believes from his investigation and from information supplied to him by other Special Agents of the FBI, including sound technicians of the FBI, that effective interceptions of oral communications within the subject premises can only be accomplished by installation of interception and transmitting devices within the premises. The locations which are sought to be monitored by means of oral interception devices are: (1) the reception room, (2) the [] and (3) the [] (see paragraph H3).

H2. Affiant submits that based on the facts contained within this affidavit, that in order not to alert the subjects and, thus, thwart the entire purpose of the investigation, a surreptitious entry is necessary to install devices to intercept and transmit oral communications occurring within [] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

I. Requests

11. It is submitted: That the foregoing establishes probable cause that Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted] [redacted] and others unknown, are presently associated in an enterprise to conduct murder, robbery, gambling and other criminal activity in Rhode Island and elsewhere, and are planning, discussing and participating, directly and indirectly, in the conduct of their affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity including murder (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-23-1), robbery (General Laws of Rhode Island; 1956, 11-39-1), interstate travel in aid of racketeering (gambling) (Title 18, United States Code, Section 1952), theft from interstate shipment (Title 18, United States Code, Section 659) and are conspiring to do so in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1962(c) and 1962(d); that the premises known as [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, is being utilized by Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted] [redacted] and others unknown to discuss their illegal activities, and evidence of the above-described illegal enterprise will be obtained by the oral interception of Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted] [redacted] and others unknown within [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

12. It is requested that this court issue an order authorizing the interception of oral communications within the ground floor, [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, that will commence when through visual (including videocamera) surveillance it can be determined that one or more of the following individuals is within the subject premises:

Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted]

[redacted] The intercept-ptions of the oral communications shall be conducted in such a way as to minimize the interception of communications not otherwise subject to interceptions under Chapter 119 of Title 18, United States Code.

13. It is further requested that this court issue an order authorizing special agents of the FBI to use surreptitious means to enter the premises known as the ground floor, [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, for the sole purposes of: Surveying, installing, repairing, and/or removing devices to intercept and transmit oral communications occurring within [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. Such entries will not exceed three in number without further order of the court.

14. The order of this court authorizing the interception of oral communications at [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, should not terminate upon the first interception that reveals Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted]

[redacted]
[redacted] and others known and unknown are conspiring, planning, discussing and/or carrying out various acts in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1962(c) and 1962(d), but should continue until the interceptions reveal the identities of all the participants in the illegal enterprise and results in obtaining sufficient evidence to support a criminal prosecution for violations of Federal and State law, or for a period of 30 days from the signing of the order, whichever is earlier.

Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation

This is to inform you that pursuant to the power delegated to me by special designation by the Attorney General under the authority vested in him by Section 2516 of Title 18, United States Code, I have approved your request that authorization be granted for the filing of an application pursuant to the provisions of Section 2518 of Title 18, United States Code, for an order of the court authorizing the Federal Bureau of Investigation to intercept oral communications for a thirty (30) day period from the premises known as the [redacted] located at [redacted] Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, in connection with the investigation into possible violations of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(c) and 1962(d) [the 1962 predicate offenses being violations of Rhode Island murder and robbery statutes and being violations of 18 U.S.C. §§ 659 and 1952], by Raymond L.S. Patriarca, [redacted]

as yet unknown.

You are also advised that the application for an interception order filed by the supervising attorney is to include a request that the order providing for the interception specifically authorize surreptitious entry for the purpose of installing and removing any electronic interception devices to be utilized in accomplishing the oral interception.

With Patriarca power fading, mob figures scramble for control

Journal-Bulletin Staff Writer

PROVIDENCE — A growing number of law-enforcement experts believe the New York mob is considering a takeover of the rackets in New England now that Raymond L.S. Patriarca is succumbing to a host of physical and legal maladies.

In fact, they say there are indications that several New York mob figures began to make their move last year and that Patriarca's recent troubles may only be hastening a transition already in progress.

Others, however, are more cautious. Patriarca, they point out, has been New England's undisputed crime boss for more than a quarter of a century and no crime faction in the nation would dare attempt a takeover as long as he is alive.

ACCORDING TO THIS school, New York will move into New England only if "things get out of hand" and an all-out battle ensues for Patriarca's throne.

If the transition is smooth, they say, Boston — not Providence — will be the capital of organized crime in New England and the crime bosses in New York will be content to take only a fraternal interest in the affairs of the New England mob.

The loyalty that Patriarca demanded

and got from the thugs who surrounded him, his ability to manipulate politicians and sometimes even police and judges, and his prestige within the highest councils of organized crime in the nation have enabled him to keep his empire free of outside mob interference all those years.

Even New York's five powerful mob families, constantly on the lookout for lucrative new territories, were kept at bay.

But the days of independence for New England's crime network, say some of the experts, will die with Patriarca. It won't be long, they say, before New England's bookmakers, loansharks, hijackers and hitmen will answer to the mob bosses of New York.

THAT THE New York mob has expansionist tendencies and that New England would be a next logical step is considered a given by many law-enforcement experts.

The word among the experts in 1978 was that New York mobsters were casting a covetous glance toward Atlantic City and its burgeoning gambling industry. There was only one problem — Angelo Spada, Philadelphia's "don" of peace" who had controlled the rackets in Atlantic City and southern New Jersey for nearly as long as Patriarca had controlled New England.

Bruno, 72, was shot to death outside his home last March.

Just look at the map, declared one mob historian — even at the height of Patriarca's power, the rackets in most of Connecticut and even some of the rackets in Springfield, Mass., had been controlled out of New York.

BRUNO

Patriarca's territory, he pointed out, is virtually surrounded — the only island of independence is a megalopolis otherwise dominated by the New York mob.

That's why some observers think the big question — perhaps the only question — is who will run the day-to-day business of organized crime in New England on behalf of the new absentee crime lords.

Another school holds that the New York mob bosses are now so harassed by a revitalized police crackdown and so hosed by internal bickering that they would be reluctant, at least at this time, to try to annex any new territories.

IN FACT, one expert in New York noted that the troubles there recently forced some New York mobsters to cancel a planned push into the rackets controlled by the even more troubled California mob family of Dominick Brooklier — a family that saw its entire top echelon convicted last year on racketeering charges.

Those who foresee independence for the New England mob, at least for the near future, are inclined to believe that Genaro "Gerry" Angiulo will replace Patriarca. Angiulo, say federal officials, is Patriarca's underboss for operations in Boston.

That school of mob-watching also says that Boston will become the capital of the New England mob whether or not there is a takeover by New York.

Boston and the South Shore have long been the Wall Street of the New England mob and the gangsters there, they say, have been subservient to Providence only because Patriarca arbitrarily made his headquarters here.

With Patriarca gone, the argument continues, Boston will become the seat of power and Federal Hill will be relegated to branch-office status, with a subsequent loss of power for the gangsters who operate here.

Then there's the group that believes that a coalition of Rhode Island mob figures is interested in keeping Providence as the New England crime capital — and is powerful enough to do it.

IN THAT category, the names most prominently mentioned by the experts are Louis "Baby Shanks" Manocchilo and Gerard "Gerry" Quimette.

Manocchilo, 53, returned to Rhode Island a year and a half ago after a 10-year self-imposed exile, most of which he reportedly spent in the French Alps with periodic visits to New York.

Manocchilo, 53, fled the state after he and Patriarca were indicted in 1988 on a murder-conspiracy charge in the same case that eventually sent Patriarca to prison.

Manocchilo technically is still under indictment in that case and is out on bail. It is generally believed that the state is concerned about the quality of its evidence in the case and quietly has decided to postpone prosecution indefinitely.

Manocchilo, they say, draws his strength from a number of local mob luminaries. He also has remained close to Rudolph Sclarra, a top Patriarca associate who was indicted with Patriarca last month for the 1985 gangland slaying of Raymond "Baby" Curcio, and with Sclarra's old nemesis, Quimette, an increasingly powerful figure in recent years.

Although Quimette's gang, according to police, conspired several years ago to kill Sclarra, the two apparently have patched up their differences, at least for the time being.

Several local experts say that they would be surprised if Manocchilo and Quimette, with the backing of even a weakened Sclarra, would be content to let the power of the New England mob shift to Boston.

Other mob observers don't agree with any of that.

THEIR MONEY is on 53-year-old Nicholas L. "Nicky" Bianco, a Patriarca protégé who rose through the ranks of the New York mob during the 1960s and early '70s. They're convinced that Bianco has the inside track on whether or not New York takes over.

Bianco, according to officials of the U.S. Justice Department, ran the New England mob for Patriarca when the crime boss was in prison in the mid-1970s.

Until evidence began mounting in recent weeks about a New York takeover of the New England mob, most law enforcement experts agreed that Bianco was heir apparent to Patriarca's empire.

There have been persistent rumors, however, that when Bianco left New York for Rhode Island in the early '70s, his relationship with several New York mobsters was somewhat strained — that he had left, in fact, after an attempt was made on his life.

Still, there are many in law enforcement who believe Bianco would be the

New York mob's logical choice to run its soon-to-be-annexed New England territory and that he would run it, as Patriarca did, from Providence.

Bianco is the frontrunner, they say, because of both his past ties to top New York figures and his experience as titular head of the mob here during most of Patriarca's imprisonment.

Although there is some debate about Bianco's popularity among New York mobsters when he left, there is little debate about the power he once wielded there.

ACCORDING TO authorities in New York, Bianco was a capo in the crime family of Joseph Colombo, the mob boss who founded the Italian-American Civil Rights League and who was gunned down in front of Bianco, at a league rally in New York the following year.

COLOMBO

In fact, Bianco's New York mob ties were disclosed by Bianco himself when he reluctantly testified before a Brooklyn grand jury in 1970.

The following is a partial text, obtained by the Journal-Bulletin, of Bianco's testimony:

"Do you know an individual named Carlo Gambino (the former 'boss of bosses' in New York)?"

"Yes."

"How long have you known Mr. Gambino?"

"Quite a few years."

"Where do you know Mr. Gambino from?"

"I met him at a wake, maybe. Social events. Socially, I know him."

"When was the last time you met with Mr. Gambino?"

"The last time was Sunday."

"On last Sunday?"

"Yes."

"What's his?"

"At a christening."

"Whose christening?"

"Anthony Colombo's son or daughter. Daughter, I think."

"Is that any relation to Joe Colombo?"

"It is his son."

"Was Joe Colombo present?"

"Yes."
 "Mr. Gambino was present?"
 "He was there for a short time, yes."
 "Did Mr. Colombo and Mr. Gambino talk?"
 "I imagine they did, I don't know."
 "Did they go into a private conversation?"
 "Not to my knowledge, I didn't no-ties."

 Bianco, who was convicted on tax evasion charges in New York five years later, was brazen about his dealings with the Internal Revenue Service.
 "When was the last time you actually worked? In other words, that you drew a salary or that you owned a business? Do you remember, sir?"

ability for settling the Gallo-Profaci war and that he would pick Bianco to do the job is a testament to their power and prestige at the highest levels of organized crime in the country.
 The Gallo-Profaci war was an offshoot, on-again war that eventually would claim at least a dozen victims — a struggle of such bitterness that it would continue for more than a decade and rage even after the deaths of both Joseph Profaci and Joey Gallo.

many years before that."
 "Mr. Bianco?"
 "I worked many years ago but I don't remember exactly the details of it."
 "Mr. Bianco, you tell this grand jury that you make your living primarily from the truck. You don't work and you haven't been to the truck since last season, which was 1989 at Aqueduct?"
 "Yes."

The Profaci family had been controlling the rackets in South Brooklyn for 32 years and, in the early 1960s, Gallo and his men were the latest in a string of the family's enforcers.
 The Gallos, however, had long felt that they were not getting their fair share of the spoils from the Profaci organization and "Crazy Joey" Gallo and

A sharp dresser known for his collection of expensive shirts, Bianco opened a haberdashery on President Street in the heart of the Gallo stronghold. He quickly gained a reputation for toughness and was considered by authorities in New York to be a member of the Gallo mob.
 Bianco, say authorities in New York, stayed with the Gallo gang through at least the initial stages of the Gallo-Profaci war.
 In fact, 11 weeks after his Sept. 30, 1963, conversation in Providence with Patriarca, a Brooklyn grand jury returned several indictments against Bianco and 16 other reputed members of the Gallo mob. The charges: conspiring to kill 22 members of the Profaci family.

THE GALLOITES eventually pleaded guilty to lesser charges of conspiracy to assault in connection with that case and Bianco was sentenced a year later to a three-month prison term.
 Just when Bianco's role changed from Gallo mobster to peacemaker is not clear. From the bugged conversations, however, it seems that Bianco was in his role as mediator just prior to a new "boss" being named by the commission.

in New York — a boss to replace Gallo's old nemesis Profaci.
 That new boss, according to authorities in New York, would be Joseph Colombo and Bianco would become an important figure in Colombo's short and turbulent reign.
 At Patriarca's direction, Bianco's job was to bring Gallo's renegade gang into the fold under Colombo.
 Colombo, according to Harvey Aransson in his bestseller "The Killing of Joey Gallo," would soon win over most of the Gallos with his promise to reform the Profaci organization and "spread the bread around." The commission was pleased and Patriarca was confident that his peacemaking mission would work.
 But Bianco knew — and was trying to tell Patriarca in Providence on Sept. 30, 1963 — that nobody had made peace with Joey Gallo.
 Bianco's warning proved prophetic. Crazy Joey didn't get out of prison until 1971 and, as it turned out, he was no happier with Colombo than he was with Profaci.
 By this time, however, Bianco was no longer considered a lieutenant of the renegade Gallo mob. He was, by New York police accounts, an important figure in the "establishment" Colombo organization.

 BIANCO ALSO had begun to rub elbows with the political as well as the criminal elite of New York.
 By virtue of his association with Colombo and the mob's chief's sky-rocking success as leader of the controversial Italian-American Civil Rights League, Bianco began to find himself in the company of such political notables as former Vice President Hubert H. Rockefeller, then governor of New York, and former New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.
 Colombo had been pointing that he was a respectable businessman, that the concept of the Mafia was nonsense and that it was time for the government to stop persecuting Italian-Americans.
 One New York official, late about Colombo's following and the league's success at the time, declared:
 "Take Nick Bianco, one of the capos — in my book one of the toughest hoods in the family... Well, you wound up with Nick Bianco having his picture taken with Governor Rockefeller and one other with Mayor Lindsay. I don't know."
 According to Aransson, in New York, the "Mafia" that surrounded the Italian-American Civil Rights League was not the same as the Mafia of New York.

'Take Nick Bianco, one of the capos — in my book one of the toughest hoods in the family... well, you wound up with Nick Bianco having his picture taken with Governor Rockefeller and conferring with Mayor Lindsay'

"What do you do with your days? Like today, for instance? Yesterday? What did you do yesterday if you don't go to the track? You haven't been there. What do you do with your time?"
 "There is nothing on record that I could do with my time. I don't know exactly what I do with my time. I run around for my family — do things."
 "You must win quite heavily at the track, sir?"
 "I win."
 "I think I asked you this the last time. Did you file federal income taxes on your winnings?"
 "No, I didn't."
 "Do you intend to?"
 "I don't think so. I don't know. I may and I may not. What is in the future I don't know."
 The power that Bianco once wielded in New York also is evident in a conversation Bianco had with Patriarca in Providence in 1963 — a conversation that was bugged illegally by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
 The conversation dealt with the Gallo-Profaci gang war in New York, a war that the mob chieftains there asked Patriarca to mediate. Patriarca, according to the FBI, had sent Bianco to New York as his emissary.
 Until now, the conversation that took place on Sept. 30, 1963, held little meaning except for those few who were privy to the intrigues and power plays of organized crime.

his brother, Larry, were ambitious enough to try to do something about it.
 The peacemaking task of Patriarca and Bianco came after Profaci had died of cancer at the age of 72 and at a time when Joey and Larry Gallo were in prison.
 THE NATIONAL crime commission, as the mob hierarchy is known, had not yet named a new boss to replace Profaci, but the concern was that the Gallos would not give their allegiance to that new boss, no matter who he might be.
 That was the situation, according to the authorities, when Bianco deposited his .38-caliber revolver at a haberdashery on Alwells Avenue and walked down the street to Patriarca's National Cigarette Service office to discuss the matter on Sept. 30, 1963.
 The FBI, in summarizing that conversation, says Bianco first praised Larry Gallo, expressed confidence that "he'll be all right" and then reversed himself.
 BIANCO: "I know what he'll say. They will kill our men. These men will stay with him."
 PATRIARCA: "I'll get you all the guys you need... But the first guy down there gives you any abuse, kill him."
 BIANCO: "Even with the commission they might fight and die for a worthless thing... When Joey Gallo comes out, he'll cause trouble."
 PATRIARCA: "Remember that you have thousands of people on your side... In this thing of ours your love for your mother and father is one thing, your love for the family is a different kind of love."
 Bianco, who began his criminal career in Providence, was a member of the Gallo mob. He was a close associate of Joey Gallo and was involved in the Gallo-Profaci war. He was a close associate of Joey Gallo and was involved in the Gallo-Profaci war.

EVEN THE AGENTS who monitored the conversation couldn't be certain of its meaning. In most cases, only first names or nicknames were used.
 But history, and investigations at law started to concern the mob hierarchy. Mob leaders began to view both as a big mistake.

By midsummer of 1971, as preparations got under way for Joe Colombo's second annual Unity Day rally of the Italian American Civil Rights League, rumors persisted that Joey Gallo — by now out of jail — had been given a license to kill Colombo.

While 50,000 people had packed Columbus Circle the year before, Gambino and other bosses were now telling their followers to stay away from the rally. Meanwhile, Gallo and his associates were touring Brooklyn, urging merchants, dockworkers and others not to offer any support to the league.

June 28, the date set for the rally, had become a test of power between Colombo and the bosses and capos who were becoming disenchanted with him.

THE RALLY was to have started at noon, but it ended in a flurry of gunfire 15 minutes before it was due to start.

Colombo had arrived at Columbus Circle in a chauffeured limousine amid a burst of cheers from the crowd. He waved back and posed for a photographer who suddenly ran toward Colombo, pulled out a German automatic and fired three bullets into his head and neck.

Within seconds, another burst of shots rang out and Jerome Johnson, Colombo's would-be killer, lay dead at the feet of his gravely wounded target.

Bianco, Aranson wrote, "suffered a sharp loss of prestige" for not having prevented Colombo's shooting. Aranson said Bianco left the blood-drenched scene at Columbus Circle and rushed to a candy store in Brooklyn where police observed him consulting with the family's underboss — Charles "Charlie Lemon" Minceo.

There was little doubt among ranking members of the Colombo family that Joey Gallo had masterminded the shooting of their boss and they issued an "open contract" on Crazy Joey's life.

The contract was consummated on April 6, 1972.

Meanwhile, Patriarca was facing his own problems in Providence.

On March 3, 1969, he was sentenced to five years on a federal murder conspiracy conviction for the 1966 killing of Willie Marfeo. That August, he faced state charges of murder conspiracy for the killing of Anthony Metel and Randolph Marfeo, Willie's brother. Metel and Marfeo were gunned down in a Ponasset Avenue grocery store on April 20, 1968.

PATRIARCA REMAINED in prison for nearly six years, until Jan. 9, 1975. During much of that period Bianco, according to law enforcement authorities, ran the New England mob for him.

In 1975, Bianco ran into legal problems himself. He received a four-year federal sentence for failing to report income while he lived in New York between 1967 and 1971. Bianco was paroled in June of 1978 and returned to Rhode Island where he was hired as a part-time legal assistant to Providence lawyer John F. Cichline.

At the time, former U.S. Atty. Lincoln C. Almond had this to say of Bianco's new job:

"I think it's disgraceful. It's just a cover for an organized crime figure."

Many law enforcement authorities believe Bianco has resumed a key role in running the New England mob since he was released from federal prison 32 months ago; and whether or not the New York mob finally takes over when Patriarca steps down, they say, Bianco will still be the man to reckon with in Rhode Island.

1. PREDICATION:

Raymond L.S. Patriarca still maintains the position as head of OC in New England.

2. SUMMARY OF INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED TO DATE:

Patriarca has been determined to be too ill to stand trial or be a witness as was attempted by [redacted] in his recent trial. Patriarca's summer residence at Indian Lake Shore was surveilled over Labor Day weekend as the result of informant information that there was to be a large OC meeting with Patriarca because of the law enforcement activities in the Rhode Island and Boston, Massachusetts areas. Fisur reflected that there was no meeting although Patriarca was at his residence all weekend. [redacted] and [redacted] have personal contacts with Patriarca on a weekly basis.

3. INVESTIGATION TO BE CONDUCTED DURING NEXT 180 DAYS:

Continuation of spot check surveillances, coordinate investigation of other LCN cases which relates to Patriarca, maintain contact with sources and all law enforcement intelligence agencies regarding Patriarca and his criminal associates.

1. PREDICATION:

RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, although in ill health and limited to his Johnston, Rhode Island residence, is still the head of OC in New England.

2. SUMMARY OF INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED TO DATE:

PATRIARCA was interviewed at his residence by the Case Agent and found to be alert, responsive, and congenial. PATRIARCA is under prescriptive medication for angina and appeared to be of shortness in breath when he answered questions. PATRIARCA relates that he is not involved in anything that appears in the local papers. On 3/13/84, Superior Court Judge ELIZABETH J. DOLAN, New Bedford, Massachusetts, ruled that PATRIARCA's health is of such deterioration that he would not have to stand trial for a charge of being an accessory before the fact in a 1968 gangland murder of ROBERT "BOBBY" CANDOS. [redacted] PATRIARCA's physician, states that PATRIARCA is suffering from blockage of arteries supplying blood to the brain, coronary artery disease, diabetes, chronic depression, and other problems. Physical surveillance of PATRIARCA's residence reflects that [redacted] vehicle appears there regularly.

3. INVESTIGATION TO BE CONDUCTED DURING NEXT 180 DAYS:

Continue to follow the condition of PATRIARCA's health, spot check surveillances, maintain contact with other law enforcement agencies regarding his associates.

PREDICATION:

RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, SR. died of a heart attack on 7/11/84; was waked at BERARDUCCI FUNERAL HOME, 477 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, on 7/13/84; and was buried at GATE OF HEAVEN CEMETARY, East Providence, Rhode Island, on 7/14/84.

SUMMARY OF INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED TO DATE:

Photographic and physical surveillance was conducted by law enforcement agencies and the news media of both the wake and funeral. Videotape and numerous still photographs were taken and obtained from other agencies for identification of LCN members and associates. Some LCN figures have been interviewed concerning the possible leadership of the New England OC Family. Sources have advised that presently RAYMOND J.C. PATRIARCA (capo) has been allowed to be a figure head of the OC family at this time because [redacted] (capo), Providence, Rhode Island, and GERRY ANGUILO (capo), Boston, Massachusetts, are presently in jail awaiting murder trials.

INVESTIGATION TO BE CONDUCTED DURING NEXT 180 DAYS:

Will continue to maintain contact with other law enforcement agencies in an effort to identify LCN members and associates at the wake and funeral. Will continue to interview OC members and associates to determine the new leadership of the OC Family of New England. Will maintain contact with sources and law enforcement officials regarding the OC leadership.

GENERAL

All photographic work must be submitted under the substantive case caption when it relates to an investigative matter. Include FBIHQ file number when available. All other photographic processing forms (including FD-482) are obsolete and should not be used. The FD-523 is to be utilized for all photographic processing work forwarded to FBIHQ except employee identification and/or credential cards. Requests for official FBI identification and credential cards must be submitted on form FD-464, Attention: Property Procurement and Management Section.

The FD-523 may be filled out in legible hand printing or typing so that all six pages can be read. The following information is set forth to assist in properly filling out this form. Remove third sheet only (yellow field-copy) and submit the remaining five pages.

1. ENCLOSED PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK RELATES TO:

- All photographic work submitted should be checked as Current Investigation, Mug Shot, or OTHER in appropriate block. If "OTHER" is checked a short description of what it is should be stated under item #4 (Remarks).

2. ENCLOSURE(S):

Film To Be Processed - Check appropriate column for Color, Black and White film, alongside the size of the film. Also, indicate the number of sheets or rolls or cassettes in the quantity column. Slides refer to EKTACHROME ONLY, DO NOT SEND KODACHROME.

Movie Film Or Microfilm - Check appropriate block for size and quantity. DO NOT SEND COLOR MOVIE FILM.

Negatives To Be Printed - Check appropriate block for size, Color or Black and White and quantity submitted. If 135mm negatives are to be printed, indicate by frame number, do not cut up into individual frames. The same applies to any roll film.

Other - Enclosures to be copied e.g. photographs, documents, objects, etc.

3. WORK REQUESTED:

Processing - Only means to develop the film and NO COPIES or PRINTS e.g. microfilm.

Process and Print - Means to develop film and make one or more prints.

Slides To Be Processed - Means Ektachrome film to be developed and slides mounted.

Slides To Be Duplicated - Means process slide film and make one or more duplicates of each slide.

Prints To Be Made - From 135, 126 and 110 film, check size 3 1/2 x 5 or 5 x 7. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers. Check Color or Black and White.

From 120 and 4x5 Film - Check size 4x5 or 8x10 and indicate Color or Black and White. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers.

Slides - Prints made directly from slides. Machine prints can be made in sizes 3 1/2 x 5, 5x7 and 8x10.

Custom Prints - From any size negative or slide, indicate quantity and size of prints either Color or Black and White. Custom prints are available in various sizes but require extensive special handling. This type of printing is done on special request and proper justification must be furnished under item #4 (Remarks).

4. REMARKS:

Justification for custom prints. Any special instruction or short description of "other" photographic work in item #1 of this form.

No Personal Work should be submitted for processing. Any requests which may be misinterpreted as personal in nature should be explained and approval granted by the Special Agent in Charge or his/her designee.

GENERAL

All photographic work must be submitted under the substantive case caption when it relates to an investigative matter. Include FBIHQ file number when available. All other photographic processing forms (including FD-482) are obsolete and should not be used. The FD-523 is to be utilized for all photographic processing work forwarded to FBIHQ except employee identification and/or credential cards. Requests for official FBI identification and credential cards must be submitted on form FD-464, Attention: Property Procurement and Management Section.

The FD-523 may be filled out in legible hand printing or typing so that all six pages can be read. The following information is set forth to assist in properly filling out this form. Remove third sheet only (yellow field copy) and submit the remaining five pages.

1. ENCLOSED PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK RELATES TO:

All photographic work submitted should be checked as Current Investigation, Mug Shot, or OTHER in appropriate block. If "OTHER" is checked a short description of what it is should be stated under item #4 (Remarks).

2. ENCLOSURE(S):

Film To Be Processed - Check appropriate column for Color, Black and White film, alongside the size of the film. Also, indicate the number of sheets or rolls or cassettes in the quantity column. Slides refer to EKTACHROME ONLY, DO NOT SEND KODACHROME.

Movie Film Or Microfilm - Check appropriate block for size and quantity. DO NOT SEND COLOR MOVIE FILM.

Negatives To Be Printed - Check appropriate block for size, Color or Black and White and quantity submitted. If 135mm negatives are to be printed, indicate by frame number, do not cut up into individual frames. The same applies to any roll film.

Other - Enclosures to be copied, e.g. photographs, documents, objects, etc.

3. WORK REQUESTED:

Processing - Only means to develop the film and NO COPIES or PRINTS e.g. microfilm.

Process and Print - Means to develop film and make one or more prints.

Slides To Be Processed - Means Ektachrome film to be developed and slides mounted.

Slides To Be Duplicated - Means process slide film and make one or more duplicates of each slide.

Prints To Be Made - From 135, 126 and 110 film, check size 3½x5 or 5x7. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers. Check Color or Black and White.

From 120 and 4x5 Film - Check size 4x5 or 8x10 and indicate Color or Black and White. These are the only size prints available from our machine printers.

Slides - Prints made directly from slides. Machine prints can be made in sizes 3½x5, 5x7 and 8x10.

Custom Prints - From any size negative or slide; indicate quantity and size of prints either Color or Black and White. Custom prints are available in various sizes but require extensive special handling. This type of printing is done on special request and proper justification must be furnished under item #4 (Remarks).

4. REMARKS:

Justification for custom prints. Any special instruction or short description of "other" photographic work in item #1 of this form.

No Personal Work should be submitted for processing. Any requests which may be misinterpreted as personal in nature should be explained and approval granted by the Special Agent in Charge or his/her designee.

On October 4 - 22, 1976, during the course of an investigation being conducted by the Los Angeles Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in conjunction with the Los Angeles Strike Force, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] was interviewed. [REDACTED] who at the time was in the Witness Protection Program, was extensively debriefed in a 500 page interview, the context of which concerned [REDACTED] intricate and complicated financial manipulations involving insurance companies, labor unions and prominent figures such as [REDACTED] b6 b7C [REDACTED] Jack Anderson, b6 b7C noted Washington, D.C. television and newspaper columnist; Frank Fitzsimmons, and Carlos Marcello, reputed head of the New Orleans organized crime family.

During the course of the interview, [REDACTED] related b6 b7C
how from 1974 to 1976, [REDACTED] was able to secure various b6 b7C
Taft-Hartley Union benefit plan contracts for the Farmers' b6 b7C National Life Insurance Company. Farmers' National was a small insurance company over which [REDACTED] obtained control.
This company was licensed to do business in six states which were located in the southeastern part of the country. [REDACTED] initially secured a number a policies from carpenters' and b6 laborers' unions through his association with [REDACTED] b7C a prominent labor official in southeast Florida. [REDACTED] was later convicted of crimes involving these Taft-Hartley trust funds. In 1975 [REDACTED] was able to expand his operations into the northeast and midwest through a re-insurance or "fronting" agreement with the Old Security Life Insurance Company of Kansas City, Missouri. Through this agreement he was able to acquire millions of dollars in insurance premiums from various labor unions. Again, [REDACTED] was able to secure these policies in these areas through his close b6 association with prominent members of the Laborers' Inter- b7C national Union of North America and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. In an effort to secure his own national insurance company through which he could conduct his operations, [REDACTED] undertook a venture to acquire the Great American Life Insurance Company of New Jersey. Failing in this acquisition, he later acquired the National American Life Insurance Company, New Orleans, Louisiana.

In summary, [REDACTED] provided information relating b6 b7C to third party ownerships and questionable financial trans- b7C actions on the part of the following companies, individuals, b7C

attended a meeting with the New Jersey insurance commissioner to help [redacted] acquire the Great American Life Insurance Company. Also, [redacted] had attempted to secure $6 million in financing so that [redacted] could acquire that company. The acquisition package which was presented to a number of banks including the Citizens' Bank of Providence, Rhode Island was believed to have been fraudulent. [redacted] also indicated that [redacted] was to receive 4% ownership of the National American Life Insurance Company. b6 b7C

On April 15, 1977, in conjunction with the Los Angeles investigation, [redacted] attorney at law, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, was interviewed. During the course of the interview, [redacted] denied any stock ownership in the National American Life Insurance Company or any involvement with Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc., the insurance company set up by [redacted] in Providence, Rhode Island. He stated that [redacted] retained him as an attorney, and that he attempted to secure financing of $6 million for [redacted] purchase of the Great American Life Insurance Company. He recalled presenting the acquisition package to [redacted] at the People's Bank and [redacted] of the Citizens' Bank and Trust, Providence, Rhode Island. b6 b7C

On April 18, 1977, [redacted] Citizens' Bank and Trust, Providence, Rhode Island, was interviewed. He recalled meeting in March or April of 1976 with [redacted] and others in [redacted] office. He stated that the group was attempting to obtain a $5 million loan and that the loan limit at the Citizens' Bank was only $1.4 million. He declined to comment on whether the package presented to him was fraudulent on its face. b6 b7C

On April 20, 1977, [redacted] was interviewed. He advised that [redacted] brought a package to him in an attempt to obtain a $6 million loan for [redacted] acquisition of a New Jersey insurance company. He stated that his bank was not interested in granting the loan inasmuch as the purchase was for an insurance company not to be located in Rhode Island. b6 b7C

On June 2, 1977, Special Attorney [redacted] New England Strike Force, Boston, Massachusetts, advised that he was in receipt of an interview of [redacted] via the Los Angeles Strike Force. [redacted] requested that he be kept apprised of the investigation in the New England area. b6 b7C

On July 1, 1977, [redacted]

[redacted] Farmers' National Life Insurance Company, was interviewed in the presence of his attorney at Providence, Rhode Island. During the interview, [redacted] advised that in July, 1974, he [redacted] the Farmers' National Life Insurance Company at the request of [redacted]. He stated that in the Spring of 1975, [redacted] put him in contact with [redacted] of the Massachusetts Laborers' at Miami, Florida. He showed [redacted] the Farmers' National Life Insurance Company facilities and explained to him what figures would be need to come up with the cost of the insurance contract. [redacted] put him in touch with [redacted] Martin E. Segal Company. They sent him the needed specifications to bid on the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract. [redacted] recalled dinner with [redacted] as well as attending a Sons of Italy testimonial where he was introduced to [redacted]. [redacted] advised that he was currently employed at the London Insurance Agency.

On October 10, 1977 at Washington, D.C.; hearings before the permanent Sub-Committee on Investigations of the Committee on Governmental Affairs, United States Senate, 95th Congress, First Session, began on labor union insurance. These hearings concluded on November 4, 1977. The transcripts of these hearings are contained in two volumes comprising 1,209 pages of testimony, affidavits and exhibits. The hearings dealt with the labor union activities of [redacted] and his associates. During the course of the hearings, [redacted] testified about [redacted] activities in New England. On Page 345 he indicated that [redacted] told him that the Northeast Insurance Agency and National Group Insurance Agency were intended recipients of stock in the National Pacific Corporation, an agency organized in June, 1976 by [redacted] to acquire a Louisiana based insurance company. On Page 347 [redacted] stated that [redacted] and [redacted] [redacted] the Northeast Insurance Agency. He went on to explain that [redacted] told him that [redacted] instructed him to open the insurance office and agreed to pay certain expenses. [redacted] also related to him how [redacted] insurance agency would become the controlling agency for business that Farmers' would write nationwide.

[REDACTED] These meetings were held prior to Tolley's appearance at a meeting of the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund in which they recommended group permanent life insurance.

On October 20, 1977, [REDACTED] Investigator, Insurance Commissioner's Office, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, voluntarily appeared at the Boston Office of the FBI. [REDACTED] advised that as a result of a newspaper article relating to National Group Insurance Agency, Inc., 222 Lewis Wharf, Boston, he had been sent by [REDACTED] the Insurance Commissioner's Office to check out the agency. According to the records, National Group Insurance Agency was not licensed in Massachusetts. [REDACTED] stated that the premises of National Group had been abandoned and the records confiscated by the landlord. The Los Angeles Division was contacted and notified of the above facts. At that time, the Los Angeles Division indicated that their investigation was not directed towards National Group Insurance Agency, Inc.

On May 10, 1978, Roger A. Nault, former Labor Relations Consultant, Coia and LePore, Ltd., Providence Rhode Island, advised that sometime prior to June, 1976, [REDACTED] had met with an individual by the name of [REDACTED]. After meeting [REDACTED] came to Nault and told him that bigger and better things would be coming. [REDACTED] stated that he would be a millionaire. [REDACTED] also advised that he desired to set up an insurance company whose true owners would not be known. [REDACTED] stated that he would make [REDACTED] president. Nault advised that the stockholders of this insurance agency would be [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] advised that at a later point, Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. was set up along with its holding company, Norcorp Equities, Inc. Nault recalled that he was given a list of the stockholders but told not to issue any other stock certificates. Nault stated that he did issue 600 shares of Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. stock to Norcorp Equities, Inc.

Nault also provided checking account records from [REDACTED] clients account to which the proceeds of money received from [REDACTED] were deposited. It was noted that $75,000 was received from the Diplomat Bank, Washington, D.C. The bulk of this money went from this account to [REDACTED] ($16,500), [REDACTED] ($26,800), [REDACTED] ($20,000), [REDACTED] ($5,000), [REDACTED] ($5,000), and [REDACTED] ($1,200).

A subsequent review of records at the State House, Boston, Massachusetts, disclosed that National Group Insurance Agency, Inc. was incorporated on March 24, 1975. The purpose of the corporation was to act exclusively as an insurance agent and as an insurance broker. The officers of the corporation were listed as follows:

President - Joseph J. Vaccaro, Jr.
2 Rangeley Ridge
Winchester, Massachusetts

Treasurer - Joseph J. Vaccaro, Jr.

Clerk - Joseph T. Travaline
87 Thornberry Road
Winchester, Massachusetts

Vice-President - Michael H. Bonacorso, Jr.
8 Cabot Road
Stoneham, Massachusetts

The initial principal office of the corporation was located at 6 Pleasant Street, Suite 514, Malden, Massachusetts. By letter dated December 16, 1975, notice was given that the new address of National Group Insurance Agency was 222 Lewis Wharf, Boston, Massachusetts.

During March and April, 1979, [REDACTED] was interviewed by Bureau Agents from the Los Angeles Division. At that time, he indicated that he had had an agreement with [REDACTED] up in an insurance agency as a "front" and partner. [REDACTED] would receive cash from time to time. He also described the meetings with [REDACTED] and Raymond Patriarca. He also indicated that [REDACTED] Rhode Island [REDACTED] was [REDACTED] b6

[redacted] also told [redacted] that if he could not come up with the money to purchase the Great American Life Insurance Company he would arrange for him to obtain money from union funds. He also stated that [redacted] was set up in the National Group Insurance Agency, Inc. as a means to get money to [redacted]. He described [redacted] as a "bag man" for [redacted] stated that on at least 20 occasions, [redacted] picked up money to deliver [redacted] indicated that each pick up was in the amount of between $1,000 and $1,500. [redacted] also stated that he never retained [redacted] as an attorney. He stated that [redacted] told him that he and [redacted] were [redacted] Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. also held stock in National Pacific Agency as a payoff in return for union business.

On July 19, 1979, [redacted] was interviewed. She advised that in her opinion, [redacted] was the individual who set up Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. She stated that she believes that he had signed the lease for the premises and that he had secured the furniture. She stated that in conversations with [redacted] that [redacted] was quite disturbed about [redacted] indicating a newspaper article that [redacted] was responsible for the agency. At that time, [redacted] agreed to cooperate with the FBI in their investigation of [redacted] and the Laborers' International Union of North America. She has provided information to Bureau Agents about the activities of [redacted] on a continuing basis.

On May 21, 1979, [redacted] advised that she met [redacted] in the spring of 1974 and was hired by [redacted] in the early part of 1975 as [redacted] National Group Insurance Agency, Inc. [redacted] stated that main goal of National Group was to sell a whole life insurance plan to the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund. On July 20, 1979, [REDACTED] advised that he recalled a casual conversation concerning the organization of an insurance agency. However, he is not aware that the agency was ever set up in offices in Providence. [REDACTED] has never heard of a company by the name of Norcorp Equities. It was pointed out to [REDACTED] that this name appeared on the Articles of Incorporation of the Northeast Insurance Agency and Norcorp as an officer and/or director of the aforementioned company. On a subsequent interview, [REDACTED] indicated that he was beginning to recall more details about the insurance company and his role in it. He stated that he had had a discussion with [REDACTED] regarding his interview with the FBI.

[redacted] advised that she did not do much work at Northeast because there was very little work to be done. [redacted] advised that [redacted] was in the Northeast offices more than [redacted] who was only there once during the entire time she worked there.

On October 10, 1979, [redacted] BayBank Middlesex, Burlington, Massachusetts, advised that he came to [redacted] of the Farmers' National Life Insurance Company as a result of his bank's association with [redacted]. He indicated [redacted] sat on an advisory board of BayBank Middlesex in the Somerville, Massachusetts area. [redacted] stated [redacted] wanted BayBank to handle the account for the Old Security Life Insurance Company contract with the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund. [redacted] stated there was never an account opened at BayBank for Farmers' National Life Insurance Company. [redacted] indicated his purpose on the Board of Directors of Farmers' National Life was to protect the depository nature of the relationship and to act as a buffer between BayBank's Loan Department and Farmers' National Life Insurance Company. Initially, Farmers' National Life wanted a loan officer representing BayBank on the Board of Directors.

On October 12, 1979, [redacted] was interviewed. [redacted] advised that he was first introduced to [redacted] in August, 1974. In the early part of 1975, [redacted] set up National Group Insurance Agency in Boston, Massachusetts to be funded by [redacted]. By law, it is necessary to be a licensed agent in order to open up an insurance agency. [redacted] not being licensed, hired [redacted] a licensed insurance agent, and established National Group. The employees at National Group were [redacted] who wrote brochures and worked on insurance proposals and [redacted] who was [redacted] and handled bookkeeping duties.

Regarding the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract, [REDACTED] stated that his role was to arrange for the Old Security Life Insurance Company to submit a bid. [REDACTED] stated that he contacted [REDACTED] the Massachusetts Laborers' District Council, and [REDACTED] Fund Trustee, regarding Old Security Life Insurance Company and the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract.

[REDACTED] stated that Old Security was the low bidder on the Massachusetts Laborers' contract and was subsequently awarded the contract. At first [REDACTED] felt National Group was going to receive some commissions, however, none were ever realized. By this time, [REDACTED] had become difficult to contact and was not providing financing for National Group. [REDACTED] stated that he wanted out of the insurance business. In total [REDACTED] believes that National Group received approximately $85,000 in financing from [REDACTED]

On October 18, 1979, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Milton, Massachusetts, advised that he is an employer trustee for the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund and was a trustee in 1975 when the fund put the insurance contract out to bid. [REDACTED] stated that Old Security Life Insurance Company was the low bidder on the contract and included a bid on the whole life insurance alternate. In spite of the recommendations against whole life by the co-counsel to the fund, consultants to the fund, and the Laborers' International Union, [REDACTED] the Massachusetts Laborers' District Council and [REDACTED] of the Laborers' International Union, argued in favor of it. In [REDACTED] opinion, the trustees were pressured by [REDACTED] to favor whole life insurance for the fund.

if [REDACTED] argued strongly in favor of whole life, nor if [REDACTED] appeared before the trustees of the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund on behalf of whole life. [REDACTED] stated, however, the union trustees argued strongly in favor of the whole life concept. [REDACTED] stated that he remembers voting against whole life a number of times. He received a telephone call from [REDACTED] in which [REDACTED] told him that he had an interest in the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract. [REDACTED] felt the whole life insurance was expensive in cost and not acceptable for a health and welfare fund.

b7C

On various dates in October, 1979, [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] declined to be interviewed by Bureau Agents and were subsequently subpoenaed to testify before a Federal Grand Jury in Boston, Massachusetts.

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] advised that he had been an employer-trustee of the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund in 1975 when the fund had voted to award its $6 million insurance contract to the Old Security Life Insurance Company. [REDACTED] stated that he felt that there were many unanswered questions regarding the whole life insurance of Old Security. He stated he could not understand why the fund would consider whole life after receiving telegrams from the Laborers' International Union of North America, headquarters in Washington, D.C., recommending against whole life insurance. For these reasons, [REDACTED] stated he voted against whole life on the first vote of the board and abstained on the second vote. It is [REDACTED] opinion that the union tried to run the whole life insurance through at the very first meeting it was brought up.

At no time did anyone threaten him with the loss of his job. [REDACTED] advised that he voted in favor of whole life on two occasions since it was the opinion of the labor side that whole life would be a good thing for the union members.

b7C

On November 19, 1979, [REDACTED] Martin E. Segal Company, advised that Union Labor Life Insurance Company submitted a rate renewal proposal to the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund in the latter part of 1974. As a result, the Massachusetts Laborers' insurance contract was put out on the market to bid. Martin E. Segal Company was authorized to solicit bids and to include proposals for whole life insurance. Martin E. Segal sent the proposals to a number of insurance companies, including the Old Security Life Insurance Company which was recommended by [REDACTED]. Old Security was the low bidder on the contract and included a whole life proposal.

[REDACTED] stated that Martin E. Segal submitted reports to the trustees evidencing the excessive cost of whole life insurance and the impractical nature of this type of coverage for a fund such as the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund. As a result, the trustees called in a second consulting firm, Tolley International Corp., represented by [REDACTED] who made a presentation to the trustees recommending whole life insurance and the Old Security Life Insurance Company. [REDACTED] advised that the union trustees and [REDACTED] were in favor of whole life and Old Security, while the Laborers' International Union sent telegrams to the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund advising against whole life. On October 30, 1975 at a trustee meeting, the topic of whole life insurance was dropped and Old Security was awarded the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract excluding whole life.

On December 14, 1979, [redacted] Esquire, advised that [redacted] Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund as co-counsel for 15 years. [redacted] stated that his position on whole life insurance and Old Security Life Insurance Company was the same as that of Martin E. Segal Company, the consultant to the fund, and no relation to him. He felt that there were many unanswered questions concerning the taxability of the policy to the holder and questions concerning Old Security in general. He also stated that costs were excessive and would result in deficit spending. [redacted] advised that [redacted] [redacted] were strongly in favor of whole life and Old Security. At the same time, telegrams were received from [redacted] Laborers' International Union of North America, advising against the inclusion of whole life. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that the Tolley International Corporation, a second consulting firm represented by [redacted] and recommended by [redacted] was called in and made a presentation to the trustees recommending whole life insurance for the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund. [redacted] stated that he was not aware of a re-insurance agreement between Old Security and Farmers' National Life during the negotiations of the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract. He indicated that the concept of whole life was brought up by the union trustees. [REDACTED] stated that in his opinion the whole life insurance was excessive in cost and resulted in a deficit spending and was not tailored for a benefit fund such as the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund. [REDACTED] stated that he is not aware of any unusual pressures exerted over the trustees, nor is he aware of any situations concerning threats of loss of jobs, bribery, or pay-offs involving himself, trustees or anybody else to vote in a certain manner or use their influence to insure the awarding of the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract to Old Security Life Insurance Company.

in Romulus, Michigan, [redacted] in speeches and in private gatherings talked about an investment in Alaska by [redacted] currently [redacted] LIUNA. [redacted] allegedly purchased property in Alaska for $3 million dollars and through a series of resales the property was eventually purchased for $9 million dollars by the Alaska Laborers Pension Fund. Source understood that the resale feature was done to increase the value of the property and also to hide the fact that [redacted] was really the owner. It is generally known that the Alaska Laborers Pension Fund is large in assets due to the recent construction of the Alaska Pipeline. [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted] an attorney for the LIUNA, attempted to block [redacted] appearance at the conference, however, [redacted] appeared and spoke as scheduled.

Source advised that in May, 1980, several of the elected officers of LIUNA along with Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall went to the White House at which time the laborers provided a public statement showing support for the reelection of President Jimmy Carter. Source believes that the LIUNA contingent met with Vice President Walter Mondale and he is unaware of any direct contact with the President by the union people. The source is also unaware of the LIUNA support being made available as general public information. Source has advised that that between October 13-17, 1980, the LIUNA, for the reelection of President Carter, contributed $125,000. Source has been unable to determine to whom the check was directed or exactly when. Source has heard that at least $80,000 of the $125,000 contribution came from the general fund and the balance came from other sources such as cashing bonds or investments. Source is also under the belief that the funds may have been "washed" through an LIUNA program for getting out to vote.

Source advised that the recent acquittal of the defendants in the Brilab trial in Houston, Texas, has caused clation with offices of the LIUNA. Various parts of a transcript are floating around in Washington, part of which the source was able to obtain and provide to the FBI. From the transcript provided it appears that it is possibly the public testimony of Joseph Houser which would have occurred in the U.S.D.C., Houston, Texas.

The enclosures relating to the Committee Against Brilab and Abscam are being provided to the Boston Division for information purposes since some of the information provided by the source in this communication relates to this committee.

The source providing the information herein is [redacted] Division requests that any use of the information provided by him be handled in a way as not to identify [redacted] Division as being the division which contacts the source since he is in a highly placed sensitive position. b2 b7C

During contacts with the source in October, 1980, source advised that [redacted] is very close to a person by the name of [redacted] (phonetic), who is associated with [redacted] Source is aware that [redacted] is contacting union officials in an effort to solicit funds from these officials to support the committee. Source understands that [redacted] was instrumental in providing a $1,000 donation to the [redacted] which came from the Massachusetts Laborers District Council. [redacted] as well as [redacted] representative for the committee has been trying to get a member from the LIUNA executive board as a director for [redacted] To date the source is unaware of any executive board member from the LIUNA who has accepted the offer. b6 b7C b7D

The source advised that between October 24-26, 1980, at the Ramada Metropolitan Motel in Romulus, Michigan, there was held the First National Conference of Union Democracy. Source describes the conference as a coalition of all dissident union factions. These factions came from all of the major labor unions in the United States. As noted from a program of speakers, [redacted] a dissident [redacted] was one of the speakers. [redacted] is mentioned in the [redacted] issue of the magazine "Mother Jones" which features an article, [redacted] belongs to Laborers Local [redacted] LIUNA, and is a very vocal dissident [redacted]. The LIUNA at one time was attempting to take his union book; however, that effort failed or was abandoned by the LIUNA. While at the meeting b6 b7C

The information provided by the source concerning the alleged [REDACTED] property investment in Alaska as well as the [REDACTED] political campaign contribution by the LIUNA to the committee to reelect President Carter is being provided to the Bureau in the event that this information would be of any value to any investigation being conducted.

Enclosed for the Bureau are one copy each of Prosecutive Memo dated 5/19/81 to [REDACTED] Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, U.S. Department of Justice from [REDACTED] Strike Force, Boston, Massachusetts and accompanying 10 page indictment.

On 5/28/81 Strike Force Chief [REDACTED] advised that he anticipated indictments in the above captioned matter within the next three weeks pending approval by USDOJ. [REDACTED] noted that the above case together with the Miami and a third Strike Force case involving [REDACTED] are under review by a USDOJ Attorney who specializes in labor law cases.

This review was prompted by complaints from the Laborers Union of North America which indicated that they were being singled out by USDOJ for prosecution.

FBIHQ will be kept apprised of any further developments in this matter.

AS OF JULY, 1981, THE BOSTON PORTION OF THIS MULTI DIVISIONAL CASE WAS TRANSFERRED TO BE PROSECUTED IN MIAMI BY A REPRESENTATIVE FROM THE STRIKE FORCE 18 OUT OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, WASHINGTON, D.C. THIS TRANSFER WAS CONSIDERED DESIRABLE TO "STRENGTHEN" THE PROSECUTIVE POTENTIAL OF EACH PORTION OF THE OVERALL NATIONAL CASE.
BY CONSOLIDATING PROSECUTION AT MIAMI, IT WAS BELIEVED THIS HIGHLY COMPLEX CRIMINAL SCHEME COULD BE PRESENTED TO A SINGLE JURY AS ONE PACKAGE WHICH WOULD NOT ONLY REQUIRE LESS PROSECUTIVE EXPENSE, BUT ALSO INCREASE THE POTENTIAL OF A JURY UNDERSTANDING THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE SCHEME AND THE DEVASTATING IMPACT OF THE CRIMINAL ACT IF THE SCHEME HAD BEEN ACHIEVED.

IT IS ANTICIPATED THAT ON SEPTEMBER 23, 1981, A FEDERAL GRAND JURY SITTING AT MIAMI, FLORIDA, WILL RETURN A TRUE BILL CHARGING FIVE PERSONS WITH ONE COUNT OF RICO-CONSPIRACY, THAT IS, TITLE 18, SECTION 1962 D, USC. ON THE SAME DATE, THE U.S. DISTRICT COURT,

THE BUREAU AND ALL OFFICES ARE ADVISED WHEN ALL FIVE PERSONS ARE ARRESTED SO THAT THE INDICTMENT CAN BE UNSEALED AT MIAMI. NO

INFORMATIVE NOTE

[REDACTED]

The Miami Office advised in their 6/3/81 teletype that Santo Trafficante LCN boss, Tampa, Florida, [REDACTED] Consigliere, Chicago LCN family and 13 others were indicted on one count of RICO and conspiracy. This indictment is the result of testimony from [REDACTED] the primary witness in the Brillab investigation. [REDACTED] interacted with the defendants in setting up an insurance company to provide coverage to the rank and file of the Laborers' International Union of North America (LIUNA) which necessitated payoffs and kickbacks to the LIUNA officials, to the LCN members, and to the various consultants and administrators of LIUNA funds.

The attached Boston teletype reflects that Federal Grand Jury, Miami, Florida, will be returning a true bill today, charging New England LCN boss, Raymond Patriarca, [REDACTED] [REDACTED] of LIUNA, [REDACTED] and three others with one count of RICO conspiracy. The indictment will be sealed. Warrants for arrest will be issued by the United States District Court, Southern District of Florida on 9/23/81, and arrests of these subjects are contemplated on 9/24/81. This indictment is also the result of [REDACTED]

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

- A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- C - All others

Claiming Convictions Other Than Federal:

It is permissible to claim a local (state, county or local) conviction if the FBI's investigation significantly contributed to the successful local prosecution. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for claiming a local conviction must accompany this report. When claiming a conviction other than Federal, enter the word "LOCAL" in the "Conviction-Section" block, disregard the number of conviction counts, but enter the sentence in the appropriate blocks. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for all capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

- 1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
- 2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IATs) Used:

-Since more than one IAT could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IAT must be rated.

-The IAT used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Re: RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

On 9/29/81, a Federal Grand Jury, Miami, Florida returned a true bill, charging New England LCN boss, Raymond Patriarca, [redacted]

[redacted] of LIUNA, [redacted] and three others with one count of RICO conspiracy.

The attached Boston teletype reflects that a hearing was held on 3/10/82 before Judge James L. King, U.S. District Court, Southern District of Florida. This hearing was based upon a report of a U.S. Magistrate, Southern District of Florida who recommended that the indictment against Patriarca, [redacted] and others be dismissed because the only overt act alleged which occurred within the five year statute of limitations was not in furtherance of the charged conspiracy. The court agreed with the Magistrate and dismissed the indictment.

Department of Justice is appealing this decision.

Enclosed for the Bureau is a memo of SA [redacted] [redacted] to ASAC Robert Fitzpatrick dated 7/20/81; indictment of 9/23/81 regarding captioned matter; report of the United States Magistrate 3/3/82; and Order Dismissing Indictments 3/12/82, all pertaining to captioned matter.

As the Bureau is aware, on 3/12/82 U. S. District Court Judge James L. King, Southern District of Florida, Miami, Florida, issued an order dismissing the RICO-Conspiracy indictments of 9/23/81 against captioned individuals. Judge King cited the reason for dismissal the fact that the only overt act alleged in the indictment which occurred within the five-year statute of limitations was not in furtherance of the charged conspiracy.
 This order was based on a 3/3/82 recommendation of U. S. Magistrate Charlene Sorrentino, Miami, Florida.

Contact with Special Attorney [redacted] U. S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., on 3/15/82 indicated that an appeal would be made to the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in an attempt to remove Judge King's order and thus allow proceedings in instant matter. Attorney [redacted] advised that he would request expeditious handling and that he would need the approval of the United States Solicitor General before any appeal could be made.

b7C

Attorney [redacted] was recontacted on 3/18/82 at which time he stated that he had mailed the Notice of Appeal to the court on 3/17/82. He stated that he has prepared a memorandum from [redacted] Chief, Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, U. S. Department of Justice, to the Appellate Section, Criminal Division, U. S. Department of Justice, which must grant approval before any submission is made to the Solicitor General.

b6

This information is being submitted to the Bureau for whatever purpose deemed pertinent but especially to aid in the expedite handling of instant matter in the appeal process.

For the further information of the Bureau, review of this matter, particularly regarding the Statute of Limitations problems, has been scrutinized looking toward similar problems that might be encountered in other investigative matters. As will be seen from enclosed case agent memo to ASAC Robert Fitzpatrick, every effort was made to have this case decided upon by the Department at the earliest possible time. Boston is of the opinion in retrospect that problems could have been avoided if either the Boston Strike Force had decided to release the case to the Miami Strike Force at a reasonable date or if the U. S. Department of Justice, Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, had rendered a decision on Boston's proposal at an early date. The events surrounding the development of these problems are set forth in enclosed memo of 7/20/81. While no criticism is to be construed against Boston Strike Force or U. S. Department of Justice, Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, Boston is of the opinion that similar "11th hour decisions" should be avoided to preclude this from happening in the future. It is reiterated that this after action report is only meant to be instructive and not critical to individuals who may have been involved in this case.

Boston concurs wholeheartedly with the decision of Attorney Small to submit this matter for appeal and FBIHQ is respectfully requested to afford expedite attention to all appeal matters in this case.

This memo will memorialize recent developments in the prosecutive status and possible change in venue in the above captioned matters.

On 5/19/81 the prosecutive memorandum and indictment were completed in the above captioned matter by Boston Strike Force Attorneys (SFA) [redacted] and subsequently submitted to [redacted] Chief, Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, USDOJ for approval.

During the period 5/19/81-7/8/81, the writer and SA(A) [redacted] had occasion to have contact with SFA [redacted] who advised at various times that the indictment was still under consideration by Justice; that Justice had recommended several revisions to the indictment and that final approval had not been received. During the latter part of June and the early part of July, 1981, SFA [redacted] began to make requests for dates that would possibly extend the statute of limitations from July 28, 1981 as implied on page 20 of the prosecutive memorandum to a date in August or September, 1981. Two dates were supplied to SFA [redacted] one in early August and the other in mid September. SFA [redacted] did not indicate that he had in fact extended the statute but only that he wanted the dates in case it had to be extended.

On July 8, 1981, at the request of the writer, Supervisor [redacted] contacted SFA [redacted] in order to determine the prosecutive status of case since the statute of limitation date was approaching. Supervisor [redacted] advised that [redacted] told him at that time that Strike Force Attorneys [redacted] had certain reservations about proceeding with the indictments and that it was their feeling after consultation with prosecutors in Texas and New Orleans that the chief witness [redacted] might prove to be an embarrassment to the Government. [redacted] also indicated that other

Boston witnesses were weak and that the odds of a successful prosecution were slim. [] advised that he had discussed the case with USA Harrington and that he had concurred with the Strike Force's evaluation of the prosecutive merits of the case. [] stated that he was exploring the possibility of consolidating this case with the Miami case. [] agreed to keep Supervisor [] appraised of further developments.

b7C

On July 9, 1981, [] contacted [] and advised that SFA [] Strike Force 18, Washington D.C. was doing the legal research to determine whether or not the two cases could be joined and that an answer would be forthcoming at the end of the day. No answer was received on July 9 or 10, 1981.

b7C

On July 14, 1981, the writer was contacted by SFA [] who advised that Miami would be doing the [] case and that there appeared to be no problem with consolidating the Miami and Boston indictments. He cited a 30% to 40% chance of successful prosecution in Boston with the [] case alone and the potential problems with the Chief witness, []. He advised that SFA [] would be handling the case after conferring with USA Atlee Wampler, Miami, Florida. Wampler was scheduled to return to work on Monday, July 20, 1981. SFA [] advised that he would probably not be working with SFA [] on the prosecution.

b7C

On 7/16/81, the writer met with ASAC Robert Fitzpatrick at which time the aforementioned developments were discussed. ASAC Fitzpatrick was provided with copies of the prosecutive memo and indictment in this case. ASAC Fitzpatrick requested the writer contact SFA [] to determine the current status of the case and certain other information relating to the prosecutive memo and indictment.

b7C

On 7/16/81, SFA [] advised that [] had agreed to indict the [] case in Miami, however, he was still waiting on USA Wampler's return. He stated that there had been no problem with the prosecutive memo submitted, however, the indictment had been returned from Justice 2 or 3 times for changes. He stated that no final approval or rejection on the indictment had been obtained from Justice. Upon completion of this contact, the results were provided to ASAC Fitzpatrick.

b6

BS 183A-371 183A-373

On 7/16/81, ASAC Fitzpatrick met with SFA [redacted] thereupon provided the following information:

b6
b7c

[redacted] stated that over the last 2-3 weeks the Strike Force had begun to feel that the [redacted] case was a "weak case" and that this feeling was shared by USDJ. Some of the reasons given were that SFA [redacted] had lost an off-shoot case in Rhode Island; that witness [redacted] had poor Jury appeal and that the case overall now had poor jury appeal.

b6
b7c

Additionally, [redacted] had been in contact with Attorneys in Houston, Los Angeles, and New Orleans and they were not high on [redacted] as a key witness. On Monday, July 13, 1981 [redacted] advised that he would recommend that the case be indicted in Miami. The case is still under perusal by Boston Strike Force although Attorneys [redacted] feel the case is not prosecutable.

INDICTMENT

THE GRAND JURY CHARGES:

1. At all times material to this Indictment:

a. The Laborers International Union of North America ("Laborers Union") was an employee organization representing workers engaged in interstate commerce and engaged in an industry and activity affecting interstate commerce, that is, the building and construction trades.

b. The Laborers Union and its subordinate bodies and affiliated employee benefit plans constituted an enterprise as defined by Title 18, United States Code, Section 1961(4), which enterprise was engaged in and the activities of which affected interstate commerce.

c. Up to and including December 31, 1974, the following employee welfare benefit plans were plans subject to the provisions of the Welfare and Pension Plans Disclosure Act (29 U.S.C. 301-309):

(1) Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Fund ("Massachusetts Laborers Fund");

(2) Rhode Island Laborers Health and Welfare Heavy Construction Trust Fund ("Rhode Island Laborers Construction Fund");

(3) Rhode Island Laborers Health and Welfare Fund ("Rhode Island Laborers Fund");

(4) Broward County Carpenters Health and Welfare Fund ("Carpenters Union Fund");

(8) Laborers Local 666 Health and Welfare Trust Fund of Dade County ("666 Welfare Fund"); and

(9) Laborers Local 767 Health and Welfare Trust Fund of Palm Beach County ("767 Welfare Fund").

d. From January 1, 1975, through December 31, 1977, the employee welfare benefit plans listed in paragraph 1c above were plans subject to the provisions of Title 1 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (29 U.S.C. 1001-1144).

e. The following were employee organizations which represented employees engaged in interstate commerce and in an industry and activity affecting interstate commerce, and the members of which were covered by one or more of the employee welfare benefit plans set forth in paragraph 1c:

(1) Laborers International Union of North America ("Laborers Union");

(2) Massachusetts Laborers District Council;

(3) Maine Laborers District Council;

(4) New Hampshire Laborers District Council;

(5) Vermont Laborers District Council;

(6) Rhode Island Laborers General Council;

(7) Broward County (Florida) Carpenters District Council;

(8) Southeast Florida Laborers District Council;

(9) Laborers International Union of North America, Local Union 478 ("Local 478");

(10) Laborers International Union of North America, Local Union 666 ("Local 666");

(11) Laborers International Union of North America, Local Union 767 ("Local 767"); and

(12) Laborers International Union of North America, Local Union 938 ("Local 938").

f. Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. ("Northeast") was a Rhode Island corporation purportedly engaged in the sale of life insurance but which in fact served as a conduit for kickbacks.

g. Norcorp Equity, Inc. ("Norcorp") was a Rhode Island corporation which was established as the holding company for Northeast.

h. National Group Insurance Agency, Inc. ("National Group") was a Massachusetts corporation purportedly engaged in the sale of life insurance but which in fact served as a conduit for kickbacks.

i. Old Security Life Insurance Company ("Old Security") was located in Kansas City, Missouri.

j. Farmers National Life Insurance Company ("Farmers National") was a Florida corporation which, through a reinsurance agreement with Old Security, provided benefit plan services in the form of life, accident, and health insurance coverage to members of the Massachusetts Laborers Fund, the Rhode Island Laborers Construction Fund, and the Rhode Island Laborers Fund. Farmers National also provided such insurance directly to the Carpenters Union Fund.

k. Farmers Financial Corporation was the holding company of Farmers National.

l. Great American Life Insurance Company ("GALICO") was a New Jersey corporation which Joseph Hauser attempted to purchase.

m. Great Pacific Corporation ("Great Pacific") was a holding company controlled by Joseph Hauser through which he attempted to purchase GALICO.

n. National American Life Insurance Company ("NALICO") was a Louisiana corporation purchased by Joseph Hauser.

o. National Pacific Corporation ("National Pacific") was the holding company for NALICO.

p. Dental and Vision Care Centers, Inc. of Miami, Florida ("DVCC") provided benefit plan services such as dental, vision, and related medical services to members of the Laborers Union through the Florida Dental Plan.

2. At various times material to this Indictment:

a. Defendant ARTHUR A. COIA was a member of the law firm of Coia and LePore, Ltd., Providence, Rhode Island, the Business Manager of the Rhode Island General Council of the Laborers Union, International Representative of the Laborers Union, and the son of defendant ARTHUR E. COIA.

b. Defendant ARTHUR E. COIA was an International Vice-President of the Laborers Union, Chairman and Trustee of the New England Laborers Training Trust Fund, President of Local 271 of the Laborers Union, Providence, Rhode Island, and Chairman and Trustee of the Rhode Island Laborers Legal Services Fund.

c. Defendant ALBERT J. LE PORE was a member of the law firm of Coia and LePore, Ltd., Providence, Rhode Island, counsel to the Rhode Island Laborers Health and Welfare Trust Fund, President of Northeast Insurance Agency in Providence, Rhode Island, and a Rhode Island State Representative.

d. Defendant RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA was a resident of Providence and Narragansett, Rhode Island.

e. Defendant JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., was a trustee of the New England Laborers Training Trust Fund and President of National Group Insurance Agency in Boston, Massachusetts.

f. Joseph Hauser controlled Farmers National in Miami, Florida, and other companies.

g. Michele Gergora was President of Broward County (Florida) Carpenters District Council in the Southern District of Florida.

3. From in or about 1973, and continuously thereafter at least until in or about December 1977, in the Southern District of Florida and elsewhere, the defendants ARTHUR A. COIA, ARTHUR E. COIA, ALBERT J. LE PORE, RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., did knowingly, willfully, and unlawfully conspire, combine, confederate, and agree together, with each other, and with other persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury, to conduct and participate, directly and indirectly, in the conduct of the affairs of the Laborers Union through a pattern of racketeering activity in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(c).

4. The purpose of the conspiracy was to obtain money for the defendants and co-conspirators by setting up or purchasing insurance and service companies, exercising influence over unions and union trust funds to funnel insurance and service business from those funds into the insurance and service companies, charging union members for the most expensive form of insurance, and looting the insurance premiums paid by using them for kickbacks, payoffs, unearned salaries and fees, and improper personal expenses.

5. It was part of the conspiracy that the defendants and co-conspirators would be employed by or associated with an enterprise which was engaged in, and the activities of which affected interstate commerce, to-wit: the Laborers Union, including its subordinate bodies and affiliated benefit plans.

6. It was further part of the conspiracy that the defendants and co-conspirators would commit and cause to be committed multiple acts of racketeering activity, to-wit: the unlawful payment and receipt of things of value relating to questions and matters concerning employee welfare benefit plans, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1954.

7. It was further part of the conspiracy that some of the defendants and the co-conspirators would, directly and indirectly, give, offer, and promise to give and offer, fees, kickbacks, commissions, gifts, loans, money, and other things of value to the defendants and co-conspirators who were administrators, officers, trustees, custodians, counsel, agents, and employees of employee welfare benefit plans, with other defendants and co-conspirators aiding, abetting and counseling both of the previous groups, because of, and with intent to influence, the actions, decisions, and other duties of such defendants and co-conspirators as administrators, officers, trustees, custodians, counsel, agents and employees relating to questions and matters concerning such plan, that is, granting of insurance business, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1954 and 2.

8. It was further part of the conspiracy that defendants ARTHUR A. COIA, ARTHUR E. COIA, ALBERT J. LE PORE, RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., and others, known and unknown to the Grand Jury, would receive and agree to receive and solicit fees, kickbacks, commissions, gifts, loans, monies, and other things of value because of, and with intent to be influenced with respect to their actions, decisions, and duties relating to questions and matters concerning employee benefit plans.

9. It was further part of the conspiracy that Joseph Hauser would purchase and operate Farmers National as an insurer of union members and would pay kickbacks to defendants ARTHUR A. COIA, ARTHUR E. COIA, ALBERT J. LE PORE, RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., and others, known and unknown to the Grand Jury, from proceeds received from Laborers Union and other union trust funds for insurance provided by Farmers National, and would provide other things of value.

10. It was further part of the conspiracy that defendant JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., would set up National Group for the purpose of being a conduit to disguise kickback money paid by Joseph Hauser and Farmers National, which kickbacks were intended for defendants RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., and other persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury.

11. It was further part of the conspiracy that defendants ARTHUR A. COIA and ALBERT J. LE PORE would set up Northeast for the purpose of being a conduit to disguise kickback money paid by Joseph Hauser and Farmers National, which kickbacks were intended for defendants ARTHUR A. COIA, ARTHUR E. COIA, ALBERT J. LE PORE, and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury.

12. It was further part of the conspiracy that defendant ARTHUR E. COIA would provide Joseph Hauser with inside information regarding the awarding of the insurance contracts by certain employee welfare benefit plans listed in paragraph 1c above and would use his influence, directly and indirectly, to insure the award of the insurance contracts to Old Security.

13. It was further part of the conspiracy that Joseph Hauser, with the assistance of the defendants and other persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury would seek to acquire an insurance company authorized to write insurance in a large number of states.

14. It was further part of the conspiracy that the defendants, ARTHUR A. COIA, ARTHUR E. COIA, ALBERT J. LE PORE, RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., and other persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury would agree to and support the operation of a kickback scheme involving services rendered to the Laborers Union initially in Florida and eventually nationwide in return for payments of money.

15. It was further part of the conspiracy that the defendants and persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury would perform other acts during the course of the conspiracy to hide and conceal, and cause to be hidden and concealed, the purpose of the conspiracy and the acts committed in furtherance of the conspiracy.

OVERT ACTS

In furtherance of the described conspiracy and to effect the objects thereof, the following overt acts, among others, were committed in the Southern District of Florida, and elsewhere:

1. In or about 1973, in the District of Rhode Island, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA and other persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury met with Joseph Hauser concerning the purchase of Farmers National.

2. In or about October 1973, Joseph Hauser acquired Farmers National.

3. In or about February 1974, in the Southern District of Florida, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA met with Joseph Hauser.

4. Between in or about March 1974, and in or about June 1976, in the Southern District of Florida and elsewhere, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA received periodic payments of approximately $5,000 each from Joseph Hauser.

5. In or about 1974, in the District of Rhode Island, defendants ARTHUR E. COIA, RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., met with Joseph Hauser for the purpose of discussing future insurance business and kickbacks to defendant RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

6. On or about April 1, 1974, Joseph Hauser formed Farmers Financial Corporation.

7. In or about February 1975, in the Southern District of Florida, defendant JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., met with Joseph Hauser.

8. On or about March 24, 1975, in the District of Massachusetts, defendant JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., and persons known and unknown to the Grand Jury formed National Group.

9. On or about June 29, 1975, in the District of Massachusetts, defendants ARTHUR E. COIA and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., met with Joseph Hauser to discuss the insurance contract award of the Massachusetts Laborers Fund.

10. In or about 1975, defendants ARTHUR E. COIA and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., contacted Trustees of the Massachusetts Laborers Fund to influence their votes regarding union insurance.

11. Between in or about July 1975, and in or about July 1976, in the Southern District of Florida and elsewhere, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA and Joseph Hauser gave Nathan Gergora and Michele Gergora periodic payments of $5,000 cash as a kickback for the Carpenters Union Fund insurance business.

12. On or about December 19, 1975, Joseph Hauser sent $7,500 by wire transfer to Grace LeConche, as a form of kickback to defendant ARTHUR E. COIA and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury.

13. In or about January 1976, in the Southern District of Florida, defendant ALBERT J. LE PORE met with Joseph Hauser.

14. In or about February 1976, in the Southern District of Florida, defendants ARTHUR A. COIA and ALBERT J. LE PORE received two checks totalling $50,000 from Joseph Hauser.

15. During 1976 defendant RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA advised Joseph Hauser that the insurance business of the Laborers Union would be controlled by "the family" with defendant RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA controlling the northeast United States, Santo Trafficante controlling the southern United States, and Anthony Accardo controlling the midwestern United States.

16. On or about February 6, 1976, in the District of Rhode Island, defendants ARTHUR A. COIA and ALBERT J. LE PORE formed Northeast and Norcorp.

17. In or about March 1976, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA met with Gilbert H. Hawkins of Citizens Bank (Providence Rhode Island) and offered to use his influence to divert union funds to Citizens Bank if the bank would loan money for the purchase of GALICO.

18. On or about April 21, 1976, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA and Joseph Hauser caused $1,000,000 to be transferred out of the bank account which held insurance premiums from the Massachusetts Laborers Fund.

19. In or about February and March 1976, defendants ARTHUR A. COIA and ALBERT J. LE PORE travelled to New Jersey to meet with the Deputy Insurance Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Insurance in an attempt to obtain approval for Great Pacific to acquire GALICO.

20. In or about May 1976, Joseph Hauser and Great Pacific were refused permission by the New Jersey Department of Insurance to purchase GALICO.

21. On or about June 14, 1976, National Pacific was organized by Joseph Hauser and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, with 2,500,000 shares of its stock going to Ceteka Trust and 200,000 shares to Northeast. On or about the same date, said National Pacific Corporation acquired NALICO.

22. On or about June 22, 1976, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA attended a meeting of the Trustees of the Rhode Island Laborers Fund and attempted to influence their votes regarding union insurance.

23. On or about July 16, 1976, Joseph Hauser sent a letter to defendant ARTHUR A. COIA, enclosing a check for $50,000.

24. On or about July 26, 1976, defendant JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., received a $20,000 check from defendant ALBERT J. LE PORE.

25. On or about July 28, 1976, in the District of Rhode Island, defendant JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., received $30,000 by means of a check to National Group.

26. On or about September 16, 1976, defendants ARTHUR A. COIA and ALBERT J. LE PORE appeared before the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington, D.C., and testified falsely in an attempt to thwart that Commission's investigations and continue their insurance activities.

27. In or about September 1976, defendant ARTHUR E. COIA spoke by telephone with Joseph Hauser regarding the Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation and plans for future insurance activities.

28. On or about October 19, 1976, defendant ALBERT J. LE PORE wrote a check for $2,000 to himself out of funds provided in part by Joseph Hauser.

All in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962(d).

THE GRAND JURY FURTHER CHARGES:

The defendants ARTHUR A. COIA, ARTHUR E. COIA, ALBERT J. LE PORE and JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR., have interests in, and property and contractual rights, as described in paragraph 2a, 2b, 2c, and 2d, page 4 above, affording them a source of influence over the Laborers Union and its subordinate bodies and affiliated employee benefit plans. Said Laborers Union and its subordinate bodies and affiliated employee benefit plans constituted an enterprise, as set forth in paragraph 1b herein, which the defendants controlled, conducted, and participated in the conduct of, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962, as set forth herein, thereby making all such property and contractual rights and interests subject to forfeiture to the United States of America pursuant to Title 18, United States Code, Section 1963(a)(2).

Defendant

REPORT OF
(Defendant Arthur E. Coia)

The defendant Arthur E. Coia has filed a Motion to Bar Prosecution. This motion has been referred to the undersigned for preliminary consideration and report, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §636(b)(1)(B).

The defendant contends that this prosecution is prohibited by the applicable statute of limitations, 18 U.S.C. §3282, which provides a period of five years. The indictment was returned on September 23, 1981. It alleges that the conspiracy lasted from 1973 "at least, until in or about December 1977." This statute, unless suspended, runs from the last overt act committed during the existence of a conspiracy. Riswick v. United States, 329 U.S. 211 (1946). Of the 28 overt acts alleged in this indictment, only the last, overt act 28, is asserted to have occurred within the five year period prior to September 23, 1981.

Overt Act 28, in its entirety, is as follows:

On or about October 19, 1976, Defendant ALBERT J. LEPORE wrote a check for $2,000 to himself out of funds provided in part by Joseph Hauser.

The defendant Arthur E. Coia argues that this act, if it occurred, was not in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy but was, instead, merely the use by one of the coconspirators of a portion of his share of the proceeds. He argues that if such a use of proceeds is an overt act the statute of limitations would be meaningless since any time a coconspirator used any of his ill gotten gains, for as long as he lived, the statute of limitations would commence running anew.

In its response, the government argues, in part, that the RICO conspiracy statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(d), does not require allegation and proof of an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy. As recently as December 28, 1981, however, the Former Fifth Circuit stated quite clearly:

...[N]o actual acts of racketeering need occur; there need only exist a conspiracy to perform the necessary acts plus some overt action by one of the conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy.
United States v. Phillips,
F.2d
(Former 5 Cir. Nos. 79-3189, 80-5320, Dec. 28, 1981), slip.
op. pg. 13942 (Emphasis added).

The Phillips Court quoted the earlier Fifth Circuit decision, United States v. Sutherland, 656 F.2d 1181, 1187, n.4 (5 Cir. 1981), in which the Court clearly indicated the need for proof of an overt act in furtherance of a RICO conspiracy.

Although the RICO net is very broad, it appears that under the present law of this Circuit it is at least woven tightly enough to require some overt act by a conspirator in furtherance of the conspiracy.

The government argues, however, that even if a timely overt act is required, overt act 28 will suffice. It argues that whether the act of writing the check was in furtherance of the conspiracy is a matter for proof at trial. In response to the defense argument that overt act 28 only alleges the use by a coconspirator of proceeds of the conspiracy, the government states that at trial:

...[P]roof will show an ongoing conspiracy and a pattern of using checks to cash and to the defendants through "conduits" (Indictment paras. 10,11) as one means of illegally converting union funds.

Of course, the validity of the indictment must be determined its face. If no timely overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy is alleged in the indictment, it is no answer to assert that one or more will be established at trial.

The indictment clearly states the purpose of the alleged conspiracy as follows:

The purpose of the conspiracy was to obtain money for the defendants and coconspirators by setting up or purchasing insurance and service companies exercising influence over unions and union trust funds to funnel insurance and service business from those funds into the insurance and service companies, charging union members for the most expensive form of insurance, and looting the insurance premiums paid by using them for kickbacks, payoffs, unearned salaries and fees, and improper personal expenses.

Overt act 28 simply says that the defendant Albert J. LePore wrote a check to himself out of funds provided in part by Joseph Hauser. The indictment alleges that LePore is an attorney who was the President of Northeast Insurance Agency in Providence, Rhode Island, and counsel to the Rhode Island Laborers Fund (§12.c). It further alleges that Northeast Insurance Agency was purportedly engaged in the sale of life insurance but in fact served as a conduit for kickbacks. (§1.f.) Joseph Hauser allegedly controlled Farmers National in Miami, Florida, and other companies. (§12.f.) Farmers National, in turn, allegedly provided benefit plan services in the form of life, accident, and health insurance coverage, either directly or indirectly, to members of the Massachusetts Laborers Fund, the Rhode Island Laborers Construction Fund, the Rhode Island Laborers Fund, and the Carpenters Union Fund. (§1.j.).

Thus, in essence, Overt Act 28 alleges that Hauser, who controlled a company which provided benefit plan insurance services to members of certain labor organization funds, had "provided" some money at some unknown time to Albert J. LePore, a defendant, who was legal counsel for one of the Funds for which such insurance services were provided. Thereafter, on October 19, 1976, LePore wrote a check to himself drawn in part from the funds provided by Hauser.

It appears that the position of the defendant Coia is well taken. If, as the indictment alleges, the purpose of the conspiracy was to obtain money for the defendants by means of kickbacks, and if, as the indictment further indicates, Joseph Hauser was a payor of kickbacks and the defendant LePore a payee, it would seem that the purpose of the conspiracy was complete upon delivery by Hauser of money to the possession or control of LePore. What LePore thereafter did with the funds would not be in furtherance of the goals of the conspiracy but rather a use of the fruits of the conspiracy.

It is well established law that a grand jury indictment must set forth each essential element of the offense alleged. United States v. Outler, 659 F.2d 1306, 1310 (5 Cir. 1981), and cases cited therein. As previously discussed, a RICO conspiracy has been held in this Circuit to require an overt act as an essential element. If, therefore, Overt Act 28, on its face, does not appear to have been in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy, this indictment is insufficient. All of the remaining alleged overt acts are time barred. Although Overt Act 15 is alleged to have occurred "during 1976" and Overt 27 is alleged to have occurred "in or about September 1976" such allegations cannot supply the necessary element of an overt act committed prior to September 23, 1976.

The government also argues in part that a RICO conspiracy is a "continuing offense" and should be presumed to continue unless a conspirator can establish that he affirmatively withdrew from the conspiracy. The doctrine of continuing offenses, however, is very narrow, and requires a clear intent by Congress to establish such an offense. The Supreme Court in Toussie v. United States, 397 U.S. 112, 114-115, (1970), explained the doctrine as follows:

In deciding when the statute of limitations begins to run in a given case several considerations guide our decision. The purpose of a statute of limitations is to limit exposure to criminal prosecution to a certain fixed period of time following the occurrence of those acts the legislature has decided to punish by criminal sanctions. Such a limitation is designed to protect individuals from having to defend themselves against charges when the basic facts may have become obscured by the passage of time and to minimize the danger of official punishment because of acts in the far-distant past. Such a time limit may also have the salutary effect of encouraging law enforcement officials promptly to investigate suspected criminal activity. For these reasons and others, we have stated before "the principle that criminal limitations statutes are "to be liberally interpreted in favor of repose," United States v. Scharton, 285 U.S. 518, 522 (1932). "United States v. Habis, 390 U.S. 222, 227 (1968). We have also said that "[s]tatutes of limitations normally begin to run when the crime is complete." Pendergast v. United States, 317 U.S. 412, 418 (1943); see United States v. Irvine, 98 U.S. 450, 452 (1879). And Congress has declared a policy that the statute of limitations should not be extended "[e]xcept as otherwise expressly provided by law." 18 U.S.C. §3282. These principles indicate that the doctrine of continuing offenses should be applied in only limited circumstances since, as the Court of Appeals correctly observed in this case, "[t]he tension between the purpose of a statute of limitations and the continuing offense doctrine is apparent; the latter, for all practical purposes, extends the statute beyond its stated term." 410 F.2d, at 1158. These considerations do not mean that a particular offense should never be construed as a continuing one. They do, however, require that such a result should not be reached unless the explicit language of the substantive criminal statute compels such a conclusion, or the nature of the crime involved is such that Congress must assuredly have intended that it be treated as a continuing one.

18 U.S.C. §3284, which provides that:

The concealment of assets of a debtor in a case under Title 11 shall be deemed to be a continuing offense until the debtor shall have been finally discharged or a discharge denied, and the period of limitations shall not begin to run until such final discharge or denial of discharge.

The RICO conspiracy statute, 18 U.S.C. §1962(d) has been described as a continuing offense, to the extent that it makes it unlawful to conspire in specified ways with regard to a "pattern of racketeering activity," which, as defined in 18 U.S.C. §1961(5) can include acts of racketeering activity as long as 10 years apart. Thus, although a given act of racketeering activity might be barred by the general five year statute of limitations, 18 U.S.C. §1382, it will not be barred if timely pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §1961(5). United States v. Field, 432 F. Supp. 55, 59 (S.D.N.Y. 1977), aff'd, 578 F.2d 1371 (2 Cir. 1978), cert. dismissed, 439 U.S. 801 (1978). In relying upon Field, however, the government has overlooked its holding that the five year limitation period for violations of the RICO Act "runs from the date of the last alleged act of racketeering activity." Id. at 59. Thus, there must still be an overt act within the five year period, and, if a substantive RICO offense were charged, as in Field, it would have to be not merely any overt act, but an act of racketeering activity, as defined in 18 U.S.C. §1961(1).

It is particularly interesting to note the legislative history of 18 U.S.C. §1962. The original proposed legislation included a subsection (e) which was not enacted:

A violation of this section shall be deemed to continue so long as the person who committed the violation continues to receive any benefits from the violation.
S. Rep. 91-617 (1969).

The failure of Congress to enact this proposed subsection indicates its intention to rely upon the five year general statute. United States v. Forsythe, 560 F.2d 1127, 1134 (3 Cir. 1977).

This indictment does not appear to allege an offense occurring within the five years immediately prior to its return. It is therefore the recommendation of the Magistrate that it be dismissed pursuant to Fed.R.Crim.P. 12(e).

ARTHUR A. COIA,
ARTHUR E. COIA,
ALBERT J. LEPORE,
JOSEPH J. VACCARO, JR.,

ORDER DISMISSING INDICTMENTS

Defendants.

This matter is before the Court on review of the Report of the United States Magistrate, which recommended that these indictments be dismissed because the only overt act alleged which occurred within the five year statute of limitations was not in furtherance of the charged conspiracy. The Court held a hearing on Wednesday, March 10, 1982, and heard oral arguments by the parties. Based on those arguments and the written memoranda submitted herein, the Court hereby agrees with the Magistrate, and holds that these Indictments must be dismissed.

The Court finds the Magistrate's Report to be thorough and concise, so it is not necessary to repeat all the relevant facts in this Order. This Court merely adds the following in holding that these indictments are barred by the statute of limitations.

The applicable statute of limitations is contained in 18 U.S.C. §3282, which provides: "[N]o person shall be prosecuted, tried, or punished for any offense, not capital, unless the indictment is found . . . within five years next after such offense shall have been committed." The statute begins to run when the crime is complete. See Toussie v. United States, 397 U.S. 112 (1970). If five years pass between the time the crime is complete and the date the indictment is returned, the prosecution may not go forward.

The Indictment charges the defendants with a violation of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act ("RICO"), 18 U.S.C. § 1962(d). Section 1962(d) makes it unlawful to conspire to violate 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c). Section 1962(c) makes it "unlawful for any person employed by or associated with any enterprise engaged in, or the activities of which affect, interstate or foreign commerce, to conduct or participate, directly or indirectly, in the conduct of such enterprise's affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity" Section 1961(5) of title 18 defines "pattern of racketeering activity" to mean at least two acts of racketeering activity within a ten year period. The Indictment alleges that the RICO conspiracy took place from 1973 until in or about December 1977. It lists twenty-eight actions here, labelled "Overt Acts," which were allegedly committed in furtherance of the racketeering conspiracy.

The question before the Court is what facts the Government must allege under the RICO conspiracy statute to bring the Indictment within the five year statute of limitations. The only act in furtherance of this conspiracy which is alleged to have occurred later than five years before this Indictment was brought is "Overt Act" 28. Overt Act 28, in its entirety, is as follows: "On or about October 19, 1976, defendant Albert J. LaPore wrote a check for $2,000 to himself out of funds provided in part by Joseph Hauser.

At oral argument, counsel for the Government took the position that the motion to dismiss was premature since, at trial, it could connect Overt Act 28 with the rest of the alleged conspiracy and thereby bring the entire conspiracy within the five year period.¹ On questioning, counsel argued that Act 28 was "in furtherance" of the conspiracy because the object of the conspiracy was "to obtain money for the defendants and co-conspirators" through the racketeering conspiracy. Counsel suggested that spending the ill-gotten funds was accomplished by drawing the check (in Act 28) and that this act furthered the conspiracy.

The Government argues that "in furtherance" should not be construed literally to mean "in advancement" of the conspiracy. It refers to cases in which the Fifth Circuit has held that for purposes of admitting into evidence statements by co-conspirators "in furtherance" of a conspiracy under Fed. R. Evid. 801(d)(2)(E), the term should not be applied too strictly. See United States v. McGuire, 608 F.2d 1028, 1032 (5th Cir. 1979); United States v. James, 510 F.2d 546, 549 (5th Cir. 1975). But the Fifth Circuit expressly avoided interpreting the term literally because to do so would undercut the purpose of the evidentiary exception -- that statements by coconspirators are reliable and should be admitted into evidence. The same reasoning does not apply in determining what acts the Government must allege occurred within the statute of limitations period. For purposes of the limitations period, the indictment must allege some act, of racketeering or otherwise, which was in advancement of the purpose of the conspiracy, which occurred less than five years from the date of the indictment. The writing of a check by one defendant from his personal account did not advance the purpose of the conspiracy alleged in this case, which was to obtain money through kickbacks from insurance companies and pension funds. This Court agrees with the Magistrate, that what one defendant "did with the funds would not be in furtherance of the conspiracy but rather a use of the fruits of the conspiracy." Use of the fruits of a conspiracy does not extend the period of the crime for statute of limitations purposes. United States v. Forsythe, 560 F.2d 1127, 1134 (3d Cir. 1977).

1. The Government argues that the factual inquiry triggered by the question of Act 28's relation to the entire conspiracy demonstrates that this is an issue to be decided after trial for purposes of judicial economy. To allow the trial to go forward pursuant to a deficient indictment would be not only uneconomical, but unfair as well.

The Government also argues that Overt Act 27 listed in the Indictment is part of the RICO conspiracy and occurred within five years of the Indictment. Act 27 alleges, in its entirety: "In or about September 1976, defendant Arthur E. Coia spoke by telephone with Joseph Hauser regarding the Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation and plans for future insurance activities." There are two reasons this allegation fails to permit this Indictment to go forward. First, as the Magistrate pointed out, the vague allegation of activity "in or about September, 1976" does not adequately allege that the conspiracy to engage in a pattern of racketeering activity occurred between September 23, 1976 and the date of this Indictment, September 23, 1981. Certainly, if the Government had sufficient information to allege the events were timely, it would have done so when given the opportunity when it presented the Indictment to the Grand Jury.

Second, even if the "Overt Act" were alleged to have occurred within the limitations period, the facts alleged therein are insufficient to allow the Government to prove these conversations at trial. At the hearing, counsel represented that the Government would prove, per Act 27, that the defendants and coconspirators discussed possible future illegal insurance schemes. The Government argued that future plans were part of the previous schemes because of the nature of such patterns of racketeering, in which the benefits of one fraudulent scheme are used to fund future schemes.

The Court holds that an allegation that two people spoke by telephone regarding "plans for future insurance activities" does not sufficiently allege an act which was part of the continuing offense. The Government did not allege that the two discussed "illegal" insurance plans. Where an indictment alleges a non-criminal act, it must explain how the act was in furtherance of a continuing criminal enterprise. If the Government contemplates proving such a connection between a phone conversation and a previously ongoing racketeering enterprise, it should expressly state the connection in the indictment. The indictment in this case does not adequately allege such a connection to make this allegation provable at trial.

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED and ADJUDGED that the indictment is barred by the statute of limitations, 18 U.S.C. § 3282, and that it be, and the same is, hereby dismissed.

DONE and ORDERED in chambers at the United States Courthouse, Miami, Dade County, Florida, this 12th day of March, 1982.

NOTE: [REDACTED] IS SCHEDULED TO TESTIFY IN THE UPCOMING TRIALS OF LCN FIGURES SANTO TRAFFICANTE AND RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[REDACTED] IS THE ONLY INDIVIDUAL THAT CAN CORROBORATE THE TESTIMONY OF [REDACTED] AND PLACE SANTO TRAFFICANTE WITH [REDACTED] AND

[REDACTED] TRAFFICANTE WAS SEVERED FROM THE FIRST LIUNA TRIAL WHICH WAS HEARD IN THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF FLORIDA.

THIS TRIAL RESULTED IN THE CONVICTIONS OF EIGHT OUT OF ELEVEN DEFENDANTS. TRAFFICANTE'S SEVERENCE WAS DUE TO HIS ILL HEALTH. THE INDICTMENT OF RAYMOND PATRIARCA'S CO-DEFENDANTS WAS DISMISSED IN THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF FLORIDA; HOWEVER, AN APPEAL OF THIS DISMISSAL WAS APPROVED BY THE SOLICITOR GENERAL'S OFFICE, DOJ, ON 4/14/82. AFTER THE APPELLATE PROCESS, IT IS ANTICIPATED THAT

[REDACTED] WOULD TESTIFY AGAINST PATRIARCA, ET AL. [REDACTED] IS ALSO SCHEDULED TO BE A WITNESS IN A RHODE ISLAND STATE CASE INVOLVING LCN FIGURES AND A TEAMSTER OFFICIAL. [REDACTED] SPECIAL

ATTORNEY, DOJ, ADVISES THAT [REDACTED] CONTINUES TO BE A VERY IMPORTANT WITNESS IN THE FUTURE PROSECUTIONS OF THE ABOVE CASES. DENNIS J. ROBERTS, ATTORNEY GENERAL, STATE OF RHODE ISLAND, ADVISES HE IS VERY DESIROUS TO HAVE [REDACTED] TESTIMONY IN STATE COURT.

[REDACTED] WAS REFUSED ACCEPTANCE INTO THE WITNESS SECURITY PROGRAM (WSP) INASMUCH AS HE MADE DEMANDS ON THE U.S. MARSHAL'S SERVICE CONCERNING SUBSISTANCE PAYMENTS FOR HIS FAMILY WHO WOULD NOT ENTER THE PROGRAM WITH HIM. CONSEQUENTLY, BOSTON HAS RELOCATED THIS WITNESS UNTIL CONCLUSION OF THE TRIALS. THE COST OF RELOCATION IS APPROXIMATELY $1,600 PER MONTH IN SUBSISTANCE PAYMENTS FOR [REDACTED] A TOTAL OF $17,625 HAS BEEN PAID TO [REDACTED] THUS FAR. THIS $4,800 AUTHORIZATION WOULD RAISE THE TOTAL TO $22,425. THIS IS A SITUATION WHEREIN THE FBI IS PROVIDING RELOCATION MONEY ON A LONG-TERM BASIS FOR A WITNESS WHO HAS NOT ENTERED THE WITNESS SECURITY PROGRAM.

MAIL ROOM

66AUC 1983

Dear, Mr. Webster,

Two years ago, I volunteered to be a witness in the [redacted] [redacted] case.

I did not ask for expenses from your agency. For I was working three + four days a week.

Your agents wired me several times, and put my life in danger twice.
I received three hundred dollars for this.
as the week went by, the Agents would come to my home and ask many questions. I answered them to the best of my ability. Again they paid ~~me~~ me three hundred dollars.

As they continued to question me over the next few months, I received no money. Then about a year ago your agents called me and told me that my life was in danger, and that I would have to be relocated.

That was on a Friday the early part of January. I told them that I was working on Saturday & Sunday.
and to please wait until Monday.

143-3751-54X

to relocate me. They insisted that was impossible, and that I would have to go with them.

So at 10:30^{am} Friday I met with your agents.

They explained to me that my life is in danger, because the Providence Journal and Channel 10[#] news would be exposing me soon.

They also told me that I would receive 5,000.00 dollars if I would go with them.

I told them that I would have to talk with my family.

When I spoke to my family they agreed.

and I met the agents at a motel in Massachusetts that afternoon. But they did not give me the 5000.00 dollars, instead they gave me 500.00 dollars, and explain to me that if the Marshalls were to take me, I would received the 5000.00 dollars.

When the articles came out in the newspaper & television, my family was horrified, and so was I.

Approximately two weeks later, I was interviewed by the Marshalls in the motel room, with one of your agents.

They refused to accept me in their program, because I was asking for more than they could afford.

Your agents continued to give me $500.00 dollars. But the last week they had no money for me. So I paid the last two days for the motel and borrowed the remainder of the money from my sister.

I called them and insisted that they give me what they promised me. They told me that they would relocate me in the Florida area. The agents said I would receive 2000.00 a month.

After a few weeks went by the agents came to my home and gave me $2800.00 dollars, and told me to locate in the Florida area, that was in the middle of February.

IV

Three agents told me I would receive the 2000.00 dollars each month on the 15th of ^{the} month.

On the 15th of March I received a call from your agents, they said that they would like to meet with me, and to see where I was living.

On the 17th of March they arrived, I showed them my sister-in-law house in Tamara Fla. and showed them my room and all the facility.

They payed me the 2000.00 dollars and went on there way.

On the 18th of April they sent me 1575.00 dollars, I called them and asked them where the remainder of my expences was.

They informed me that was all the Office would allow.

I took 575.00 to pay my sister-in-law for what I owed, I sent 1000.00^{each} And I went home to stay.

IV

Around the beginning of May, I had written to you, but I had no response.

Then in the middle of May the agents came to my home, and explained to me that $600.00 dollars was all the office would allow.

I agreed, and went back to the Florida Area.

Around the beginning of July I called the agents to inform them that I had to be hospitalized. I told them that I had to have a prostate operation.

I did not hear from them. I went to the New England Baptist Hospital in Massachusetts.

Two weeks later, your agents called and asked if I was to meet with them. I agreed, and met with them, at the Red Coach Grill in Mass.

They paid my expenses of $600.00 and told me that the medical bill of 4000.00 dollars is not their responsibility.

IV

Because I was still under the doctors care, they continued to pay my expenses.

On October they came to my home, and gave me 1600 dollars and told me that I would be reimbursed the 200.00 for travel to the Florida area, within two weeks, and I would continue to receive the 1600.00 dollars each month.

I went to Florida, and three week later I called to tell them that I had not received my travel money.

I got no response from them. On the 24th of Nov. I had not received the travel or the expenses.

I flew home because I had not money to live with.

It has been three months since, I have not got my experiences. I had called, three agents in Mass. And he inform me that he can not do anything for me.

In reading the news papers I would have to agree, that your agency in the Abscam, and other articles, are somewhat true.

Your agents are deceitful and False.

I had great respect for the F. B. I.

I can not look for work in this area, and I am not looking for charity as your agents suggested.

Respectfully Yours

UNITED STATES of America,
Plaintiff-Appellant,

Arthur A. COIA, Arthur E. Coia, Albert
J. Le Port, and Joseph J. Vaccaro, Jr., Defendants-Appellees.

No. 52-3389.

United States Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit.

Nov. 17, 1963.

The United States appealed from an order of the District Court of the Southern District of Florida, James Lawrence King, J., dismissing indictment charging violation of conspiracy portion of Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act. The Court of Appeals, Thiel, Circuit Judge, held that: (1) it was proper to dismiss indictment pretrial; (2) no overt act is required under a RICO conspiracy; and (3) indictment on its face satisfied the statute of limitations.

Reversed and remanded.

Chief, Circuit Judge, filed opinion concurring in part and dissenting in part.

1. Indictment and Information §144.1(1)

District court must dismiss an indictment prior to trial if it fails to allege facts which constitute a prosecutable offense. Fed. Rules Cr. Proc. Rules 19a, 2a, 102, 2; 17.1, 18 U.S.C.A.

2. Criminal Law §632(3)

Rule granting district court's power to hold pretrial conferences to consider such matters as will promote a fair and expeditous trial, is a codification of the court's inherent power to manage litigation. Fed. Rules Cr. Proc. Rule 17.1, 18 U.S.C.A.

3. Conspiracy §43(5)

Indictment charging conspiracy to violate the Drug Control Act does not require allegation or proof of an overt act. Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970, §§ 1032, 1013, 21 U.S.C.A. §§ 952, 953.

4. Conspiracy §43(3)

An overt act is not essential to a conspiracy charge under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act; declining to follow United States v. Phillips, 634 F.2d 971; U.S. v. Butlerford, 456 F.2d 1181 and U.S. v. Freeman, 546 F.2d 1155 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 1941 et seq., 1502, 41.

5. Criminal Law §439

The five-year limitation statute applicable to noncapital offenses begins to run when the crime is complete. 18 U.S.C.A. § 3282.

6. Indictment and Information §81(4), 61

With respect to conspiracy statutes that do not require proof of an overt act, the indictment satisfies the limitation statute if the conspiracy is alleged to have continued into the limitations period and the conspiracy may be deemed to continue as long as its purposes have neither been abandoned nor accomplished. 18 U.S.C.A. § 3282.

7. Conspiracy §47(2)

A conspiracy and its enduring nature may be proven circumstantially.

8. Judgment and Information §120

Since both conspiracy and its executing nature may be proven circumstantially, an indictment alleging facts in the time period close to commencement of the limitations period can support an inference that the conspiracy continued into the limitations period. 18 U.S.C. § 3252.

9. Indictment and Information §143(1)

District court should approach with delicacy and circumspection the question of whether to dismiss a case on ground that at trial, the proof would fail to establish commission of the charged offense within the limitations period. 18 U.S.C. § 3282.

10. Criminal Law §1381

Where, on its face, indictment charging violation of conspiracy portion of Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act satisfied the statute of limitations and dismissal was erroneously based in fact that an overt act was required to be committed within the limitations period, the indictment was ordered reinstated. 15 U.S.C. §§ 1951 et seq., 1362-2, §382.

Judge from the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida.

Before THORP, VANCE and CLARK, Circuit Judges.

THORP, Circuit Judge:

The United States appeals the dismissal on statute of limitations grounds of its indictment alleging that Arthur J. Coia, Arthur J. Coia, Albert J. Le Pore, and Joseph J. Vancra Jr., violated the conspiracy portion of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act (RICO), 18 U.S.C. § 1962(d), (276).¹ We reverse.

On September 23, 1981, a federal grand jury in the Southern District of Florida charged the four appellees and one other defendant in a one-count indictment, alleging that they had conspired to engage in labor racketeering, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1962(d).² The indictment alleged that the five defendants conspired to use their influence over the Laborers International Union of North America and its subordinate bodies and affiliated employee benefit plans. According to the indictment, the conspirators funneled the union's insurance and service business into insurance and service companies they had set up, and then charged the union members for the most expensive form of insurance. The conspirators thereafter looted the insurance premiums through the use of kickbacks, payoffs, unearned salaries and fees, and improper personal expenses.

Prior to trial, the appellees moved to dismiss the indictment, claiming in part that the indictment was not brought within the five-year statute of limitations period. The district court referred the matter to a magistrate for preliminary consideration and a report and recommendation, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B) (1976 & Supp. V 1982). After receiving the magistrate's report, the court heard argument thereon and on March 12, 1982, adopted the magistrate's recommendation and dismissed the indictment. The government then filed this appeal.

The district court's dismissal was based on the following chain of reasoning: first, a conspiracy under RICO requires for its completion the performance of at least one overt act; second, for statute of limitations purposes, the conspiracy will be deemed to have been completed at the time of completion of the last overt act; third, the only overt act alleged in the indictment that clearly fell within the statute of limitations period (overt act No. 28) was insufficient on its face to satisfy the requirement that it be in furtherance of the conspiracy. Therefore, the court concluded that as a matter of law the indictment failed to satisfy the statute of limitations and should be dismissed.

II.

The government presents three alternative grounds for reversal: the district court erred in resolving prior to trial the factual issue of whether the conspiracy continued into the statute of limitations period as alleged in the indictment; the district court erred in concluding that a RICO conspiracy requires an allegation and proof of an overt act as an element of the crime; and the district court erred in determining that overt act No. 28 as listed in the indictment was not in furtherance of the conspiracy. The United States alleged, as overt act No. 28, that on or about December 20, 1976, defendant Le Pore wrote a check for $2,000 to himself out of funds provided in part by Joseph Hanes. The account was in the name of "Albert J. Lepore Attorney." In his argument to the district court, the prosecutor stated that the conspirators used this account to convey the impression that the funds represented remuneration for legal services and, therefore, that this was part of the "laundering" process of the kickbacks involved in the RICO violation, thereby constituting an act in furtherance of the conspiracy.

[1,2] The government's three grounds for appeal are each, if correct, individually sufficient to justify a reversal of the district court. With respect to the first, the government is in error concerning the propriety of the district court's dismissal of the indictment prior to trial. It is perfectly proper, and in fact mandated, that the district court dismiss an indictment if the indictment fails to allege facts which constitute a prosecutable offense.

Rule 11.1 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure grants the court the power to hold pretrial conferences, "to consider such matters as will promote a fair and expeditious trial." This rule is essentially a codification of the court's inherent power to manage the litigation before it. Rule 11.1 operates in conjunction with rules 12(a) & (b) which grant the defendant the right to make certain motions prior to trial. The advisory committee notes to rule 12(b) (subdivisions (1) & (2)) list, among other things, insufficiency of the indictment under the applicable statute of limitations as specifically capable of determination prior to trial. Rule 12(c) requires that the court make a pretrial determination on these pretrial motions unless there is good cause not to do so. Rule 12(d) further states that "where factual issues are involved in determining a motion, the court shall make its essential findings on the record." This, clearly indicates that findings of fact as well as of law are within the province of

1. Title 18 U.S.C. § 1962(d) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person to conspire to violate any of the provisions of subsections (a), (b), or (c) of [18 U.S.C. § 1962]."

2. The fifth defendant, Raymond L.S. Pattersa, was removed by the district court and is not a party in this appeal.

support an inference that the conspiracy continued into the limitations period. Moreover, as the Sixth Circuit has said in a similar case, "where a conspiracy contemplates a continuity of purpose and a coordinated performance of acts, it is presumed to exist until there has been an affirmative showing that it has terminated." United States v. Hayes, 612 F.2d 637, 648 (6th Cir.1973), cert. denied 422 U.S. 1003, 95 S.Ct. 682, 45 L.Ed.2d 679 (1975). Further, noting that (1) a grand jury has already found probable cause that a conspiracy continued into the statute of limitations period, and (2) discovery procedures in criminal proceedings are substantially limited, the district court should not require the government to locate its evidence in the presence of the defendant prior to trial. The district court should approach with delicacy and circumspection the question of whether to dismiss a case on the ground that, at trial, the proof, as a matter of law, would fail to establish the commission of the charged offense within the limitations period.

Given that (1) the district court's dismissal of the indictment was based solely on a statute of limitations rationale; (2) the pretrial hearing was conducted, and the court's order of dismissal was written with an erroneous view of the law; (3) the indictment on its face satisfied the statute of limitations; and (4) the grand jury found probable cause to issue the indictment, we conclude that the district court's order must be vacated and the indictment reinstated.

VACATED and REINSTATED for further proceedings.

CLARK, Circuit Judge, concurring in part and dissenting in part.

I concur in the reversal of the district court's dismissal of the indictment. I agree with the majority that the indictment on its face satisfies the statute of limitations. I agree with the majority opinion that the RICO statute does not require an overt act and I agree to the correctness of United States v. Berlon, 647 F.2d 224 (2d Cir.1981) cert. denied, 454 U.S. 867, 102 S.Ct. 597, 70 L.Ed.2d 352 (1981).

The reason for my dissent is that, in my opinion, our court is bound by our holding in United States v. Phillips, 661 F.2d 971, 1028 (5th Cir. Unit B 1981) cert. denied sub. nom. Kinsler v. United States, 467 U.S. 1192, 102 S.Ct. 2905, 72 L.Ed.2d 1364 (1982). The majority states that the holding in Phillips is dictum. The rule in our circuit requiring that we follow precedent does not make a distinction for holdings which are dictum. See United States v. Adams, 625 F.2d 640, 656 n. 19 (5th Cir. Unit B 1982). The main reason for following dictum is the difficulty in determining what is and is not dictum. I believe that on bare consideration is required before the panel can overrule Phillips, supra.

Therefore, in this case, we need not explore whether the district judge's determination that overt act No. 28 could not constitute an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy was one of law or a combination of law and fact. Either determination was precluded, indeed mandated by the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure.

III.

(3,4) The problem with the district judge's dismissal of the indictment is not that it was beyond his authority, but rather, that it was based on an erroneous notion of the substantive law. The district court's holding that a RICO conspiracy charge requires an allegation of an overt act was based on a reasonable, though incorrect, adoption of ideas from earlier Fifth Circuit cases.³ In United States v. Phillips, 614 F.2d 971, 1003, 52 Cr. Crim. 1161, cert. denied sub. nom. Koester v. United States, 457 U.S. 1136, 102 S.Ct. 2555, 73 L.Ed.2d 1354 (1982), the court stated that "some overt action by one of the conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy" must be proved in order to satisfy the requirements of 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c). The sole support offered by the Phillips court for this proposition was a citation to a footnote in U.S. v. Switzerland, 654 F.2d 1131, 1136-37, n. 4 (5th Cir.1981), cert. denied, 455 U.S. 549, 102 S.Ct. 1451, 71 L.Ed.2d 663 (1982). In neither case was the proposition necessary for the holding. Tracing this line of cases back further to its origin, we find that Switzerland offers as its sole support for the overt act requirement, U.S. v. Fisman, 536 F.2d 1155, 1158 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 861, 95 S.Ct. 190, 64 L.Ed.2d 121 (1977). In Fisman, the court held that in a conspiracy case brought under the Drug Control Act, 21 U.S.C. §§ 952 & 953, an overt act is required. Fisman was not a RICO case; therefore, it is not at all fours with the instant case. It is similar, however, in that 21 U.S.C. §§ 952, 953, like the RICO conspiracy statute, makes no reference to an overt act as an element of the crime. In citing the "overt act" requirement of the federal conspiracy statutes,⁴ id., the Switzerland court implied that such a element is implicit in 21 U.S.C. § 952.

Whether Fisman requires us to read an overt act requirement into the RICO conspiracy statute is a question we need not address, because in U.S. v. Rodriguez, 613 F.2d 905 (5th Cir.1980) (en banc), cert. denied sub. nom. Alfonse v. United States, 445 U.S. 825, 101 S.Ct. 106, 64 L.Ed.2d 41 (1980), the court held that an overt act is not essential to a conspiracy charge under the Drug Control Act.⁵ Thus, the chain of reasoning which supports the asserted overt act requirement in RICO cases in this circuit is without support and must fall of its own weight.

The only appellate court to have faced the question of whether a RICO conspiracy act to violate the Drug Control Act must set out and the Government must prove at least one overt act. Consistent with the majority of our decisions we now expressly hold that these indictments do not require allegation or proof of an overt act.

Rodriguez at 915 n. 17 (citations omitted, emphasis in original).

requires an overt act is the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. In United States v. Barton, 351 F.2d 224, 247 (2d Cir.1965), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 867, 102 S.Ct. 307, 70 L.Ed.2d 132 (1981), the court held that "[u]nder the general conspiracy statute 18 U.S.C. § 371 (1974), requires proof of an overt act for RICO conspiracy [statute] does not."

This Second Circuit holding is both eminently reasonable and consistent with the Supreme Court's holding in Singer v. United States, 328 U.S. 529, 540-42, 65 S.Ct. 262, 283-84, 85 L.Ed. 285 (1945), in which the Court concluded that because the particular conspiracy statute it was construing, did not, on its face, require an overt act, no overt act requirement should be implied. The Court noted that this was consistent with the common law of conspiracy. Much a United States, 220 U.S. 573, 375, 30 S.Ct. 750, 752, 57 L.Ed. 1232 (1919).

IV.

(5) The applicable statute of limitations provides: "[N]o person shall be prosecuted, tried, or punished for any offense, not capital, unless the indictment is found . . . within five years after such offense shall have been committed." 18 U.S.C. § 3282 (1974). The statute begins to run when the crime is complete. See Torres v. United States, 330 U.S. 712, 90 S.Ct. 858, 25 L.Ed.2d 136 (1970).

(6) It is the question of when a crime is complete that is the raison d'être of our earlier inquiry into whether a RICO conspiracy requires the commission of an overt act. The Supreme Court in Alfonse v. United States, 320 U.S. 211, 216, 67 S.Ct. 294, 297, 37 L.Ed. 106 (1943), held that a conspiracy requiring an overt act is deemed complete for statute of limitations purposes at the time of completion of the last overt act. "This is a rule of statutory construction, rather than a factual determination of whether a conspiracy existed at a particular point in time. With respect to conspiracy statutes that do not require proof of an overt act, the indictment satisfies the requirements of the statute of limitations if the conspiracy is alleged to have continued into the limitations period. The conspiracy may be deemed to continue as long as its purposes have neither been abandoned nor accomplished. United States v. Grammaticos, 633 F.2d 1013, 1023 (2d Cir.1980). See United States v. Kissel, 288 U.S. 651, 51 S.Ct. 194, 54 L.Ed. 1163 (1934).

Both in the indictment and at the pretrial hearing, the government consistently alleged that the conspiracy continued well into the limitations period. It is clear from both the transcript of the pretrial hearing, and the order dismissing the indictment, that the district judge ignored this, fixing his mind and basing his holding exclusively on the nonexistence of a presumptively required overt act. There was not the slightest hint of an alternative holding that regardless of the overt act requirement, the government failed to allege sufficient facts to conclude that the conspiracy extended into the limitations period. Even if the district court had made such a holding, it is doubtful that we could affirm.

(7-10) Since both the conspiracy itself and its enduring nature may be proven circumstantially, United States v. Hamilton, 689 F.2d 1262, 1263 n. 3 (5th Cir.1982), cert. denied sub. nom. Frighth v. United States, — U.S. —, 100 S.Ct. 735, 74 L.Ed.2d 971 (1983), any indictment alleging facts in the time period close to the commencement of the limitations period could

3. In Bower v. City of Princeton, 601 F.2d 1222, 1229 (11th Cir.1981) (en banc), this circuit adopted as precedential the decisions of the former Fifth Circuit, decided prior to October 1, 1981.

4. The court stated:

We recognize some confusion in the circuit as to whether an indictment charging a conspiracy

All photographic work must be submitted under the substantive case caption when it relates to an investigative matter. Include FBIHQ file number when available. All other photographic processing forms (including FD-482) are obsolete and should not be used. The FD-523 is to be utilized for all photographic processing work forwarded to FBIHQ except employee identification and/or credential cards. Requests for official FBI identification and credential cards must be submitted on form FD-464, Attention: Property Procurement and Management Section.

The FD-523 may be filled out in legible hand printing or typing so that all six pages can be read. The following information is set forth to assist in properly filling out this form. Remove third sheet only (yellow field copy) and submit the remaining five pages.

1. ENCLOSED PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK RELATES TO:

All photographic work submitted should be checked as Current Investigation, Mug Shot, or OTHER in appropriate block. If "OTHER" is checked a short description of what it is should be stated under item #4 (Remarks).

2. ENCLOSURE(S):

Attached Boston teletype reports a New Orleans' obituary notice reporting that Roger A. Nault died July 18, 1984, at a New Orleans hospital after being struck by an automobile in front of his residence. Nault was a key witness in this matter, who entered the Witness Security Program in the late 1970's. He was to testify at an upcoming trial currently scheduled to commence on November 1, 1984. His testimony would have been particularly incriminating against [redacted] [redacted] Laborers' International Union of North America (LIUNA); [redacted] attorney and labor official for LIUNA; and [redacted] attorney and counsel for LIUNA.

Investigation is being conducted to determine the circumstances of Nault's death in an effort to see if a possibility exists that he was a retaliation victim.

ReBStel to Bureau, 7/31/84.

Enclosed for the Bureau and each receiving office is one copy of accident report concerning RICHARD A. NEVILLE (ROGER A. NAULT), furnished to FBI, New Orleans, on 8/7/84, by Asst. D.A. [REDACTED] Orleans Parish District Attorney's Office, New Orleans, La.

The above report of Investigating Officer [REDACTED] includes witness interviews, Coroner's Office report, brake inspection report, and property inventory of RICHARD NEVILLE.

On 7/18/84, NEVILLE exited a public bus on Elysian Fields Ave. in New Orleans while the bus was stopped for a red light. NEVILLE then began to cross the street in front of the bus. Just as he was about to clear the front of the bus, the light changed to green. An automobile driven by 17-yr.-old [REDACTED] with 16-yr.-old passenger [REDACTED] was approaching the intersection beside the bus at approximately 30 miles per hr. When the light turned green, [REDACTED] continued moving, and when NEVILLE appeared from in front of the bus, [REDACTED] car struck NEVILLE, resulting in fatal injuries to NEVILLE.

After interview of witnesses, investigation of the accident scene, inspection of the automobile, road conditions, etc., it was the opinion that this fatality was purely accidental, and

FATALITY REPORT
Page One

On July 18, 1984 at about 8:26 PM Officer [] assigned to the New Orleans Police Dept's Traffic Fatality Investigation Unit was assigned to investigate an auto/pedestrian accident involving serious injury. The accident occurred on July 18, 1984 at about 8:10PM on Elysian Fields Ave. at the Intersection of Mirabeau Ave..

Assigned to assist with the investigation was Off. [] car 2391, Off. [] car 2393 and Off. D. Hughes car 2395.

Sgt. [] Commander of the Traffic Fatality Investigation Unit was the onscene supervisor.

Officer [] will be referred to as the Investigating Officer, I/O, throughout the remainder of this report.

The I/O arrived on the scene at about 8:55 PM and observed the following.

The northbound side of Elysian Fields Ave. at the intersection of Mirabeau consisted of 2 northbound travel lanes. These lanes are divided by white dashed lines. The west boarder of these lanes consisted of a large grass covered median. The east boarder of these lanes consisted of a curb separating the road from sidewalk area.

The intersection of Mirabeau at Elysian Fields consisted of two travel lanes, 1 for westbound traffic and 1 for eastbound traffic. The travel lanes on the east side of Elysian Fields were separated by white dashed lines. The travel lanes in the median area (west side) were separated by a grass covered median. The west side curb of Mirabeau is off set from the east side.

The road surface of both Elysian Fields Ave and Mirabeau Ave. consisted of asphalt which was in good condition and dry at the time of the accident.

FATALITY

There was marked pedestrian crosswalks on Elysian Fields on both the north and south sides of Mirabeau.

The lighting at the scene consisted of continuous street lights which were operating at that time and produced good lighting for the crosswalks.

The traffic control for the intersection consisted of traffic signal lights (red,yellow,green) located on each corner and one on the median of Mirabeau which faced both Aves. and were functioning at that time.

There was R.T.A. bus #729L parked adjacent to the east curb of Elysian Fields on the south side of Mirabeau Ave. The front of the bus was positioned over the crosswalk but was advised later by the driver of that bus it had been moved forward slightly after the accident had occurred.

There was a 1980 Pontiac Firebird, color white, bearing La. 84 license plate 273X954 in the right travel lane of Elysian Fields within the north east quadrant of the intersection of Mirabeau and Elysian Fields. The vehicle had light to moderate impact damage to the left front bumper and hood. The front windshield on the left side was shattered and there was hair and what appeared to be blood on the broken glass.

The I/O observed a light skid mark appx. 36 ft. in length which stopped at the left rear of the vehicle.

There was a pool of blood and some debris from medical equipment in the left travel lane of Elysian Fields just the median divider of Mirabeau. The I/O was informed by Off. [] of the 3rd Dist.; first unit on the scene, that the pool of blood was where the pedestrian had come to rest after impact.

The I/O was informed by Off. [] who had arrived on the scene at about had witnessed the accident, and the ped. had been transported to Charity Hospital.

The I/O interviewed [redacted] who stated the pedestrian had been a passenger on his bus. He stated when he stopped at the stop on Elysian Fields and Mirabeau (south east corner) the pedestrian got off the bus when the ped. exited the bus the control for Elysian Fields was red and ped. began to cross Elysian Fields, towards the median, in front of the bus within the crosswalk. While the ped. was still in front of the bus the control changed to green for Elysian Fields but the ped. continued to cross. He stated the ped. walked relatively slow and with a cane. While the ped. was proceeding across the left travel lane he was struck by the veh. The impact caused the ped. to be thrown forward and he came to rest in the intersection.

He stated that when he stopped the bus to let the ped. off the front of the bus was behind the crosswalk but the impact startled him and he pulled forward a few feet before stopping to get out to assist.

The I/O received information on three other possible witnesses from Off. Hughes, who were unable to be interviewed at that time. [redacted]

The following scene measurements were taken by Off. [] and recorded by the I/O.

b6

1. The width of the right northbound travel lane of Elysian Fields Ave. measured 17 ft. 11 in.
2. The width of the northbound travel lane of Elysian Fields Ave measured 10 ft. 4 in.
3. The width of eastbound travel lane of Mirabeau Ave on the east side Elysian Fields Ave measured 17 ft. 9 in.
4. The width of the westbound travel lane of Mirabeau Ave on the east side of Elysian Fields Ave. measured 15 ft. 8 in.
5. The width of the eastbound travel lane of Mirabeau Ave in the median area (west side of Elysian Fields) measured 34 ft. 4 in.
6. The width of the median separating the east and west travel lanes of Mirabeau Ave. measured 7 ft. 4 in.
7. The width of the westbound travel lane of Mirabeau Ave. in the median area (west side of Elysian Fields) measured 44 ft. 5 in.
8. The width of the ped. crosswalk on Elysian Fields south of Mirabeau measured 10 ft. 6 in.
9. The off set of the S/E curb of Mirabeau to the S/W curb measured 22 ft. 9 in.
10. The off set of the median divider of Mirabeau from the west curb of Elysian Fields measured 8ft. 6in.

11. The offset of the N/W curb of Mirabeau from the N/E curb measured 30 ft.

12. The distance from the S/W extended curb of Mirabeau southward to the appx. point of impact measured 14 ft. 7 in.

13. The distance from the S/W extended curb of Mirabeau northward to the final rest of the ped. measured 50 ft. 10 in.

14. The distance from the S/W extended curb of Elysian Fields to the final rest of the ped. measured 5 ft. 1 in.

15. The distance from the S/W extended curbline of Mirabeau to the left rear wheel of veh. #1 at final rest measured 78 ft. 8 in.

16. The distance from the west curbline of Elysian Fields to the left front wheel of veh. #1 at final rest measured 12 ft. 9 in.

17. The total length of the skid mark left by the left rear wheel of veh. #1 measured 36 ft. 1 in.

Upon completion of the scene measurements the I/O met with Off. Tafaro who had returned to the scene after checking on the ped. at Charity Hospital. He advised the I/O the ped. was being treated and was listed in critical condition at this time. He advised the I/O the ped. had been identified by several cards, including a pictured public service handicapped fare card, Tulane Medical Center Hospital & Clinic card, Orleans Parish Voters Registration card and a social security health insurance card as Richard A. Neville W/M 9-6-30 residing 4836 Elysian Fields Ave. which were in his clothing when the accident occurred.

Off. [] of the New Orleans Police Dept's Brake Inspector's office arrived on the scene and inspected and tested the vehicle. A copy of Off. [] report is attached to and made part of this report.

On 7-19-84 the I/O was advised by the Orleans Parish Coroner's Office that the ped. Richard Neville was pronounced dead at Charity Hospital on 7-18-84 at 10:35 PM and that a copy of his Day Record would be forwarded as soon as possible.

On 7-20-84 at about 2:00 PM [] and [] arrived at the N.O.P.D. T.F.I.U. office to give statements concerning the accident.

[] stated that on 7-18-84 at about 8:10 PM he was driving a 1980 Pontiac Firebird Ia. lic. [] and was proceeding north on Elysian Fields Ave. in the left lane at about 30 mph. He stated as he was approaching Mirabeau and the light was green for Elysian Fields Ave.. He was checking in his rear view mirror and just as he focused his attention forward he observed a ped. dressed in tan pants and a light colored shirt step from in front of a bus, stopped partly in the right lane, into the left lane of Elysian Fields Ave. in front of his veh.. He stated when he saw the ped. he took his foot off the gas peddle and just as began to apply the brakes is when he struck the ped. at impact the ped went up on the front of the car and rolled off the fender, as he steered the car to the right.

He stated the lighting at the scene of the accident was good and that the sky was cloudy at the time the accident occurred.

A copy of [] statement is attached to and made part of this report.

[] stated that on 7-18-84 at about 8:10 PM she was in the right front passengers seat of the veh. being operated by [] She stated they were traveling on Elysian Fields Ave. towards Mirabeau at about 30 mph. She stated she did not see the accident occur because she had her head down when it occurred. She realized the accident occurred when she looked up and saw the windshield smashed.

A copy of [] statement is attached to and made part of this report.

On 7-24-84 the I/O contacted [] via phone, concerning the accident. She told the I/O that when the accident occurred she was a passenger on the bus (4th seat back from driver on left side) the victim had gotten off of. She stated when the bus stopped at Elysian Fields and Mirabeau the light was red for Elysian Fields but when the victim got off and was crossing in the front the light turned green as the victim was crossing the left lane of Elysian Fields the car hit him.

The I/O made several attempts to contact the other 2 possible witnesses with negative results.

On 7-25-84 the I/O received a copy of the Orleans Parish Coroner's Office Day Record for Richard Neville which reflected the following information:

1. Pronounced dead at Charity Hospital on 10-18-84 at 10:35 PM by [] of Charity Hospital.
2. Autopsy performed on 7-19-84 at 8:30 AM by [] of the Orleans Parish Coroner's Office.
3. Final Diagnosis as listed by [] fractured left 4th & 5th ribs with pulmonary lacerations and left hemothorax, pelvic fractures, mesenteric lacerations.

It is the conclusion of the I/O through witnesses statements, physical evidence and investigation this accident occurred as follows.

The victim exited the R.T.A. bus on the south east corner of Elysian Fields Ave. at Mirabeau Ave. when the traffic control light was red for Elysian Fields Ave.. While crossing in front of the bus in a westbound direction across

Elysian Fields the light changed to green.

The victim proceeded across Elysian Fields, in the ped. crosswalk, while proceeding across the left travel lane he was struck by the left front of veh. #1. The impact caused the victim to go onto the hood of the vehicle, striking his head on the windshield, shattering the windshield. The victim came off the vehicle and came to rest in the left northbound travel lane of Elysian Fields within the intersection of Elysian Fields and Mirabeau.

After impact the vehicle veered into the right northbound travel lane of Elysian Fields and came to rest within the intersection of Elysian Fields and Mirabeau.

It is the opinion of the I/O through witnesses statements physical evidence and investigation vehicle #1 was not traveling at an excessive speed at the point of impact. This is based on the appx. location of impact the lack of skidding of the vehicle and the distance the vehicle traveled after impact, to final rest.

This accident could have been caused by one or more of the following reasons.

1. The victim entering the roadway from infront of the bus causing a view obstruction for both the victim and the driver of vehicle #1.
2. Possible inattentiveness on the part of the victim by failing to check for oncoming traffic before entering the travel lanes or poor judgement by attempting to cross against the light with oncoming traffic.
3. Possible inattentiveness on the part of the driver of vehicle #1 by not seeing the victim until impact.

Office of the Honorable District to be consulted.

The attached Boston teletype reports the proposed interview of former U.S. Attorney General Richard Kleindeinst at Tucson, Arizona.

This investigation involves the activities of [redacted] a cooperating government witness and insurance promoter, who together with high ranking LIUNA officials devised a plan whereby they would acquire an insurance company with the goal of providing all insurance coverage to LIUNA. In return LIUNA officials were to be provided cash payments and stock interest in the insurance company set up by [redacted]. As a result of this investigation, an indictment was returned, on 9/23/81. This indictment was dismissed, on 3/12/82, on the grounds of the government's failure to indict within the statute of limitations. This dismissal was appealed to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals which returned the indictment to the Southern District of Florida for trial. Trial date is currently set for 11/1/84.

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

- A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- C - All others

Claiming Convictions Other Than Federal:

It is permissible to claim a local (state, county or local) conviction if the FBI's investigation significantly contributed to the successful local prosecution. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for claiming a local conviction must accompany this report. When claiming a conviction other than Federal, enter the word "LOCAL" in the "Conviction-Section" block, disregard the number of conviction counts, but enter the sentence in the appropriate blocks. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for all capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

- 1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
- 2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IATs) Used:

-Since more than one IAT could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IAT must be rated.

-The IAT used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - If informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

- A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- C - All others

Claiming Convictions Other Than Federal:

It is permissible to claim a local (state, county or local) conviction if the FBI's investigation significantly contributed to the successful local prosecution. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for claiming a local conviction must accompany this report. When claiming a conviction other than Federal, enter the word "LOCAL" in the Conviction-Section block, disregard the number of conviction counts, but enter the sentence in the appropriate blocks. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for all capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IATs) Used:

- Since more than one IAT could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IAT must be rated.
- The IAT used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Re: [redacted] et al.; LIUNA RICO - CONSPIRACY. OO: Boston

b6

Attached teletype reports that on 12/6/84 Judge James King rendered a directed verdict of acquittal with respect to defendants [redacted]

[redacted] citing the Government's failure to provide sufficient evidence to prove the conspiracy extended into the period covered by the five year statute of limitations.

By background, on 9/21/81, an FGJ in Miami indicted four individuals for one count of RICO conspiracy. On 3/10/82, a USDJ, SDF, dismissed the indictment because the only overt act which occurred within the statute of limitations was not in furtherance of the charged conspiracy. The 11th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the USDC holding the General Conspiracy Statute requires proof of an overt act, the RICO Statute does not. Trial date was set for 12/16/83.

b7C

The requirement of the statute of limitations is satisfied if the conspiracy is alleged to have continued into the limitations period. The conspiracy may be deemed to continue as long as its purposes have neither been abandoned nor accomplished. Strike Force Attorney [redacted]

[redacted] SDF, advised that contrary to USG's motions contending conspiracy continued through 1976, Judge King ruled that evidence existed prior to 1976, such as company liquidations, which indicated termination of the conspiracy. The last alleged overt act was a liquidation of funds and not an act furthering any conspiracy.

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

- A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- H - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- C - All others

Claiming Convictions Other Than Federal:

It is permissible to claim a local (state, county or local) conviction if the FBI's investigation significantly contributed to the successful local prosecution. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for claiming a local conviction must accompany this report. When claiming a conviction other than Federal, enter the word "LOCAL" in the Conviction-Section block, disregard the number of conviction counts, but enter the sentence in the appropriate blocks. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for all capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

- 1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
- 2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:

- Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T must be rated.
- The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-302s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-615 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

- A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.
- C - All others

Claiming Convictions Other Than Federal:

It is permissible to claim a local (state, county or local) conviction if the FBI's investigation significantly contributed to the successful local prosecution. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for claiming a local conviction must accompany this report. When claiming a conviction other than Federal, enter the word "LOCAL" in the Conviction-Section block, disregard the number of conviction counts, but enter the sentence in the appropriate blocks. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for all capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

- 1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
- 2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IATs) Used:

Since more than one IAT could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IAT must be rated.

The IAT used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction, and if separate FD-516s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-516 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

This investigation concerned the business activities of [REDACTED] Farmers National Life Insurance Company, Miami, Florida, during the years 1974 - 1976. Through [REDACTED] business and close personal relationship with captioned subjects, and other high-ranking LIUNA officials, [REDACTED] was able to obtain very profitable LIUNA health and welfare insurance contracts. In return, [REDACTED] would make cash payments, kickbacks and provide other forms of personal gifts to the LIUNA officials by means of a complex corporate network of insurance companies and agencies.

b7C

On September 23, 1981, a Federal Grand Jury in the Southern District of Florida returned a true bill charging captioned subjects in a one count RICO - Conspiracy indictment, all in violation of Title 18, U.S. Code, Section 1952 (d).

On November 6, 1984, trial commenced before U.S. District Court Judge James Lawrence King in Miami, Florida. On December 6, 1984, Judge King rendered a directed verdict of acquittal with respect to defendants [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

Jr. Judge King cited the Government's failure to provide sufficient evidence to prove the conspiracy alleged in the indictment extended into the period covered by the five year Statute of Limitations.

This memorandum contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Re Miami teletypes to Bureau, dated 4/29/87 and 7/21/87; Bureau airtel to Miami, dated 4/19/88.

For the information of the Bureau, the above captioned matter is currently being maintained in a P* status by the Miami Division due to the fact that the four subjects sentenced in the Southern District of Florida, on 7/21/87, to ten years incarceration each for violation of a one count RICO Conspiracy charge have appealed their convictions with the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals; no decision has yet been rendered by the court as concerns these appeals.

It is further noted that a Washington, D.C. law firm has submitted FOI requests, reference convicted LIUNA defendant, [redacted] to the Miami Strike Force and the Laborers District Councils in Chicago and Miami.

The Bureau will be advised as to dispositions of these matters.

A REVIEW OF TRENTON TIMES NEWSPAPER, MICROFILM LIBRARY, COVERING THE PERIOD OF APRIL - MAY, 1976, DISCLOSED NO MENTION OF TRAVEL BY NEW JERSEY GOVERNOR BRENDAN BRYNE TO PALM BEACH, FLORIDA. THE ONLY TRAVEL OF THE GOVERNOR OUTSIDE THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY DURING THE ABOVE TIME-FRAME DOCUMENTED BY NEWS REPORTS
WAS A TRIP TO IRELAND, MAY 7-10, 1976. NEWARK IS OF THE OPINION THAT IN ORDER TO POSITIVELY DETERMINE WHETHER SUCH FLORIDA TRAVEL

officials across the U.S. in order to secure various Taft-Hartley insurance contracts for his insurance companies.

In 2/79, [] two (2) RICO violations at Phoenix, Arizona, and subsequently agreed to cooperate with the FBI in Operation BRILAB.

b7C

Upon completion of Operation BRILAB, [] was interviewed extensively by Bureau Agents from both Boston and Miami. [] related a scheme whereby [] other LIUNA officials conspired to acquire a national insurance company for the purpose of delivering to that company all union insurance business over which the LIUNA officials had influence. Initially, [] Farmers' National Life Insurance Company, Miami, Florida, which was licensed in six (6) southeastern states. In early 1976, in an effort to expand their operation, [] and others attempted to acquire the Great American Life Insurance Company (GALIC), East Orange, New Jersey, through a company known as the Great Pacific Corporation. The Great Pacific Corporation was established by [] specifically to acquire GALIC.

In conjunction with the acquisition of GALIC, [] and a Rhode Island attorney, and [] allegedly traveled to Miami, Florida, where they advised [] that by paying [] $50,000, they could obtain the approval of the New Jersey Insurance Commission for [] acquisition of GALIC.

[] advised that he gave [] $50,000 cash and that according to them, they proceeded to Palm Beach, Florida, where they []. [] later utilized the law firm of ZAZZALI and ZAZZALI, Gateway One, Newark, New Jersey, in handling the attempted acquisition. ZAZZALI & ZAZZALI allegedly handled the campaign of Governor BYRNE at one time. In the summer of 1976, after receiving adverse information on [] the New Jersey Insurance Commission rejected the proposed acquisition. [] the National American Life Insurance Company, New Orleans, Louisiana, through a holding company known as the National Pacific Corporation.

Investigation to date in this matter indicates that [redacted] and [redacted] stayed at the Breakers Hotel, Palm Beach, Florida, during the early part of 1976. At this time, it is not known whether or not there was an actual payoff [redacted] or a scam conducted on [redacted]

b7C

On 7/11/80, Attorney-in-Charge [redacted] New England Strike Force, advised that he feels that allegations against [redacted] are extremely sensitive. He advised that Deputy Associate Attorney General PHILIP HEYMAN, U.S. Department of Justice, has been appraised of all details in this matter. Additionally, Attorney [redacted] requests that no active investigation be conducted by the Newark Division at this time, inasmuch as it might tend to jeopardize other aspects of this case. [redacted] also advised that U.S. Dept. of Justice concurs in incremental approach to this investigation.

b6

Newark is, therefore, requested to hold in abeyance any investigation in this matter until further communications.

Re Boston teletype to the Bureau, 2/5/81. DE 125

Enclosed for receiving office is one copy of a memorandum from the Director to the Office of Enforcement Operations, Criminal Division, which authorizes you to use a transmitting and recording device as described in referenced communication.

Within 45 days of authorization, furnish the following information to FBI Headquarters regarding the use of this equipment:

1. Aided in directing course of investigation.
2. Obtained direct evidence.
3. Was used - no information of value obtained.
4. Furnished lead material.
5. Gave protection to Agent or person wearing recorder.
6. Was not used.

More than one of the above can apply in a case.

You are reminded that in those instances when the identity of the nonconsenting party is not known at the time of the request, a letterhead memorandum should be forwarded to the Bureau within 30 days following termination of monitoring which will identify the nonconsenting party.

In the event a renewal of this authority is deemed warranted, submit your request with full justification (Manual of Investigative Operations, Part II, Section 10, Page 1062) at least seven days prior to the expiration of the existing authority.

183-373-23

In addition, you should insure that all persons identified as having been monitored, are suitably included in the field office and FBIHQ ELSUR indices, commensurate with existing instructions as outlined in Bureau airtels to all offices dated 4/12/77, 6/2/77, and 10/21/77, entitled, "Microphone and Telephone Surveillances." Strict administrative controls must be established to insure these requirements are met.

Date February 6, 1981

From : Director, FBI

Subject: ARTHUR E. COIA;
AND OTHERS;
RACKETEER INFLUENCED AND CORRUPT ORGANIZATIONS

Attached is a copy of a communication which furnishes information concerning a current investigation. Exigent circumstances precluded a request for authorization in advance to utilize an electronic device to monitor and/or record private conversations with the consent of a party.

Under the provisions of Part II(a) of the Attorney General's Memorandum of September 22, 1980, to the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies entitled, "Monitoring Private Conversations with the Consent of a Party," emergency monitoring was instituted under the authorization of an appropriate official of the FBI.

Monitoring of this conversation was authorized in the best interest of law enforcement in that it was expected to provide corroborative evidence and to protect the individual utilizing the equipment.

Further monitoring is expected in this matter and it is requested that your office approve the use of this equipment for a period of 30 days beginning the date on which you grant authority.

Enclosed for Bureau and Newark are one (1) copy each of an FD-302 on [redacted] dated 2/12/81.

On 2/12/81, [redacted] was interviewed in the presence of his attorney at Newark, New Jersey, by Bureau Agent from Boston Division and Strike Force Attorney [redacted] New England Organized Crime Strike Force, regarding the attempted acquisition of the Great American Life Insurance Company, East Orange, New Jersey, by the Great Pacific Corporation (GPC), a company established and controlled by [redacted]. The acquisition failed on May 28, 1976, when the New Jersey Insurance Commission disapproved the proposal submitted by GPC.

During the course of the interview, [redacted] advised that he came to [redacted] through his relationship with [redacted] Laborers' International Union of North America (LIUNA). [redacted] believes that [redacted] was "generally aware" of [redacted] association with New Jersey Governor BRENDAN BYRNE, however, he was never asked by anyone connected with GPC to use his influence with BYRNE in the acquisition. [redacted] did state that shortly before his law firm was replaced in this matter by the firm of Larr, Buino and Tompkins, he was visited by [redacted] an attorney and [redacted] if he could push along the matter pending before the New Jersey Insurance Commission. [redacted] felt that his clients wanted him to do above and beyond what an attorney could do in the matter.

[redacted] that the matter was not going to be sped up or slowed down and that if the client was not satisfied, they could get another attorney.

On 3/12/81, Bureau Supervisor LOUIS FREEH advised the Boston Division that [redacted] had been nominated on 3/11/81 by Governor BYRNE for Attorney General of New Jersey, and that approval is imminent.

On 3/16/81, [redacted] is scheduled to continue his debriefing in this matter.

On 3/19/81, [redacted] is scheduled to reappear before a Federal Grand Jury at Boston, Mass.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/18/81

[redacted] was interviewed in the presence of [redacted] at the law offices of Greenberg, Dauber and Epstein, Room 815, Gateway One, Newark, New Jersey. [redacted] were advised of the official identities of the interviewing Agent and of Strike Force Attorney [redacted] and of the nature of the interview which concerned an attempt by the Great Pacific Corporation (GPC) to acquire the Great American Life Insurance Company (GALIC) of East Orange, New Jersey.

[redacted] advised that regarding this matter, his best recollection is that at some time prior to February 4, 1976, he received a telephone call from [redacted] Laborers International Union of North America (LIUNA) to the effect that [redacted] would be receiving a telephone call. [redacted] stated that he could not recall all the details of this conversation and it was not until he received a telephone call from [redacted] and subsequent conversations that he realized the actual referral of this matter had been made by [redacted].

[redacted] advised as a matter of background that his [redacted] had done business for [redacted] and LIUNA and that he had known [redacted] for a number of years. He described their relationship as "close" and feels that [redacted] was aware of his background as Assistant District Attorney for Essex County under, now Governor BRENDAN BYRNE, as head of the Appellate Division for that same entity and as a supporter for Governor BYRNE in the 1973 election as a member of the Lawyers Committee for BYRNE. [redacted] added that he had also served as Counsel to the Sports Authority prior to 1976, however, he has not served in any advisory position to Governor BYRNE. In summary, [redacted] advised that he feels that [redacted] was "generally aware" of his relationship with Governor BRENDAN BYRNE.

[redacted] advised that between February 4 - 6, 1976, he had what he described as "miscellaneous" telephone conversations with [redacted] who was in Miami. He advised that [redacted] told him that he was interested in acquiring an insurance company. [redacted] stated again that he did not recall all of the details of these conversations, but that he believes as a result of these conversations he began to make inquiries regarding the application procedures for acquiring an insurance company in New Jersey. He also believes that as a result of these conversations a meeting was scheduled in his office on February 9, 1976.

[redacted] advised that in preparation for the February 9, 1976 meeting he prepared a letter dated February 8, 1976, which concerned instructions regarding the acquisition. This letter was probably presented at the meeting, but [redacted] was not sure. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that the first meeting of which he is aware regarding the proposed acquisition of GALIC occurred in the conference room at the law offices of Zazzali and Zazzali, Gateway One, Newark, New Jersey on February 9, 1976. [redacted] stated that present at this meeting were [redacted] a man whose name began [redacted] and himself. During the course of the meeting other attorneys from the firm may have come into the meeting to "glad-hand" clients. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] recalled that when he first entered the conference room for the meeting he was surprised at the number of people present. He had known ARTHUR E. COIA, Vice President, LIUNA, because he had "appeared" before him on a number of labor matters consisting of appellate union matters held in New York City. He was not sure if he knew [redacted] before the meeting, but believes it may have been the first time he had met him. He somehow knew [redacted] was an attorney. He thinks he made a comment to COIA about being [redacted]. He was aware that ARTHUR E. COIA and [redacted] were "close". b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that during the meeting all of the "clients" talked. They indicated that they wanted to acquire GALIC. They described how the acquisition would take place by one company acquiring another. They stressed time. They indicated that they had to "move fast" and that "Full attention" had to be devoted to the acquisition. Documents would have to be "hand delivered" by a messenger service and that they were working with a contingency contract and that they must have approval by the New Jersey Insurance Commission by June 1, 1976. [redacted] advised that it was his impression that cost would be no object in the acquisition. b6 b7C

[] advised that at this meeting he believes he reviewed the contents of his February 8, 1976 memo concerning the approval process and that he may have discussed Administrative, Federal and State laws relative to this matter. He also believes that [] with the Insurance field. [] would have also made his "standard speech" about the firm not being able to predict the outcome of the matter.

[] advised that it was his impression that the insurance application to the New Jersey Insurance Commission would be "Pro Forma" and that it would take about two months to complete. Arrangements were made to have a second meeting in Florida on February 12, 1976. [] could not recall who suggested the meeting.

[] advised that according to his records, on February 10, 1976, [] had a meeting with New Jersey Deputy Insurance Commissioner []. On February 11, 1976, he did some work on the Biographic Forms needed for the filing. Also on the 11th he had phone conversations with people in Florida about the trip. He recalled that the client prepaid the airline tickets. Also on the 11th he spoke to Deputy Commissioner FOLEY about a filing date of February 13, 1976.

[] advised that February 12, 1976 was the date he left for Florida. [] stated that as he recalled it he arrived at the airport late for the 8:00 AM flight. [] was waiting for him. He is not sure if [] was present. He remembers some conversation about Governor BYRNE, but is not sure. He recalled some "casual" expression of disappointment to the effect that the Governor was not on the plane. There may have been a mention to one of the clients about Governor BYRNE being on the flight or that the Governor was also going to be in Florida but again, he could not be sure.

[] stated that he had recently discussed this matter with [] and that it was [] recollection that [] arrived late for the flight but that it was a ticket agent who said the Governor was going to be on the plane. [] stated that [] was certain that [] was not on the flight and that the ticket agent made a call and established the fact that the Governor would not be on the plane.

[redacted] advised that he did not recall seeing a ticket for the Governor. He recalled that in either Florida or Newark there was some mention of a reservation for the Governor, but does not recall who made the remark. He stated that this was only conjecture, that somehow the client became aware the Governor was going to be on the flight. He stated that he recalled some awareness of this on the part of [redacted]

[redacted] advised that after he and [redacted] arrived in Miami they were picked up by a limousine. They were driven to the offices of the Farmers National Life Insurance Company where they went to the office of [redacted]. There they met [redacted] explained that these individuals were either there when they arrived, or came in later.

[redacted] stated that after about an hour he and [redacted] left Farmers and went to the Americana Hotel to say hello to [redacted] stayed at Farmers. [redacted] stated that he and [redacted] proceeded to the coffee shop at the Americana where they met [redacted] ARTHUR E. COIA.

[redacted] recalled that at this meeting he had some discussion with ARTHUR E. COIA [redacted] There was also some discussion between [redacted] ARTHUR E. COIA about an insurance agency in New England. [redacted] stated that it was clear to him that everybody knew each other. [redacted] recalled a comment by [redacted] with words to the effect about [redacted] being a good man. [redacted] described the meeting as friendly. After the meeting he and [redacted] took a taxicab back to Farmers National Life Insurance Company. During the cab drive back, [redacted] recalled that he discussed the application process with [redacted] Also during this conversation, [redacted] if he had ever been convicted of a crime or been investigated. [redacted] to the questions.

[redacted] explained at that point in time he believed that [redacted] was to be included in the application to purchase GALIC and the questions would be necessary for the biographical data to be submitted to the New Jersey Insurance Commission. In the meeting of February 9, 1976, his firm had actually been asked to work with [redacted] and for that reason, subsequent correspondence such as a letter on February 11, 1976, is directed to [redacted] stated that he knew when they came to Florida that they would be working at Farmers, however, he wasn't really sure of all the relationships. He stated that he doesn't remember if he was even aware that [redacted] of Farmers. He stated that he felt [redacted] was the "headman" or "prime mover" and acted as the promoter. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that after they arrived back at Farmers he went to the conference room where he and [redacted] worked on the application, its exhibits, the position paper and biographical data on the proposed acquisition of GALIC. He recalled there was a lot of shuttling of people in and out over the next 2 - 3 days. During the period February 12-14, 1976, there were a number of work sessions in the conference room where they worked almost exclusively with [redacted] and [redacted] on preparing for the Acquisition Documents. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that on February 13, 1976, he and [redacted] continued to work on the previously mentioned areas. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that on either February 12 or February 13, [redacted] came in to he and [redacted] and said that there was no need for [redacted] name on the application since there was no slot on the application for it. [redacted] stated that he is not sure who came in and made the statement. He advised that the response given was that [redacted] won't be (on the application) if it doesn't have to be. If it does, it will. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that he was told by [redacted] that they owned the Great Pacific Corporation 60% and 40% respectively. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that while in Miami he and [redacted] had dinner by themselves one night and the other night they had dinner with [redacted] was a well-known lawyer in California; a secretary further described as blond and slender, and a lawyer from Florida, name unrecalled. [redacted] stated that [redacted] was another person who would be in contact with him regarding the acquisition. [redacted] advised that one night they stayed at the Americana and that the other night they stayed at some club. He stated that he cannot be sure which night they stayed at the Americana since they may not have paid and there was no bill. [redacted] stated that [redacted] told him that he recalled running into [redacted] one night at the hotel and [redacted] had made a comment to him to the effect that he had referred a good one to him. b6 b7C

[] advised that he left Miami on February 14, 1976, and he is not sure if he and [] flew back together. The morning of the 14th was spent finishing off the position paper and [] believes that the paper may have been typed in Miami. Arrangements were made for the client to bring the exhibits to New Jersey.

[] advised that it was during the period February 12-14, 1976, that he last saw []. Also, February 12, 1976 was the only time he met [] relative to this matter. [] advised that he had met [] once before and was aware that he had been formerly the General Secretary-Treasurer or number two man in LIUNA. [] stated that he doesn't recall who he heard it from, but [] LIUNA because of []. He stated that he began to get the impression of a "relationship" between LIUNA officials, [] and the insurance business.

[] advised that he believes that on February 17, 1976, [] took a limousine from Newark to []. [] is not sure if the exhibits were brought up at this time. In any event, [] signed the application on behalf of Great Pacific and the filing was made at Trenton. [] advised that he recalled driving across state to Trenton to be at the filing.

[] advised that on February 20, 1976, he spoke with representatives of the insurance department and recalled that there were phone conversations to obtain additional documents. There were also some problem areas on the documents.

[] advised that according to his records, on February 18, 1976, there was apparently a phone call to [] from [] regarding the status of the acquisition. [] stated that when he reviewed the time cards he was surprised to see this call.

[] advised that in March, 1976, he ran into [] either in his office or some other location. He stated that at the time [] made a remark to the effect that you know that case I referred to you, I don't care what you do with it. [] stated that the remark had impact on him since it was so negative. He stated that in his opinion, [] is a "cryptic type" person in some of his statements and was not exactly sure what [] meant by this statement.

[] advised that during the period February 9 - March 5 he was constantly being requested by the client to "get a hearing" and "get that date", meaning the hearing date. b6 b7C

[] advised that as a result of a jurisdictional dispute between one of the Laborer Locals and LIUNA in 1978 or 1979, he has become persona non grata with [] President, LIUNA. [] stated that his firm still represents the local, but not in the jurisdictional dispute. b6 b7C

[] advised that he knows [] and he believes there is a close relationship between [] [] stated that he has heard [] sing at a couple of union functions. [] advised that he knows of no association between [] and the insurance matter. He has heard [] in California. b6 b7C

[] advised that on March 5, 1976, a hearing was held before the New Jersey Insurance Commission regarding the proposed acquisition of GALIC by GP. He is not sure, but he and [] may have met with [] prior to the hearing. In any event, he believes that he would have asked [] to concentrate on the six basic criteria points for acquiring an insurance company in New Jersey if he did meet with him. b6 b7C

[] advised that even a review of the transcripts do not refresh his memory regarding any prior discussion he may have had with [] before the hearing. b6 b7C

[] advised that during the hearing he acted essentially as a "conduit" for facilitating a quick acquisition by GP. He [] b6 b7C b7D

[] stated that at the time of the hearing, he was not aware [] had an interest in GP, nor was he aware of any agreement by [] to cede 80% of the business to [] b6 b7C b7D

[] Also, he was not aware of any single person who had control of the insurance agencies affiliated with GP. b6 b7C b7D

[] advised that after the hearing as the result of a number of questions concerning [] he had a discussion with [] to the effect that something must be executed to satisfy the insurance commission that [] and others would not be taking over GP after the acquisition. Later a resolution agreement was filed by [] to address this situation. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] advised that during the hearing he learned that [redacted] had gone to the insurance department. [redacted] stated that he was upset about this because he should have known about their appearance before the hearing. On March 8, 1976 he was advised by [redacted] that the reason [redacted] went to the insurance department was to find out what the application procedures were. b6 b7C

[redacted] explained that he was the attorney for GP in the proposed acquisition of GALIC. [redacted] were not co-counsel in this matter. He stated that he was not exactly sure of [redacted] relationship to GP in this matter. They both apparently had some function and he believes that [redacted] was involved in the "input" function with GP. In summary, [redacted] stated that [redacted] were part of the client group performing a function that he could not identify. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that on or about March 20, 1976, he (first name unknown) met with Deputy Insurance Commissioner [redacted] was concerned about "out of state" rumors on [redacted]. Also present during this meeting were Deputy Attorney General [redacted] or [redacted]. It was recommended that someone write to other states and request information on [redacted]. This resulted in a letter being written on March 24, 1976. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that according to his records, on March 24, 1976, [redacted] had a phone conversation with [redacted] the contents of which were unknown to him. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that on March 24 or March 25 he received newspaper clippings about [redacted] reviewed them. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that between March 25 and March 27, 1976, he had conversations with [redacted] and was advised that [redacted] was not involved in the acquisition. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that around the end of March, 1976, he received a telephone call from [redacted] stated that he wanted to come down and meet with [redacted] and discuss the case. [redacted] came to [redacted] office, either alone or with another individual, [redacted] was not sure. During the meeting, [redacted] the "case" had to be expedited. [redacted] stated that he told [redacted] the matter was not going to be sped up or slowed down and that it would be decided in five days. [redacted] also told [redacted] that if they were not satisfied, they could get another attorney. b6 b7C

[] advised that during the meeting, [] asked questions to the effect, "Can you be more assertive", or "Can you be more aggressive." [] advised that he sensed a general dissatisfaction with his firm. [] recalled that during the meeting, [] said things like "Push it along" or "Would you push it more" or "Can you help it along". [] advised in summary they apparently wanted him to do above and beyond what an attorney could do. b6 b7C

[] advised that a few days later he received a phone call from Attorney [] of Lutz, Buino and Thompkins (LBT) law firm and was told that LBT had been asked to represent GP in its acquisition of CALIC. [] requested that [] come over and talk with [] about the case. [] stated that he met with [] and after discussion it was his impression that [] felt the case was "going down the tubes." [] stated that [] handled the case from then on. A week later he had another discussion with [] and he appeared optimistic about the case. b6 b7C

[] advised that he heard nothing more until the day before the second hearing which was held on May 11, 1976. He met with [] office. Thereafter, he helped handle the May 11, 1976 hearing. b6 b7C

[] advised that he also recalled a conference call with [] in which [] became "volatile" saying words to the effect "You gotta do something; you gotta push." b6 b7C

[] advised that after the decision came in rejecting the acquisition he sent a copy of the decision to [] b6 b7C

ACTION MEMORANDUM

Attached is a copy of a communication which furnishes information concerning a current investigation. Exigent circumstances precluded a request for authorization in advance to utilize an electronic device to monitor and/or record private conversations with the consent of a party.

Under the provisions of Part II(a) of the Attorney General's Memorandum of September 22, 1980, to the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies entitled, "Monitoring Private Conversations with the Consent of a Party," emergency monitoring was instituted under the authorization of an appropriate official of the FBI.

Monitoring of this conversation was authorized in the best interest of law enforcement in that it was expected to provide corroborative evidence and to protect the individual utilizing the equipment.

Further monitoring is expected in this matter and it is requested that your office approve the use of this equipment for a period of 30 days beginning the date on which you grant authority.

Attached is a copy of a communication which furnishes information concerning a current investigation. Exigent circumstances precluded a request for authorization in advance to utilize an electronic device to monitor and/or record private conversations with the consent of a party.

Under the provisions of Part II(a) of the Attorney General's Memorandum of September 22, 1980, to the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies entitled, "Monitoring Private Conversations with the Consent of a Party," emergency monitoring was instituted under the authorization of an appropriate official of the FBI.

Monitoring of this conversation was authorized in the best interest of law enforcement in that it was expected to provide corroborative evidence and to protect the individual utilizing the equipment.

Further monitoring is expected in this matter and it is requested that your office approve the use of this equipment for a period of 30 days beginning the date on which you grant authority.

Enclosed for receiving office is one copy of a memorandum from the Director to the Office of Enforcement Operations, Criminal Division, which authorizes you to use a transmitting and recording device as described in referenced communication.

Within 45 days of authorization, furnish the following information to FBI Headquarters regarding the use of this equipment:

1. Aided in directing course of investigation.
2. Obtained direct evidence.
3. Was used - no information of value obtained.
4. Furnished lead material.
5. Gave protection to Agent or person wearing recorder.
6. Was not used.

More than one of the above can apply in a case.

You are reminded that in those instances when the identity of the nonconsenting party is not known at the time of the request, a letterhead memorandum should be forwarded to the Bureau within 30 days following termination of monitoring which will identify the nonconsenting party.

In the event a renewal of this authority is deemed warranted, submit your request with full justification (Manual of Investigative Operations, Part II, Section 10, Page 1062) at least seven days prior to the expiration of the existing authority.

Enclosed for the Bureau are one copy each of Prosecutive Memo dated 5/19/81 to [REDACTED] Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, U.S. Department of Justice from [REDACTED] Strike Force, Boston, Massachusetts and accompanying 10 page indictment. (5)

On 5/28/81 Strike Force [REDACTED] advised that he anticipated indictments in the above captioned matter within the next three weeks pending approval by USDOJ. [REDACTED] noted that the above case together with the Miami and a third Strike Force case involving [REDACTED] are under review by a USDOJ Attorney who specializes in labor law cases.

This review was prompted by complaints from the Laborers Union of North America which indicated that they were being singled out by USDOJ for prosecution.

FBIHQ will be kept apprised of any further developments in this matter.

Narrative of Offense:

This investigation instituted on 10/26/77 was predicated on the receipt of information from [redacted] via the Los Angeles Division of the FBI (FD-302 dated 10/4-22/76, Los Angeles file number 183-80, Bufile number 183-839) to the effect that during the years 1974 through 1976 [redacted] through his close relationship with international level officers and other influential members and associates of the Laborers' International Union of North America (LIUNA) and through a complex corporate network of insurance companies, agencies and "fronting" agreements had been able to secure millions of dollars in insurance business from labor union health and welfare benefit plans throughout the United States. Additional information for this investigation was gleaned from the Labor Union Insurance Hearings Before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Governmental Affairs United States Senate Ninety-Fifth Congress First Session which were held in October and November 1977; the proceedings before the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) in the matter of the acquisition of the Securities of the National American Life Insurance (SEC file H0946) held in August and September 1976 and in the matter of the Interstate Securities Company, ISC Financial Corporation, Farmers National Life Insurance Company, Sage Corporation, [redacted] (SEC file HO-987), held during 1978 and 1979; the hearings before the New Jersey Insurance Commission in the matter of the proposed acquisition of the Great American Life Insurance Company of East Orange, New Jersey by the Great Pacific Corporation; and last but not least information provided by [redacted]

BS 183A-371
BS 183A-373

The following explains the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization (RICO) conspiracy entered into by Arthur E. Coia, General Secretary Treasurer, LIUNA, [redacted]

b6
b7C

Raymond L. S. Patriarca, reputed New England Organized Crime Boss, [redacted] and others in violation of Title 18, Section 1962 (d), a conspiracy to violate Title 18, Section 1962 (c) of the RICO Statute.

The violation occurred through their employment and/or association with LIUNA, a union organization engaged in activities which affect interstate commerce and whose affairs were conducted and/or participated in directly and indirectly by the subjects both through a pattern of racketeering activity and through the collection of at least one unlawful debt.

The pattern of racketeering activity was carried out by the following substantive Federal violations:

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1954 (Offer, Acceptance or Solicitation to influence operations of employee benefit plan) in 1974, 1975 and 1976 with respect to the Rhode Island Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund when [redacted]

b6

[redacted] gave things of value such as cash, stock gifts and other items and paid for trips, hotel rooms, meals and other items for the subjects, their friends and their relatives.

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1341 (Mail Fraud) in 1975 or 1976 when the subjects and others knowingly caused the request for bids and/or other items of correspondence for the aforementioned funds and/or the Amalgamated Food Handlers Local 328 and/or the Amalgamated Food Workers Local 10 Health and Welfare Fund to be delivered by the Postal Service to Old Security Life Insurance Company and/or Tolley International Corporation and/or other recipients. This statute was also violated when mailings were made by the National Group Insurance Agency, Inc. and/or the Northeast Insurance Agency Inc. in furtherance of the scheme and in conjunction with the proposed acquisition of the Great American Life Insurance Company.

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343 (Wire Fraud) when on April 21, 1976 one million dollars was transferred by wire from Baybank Middlesex, Everett, Massachusetts to the First National Bank of Arizona, Phoenix, Arizona in conjunction with the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract.

b3 Rule 6(e) FRCP

b7C

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1503 (Obstruction of Justice) when in April 1979 Arthur E. Coia made a $3000 payment at Los Angeles to [redacted] and again in March 1980 when he endeavored to influence the testimony of [redacted] at Miami, Florida before a Miami Federal Grand Jury regarding part of this investigation.

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1962 (c) when in December 1975 the collection of an unlawful debt in the amount of $7500 was made by [redacted] from [redacted]

b7C

Title 29, United States Code, Section 501 (a) (Embezzlement of Union Funds) when on March 5, 1975 check number 3383 from the Massachusetts Laborers' District Council was issued to [redacted] in the amount of $593.46 for he and his wife's air fare to Miami ostensibly to tour the Farmers National Life Insurance Company. In his affidavit before the Senate Subcommittee on Labor Union Insurance [redacted] stated in reference to this trip "The air fare was paid by the insurance carrier as well as hotel accommodations." There are indications that additional embezzlements occurred when Laborers Local 1033 the R.I. Municipal Employees Union took over the lease of Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. after it was dissolved, since the lease was guaranteed by Coia and Lepore.

b7C

There are also indications on at least three occasions of violations of Title 18, Section 1951 (Hobbs Act - Extortion) when [redacted] was threatened in 1976 by one or more of the subjects or their surrogates in Washington, D.C. and Providence, Rhode Island in furtherance of this plan.

b6

Although not part of the RICO Conspiracy the following also explains violations of Title 18, Section 1001 made by [redacted] (supra) and [redacted] in affidavits and/or recorded testimony before the Senate Subcommittee on Labor Union Insurance in 1977 and/or the Securities and Exchange Commission during the years 1976 and 1977 in conjunction with the awarding of the Massachusetts Laborers contract to OSLIC and the acquisition of the National American Life Insurance Company by [redacted] National Pacific Corporation respectively. There is also indication that violations of Title 18, Section 1014 (False Statements to a bank in order to secure a loan) were made with respect to the loan package for the Great Pacific Corporation's acquisition of the Great American Life Insurance Company submitted to the Citizens Bank and Trust and the Peoples Bank of Providence, Rhode Island.

[redacted] advised that in 1973, [redacted] influential officials of the Laborers' Union namely, Arthur E. Coia, then Vice President, LIUNA, [redacted] LIUNA [redacted] devised a plan whereby they would obtain a national insurance company which would ultimately receive all of the insurance business from labor unions and labor union members throughout the United States. There was also a plan to obtain labor union business from Canada. The objective of this plan was to make [redacted] Coia, [redacted] and [redacted] a lot of money, b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] advised that the initial business for this insurance company would come from the various Taft-Hartley Trust funds set up by the unions throughout the United States. He advised that the trust funds would be sold health, accident and expensive group permanent life insurance, a form of whole life insurance which builds up a cash surrender value. He stated that this cash surrender aspect would insure continued business with the insurance company since the cash accumulated would be lost if the fund ever switched carriers. Trust funds which did not initially accept group permanent life insurance for their members would be sold lower cost group term insurance and then later be pressured to switch to group permanent.

[redacted] advised that after the trust funds were sold their group policies, they would turn over the name, address and phone number of every individual union member covered under the group. The insurance company, through various local insurance agencies [redacted] and the union officials, would then go to individual union members with a letter from the union. The letter would endorse the insurance company. The union member would be sold an individual policy from the insurance company. This is known as "add on" business. [redacted] "add on" plan had a feature known as cancer life insurance, which would be purchased by the union member in addition to the coverage which they already had under the group policy. [redacted] the rate of success of solicitation of these types of insurance policies was seven out of ten. [redacted] the sale of these type policies would make the insurance companies many, many millions of dollars. [redacted] the total amount of money that b6 b7C b7D b6 b7C b7D could be made. Eventually, the stock of the insurance company would become extremely valuable.

[redacted] the agreement was that the union officials would receive cash, stock in the national insurance company or stock in the holding company for the national insurance company, and other things of value for delivering the union business. He stated that by delivering the business meant using their influence to make sure that his insurance company received the business.

[redacted] stated that it was his role to acquire the insurance company, to set up the holding companies, to wine and dine the various lower level union officials from the areas of the country in which the union business was to be obtained, to buy clothes, pick up restaurant tabs and motel bills, and at times have others provide prostitutes for these individuals. [redacted] it was also part of the plan for [redacted] set up the relatives, friends and associates of the union officials in the local insurance agencies. He stated that some of these local insurance agencies would also hold stock in the national insurance company or its holding company.

[redacted] the union officials so that there would be no record of their ownership in the companies which held the stock of the national insurance company. [redacted] if everything had gone according to plan, this company would have ended up one of the top ten insurance companies in the United States. He stated that it was his goal to make it the number one insurance company in the United States.

[redacted] was not aware of any organized crime associations with the LIUNA, but that after the plan got underway he learned of such associations.

[redacted] admitted that he had had a prior relationship with these union officials in California whereby he paid them money for their delivering union business in California. He stated that this relationship goes back [redacted] He advised that he had gained the trust of these individuals through years of dealings.

More recently from March, 1974 through June, 1976 [redacted] stated [redacted] recalls these payments again being made in Providence, Rhode Island, Boston, Massachusetts (Framingham), Washington, D.C., Miami, Florida (during the winter), and sometimes in Hartford, Connecticut at the Sonesta Inn. At this time, [redacted] was moving into the Florida area.

[redacted] Coia was never paid for any of the add-on business in Florida since it was not written on a very large scale. In the Florida plan, Coia, along with others, was to receive large blocks of stock in Farmer's Financial Corporation, [redacted] Company. These stock certificates were being held in the name of S.O.F., Incorporated and [redacted] S.O.F., Incorporated was [redacted] in [redacted] name, [redacted] S.O.F. Incorporated was the majority stockholder in Farmer's Financial Corporation. Summarizing, S.O.F., Incorporated would be holding stock for Coia and others. [redacted] recalls S.O.F., Incorporated stock certificates were made out to S.O.F., Incorporated.

According to [redacted] Coia was most influential in delivering the Florida labor union business. Coia made telephone calls to [redacted] all Florida Laborers' officials who received payments from [redacted] in return for delivering labor union insurance contracts to [redacted] related companies.

[redacted] the $5,000 per month payment to Coia included not only Coia's share for delivering the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund contract and Rhode Island contracts, but also for the Hawaii, Florida, Indiana, and Atlanta deals. [redacted] some of the payments to Coia took place at the Marriott Hotel in Newton and at the Laborers' Training Academy in Hopkinton, Massachusetts. [redacted] selected by [] and the bids were sent to six different companies including OSLIC. OSLIC was the low bidder and accordingly the fund voted to award its $600,000 plus contract to OSLIC.

Investigation disclosed that London Insurance Agency received $34,328 in commissions from OSLIC for this contract as of 4/30/77.

The total amount of union insurance premiums diverted to the scheme as a result of this contract was $570,096.

Summary

As a result of the conspiracy entered into by [] and officials of the Laborers' International Union of North America, $6.7 million dollars of union insurance premium monies were diverted in the New England area.

At the time, OSLIC ran into financial difficulty and the fund switched back to New York Life as the insurance carrier. The fund owed approximately $50,000 in premiums to OSLIC and that money was used to pay claims from the workers. CORPORATE ENTITIES INVOLVED

1. Great Pacific Corporation, an Arizona Corporation

Great Pacific Corp. was organized in 1975, as a subsidiary of Actuarial Consultants. At that time, [redacted]

b6
b7c

Great Pacific Corp. was created for the purpose of acquiring Family Providers Life Insurance Co., an Arizona corporation. This corporation was purchased by Great Pacific Corp. in October of 1975 from Farmers National Life Insurance Co. Family Providers and Actuarial Consultants were then reorganized so that Great Pacific Corp. became the parent, and Family Providers Life Ins. Co. and Actuarial Consultants became subsidiaries of Great Pacific Corp. In October, 1975, Western Pacific Agency, Inc., an Arizona corporation, also became a subsidiary of Great Pacific Corp.

2. Family Providers Life Insurance Co., an Arizona corporation

This carrier is licensed in Arizona alone, as a full line life carrier authorized to write health and accident business. This company had been dormant for a number of years and was a subsidiary of Farmers National Life Ins. Co. At the time of its acquisition, it was a shell, having as its capital the minimum capitalization of an Arizona Life Ins. Co., i.e., $250,000. The purchase price paid to Farmers by Actuarial Consultants was $250,000 - $50,000 in cash plus an unsecured note in the amount of $200,000. The note was payable over a five year period - interest only for the first year - with balance of principal and interest amortized over the remaining four years.

3. Actuarial Consultants, a Florida corporation

This company was formed in early 1975 by [redacted] At the time, [redacted] was employed by Farmers National as [redacted] Actuarial Consultants received fees from Farmers National for actuarial services which enabled it to make a $10,000 downpayment for the purchase of Family Providers. After reorganization, which occurred subsequent to Actuarial Consultants purchase of Family Providers, it became a subsidiary of Great Pacific Corp.

4. Western Pacific Agency, Inc., an Arizona corporation

This company was formed as a subsidiary of Great Pacific Corp. for the purpose of writing business for Family Providers. However, for some reason, this company was never licensed in Arizona as a brokerage company, and no application for an insurance company agency license was ever filed in any state.

LA 183-180

5. National Americal Life Insurance Co., a Louisiana corporation

✓ Fifty-eight percent of the capital stock of this company was purchased by National Pacific Corp. on June 15, 1976. The balance of the capital stock of this company is publicly held (approximately 1,000 shareholders). National Pacific purchased control of the company from American Commonwealth Financial Corp.

[redacted] The purchase price paid for American Commonwealth Financial Corp.'s controlling block of National American stock was $6.8 million. This purchase price was paid as follows:

a) $2.8 million cash. Of this sum, which really came from FP, $800,000 was obtained from Actuarial Consultants which, in turn, had received $800,000 in "fees" (?) from Old Security Life Ins. Co. and Farmers National Life Ins. Co. $400,000 was received from Western Pacific Agency, Inc., who, in turn, had received said funds from Old Security and Farmers as "fees" for negotiating the insurance treaties between the two companies. The balance of the cash seems to have been obtained from premiums paid by the Teamsters.

b) $4 million note payable over 4 years. The note is the obligation of National Pacific Corp. and is guaranteed by [redacted] (?).

6. Farmers National Life Insurance Co., a Florida corporation

This is a publicly held company; however, 35% of the issued and outstanding stock of this company is owned by Farmers Financial Corp. who purchased it in 1974. [redacted] has been running this company since shortly after

ABORTIVE GREAT AMERICAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY TRANSACTION

The Great American Life Insurance Co., is a New Jersey corporation. In February of 1976, [redacted]

[redacted] (do not know the amount of [redacted])

[redacted] The proposed transaction involved a purchase price of $8 million in cash for the stock of the insurance company plus certain real estate owned by American Financial Corp. which was to be purchased for $1 million in cash and $5 million in the form of a long term note.

✓ In April of 1976, Great Pacific Corp. applied to a New Jersey Commissioner of Insurance for permission to purchase Great American Life Ins. Co. In the application to the Commissioner of Insurance, it was disclosed that [redacted] Great Pacific Corp. then attempted to restructure the transaction to provide for a purchase price of $8 million - $2 million in cash and $6 million in notes. The $2 million was to come from funds obtained through Actuarial Consultants and Western Pacific Agency, Inc., or, in the alternative, from a dividend to be issued by Family Providers Life Insurance Co. When the dividend had to be rescinded (see details infra), the deal collapsed and [redacted] and [redacted] the transaction pursuant to which [redacted]

✓ OLD SECURITY'S - FARMERS' - FAMILY PROVIDERS' REINSURANCE PROGRAM

Old Security acted as a "fronting company" with respect to a number of large insurance policies issued by Old Security to several Taft-Hartley trusts. These policies had health and accident coverage and group life for members of various unions. In some cases, whole life was also part of the package. [redacted] of these policies, using the agency (National Financial Agency) as a broker. [redacted] usually attended the meetings of the trustees of the Taft-Hartley trusts and [redacted]

At the time that these policies were written, a reinsurance treaty existed between Old Security and Farmers, pursuant to which Farmers reinsured Old Security's entire risks, and received all of the premium (with the exception of a 2% reinsurance treaty) but, in fact, Farmers had the entire risk and received all of the premium. Farmers, in turn, had entered into a reinsurance treaty with Family Providers, which provided that Family Providers fully reinsure Farmers, in exchange for nearly all of the premium.

As a matter of practice, premiums, when received, were deposited in various bank accounts in the name of Old Security and Farmers, or Old Security and Farmers and Family Provider. Typically, administration of the claims relative to these policies were handled by Farmers through its Florida office. Family Provider had virtually no employees and no facilities for handling claims, and Old Security apparently did not wish to become involved in claims management, since it was totally reinsured out. The actual administration of the claims was apparently handled by Nationwide Administrators and there apparently is a Management Agreement covering Nationwide's obligation to administer the accounts and the fees to be paid to Nationwide (note that Nationwide Administrators is owned (80%) by Farmers Financial Corp.).

Typically, the accounts into which checks were deposited could be drawn by officers of Old Security, Farmers and Family Providers. The signatories included [redacted] (who is [redacted] of Nationwide Administrators).

V

FARMERS' - FAMILY PROVIDERS' TRANSACTIONS

As of January 1, 1976, two "cases", which had been written directly by Farmers, were ceded by Farmers to Family Providers. There is a coding treaty in existence with respect to these two accounts. Farmers ceded to Family Providers all future premiums with respect to these cases, plus notes secured by mortgages in the amount of $2.2 million and cash in the American Fletcher Bank, plus another bank account, the aggregate of these two accounts being approximately $1 million in exchange for the assumption of all past and future liabilities with respect to these policies. Farmers, however, did not "get off" the policy since Family Providers is only licensed in Arizona. There was approximately $328,000 in the American Fletcher Bank. This sum was intended to be reserved for Old Security (?) against claims against Old Security policies.

VI

TEAMSTERS - OLD SECURITY - FAMILY PROVIDERS TRANSACTION

In May of 1976, Old Security was the successful bidder with respect to a group insurance contract with the Teamsters of the Central States, SE and SW areas, Health and Welfare Fund of the Teamsters Union. This policy was procured through the assistance of [redacted] who had an insurance agency in Washington, D.C. [redacted] is a friend of [redacted] apparently made the first contact with [redacted]

b6

On May 1, 1976, Old Security was awarded the Teamsters contract and on May 10, 1976, [redacted] and a [redacted] Old Security, went to Chicago to pick up the first month's premium, plus a security deposit. An account was created with the Continental Bank of Chicago to handle these funds. Shortly after the deposit was made at Continental Bank of Chicago (one of the principal banks used by the Teamsters), [redacted] $1.5 million into another Old Security - Family Providers account. The purpose for this transaction was to pay a $1.1 million dividend from Family Providers to Great Pacific Corp. Great Pacific Corp. was going to use those funds to purchase the stock of National American Life.

b7c

When [redacted] found out about the withdrawal of the $1.5 million from the Old Security - Family Provider account at the Continental Bank, he called [redacted] (conference call?) and asked that the money be returned. It was then agreed that the mortgages, which secured the $2.2 million indebtedness, which were on the books of Farmers would be transferred to Old Security. This was done forthwith. Old Security then notified the Continental Bank that [redacted] [redacted] were no longer signatories with respect to the Continental Bank account.

FNLIC is a small life insurance company in Florida licensed in six states with total assets around four million dollars. At the time [redacted] it was insolvent with a total capital and surplus of about $200,000. [redacted] explained that because of the strict insurance laws it is very difficult to obtain money out of life insurance companies, [redacted] to receive FNLIC commissions, and thus have better access to funds generated by FNLIC.

[redacted] of several local laborers unions in Florida and trustee of many Taft - Hartley Trust

This money was transferred from the union to Great Pacific Corp. to Pacific Southwest Insurance Agency of Phoenix, Arizona (PSIA) to pay attorney fees. (See attachment two and 8g). This money was paid back from NAILCO to AC to the Union around August 18 - 19, 1976. [redacted] felt that [redacted]

During the early months [redacted] that a substantial amount of business was written on an individual whole life basis but this was later changed to group permanent. Thus the contracts were written on the basis of one application by the trustees and without individual members signatures. This was approved by the Florida Insurance Commission.

recalls that would often without or any knowledge, borrow large sums of money from various banks using FNLIC funds as collateral. would then take the money to another bank and borrow money on these funds using the proceeds for FNLIC operating funds or put back into FNLIC as assets. Each time these so called assets were put into FNLIC a surplus note was issued. These surplus notes were given to NFA to boost NFA's control of FNLIC because each surplus note was convertible into stock at various prices.

On February 22, 1975, in Boston, and met at the Carriage House in Miami Beach. asked to reduce the size of the FNLIC reserves established for life and accident health. that had told him that the reserves were overstated. wished to boost the FNLIC capital surplus over $1.5 million. had changed the figures on the financial statement for approval but he refused. During the early months of employment at FNLIC, found that union business written by caused a lot of problems mainly because of such as a Taft Hartly Trust fund administrator. explained that group accident and health premiums (per person per month) was paid by the Trust fund as were individual policies written on union members.

recalls that several FNLIC accounts were:

LA 183-180

Laborers Local 787
West Palm Beach Laborers
and others

[redacted] several times Group Accident and Health "packages" were written to cover union members at a loss to the insurance company in order to obtain individual whole life insurance. In other words, because of intense competition there is a very low retention rate in health insurance (5% or so for claims with the remainder going back to the trustees). All retention fees on business written by FNLIC went to NFA. However, in whole life, the insurance company retains all of the premiums. Claims in whole life run about 15 to 20% of premiums with nothing going back to the trust. 45% of the whole life premiums written by FNLIC went into NFA.

b7C

FNLIC was co-insured with National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Company (NBFC) of Chicago, Illinois (50% - 50%). Thus 50% of the premiums went to NBFC who also paid the ceding fee up front. For example FNLIC obtains $100,000 in premiums in whole life business and gives NBFC $50,000. NBFC in return agrees to pay 50% of all claims and 50% of all expenses of FNLIC. NBFC by agreement pays $45,000 to NFA as ceding fee. According to [redacted] it is normal insurance practice to pay commissions exceeding 100% on whole life business.

b6

FNLIC obtains $50,000 and gives NFA $45,000 which exceeds the agreement and is legal by insurance laws providing it does not endanger policy holders. But FNLIC financial situation was such that there was a definite endangerment to policy holders.

In February 1975, [redacted] wired $30,000 into NFA from FNLIC at the Flaggler Bank. [redacted] asked [redacted] about this and she advised she did it at [redacted] instructions.

A considerable amount of the surplus notes were obtained by issuing debentures in NFA. [redacted] $2.2 million in Sage Corporation, mortgage [redacted] and a $1 million debenture bond on the Sage Corporation to NFA then to FNLIC. [redacted] advised that the $2.2 million were always worthless to FNLIC because of a satisfaction of mortgage, signed at the time of the mortgage transaction, which [redacted] (Attachments 5, 14, 15, 16, 22, 23, 30, 31, 32, 34).

[redacted] $700,000 cash from FNLIC to NFA who gave it to the Sage Corporation. [redacted] also gave a $1.5 million NFA note to the Sage Corporation in return for the $2.2 million mortgage. This $2.2 million was put into FNLIC in order to boost the surplus in the event that insurance audits disallowed any FNLIC assets. This was possible because earlier the Florida Insurance Department had objected to FNLIC carrying earlier NFA debentures on FNLIC statements. The plans were that GPC would purchase Family Provider (FP) from FNLIC. GPC would then be the "safety valve" if anything happened [redacted] sole ownership into GPC with promise that [redacted] would give [redacted]

At the same time, a number of FNLIC administrative and computer personnel were transferred into Nationwide Administrators, [redacted] in order to give the appearance of being an independent company. This would help make Old Security and the various unions feel comfortable.

In order to capitalize GPC, FNLIC paid $50,000 to Actuarial Consultants, Inc. (AC) of Miami, which had been formed earlier in March 1975, by [redacted] in the event FNLIC "went under." [redacted] and [redacted] the GPC Charter in Phoenix, Arizona. They also [redacted] two insurance agencies:

FNLIC increased the capital of FP from $50,000 to $150,000 in order for FP to write direct insurance (previously FP only able to write reinsurance business). Next GPC purchased FP from FNLIC and in return GPC gave FNLIC $50,000 plus a note for $200,000 backed by FP stock. In October of 1975, FP obtained Arizona Insurance Commission approval.

At this time [redacted] [redacted] and continued to contact union trustees in the northeast for business [redacted]

On May 18, 1976, the Arizona Insurance Commission demanded that GPC pay back $1.8 million to FP. [redacted] explained that the $1.8 million declared dividend, at [redacted] was based on the false May 1, 1976, false financial statement [redacted] (attachment 35).

[redacted]
the false statement and [redacted] obtained an audit statement from [redacted] without an actual audit being conducted. Thus on May 1, 1976, $1.1 million was "paid" as a dividend out of policy holder reserves by FP to GPC [redacted] in an attempt to settle the New Jersey Insurance Department's questions. Ultimately GPC, at the Arizona Insurance Department's demands, paid back $1.8 million.

During the time [] was employed as a [] there were approximately 7,000 members of the [] Each working [] had deducted from his paycheck approximately $1.60 an hour. This deduction covered the pension, health and welfare contributions. [] believes that this amounted to approximately $250,000 or $300,000 a month. A vacation fund was included at one time, however, was dropped due to lack of funds.

The deductions were controlled by Florida Administrators. Once a year, Florida Administrators solicited bids from various insurance companies for pension, health and welfare packages. Florida Administrators had complete control over the companies that were allowed to submit the bids for the [] business. The trust would then vote on the package submitted by the low bidding insurance company. Florida Administrators had advised the District Council and the trustees that they were having trouble getting insurance companies to bid on the [] programs. Florida Administrators stated that the insurance companies were losing money on the [] [] believes that prior to 1974, [] packages were underwritten by the Union Life Insurance Company.

During 1974, the District Council members and he informed Florida Administrators that they would like the Farmers National Life Insurance (FNLi) to be able to bid for the [] program. FNLi represented the Laborers International Union in Southern Florida and were providing better benefits for less money than the [] were receiving. The elections are held in June of each year and the pension programs also expire at the end of a one year term.

During 1974, FNLi submitted the lowest bid and was awarded the contract for the Carpenters Union Pension and Welfare Fund. The trustees of the District Council voted and approved FNLi, believing that they were receiving better coverage for less money. FNLi controlled only the Health and Welfare Funds and the Pension Funds were underwritten by Pacific Mutual. [] believes that Pacific Mutual is located in California. Pacific Mutual submits bids to Florida Administrators and their contracts are awarded in the same fashion as FNLi. [] and other members of the [] Union were disturbed that their pension funds were held by a California company. [] had approached two Fort Lauderdale banks concerning the investment of the [] Union Pension Fund. [] explained that the pension funds would be invested through the Federally insured banks into various building projects. During 1974, the Broward County [redacted] District Council had lots of money. The members of the Council decided that they would erect a health maintenance clinic in Broward County. [redacted] stated that this was a good thing for the membership. [redacted] does not recall the exact cost per year for the operation of the diagnostic clinic. Florida Administrators received bids from the company to administer the diagnostic clinic and the Florida Administrators awarded the contract. [redacted] believes that there were two or three bids for the diagnostic clinic. The [redacted] District Council signed a three year contract for a diagnostic clinic. [redacted] recalls that the diagnostic clinic was still in effect when he left the Carpenters Union. [redacted] recalls that Florida Administrators had also accepted bids for a dental insurance policy. [redacted] Commonwealth of Massachusetts, John W. MC Cormack Building, room 1002, One Ashburton Place, Boston, Massachusetts, telephone [redacted] was advised of the identities of the interviewing Agents and the nature of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) investigation concerning the group Health and Welfare insurance contract negotiated by Old Security Life Insurance Company of Kansas City, Missouri with Local Union (LU) 328 Amalgamated Food Handlers Trust Fund, Providence, Rhode Island. [redacted] voluntarily provided the following information:

[redacted] advised he is currently residing at [redacted] telephone [redacted]

While employed by [redacted] he was offered [redacted] of the [redacted] in April, 1974 and served [redacted] up to May, 1979.

For background purposes, [redacted] indicated Prudential was the insurer of the fund in 1974 when [redacted] first became a [redacted]. In November, 1974, Prudential advised there was going to be a 40% rate renewal increase in the new contract. Inasmuch as 40% appeared to be a rather large increase, a motion was made by [redacted] to seek a new carrier for the fund. Subsequently, the contract was put out for bid and Northeastern Life of New York was awarded the contract effective December 1, 1974. Northeastern Life insured the risk of the LU 328 Health and Welfare until February 29, 1976, when Northeastern Life ran into financial difficulty and was replaced on the risk by Old Security Life Insurance Company of Kansas City, Missouri. [redacted] stated he believes Northeastern Life was insuring the Health and Welfare funds of LU 10 and LU 371 in Connecticut when they were awarded the LU 328 insurance contract in December, 1974. Northeastern Life was located at 919 Third Avenue, New York, New York.

[redacted] advised Northeastern Life was having financial difficulties as early as August, 1975. At a meeting of the trustees on August 26, 1975 [redacted] indicated that London Insurance Agency was ready to bring in Union Labor Life Insurance Company of New York to replace Northeastern Life on the LU 328 risk. London Insurance Agency was the administrator of the LU 328 Health and Welfare fund since the inception of the fund in September, 1973. He stated [] usually made the recommendations to the fund on behalf of London Insurance Agency. b6 b7C

Union Labor Life made a proposal to the LU 328 in September, 1975 which represented a rate increase of approximately 14% or 15% over the present Northeastern Life contract. [] stated [] made a presentation to the trustees of the LU 328 fund on behalf of Union Labor Life. This proposal, due to the rate increase, was rejected by the fund. [] advised the minutes of the trustees meeting on November 25, 1975 reflect, that in addition to Union Labor Life, proposals were sent to, and replies received from Massachusetts General Life Insurance Company, Travelers Insurance Company, Aetna Life Insurance Company, Connecticut General, and C.N.A. These minutes also reflect proposals were sent to All-State and Prudential, however, no responses were received from these companies. [] advised this contract was strictly for health insurance. [] stated Crown Life Insurance Company carries the dental insurance for LU 328. b6 b7C

[] advised Old Security was first mentioned by [] in February, 1976 as a possible insurer of LU 328 Health and Welfare fund. [] related to the trustees of the fund that Old Security had a good financial report and received good Best reports. In addition, [] told the LU 328 trustees that Old Security was insuring the laborers fund in Massachusetts. [] stated [] provides [] to the fund, in addition to administering the insurance contract. b6 b7C

[] advised the Old Security bid was the lowest bid received by the fund. He stated Old Security continued the coverage at the same rate of Northeastern Life, who was the carrier at the time. Bids received from John Hancock and Equitable Life showed rate increases of 50% and 40% respectively, over Northeastern Life. b6 b7C

In addition to the trustees, [] advised [] and [] were usually present during trustee meetings. [] recorded the minutes of the meetings. [] stated [] gave a presentation to the trustees concerning Old Security. b6 b7C

Upon review of the minutes of a meeting of the trustees on October 20, 1976 [] advised the fund had received a subpoena directed to the Custodian of Records concerning an investigation by the Senate Sub-Committee on investigations regarding Old Security. b6 b7C

Company, raised their costs making it necessary to make a change. He stated that he does not know how long the prior carrier had been with the fund at the time of the change. He stated that if the prior carrier had been Union Labor Life he was not aware of anyone by the name of [] and does not recall Union Labor Life as having been the carrier. He further indicated that he does not recall who made the motion to the Board of Trustees to make a change in insurance carrier. [] has every reason to believe he was present when the motion was made and discussed but he is unable to provide specific recall regarding that or when it was decided upon to send out bids for a new carrier. He indicated that Metropolitan Life, as well as three or four other carriers, all were contacted for bids. The bids were requested for surgical and hospitalization insurance and there may have been life insurance included although he does not recall whether term or whole life insurance would of been discussed.

[] indicated that [] was the insurance consultant for the Board of Trustees and it was probably he who suggested the names of the companies to whom the bid proposals were to be sent. [] does not know who specifically recommended OSLIC and was unable to state specifically which companies responded to the request for bid proposals, although he seems to recall that all of those companies requested to submit bids, did so. [] stated that OSLIC was the low bidder but he does not recall by how much. He had never heard of OSLIC before the Board of Trustees discussed the company. He does not recall who specifically suggested OSLIC but would imagine that [] would have been the logical person to suggest such a proposal.

[] indicated that [] an attorney, with offices in Boston, Massachusetts, served as [] although [] does not recall whether or not [] made any recommendations concerning the choice of insurance carrier. In addition to the Board of Trustees, the trust fund meetings were also attended by [] who was the board's secretary and recorded the minutes of the meetings. It is also possible that [] superior, [] (phonetic), was present at several of the trustee board meetings. The trustees voted to award the insurance contract to OSLIC but he does not recall the specific vote. There were no outside legal consultants brought in to the best of [] recollection.

[] stated that the unions always insisted that Florida Administrators be used since they had evidently performed satisfactorily for fifteen to twenty years. b6 b7C

[] advised that in December, 1974, [] decided to set up NAI to handle all the duties performed by Florida Administrators. [] advised that [] original plan was for [] and other future officers of NAI to be the owners of NAI and to give the appearance of being independent of FNLIC, however, the union officials did not wish to use NAI and preferred to stay with Florida Administrators. [] advised that as it became clearer that the trustees of the unions could not be persuaded to switch, [] b6 b7C decided that since money for NAI was being provided by FNLIC then Farmers Financial Corporation (FFC), the parent company of FNLIC, should be the owner. [redacted] advised that 80% of the NAI stock was traded for FFC stock and that he became [redacted] NAI. He advised that [redacted] was his [redacted] and that he worked at his request.

[] advised that the next laborers' contract that he remembered handling was for the Hawaiian Laborers. He stated that he was not sure but he believed that the specifications on this contract came in from an independent Hawaiian consulting firm who had been retained by the Hawaiian Laborers. He advised that the specifications may have originally been sent to OSLIC and then forwarded to NAI. [] advised that the information was processed by NAI and that OSLIC made the successful bid. He advised that he could not remember the big selling point on the contract, however, it was necessary for NAI to set up an office in Honolulu and to hire an employee whose name he could not remember. He stated that the branch was located in the offices of Attorney (First Name Unknown (FNU) [] He stated that he remembered this since [] tried to collect his $2500 a month retainer from NAI. [] stated that he eventually negotiated with OSLIC for the retainer.

[] advised that in the Spring of 1975, [] contacted him and advised him to meet with [] the Massachusetts Laborers District Council, in Miami, Florida. He met with [] and explained the operations of NAI to him. He took [] on a tour of NAI's computer facilities and explained to him what type of information would be needed to come up with figures for determining the cost of an insurance contract. [] referred him to [] Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Fund. He stated that [] and the Martin E. Segal Company, the fund's consultants, sent the needed specifications. [] advised that he never did know how [] came to know about NAI. [] advised that later in 1975, he went to Boston, Massachusetts and had dinners with [] and [] on Lewis Wharf, Boston, Massachusetts. 5.

[redacted] advised that the OSLIC policy for the Massachusetts Laborers had a combination of a lower retention rate and lower premium rates than the current insurer. [redacted] advised that Martin E. Sagal Company (MESCO) originally recommended the Union Labor Life Insurance (ULLI) policy to the trustees since the OSLIC policy had no provision for MESCO's commission. The ULLI bid evidently had a $43,000 provision for the commission. MESCO inferred that if the commission was included, OSLIC's retention rate would be higher than ULLI's. Settlement was made when OSLIC agreed to pay $25,000 to MESCO. OSLIC's retention rate stayed the same. [redacted] advised that there was another disagreement with MESCO regarding the Group Permanent Life Insurance which OSLIC had proposed. MESCO did not like the idea and [redacted] stated that they refused to really analyze the possibilities of Group Permanent Life Insurance. The Massachusetts District Council hired Tully Consultants to make a presentation to the trustees of the Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Fund and the union hired a tax lawyer to consider the tax ramifications. The trustees decided to stay with term life insurance. [redacted] advised that OSLIC submitted its bid and obtained the contract. [redacted] stated that a bank account was set up to handle the claims on this policy.

[redacted] advised that the usual signatories on the laborers accounts were [redacted] [redacted] FNLIC, and the fund manager. He stated that he knew of no restrictions on the Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Fund account with OSLIC which would have made it mandatory to keep all the funds in a Massachusetts bank.

[redacted] advised that [redacted] would often transfer money out of one OSLIC account to cover checks written on another OSLIC account. He advised that [redacted] by wire transfer and that [redacted] without a letter authorizing the transfer.

[] advised that he did not know of any one million dollar transfer from the Massachusetts Laborers' Fund to an Arizona bank. He stated that he personally took a Certificate of Deposit (CD) in the amount of $350,000 from Boston, Massachusetts relating to the Massachusetts Laborers to Miami in December, 1975. He stated that he did this at the direction of []. He advised that he cashed the CD at the Bank of Miami and that he obtained a cashiers' check with the proceeds. [] over to [] stated that the purpose of this action was so that [] could make an investment that would improve FNLIC's financial statements. He advised that it had something to do with improving the surplus of the company.

[] stated that on another occasion [] two checks amounting to $100,000 or $150,000 for OSLIC. The checks were payable to Actuarial Consultants and were for some type of services rendered to OSLIC. He advised that this occurred in late 1975. He was concerned about [] and requested documentation from []. He advised [] received the documentation and that was the last time [] requested to sign any checks by [].

[] advised [] received specifications for the Central States Teamsters from either the fund manager or from []. He stated that on this policy the funds could be held by the insurer and that the insurer could get the interest off of the reserves. [] advised that [] proposal and that it was reviewed by []. [] remembered that [] had disagreed on whether or not the 3% retention should have been based on the amount of claims paid or on premiums paid. He stated that [] recommended OSLIC and Prudential Insurance Company. He advised that the Teamsters had had trouble with Republic National Insurance Company their prior insurer. He additionally advised that trustees for this fund wanted Amalgamated Insurance Service, Chicago, Illinois, as the claims payer. [] advised that OSLIC got the bid.

[] advised that the specifications for the Arizona Teamsters had been received from the Martin E. Segal Company. He stated that the fund was composed not only of teamsters but also of masons and bricklayers. He stated that [] an insurance agent [] [] had told him to use a $50 per head rate when calculating the policy. [] advised that he calculated an $80 per head rate as an adequate amount and advised [] The $50 per head rate was submitted. [] advised that the Arizona contract was the only one where he was actually given a figure. He stated that FNLIC, Family Providers (FP) and OSLIC all submitted bids on the Arizona contract. He advised that he felt there was no doubt in the Teamsters' mind that they were doing business with [] [] advised that after the bid was secured that Martin E. Segal Company wanted authorizations for everything. He stated that [] was given authorization to pick up the checks from the Arizona Administrators and deposit them into the bank account upon which claims would be written. [] advised that he never met with anyone from the Arizona Teamsters. He added that there was also a small trust for maintenance employees in Arizona which NAI handled. with New York Life, the prior carrier. [] advised that he now works at London Insurance Agency and that London Insurance Agency is still the claims payer for the Rhode Island Laborers. He stated that Martin E. Segal Company approved London Insurance Agency the last time the contract went out for bids since they had performed so well. b6 b7C

[] added that he was also introduced to [] who held some position with the laborers. He stated that after he left Rhode Island, he was contacted by a [] who advised him that he needed certain information regarding the health and welfare business that was being written so that it could be included with information that was being submitted to a bank. [] added, while in Rhode Island, that he had also met a [] who [] Northeast Insurance Agency. b6 b7C

[] advised that he and [] were both put on the Board of Directors of Family Providers. He stated that he was put on without his knowledge. He advised that at some point in time a dividend was declared to Great Pacific Corporation again without his knowledge. He stated that the dividend received a great deal of unfavorable publicity. He stated that [] may have had something to do with the dividend. He stated that he received a transcript of a Board of Directors meeting undeclaring the dividend. The meeting actually never took place, however, against his better judgement he signed the minutes. Later he received another transcript of meeting minutes, predated, indicating a declaration of the dividend. Again there was no actual meeting. b6 b7C

[] advised that there was a conference call (a meeting held via telephone) in which [] a lawyer whose name he could not remember, and perhaps [] participated. A discussion was held b6 b7C and [] advised that Family Providers was going out of business since Arizona officials were giving the company such a hard time. It was also discussed that the dividend money had to be returned. b6 b7C

[] advised that he had no idea what would have happened to the dividend money if it were returned to Family Providers once it had gone out of business. b6 b7C

[] advised that there was a second conference call in June, 1976 in which the lawyer, [] and he participated. This call more or less confirmed the first call and discussed the possibilities of reinsurance with OSLIC, the declaring and recession of the dividend to Great Pacific Corporation, and resolutions to terminate offices and cease business. [] advised that he resigned shortly after this from Family Providers and Great Pacific Corporation. [] stated that he was not really sure of his position with Great Pacific since again he was never formally notified of any appointments. [] most likely voted him to Great Pacific Corporation. He stated that he became aware of his connection with Great Pacific Corporation around the time of the dividend declaration and undeclaration. He became aware of his membership on the Board of Directors of Great Pacific around May or June, 1976 when he had to approve the dividend recession. He stated he may have been an officer of Great Pacific. He was not sure. b6 b7C

[] advised that he was on vacation in July, 1976 when he heard about the suit against Family Providers. He stated that at this time he decided he could no longer be associated with that company. When he returned to Miami, he was advised by [] that FNLIC could no longer support NWL. [redacted] was interviewed in the living room of his residence.

[redacted] advised that at a family meeting a few years ago, exact details unrecalled, it was mentioned to him during "casual conversation" the possibility of organizing an insurance business. He advised that he can't be sure who mentioned the insurance business, but believes that it was [redacted]. He admitted that he had recently spoken to [redacted] about this matter. He recalled that the business was only in the planning stages and that upon his retirement the business would open. There was no discussion of his role in the insurance business and as he recalled his role depended upon the insurance business getting off the ground.

[redacted] advised that he was not aware that Northeast Insurance Agency had set up offices in Providence. He stated that no one ever explained to him what was going on with the insurance business. He stated that Norcorp Equity, Inc. does not ring a bell with him. He advised that he never met [redacted] on the corporation papers of Northeast Insurance Agency, Inc. and Norcorp Equity, Inc.

At this point in the interview, [redacted] entered the living room. [redacted] began to interrupt the interview by answering questions directed to [redacted] by making statements such as "He doesn't know anything", "He's a sick man", "You're (the interviewing Agents) lucky to be here" and "He's already answered that question".

[redacted] stated that he has been a trustee of the [redacted] since [redacted]. He was appointed to this position by the president of the [redacted] of Rhode Island. The other management trustees who currently serve with him are [redacted] and [redacted]. He stated that in 1976, sometime in the Spring the Board began hearing complaints from the laborers concerning delayed payment of claims on the health insurance benefit claims. During a trustees meeting, one of the labor trustees made a motion to solicit bids to insurance carriers to attempt to get better service. [redacted] was retained to solicit and open the bids from the insurance carriers. [redacted] does not recall what carriers were solicited, but recalls that several did not submit bids. When the bids were open, Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC) was approximately $9,800 under the bid of the current carrier, New York Life. [redacted] recalls, furnished good reports on OSLIC since they were the insurance carriers for the Massachusetts Laborers Fund. [redacted] does not know how OSLIC got on the list of bidders and he had never heard of that company before. [redacted] stated that the Board of Trustees received the bids on May 25, 1976.

On June 2, 1976, the trustees of both the Laborers Health and Welfare Fund and the Heavy Construction Fund met at a dinner meeting at the Chalet Restaurant in North Providence, Rhode Island. At that time the trustees heard the proposals from both OSLIC and New York Life. [redacted] stated that although ARTHUR E. COIA is not listed in the minutes as having attended that meeting, he recalls that COIA did, in fact, attend either that meeting or the following trustees meeting and COIA pushed for OSLIC. [redacted] further recalls that the OSLIC representative, [redacted] proposed whole life policies for the laborers and this proposal was endorsed by COIA and the labor trustees. The management trustees; however, strongly objected to the whole life policies, and this part of the proposal was defeated. At this dinner meeting at the Chalet Restaurant, the OSLIC representative further stated that that company had engaged the London Insurance Agency to be the local claims paying agent which would alleviate the problem of delayed handling of claims.

The trustees met again on June 2, 1976, and a motion was passed to change insurance carriers to OSLIC. [] stated that it may have been at this meeting that ARTHUR E. COIA addressed the trustees and recommended OSLIC. This motion passed unanimously. On July 27, 1976, another trustees meeting was held at which time [] reviewed the application for insurance with OSLIC with the trustees. [] stated that [] at this time stated that OSLIC wanted one month's premiums in advance. About three months later it was learned that OSLIC was in serious financial difficulty and the trustees held a meeting on October 26, 1976, at which time they were assured by two OSLIC representatives that the company was still solvent. However, these representatives stated that OSLIC wished to terminate their agreement with the Rhode Island Laborers Health and Welfare Fund and Heavy Construction Fund after one year. [] said that no contract had been signed at this time and the trustees decided to recontract New York Life to reinstitute insurance coverage with that company. This was done with no opposition from the labor trustees. New York Life agreed to retain the London Insurance Agency as a local claims paying agent.

[] said that to his knowledge, the fund has not lost any money as a result of their agreement with OSLIC because they had withheld one month's premiums, which was thereafter used to pay claims.

[] said that he was never contacted outside any trustees meetings by ARTHUR E. COIA or any labor trustee regarding his vote on the OSLIC agreement. [] stated that he is the [] and signs the minutes. However, [] takes notes during the meeting and has these notes typed up prior to [] signing them.

They also did extensive business with Locals 1033, a Municipal local, Local 1217, a Housing Local, Local 1056, a Veterans Local, and Local 1134, also a Housing Local. She said prior to 1971 all these locals had retainers with the law firm of [redacted]. She said after 1971 retainers were reduced to a minimum and the firm started to charge each individual local on a per case basis. She noted that even the minimum retainer was based on the amount of work handled with each local. She noted that the construction locals and also local 1033, the Municipal workers, had extensive business dealings.

receive payment and if these funds were not forthcoming, she would institute court proceedings. She said at no time could she recall ever settling for any amount than what was due the local unions for the health and welfare and pension dues. She said looking back over the years she could only recall one occasion when they did not receive the full amount due from a construction firm and that is because that organization went bankrupt. She emphatically and repeatedly denied having any knowledge concerning construction companies paying less than what was due the particular funds and claimed to have no knowledge that this may have occurred. [redacted] advised that she had no knowledge whatsoever concerning [redacted]

[redacted] contacting construction firms that were delinquent and soliciting funds from contractors in full settlement of amounts due the pension and welfare organizations of the construction unions. She denied any knowledge concerning any possible activities of this type.

[redacted] advised that she believes that Attorney [redacted] prepared the wills for ARTHUR E. COIA. She said she never typed any wills for these individuals.

[redacted] noted that the firm of [redacted] received a retainer from both the health and welfare and pension funds of the construction trade unions to handle the collection activities that came to their attention. [redacted] advised that [redacted] was the administrator for the Rhode Island Public Service Employees Legal Service Plan (RIPSELF), a legal insurance fund established as a result of contracts between the City of Providence, Rhode Island and Local 1033 of the Municipal Workers Union. She said [redacted] did extensive legal work for RIPSELF which was located at [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island. She advised that this organization also had office space on the same floor as [redacted]. She denied knowing whether this organization was established to give [redacted] a job but it could have been, a mere coincidence. She advised that the Rhode Island General Counsel purchased a IBM Mag Card Typewriter which was placed in the office of [redacted] because there was not enough space in the Rhode Island General Counsel office area. [redacted] advised that the [redacted] may have also borrowed a typewriter from [redacted] office inasmuch as at one time they had one too many girls with not enough typewriters. She says she knows of no remuneration paid by the [redacted] to either Rhode Island General Counsel or to the office of ARTHUR E. COIA for the use of the typewriters.

[redacted] admitted that the firm of [redacted] also used the IBM copier located in the office of ARTHUR E. COIA but claims she made payments for the use of this copying machine for the first few months that they were using it and stopped making payments on her own volition. She said she just forgot to make payments to ARTHUR E. COIA for the use of the copier. [redacted] claimed she just forgot about it and was too busy. She said no one suggested that she not make payments as she had for approximately six months.

and welfare insurance and life insurance contract and the awarding of this contract to OSLIC. [redacted] affidavit appears on pages 504 through 507 of Part one of the Hearings before the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Governmental Affairs, United States Senate, Ninety-fifth Congress, First Session, and the contents of this affidavit are as follows:

Exhibit No. 178

Affidavit of [redacted]

June 22, 1977

[redacted] being duly sworn,

1. My name is [redacted] and I reside at [redacted] I am employed by the Martin E. Segal Company (Segal) at 607 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts and have been for approximately eleven years. I am a Vice President of Segal, a consulting and actuarial firm which has dealt extensively with multi-employer and jointly-administered health benefit funds throughout the United States. Segal services over 2,000 employee benefit plans of all types-corporate, government and joint labor-management. Segal has served as advisor to Legislative Committees and Government Agencies. Segal is consultant to the Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Fund (Fund) and has been consultant to the Fund since 1960. I have coordinated our company's services to this Fund since 1974.

2. I am submitting this affidavit and the attached exhibits in response to a request from Mr. Walsh, Investigator for the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Government Operations of the Senate of the United States. Such request was for me to submit a statement, in affidavit form, covering the matters discussed with the representatives of such Subcommittee at their request on June 3, 1977.

3. The Fund provides insurance coverage to laborers throughout Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont consisting of group term life insurance, accidental death and dismemberment coverage, temporary disability income, hospital, surgical and medical coverage, among others. The Fund had been insured with the Union Labor Life Insurance Company since its inception in 1956. The insurance contract was originally awarded to Union Labor Life on the basis of competitive bidding. Since the inception of the Fund, the Trustees (comprised of representatives from Employers and the Union) rebid the case on several occasions. By rebid, I mean that the Trustees have solicited competitive proposals from various insurance companies to satisfy themselves that the insurance coverage was being obtained at a favorable cost to the Fund. On each occasion, Union Labor Life submitted a competitive proposal and was awarded a continuing year-to-year contract.

4. When Union Labor Life submitted its rate renewal proposal in the latter part of 1974 and in early 1975 it requested premium increases in excess of 21 percent for the health and accident coverages. The Trustees at a meeting held on February 3, 1975 voted to have Segal solicit competitive proposals for underwriting the plan of benefits including group term life insurance and further voted to authorize Segal to obtain competitive proposals for whole or ordinary life insurance. I advised the Board of Trustees that our company felt that the cost of this form of insurance was too high in relation to the benefit provided and therefore, was generally not used in funds of this type. Specifically, we advised them that while whole life insurance had features in addition to life insurance protection such as cash values and conversion rights the cost of providing benefits through ordinary life insurance for a group such as this was high when measured against the benefits received. The reaction of the Trustees was that the request of proposals on whole life insurance did not obligate them to purchase such insurance. They felt that this form of insurance may have merit and should be studied.

5. Following the February meeting, I prepared a specification letter, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit "A", including an alternate proposal for the provision of whole life insurance. At a meeting of the Board of Trustees on April 28, 1975 I reported that specification letters were prepared for submission to insurance companies selected by the Trustees and suggested that the specification letters be sent to major insurance companies including Aetna Life Insurance Company, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the Prudential Life Insurance Company, Travelers Life Insurance Company, Union Labor Life Insurance Company, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. As is our usual procedure, I requested the Trustees to submit the names of any additional carriers to whom they wished the specifications to be sent. The Trustees suggested the specification letter be sent to the Connecticut General Life Insurance and the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company. In addition, the president of the District Council, Mr. James Merloni, Sr., submitted four additional companies to whom the specification letters were to be sent. These companies were the Old Security Life Insurance Company, the Foremost Life Insurance Company, the Transport Life Insurance Company and the United Insurance Company of America. I then informed the Trustees that the specification letter required each bidding company to submit their proposal bearing a postmark no earlier and no later than Tuesday, June 3, 1975. The procedure followed and our analysis was outlined in a report by Segai to the Trustees of the Fund entitled "Report on Competitive Bids" dated June 26, 1975, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit "B".

6. During this time I was in contact both by telephone and personally at meetings with Mr. Arthur Coia, Vice President and Regional Manager of the Laborers' International Union, Mr. James Merloni, Sr., President of the Massachusetts Laborers District Council, Robert Segal, Esq., and Henry LeToile, Esq., Co-counsel for the Fund and others for the purpose of discussing the objections we raised at Trustees' Meeting concerning whole or ordinary life insurance for a fund of this type. During these times we referred to the issue of whole or ordinary life insurance as implemented by other groups indicating that the cost of this form of insurance was high for the benefits provided and in our opinion not appropriate for a fund of this type. At these times, I reviewed the form of whole life policies and how they operated so as to clarify the reasons for the high cost. We also discussed some of the possible advantages such as conversion rights and cash values. The shortcomings of this form of insurance were reported in an investigation by the New York State Insurance Department and which was subsequently reflected in a staff study published in 1976 by the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations chaired by Senator Sam Nunn, Acting Chairman.

7. On June 6, 1975 I met with representatives of the Trustees at which time the bids from the following companies were given to us: Aetna Life Insurance Company, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Old Security Life Insurance Company, Prudential Life Insurance Company, Travelers Life Insurance Company, and Union Labor Life Insurance Company. The other carriers either declined to submit a proposal or simply did not respond to the specification letter. The proposals were turned over to our company for review and analysis.

8. At a meeting on June 12, 1975 I reported to the Board of Trustees that there were several questions which required answers before the bids could be completely analyzed and that inquiries had been sent to the bidding carriers to clarify one or more areas of their proposals:

9. On June 26, 1975 we submitted to the Trustees a report ("Exhibit B") analyzing the competitive bids exclusive of the alternate proposal with respect to whole life insurance. We reviewed this report in detail at a meeting of the Board of Trustees held on July 10, 1975. At this meeting we informed the Trustees that there were a number of unanswered questions in regard to the whole life insurance proposals and informed the Trustees that even our preliminary review indicated that if whole life insurance were purchased, the expenses of the Fund would exceed projected income and that the Trustees would be required to deficit finance-to spend money out of reserves.

10. At a meeting held on August 7, 1975, I distributed an addendum to our report of June 26, 1975 which addendum included a discussion of the proposal on whole life insurance. (Old Security described their life insurance proposal as "group permanent" life insurance. We advised the Trustees that we did not find any significant differences between their proposal and any other ordinary life insurance arrangement). This discussion is included in the report attached to this affidavit as "Exhibit B" beginning on Page 18. III "Alternate Proposal". The report stated that "providing benefits through various forms of group permanent whole life insurance policies which accumulate cash values is a subject that has long been discussed and considered by trustees of jointly-managed funds. In most cases the trustees have not elected to provide such coverage because of its excessive cost. At the present time we are not aware of any large multi-employer welfare fund that uses ordinary life policies".

The report states that the premium rates proposed by the Old Security Life Insurance Company for group permanent whole life for the entire group were not materially lower than the rates generally quoted for ordinary life policies for individuals.

We pointed out that the cash values developed under this policy are in most cases less favorable than under individual ordinary life policies offered by many companies. We noted further that although the Old Security Life Insurance Company proposal did not contemplate payment of commissions being paid or charged under this policy, we determined that the amounts of premium being charged by the carrier reflected a very high retention for expenses since the premium rates quoted are only slightly less than the rates being charged under other individual life policies, and the cash values are less than under other policies. Whether such expenses are called commissions, salaries, or other administrative acquisition costs, they still represent a substantial cost to the Fund. We also reported that if the Trustees deemed it reasonable to expend additional money for benefits, they should consider other alternatives including term life insurance supplemented by the establishment of an annuity fund which would be, in our judgment, more appropriate and more economical. (The life insurance would be provided through low cost term insurance, and the cash values would be provided through a more economical savings or annuity plan.) As another alternative we suggested that the Fund increase the amount of term life insurance and provide additional death benefits for retired employees.

11. Following a review of the report, the Trustee decided to have another consulting firm evaluate the question of whole life insurance versus term insurance. We did not concur in the decision. The Trustees then deferred selection of a carrier until such time as the report from the other consultant was received. At a meeting on August 21, 1975, Co-Counsel,

Robert M. Segal, Esq., and Henry A. LeToile, Esq., read a telegram from the General President of the Laborers' International Union reconfirming statements made in a telegram dated August 6, 1975 specifically indicating that the International Union has continuously advised against form of high-cost ordinary life insurance arrangements. At that time consideration of the proposals was deferred to a later meeting.

12. At a meeting held on September 21, 1975, representatives of the other consulting firm and representatives of a law firm not retained by the Fund were invited into the meeting of the Trustees to present their report. The report stated that "in summary, it is our opinion that a group permanent life insurance program, along the lines which have been described in this report, can be adopted by a trust fund such as yours". Following the presentation, we raised several questions concerning the proposal as submitted by the Old Security Life Insurance as well as the report submitted by the representatives of the other consulting firm. The law firm addressed itself to the legality and tax status of the arrangement. After further discussion, the Trustees by motion voted to submit all of the material presented by our company, the other consulting firm, and the outside law firm to the International Union and to request the International Union to submit its comments relative to the matter of whole life insurance.

13. It is my understanding that on October 23, 1975, the General President of the Laborers' International Union of North America submitted a letter to the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Fund stating that the International Union does not endorse any insurance company nor does it have any objection to any insurance company; but that the International Union clearly objects to the type of insurance-whole life under consideration by the Trustees.

14. At a meeting of the Trustees held on October 30, 1975, I was advised that the matter of whole life insurance was no longer under consideration and that the Trustees would review the proposals submitted by the bidding carriers for underwriting the then current plan of benefits including term life insurance. We again reviewed the report of the Martin E. Segal Company, dated June 26, 1975 (Exhibit "B"), showing that the bids submitted by the Union Labor Life Insurance Company and the Old Security Life Insurance Company were the most competitive with minor differences. After discussion, the Board of Trustees voted effective December 1, 1975, to award the contract to the Old Security Life Insurance Company.

15. Following the meeting of the Board of Trustees on October 30, 1975, meetings were held with representatives of Old Security Life Insurance Company (Nationwide Administrators, Inc.) for the purpose of effectuating a smooth transition from the present carrier (Union Labor Life) to the newly designated carrier (Old Security Life).

16. The contract with the Old Security Life Insurance Company remained in force for a one-year period and was canceled effective December 1, 1976. The record will show that the Trustees decided to cancel the policy because of adverse publicity involving the insurance carrier in another situation. On the basis of competitive bidding, the contract was again awarded to the Union Labor Life. The Old Security Life continues to honor all its obligations under the policy that was in effect during the one-year period December 1, 1975 through November 30, 1976; and again, a smooth transition has been effectuated in implementing the newly awarded contract with the Union Labor Life Insurance Company effective December 1, 1976.

Subscribed and sworn to this 22d day of June, 1977.

BS 183-371

[] was asked to comment on the contents of the minutes of the meetings of the trustees of MLHWF at which he was present and those meetings where the bidding of the MLHWF group insurance contract was discussed, from February 1975 through December 1975. [] commented on these meetings as follows:

Date of Meetings
February 3, 1975

[] advised the MLHWF group insurance contract was up for re-bid. He stated Union Labor Life Insurance Company (ULLIC) proposed a 21% rate renewal increase and that it is not unusual to put a contract out for bid due to such a high rate renewal increase. [] advised that to the best of his knowledge there was no discussion concerning the re-bidding of the contract prior to ULLIC proposed rate increase. [] explained there is no way to historically determine the trend of policy increases, decreases, or if they should remain the same. At this meeting it was noted by the trustees to have MESC send out specifications for bids on the contract and also to look into a whole life insurance policy with a cash surrender value.

March 19, 1975

[] advised the whole life insurance concept was discussed. He believes the whole life concept was raised by the union trustees. [] stated he was aware at this time the whole life could be excessive in cost, however, it is not unusual for a new product to be included when a contract was up for bid. [] stated no other clients of MESC have a whole life insurance contract. [] advised [] the MLHWF contract before he did.

April 28, 1975

[] advised the bids on the MLHWF contract would be opened on June 6, 1975.

BS 183-371

May 20, 1975

[] advised he was not present at this meeting.

b6
b7C

June 12, 1975

At this meeting [] advised the bids were opened on June 6, 1975. Present at the bid opening was [] along with the trustees of the fund. [] stated he []

b6
b7C

[] Bids were in the possession of MESC. One copy is retained at the fund office and another copy at MESC. He does not recall anything unusual at the bid opening. He does not believe the OSLIC bid was dated June 9, 1975, three days after the bid deadline.

July 10, 1975

[] advised a bid analysis was submitted to the trustees. He advised the report dealt with the current benefit structure. In addition, he discussed the whole life insurance concept. OSLIC was the lowest bidder on premiums but not on retention. [] advised retention is a better test of net costs to the fund than premiums paid. He also stated whole life would project a deficit for the next fiscal year.

b6
b7C

[] advised a motion was made to award the entire package, including whole life to OSLIC. He does not recall who made the motion or who seconded the motion. He stated it is not unusual for trustees to disagree with the advice of consultants.

b6
b7C

[] advised [] and [] recommended further study on the subject of the contract. [] stated the contract was voted down. [] trustee was the only [] trustee to vote in favor of OSLIC. He also stated

b6

BS 183-371

[redacted] Massachusetts Laborers' District Council (MLDC) was also in favor of awarding the contract to OSLIC. [redacted] does not believe Arthur E. Coia, Sr., was present at this meeting.

b6
b7c

August 7, 1975

[redacted] advised an updated report was submitted to the trustees. This report concluded whole life insurance would be excessive in cost and the objectives could be better achieved through other means. [redacted] advised a motion was made and passed to have another consulting firm evaluate whole life insurance. [redacted] advised [redacted] Tolley International Corporation (TIC) do the study on whole life.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised a telegram was read from [redacted] Laborers' International Union of North America (LIUNA) advising against the whole life program due to excessive costs.

b6
b7c

August 21, 1975

[redacted] advised a second telegram from [redacted] was read alerting the trustees of the MLHWP to act in a prudent manner and uphold their fiduciary responsibilities when considering the whole life insurance program.

b6
b7c

September 21, 1975

[redacted] advised [redacted] of TIC was introduced, along with [redacted] who was introduced as [redacted] for TIC. [redacted] advised Attorney [redacted] of Gaston [redacted] was also present at this meeting.

b6

[redacted] advised [redacted] gave a presentation and submitted several documents, all of which are exhibited in the transcripts of the hearings before the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on labor union insurance, concerning the taxability and other points of whole life insurance.

[] advised he still felt there were unanswered questions concerning OSLIC and the taxability of whole life insurance. [] advised he researched OSLIC through the Argus and Best reports. He stated up to this point in time Farmers National Life Insurance Company (FNLIC) had not been mentioned. [] stated he felt there were also unanswered questions regarding why the District Council and Arthur E. Coia were strongly in favor of whole life.

[] advised a motion was made and seconded, however, defeated at vote to award the contract to OSLIC, including whole life. He stated all union trustees voted in favor of OSLIC; one employer trustee possibly [] of OSLIC; one employer trustee abstained from voting.

b6

October 30, 1975

[] advised a letter from [] concerning the taxability of whole life insurance was read into the meeting. [] advised the whole life insurance program was removed from consideration by James V. Merloni, President, MLDC. A motion was made and unanimously approved to award the present contract to OSLIC. [] was introduced at this meeting. [] is president of [] (NAI) and was there on behalf of OSLIC.

b6
b7C

December 18, 1975

[] advised he discussed the new ERISA regulations and stated he would prepare a report concerning these regulations and present it to the fund trustees.

b6

[] was also asked to comment on the trustee meeting held May 15, 1977. [] stated a representative of New England Trust Company (NETC) was present. NETC is an investment firm located in Providence, Rhode Island. He stated there was mention of transferring the fund investments from Shawmut Bank to NETC. [] stated NETC is located next to the LIUNA offices of Arthur E. Coia in Providence, Rhode Island. He stated some inquiries were made and it was discovered that one of the incorporators of NETC was [redacted] Arthur E. Coia.

b6

BS 183-371

b6
b7C

[redacted] advised ULLIC may not have always been the low bidder on the contract, however, due to additional expenses involved in the changeover to a new company comparable bids are sometimes more important than lowest premium bids. He advised there are many variable factors involved in analyzing comparable bids. Prior to the 1975 bidding of the MLHWF insurance contract involving OSLIC, the contract was last out for bid approximately two or three years earlier and was awarded to ULLIC. Subsequent to 1975 the contract was bid again in 1976 and was awarded to ULLIC. [redacted] advised it is not unusual for MLHWF to put the contract to bid every two or three years to determine the competitiveness of the bid to the market. [redacted] advised he does not specifically recall who requested the contract be sent out to bid in 1975. He stated [redacted] may have advised him that he was looking to get insurance for OSLIC. [redacted] advised [redacted] that all bids would be scrutinized fairly and if OSLIC was low bidder they would be considered. [redacted] advised [redacted] was a trustee of the New England Laborers' Training Trust Fund. [redacted] advised he attended an open house at the training academy in Hopkinton, Massachusetts and [redacted] is the [redacted] stated he is not aware of any discussions concerning the rebidding of the contract by anyone either before or outside any of the trustee meetings. [redacted] believes the idea whole life program may have been raised by the union trustees.

b7C

[redacted] advised [redacted] submitted a list of four insurance companies, including OSLIC, who were to be sent proposals to bid on the MLHWF contract. [redacted] advised these companies were recommended by [redacted] at the trustee meeting where it was voted to set the contract out to bid. Among the other insurance companies recommended were Foremost Life Insurance Companies, Transport Life Insurance Company, and United Insurance Company of America. [redacted] advised he was not aware of the reputation of any of these companies, nor did he know of their experience in insuring union funds. [] advised [] made no mention of a trip to Florida concerning OSLIC and the re-insurance prospect with FNLIC. According to [] OSLIC was the only insurance company recommended by [] who responded to the bid proposal.

b6

BS 183-371

b6

[] advised if the OSLIC bid was dated June 9, 1975, it would be up to the trustees to accept a late bid. [] does not recall the OSLIC bid being late. [] believes it may have been the group insurance application which was dated June 9, 1975, three days after the bid was received. [] stated he does not believe the date the group application was signed was the same date it was executed.

b6

Concerning discussions [] had with Arthur E. Coia [] he advised both felt the proposed whole life program was a viable product for the fund, good for the fund, and good for the members. In discussions with [] he advised they were concerned with the taxability and other more technical points of the whole life insurance. [] advised the trustees never indicated they had any pressure on them to vote in favor of the whole life program. [] stated he is not aware of any multi-employer welfare funds that provide whole life insurance coverage for their members.

b7C

[] advised MESC is the broker of record on the MLHWF insurance contract. This means regardless which insurance company is awarded the contract MESC will receive the commission on the sale of the contract. In 1975 the arrangement for the payment of service fees between MESC and the MLHWF was made on this commission basis. Presently MESC is on a straight service fee arrangement with the fund. [] advised MESC received the $25,000 commission from OSLIC on the MLHWF contract. [] stated [] never indicated his company would be receiving any commissions from the sale of contract to OSLIC. He stated [] would have been aware by this time MESC would be receiving the commission. MLHWF cancelled the policy over the OSLIC involvement with the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund. [] advised the fund was contacted by OSLIC who advised them to send all premium directly to the OSLIC offices in Kansas City, Missouri. [] advised after several meetings concerning the future of OSLIC it was decided to get out.

b6

BS 183-371

b6

[] stated Arthur E. Coia never offered him anything of value. Nor did Coia mention the possibility losing the MLHWF contract if things did not go right. [] stated he and Coia had conversations and Coia indicated he was interested in the whole life program and wanted it for the fund. [] stated he had a number of conversations with Coia concerning this.

b6
b7C

[] advised he believes TIC was brought in to recommend whole life insurance if MESOC would not make the recommendation to the trustees. [] stated the name of [] insurance was National Group Insurance Agency (NGIA). He does not know anything more about this agency.

b6

[] advised he had contact with some of the trustees, namely [] and []. However, he stated he was not close to any of them outside of the trustee meetings, other than attending occasional social events. [] advised [] Trustees in 1974 when [] took over the MLHWF account for MESOC. Presently, [] the fund. He stated he does not know why [] stepped down [] is not aware of any undue pressure on the trustees during the contract negotiations.

b6

[] advised he was present during the interview with Arthur E. Coia conducted by a Department of Labor investigator. [] advised he may have given some background on technical questions asked by the investigator. He does not recall the details.

b6

BS 183-371

[] advised he may have had MESC staff assistance on the bid analysis. However, he did the whole life comparison. He stated [] the Statistical Department in Boston, may have prepared the MLHWF bid comparison. b6 b7C

In addition to the MLHWF, [] advised the MESC are consultants on the Rhode Island Laborers Health and Welfare and Pension Funds; Connecticut Laborers Health and Welfare Fund and Pension Fund. b6 b7C

When the MLHWF contract was out for bid in 1976, there were approximately six to ten proposals sent out. [] advised the MLHWF suffered a loss of approximately $100,000 in claims on health insurance and $75,000 in life insurance payments. [] stated the first year premium on the term life insurance was approximately $350,000 to $400,000 while the premium on the whole life insurance would have been 1.3 million. b6 b7C

[] advised MESC act as consultants on many employee benefit plans including pension, vacation, health and welfare, and legal services. [] advised they consider themselves active counterparts to the trustees. b6 b7C

[redacted] Telephone Number [redacted] who is employed as an accountant at [redacted]

Number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and of the nature of the interview, in the presence of [redacted] Strike Force Attorney, at 300 North Los Angeles. He thereafter, supplied the following information after being advised by [redacted] that he was not being considered a subject of this investigation at this time:

Prior to October 1974, he was employed as an accountant for [redacted]. In an attempt to change jobs, he sent several job resumes to various companies. He was later contacted by [redacted] of Farmers National Life Insurance Company of Florida (FNLICF). On the last day of October 1974, he was hired by FNLICF as [redacted] and [redacted] began working on the Financial Statement of FNLICF after meeting and discussing the matter with [redacted]. [redacted] explained that [redacted] was a [redacted] National Financial Agency (NFA) which brought in group business to FNLICF. [redacted] was the holding company for FNLICF. [redacted] found that earlier Equitable Health Corporation of America (EHCA) had acquired stock in FNLICF. In February or March 1974, shares of EHCA stock in FNLICF was transferred into Farmers Financial Corporation (FFC) because of financial problems of EHCA in California.

During the latter part of February 1975, [redacted] presented a rough draft Financial Statement to [redacted] and a [redacted] at FNLICF, 3550 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, Florida. [redacted] told [redacted] that would create more pension fund business even if the Florida Insurance Commission lawyers later lowered these figures after an audit. [redacted] told [redacted] and [redacted] that these were not his figures and refused to change them without [redacted] concurrence because they are based on actuarial principals. [redacted] sent [redacted] a memorandum stating the problem. [] later told [] that he met with [] and refused to change the figures to increase stockholders equity. [] explained that Florida Insurance Laws prohibit insurance licenses to any insurance company without a paid up capital and $100,000 in surplus. b6 b7C

[] also explained that the [] received commissions on groups which were on FNLICF books. He did not know who owned [] but assumed that the owner was []. Later, for reasons unknown to [] liabilities were assumed by NFA. [] during this time, was [] FNLICF. b6 b7C

Later in 1975, [] moved the operation of NFA from [] to [] because the Florida Insurance Commission felt that there may be a conflict of interest between FNLICF and NFA. b6 b7C

From records, it was determined that NFA owed FNLICF a large sum of money, therefore in order to better the financial posture of FNLICF, [] of FNLICF, [] and [] worked out the details to receive mortgages from Sage to NFA to FNLICF to satisfy this indebtedness and increase FNLICF surplus. [] did not know what was paid by NFA to Sage for these mortgages amounting to $2.2 million. b6 b7C

[] could not recall the details of transmitting these documents to Los Angeles for the signatures of [] and []. b6 b7C

During August 1975, [] Florida Insurance Commissioner, was indicted in Florida for bribery. FNLICF was named in the local newspapers as having a connection with []. About this same time, it was decided that a new company called Great Pacific Corporation (GPC) would be formed in Arizona as a holding company for an inactive insurance company owned by FNLICF called Family Provider Life Insurance Company (FP). FNLICF sold FP to GPC and transferred the Massachusetts Laborers, Indiana Laborers, Rhode Island Laborers, Arizona Laborers, and Hawaiian Laborers business to FP. b6 b7C effective January 1, 1976. [] and [] also discussed the purchase of another large insurance company inasmuch as FP was licensed only in Arizona. During this time, FNLICF was reinsured with Old Security Life Insurance Company of Kansas City, Missouri (OS).

Actuarial Consultants, Incorporated (ACI) had earlier been formed [] in Miami. [] left FNLICF, effective September [] and on November 7, 1975, activated FP in Phoenix, Arizona. [] came to [] on April 29, 1976 through May 2, 1976, to assist in putting together the Financial Statement of FP. FNLICF increased the capital of FP from $50,000 or so to $150,000 or so in order for FP to obtain a better financial posture in writing insurance business in Arizona. Next, GPC purchased FP from FNLICF and in return, GPC gave FNLICF $50,000 plus a note for $200,000.

Earlier in February 1976 [] A Connecticut CPA, came to Miami in order to certify GPC, ACI, and FP. [] a Sage Corporation Accountant, introduced [] to []. During this time, there was talk about the GPC purchase of Great American Life Insurance of New Jersey (GA). [] and [] assisted [] in working up the Financial Statements.

[] advised that [] did very little, if anything, to certify bank statements, reserves, etc., which CPA's are supposed to do, but rather relied solely on figures supplied him by [] and []. [] and [] advised that had he been a CPA he would not have certified these statements.

While in Los Angeles, April 29, 1976 through May 2, 1976 [] [] prepared the May 1, 1976 Financial Statements to update the February statements inasmuch as the New Jersey Insurance Commission (NJIC), in reference to the GA purchase, had questioned the earlier statements. This second audit was patterned after the February statement, and again certified by [] [] never observed [] conduct an independent inquiry into the financial status of these corporations.

[] observed from records of GPC and FP that a lot of money was transferred between GPC and FP for reasons unexplained. [] told [] had declared a $1.8 million dividend by FP to GPC in order to purchase GA of New Jersey. This dividend was later declared illegal by the Arizona Insurance Commission (AIC).

[] recalled that the Central Teamsters Contract was discussed during February through April 1976, however, he does not recall who discussed this matter. He advised that [] of Nationwide Administrators (NA), an affiliate of FNLICF, was working on the Teamsters matter.

[] was later told by [] or [] to transfer the $2.2 million [] Sage Corporation mortgages to FP-OS and show a corresponding liability on FNLICF books. On May 21, 1976 [] and [] flew to Kansas City from Miami, where they met with [] and [] of OS. They discussed a $1.5 million transfer from the Continental Bank in Chicago, Illinois to the First National Bank of Arizona. [] later found through bank statements that $1.5 million of a $1.7 million had been so transferred.

[] discussed an investment of two $150,000 Sage mortgages with [] and [] OS later sent $300,000 to [] in return for these additional mortgages. [] recalls a telephone conversation with [] in Los Angeles, and an agreement was reached in Kansas City to transfer the $2.2 million [] mortgages to OS.

[] at the direction of [] flew to Los Angeles and picked up a package which he assumed contained the original Sage Corporation mortgages. On May 24, 1976, he flew from Los Angeles to Kansas City, and gave the package to [] [] then flew back to Miami where he found that [] was upset because OS had reportedly told him

In September 1976, the State of Florida filed a Liquidation Show Cause Order against FNLICF. FNLICF reached an agreement with the State of Florida on October 23, 1976, as follows:

(1) FNLICF agreed to convert two annuities to lower liabilities $745,000.

(2) FNLICF would reduce a $1.1 million Sage debenture, cancel $1.1 million, receive $600,000 in cash, plus issue a note for $500,000.

(3) [redacted] would negotiate with [redacted] for new investments into FNLICF.

b6

[redacted] home telephone [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and the nature of the investigation. He furnished the following information:

He is [redacted] Northeast Region for the [redacted] Incorporated [redacted] Massachusetts, [redacted] telephone [redacted] He has been employed by [redacted] years.

He was appointed trustee to Amalgamated Food Workers, Local [redacted] Health and Welfare Fund, Providence, Rhode Island, by [redacted] on February 17, 1976, and remained as a trustee until May 17, 1978. He is currently a trustee to the Amalgamated Food Handlers, Local 10A, Health and Welfare Fund, [redacted] having been appointed to this fund by [redacted] on December 15, [redacted] Concerning Local 328, other trustee's at the time were [redacted] and [redacted] for management and [redacted] for the union. Other trustee's for Local [redacted] are [redacted] and [redacted] for management and [redacted] for the union.

He stated he had just been appointed trustee to Local [redacted] when the fund changed insurance carriers to Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC). He advised the previous carrier, Northeastern Insurance Company, New York, New York, filed for bankruptcy and it was necessary to act fast and select a replacement carrier. He said meetings were held on February 17, 21, and 24, 1976, dealing with the insurance problem. He felt the fund had used Northeastern for at least a year and possibly longer.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Prior to meeting with the interviewing agent, he reviewed the minutes of board of trustee meeting for Local [] and noted that 4 bid proposals were sent out with the consent of the trustees. These were to John Hancock, Metropolitan, Equitable and OSLIC. He stated to the best of his knowledge Metropolitan did not bid and John Hancock and Equitable wanted a 40% to 50% increase in premiums. He believed term life insurance costs were requested in the bids and not whole life.

He stated the bid proposals were handled by the London Insurance Agency, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, and it was this agency that had selected OSLIC to receive a bid. He stated OSLIC was the low bidder by a considerable amount and their premium was the same amount as that paid to Northeastern. He had never heard of OSLIC before.

He recalled that a representative from OSLIC, a [] (phonetic) came to Local [] trustee meeting to explain the OSLIC proposal. [] was the funds legal counsel at the time, however, he did not recall [] specific recommendations but felt that he also favored OSLIC. He said the London Insurance Agency acted as brokers and consultants and were in favor of OSLIC. He stated they were told OSLIC was a well established company and rated among the best 500 in the field. The vote to award OSLIC the contract was unanimous and no outside legal consultants were contacted. He received no pressure to vote for OSLIC and is not aware of any other trustee pressured by A. E. Coia or other members of the union to vote for OSLIC. b6 b7C

He advised that the bids were solicited and received by the London Insurance Agency, the funds administrator and it was this company that opened the bids. He believed that the insurance contract was put out to bid annually. He said the insurance carrier was later changed to Mutual of Omaha. He is not aware of the present carrier. He said minutes at trustee meetings were recorded by the administrator, Secretary or Legal Counsel.

He was uncertain of the present insurance carrier of Local 328 but recalled that OSLIC contract was terminated when OSLIC filed for bankruptcy and this also was by a unanimous vote. He said the fund received a financial loss due to the OSLIC contract but could not give a specific figure. He stated he was never contacted outside trustee meetings regarding his votes.

He advised the present insurance carrier for Amalgamated Food Workers, Local [] is Mutual of New York and was awarded the contract as a result of a low bid. Previous to Mutual of New York, the fund was covered by the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company and prior to Fireman's by OSLIC. He said Local [] also uses the London Insurance Agency to act as administrator of the fund and to handle the bids.

During this trip, he also [redacted] who was doing legal work for [redacted] advised that he also [redacted] who had flown into Washington for the purpose of changing the deal regarding the [redacted] stated that the change had something to do with including the Continental Country Club in the deal instead of the property located in Scottsdale, Arizona. There was evidently some problem with the deal involving time. [redacted] stated that he also met [redacted] who owned an insurance brokerage agency in Washington, D.C. [redacted] stated that it was his understanding that Great Pacific Corporation owned one-half of Northeast Insurance Agency and that Great Pacific had a network of insurance agencies throughout the United States. He advised that he believed that [redacted] owned the other half of Northeast Insurance Agency. He stated that he believed that he was told this by [redacted] He stated that he did not know what [redacted] was with Northeast Insurance Agency. He stated that [redacted] New York. He advised that [redacted] acted as if he had a piece of Northeast Insurance Agency.

[redacted] stated that he went to Washington on a second occasion and he believes that he stayed at the Sherry Netherland Hotel there.

[redacted] advised that he feels that he located financing for the [redacted] through [redacted]. The money was to come from a New Jersey bank. He stated that the New Jersey bank sent a letter of commitment to the Diplomat Bank, Washington, D.C., regarding this. [redacted] stated he could not recall the name of the other bank involved, but it is located in the building owned by GALIC. He recalled that there was some mention that the bank wanted GALIC deposits to remain in the bank and that this was one of the reasons that they were willing to finance the package. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that [redacted] had indicated that the New Jersey Insurance Department had approved the acquisition when, in fact, they had not done so. [redacted] indicated that it was merely a formality for them to approve it and that they had already agreed in principle. [redacted] stated that evidently the New Jersey Insurance Department would have approved the GALIC acquisition, but they stipulated that none of the assets of GALIC could be pledged to secure the money which was borrowed for the acquisition. He stated that he knew that [redacted] and [redacted] Insurance Department regarding this matter. He recalled that [redacted] stayed at the White Plains Hotel, White Plains, New York, at one point and that [redacted] met with [redacted]. [redacted] recalled that he had picked up the package in Rhode Island from [redacted] and that the other packages which were added to it had been sent down by the airlines. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that his reason for helping [redacted] locate the financing was that he felt that he would be able to secure a good job as a result of his efforts. He stated that he ended up getting nothing except some reimbursement for his expenses. He recalled that on a number of occasions, money was telegraphed to him. He stated that on several occasions, he received checks from [redacted]. [redacted] advised that he never authorized anyone to sign his name to any checks at any time. b6 b7C

At this point in the interview, [redacted] was requested to provide the interviewing Agents with copies of his payroll signature. [redacted] thereupon provided the interviewing Agents with one page of his payroll signature. b6 b7C

[redacted] was then provided with seven checks, three of which were written on Account [redacted] at the [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, in the name of the [redacted], and four of which were written on Account [redacted] at the [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, in the name of [redacted] Attorney. [redacted] was a trustee when the fund changed insurance carriers from New York Life to Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC) in 1978. The reason the fund decided to change carriers was that the laborers were complaining that the company was not processing insurance claims quickly enough. [redacted] recalls hearing complaints from his own employees concerning this matter. He said New York Life had the contract as long as [redacted] had been a trustee. [redacted] did not recall at which trustees meeting it was voted to solicit bids, but recalls that an insurance consultant named RALPH DIEHL from Massachusetts drew up the specifications for the contract. [] advised that he first learned of the GPC loan proposal in early 1976 when he received a phone call from CBT [] had recently been set up in an office in downtown Providence for the purpose of developing business for CBT in the professional community, which is located in that area. He noted that the main office of CBT is "off the beaten track" and that [] phoned him because he was in a sense isolated from the main office.

[] advised that [] was excited about the proposal of a loan to GPC to [] and indicated that it would be a "good piece of business". [] had called because of the size of the loan was $5 million and he wanted permission to entertain a loan of that size for the bank. [] had no facts regarding the loan and it was agreed that there would be need for further review. [] advised that he realized that CBT would have to go to the "partnership" route with a loan of that size. He explained that there are certain lending limits which the bank has and it was his estimation that CBT could loan about $1.2 million and the rest would have to be farmed out to correspondent banks out of state.

[] advised that he next had a phone conversation with [] about this matter while [] was in Washington, D.C. During this conversation [] had indicated that he had attended a meeting. [] believed this to be the meeting of March 10, 1976. [] was somewhat enthused about the prospects of going forward. [] indicated that even if no loan was possible, there was still a possibility of CBT receiving deposits. [] stated that if the deposits were substantial and were of the "core" variety, that is not "in and out deposits", he would be amenable to entertaining the idea of accepting the deposits. [] explained that his bank was not sophisticated enough to deal with a large volume of "in and out deposits".

[] advised that he requested [] to gather more information about this deal so that they could determine whether or not it was worth having. He stated that he left D.C. and went on vacation for a week. Upon return he was again telephoned by [] regarding this matter and advised that there was still a possibility of obtaining deposits.

b6

[] advised that a day or two later after his call from [] he received a call from an unknown male from New York who asked if CBT was in a position to take some substantial deposits. The caller indicated that funds were being wired in from the Vatican. [] stated that at the time he thought it "bizarre" that the church wanted to make such an investment. The caller "backed off" when [] began to make inquiries about his identity. []

b6

advised that the caller sounded like a money broker or middleman in this transaction. There was no further contact from this individual.

[] stated that the only other recollection he had regarding this matter was when he read an article in the Wall Street Journal about a year later and the name of the individual that [] had met with was mentioned.

b6
b7c

[] advised that he does not personally know ARTHUR E. COIA [] but that he believes that [] has done business with [] advised that he believes that [] became involved in the loan as a result of his relationship with [] and not with the [] He stated that it was felt that the Hospital Trust may have "neglected" ARTHUR E. COIA in this matter inasmuch as [] may have had control over funds on deposit at Hospital Trust and that bank had failed to give proper attention to the loan proposal. [] felt that it would have been an "act of good faith" to give the loan proposal some attention and this may have lead to a consideration for CBT to receive some deposits.

b6

[] advised that he attended no meetings regarding this matter and was not aware of a meeting at the Chalet Restaurant.

b6
b7c

[] advised that [] was known to him to be an insurance man from Providence, Rhode Island, who was affiliated with the [] He stated that he met [] on two or three occasions regarding some type of loan consideration.

b6
b7c

[] advised that he was contacted a couple of months ago by [] and Company and reminded of a phone call from [] to him concerning a credit report on [] stated that he does not recall this phone call but that he may have referred the call to the bank's credit department for followup.

b6

[] advised that he was aware that New England Trust Company (NETC) was a competitor of CBT's trust department and that it was run by [] formerly with Industrial National Bank. He believes that NETC was located somewhere in Providence.

[redacted] concerning the Local Union [redacted] insurance plan. [redacted] and [redacted] had lunch sometime in 1976, and discussed his and [redacted] interest in securing the group [redacted]

[redacted] that [redacted] maybe interested in submitting a bid to Local Union [redacted] replied Local Union [redacted] was very satisfied with their current health plan under Blue Cross; however, [redacted] could submit a bid if they wished. [redacted] advised [redacted] is a very good friend of his and that he or [redacted] may have advised him the Local Union [redacted] health insurance contract was expiring. [redacted] advised [redacted] was incorporated and the corporate officers may have been [redacted] however, he is not sure. [redacted] does not know who the stockholders were at [redacted]

[redacted] was shown a photostatic copy of the original articles of incorporation for [redacted] and was asked to comment. [redacted] replied that he did not know there were 1200 shares of no-par stock, nor was he aware that [redacted] was listed [redacted] In addition, [redacted] stated he was surprised to see the name [redacted] appeared on the articles of incorporation. [redacted] advised he met [redacted] approximately [redacted] years ago at [redacted] house. [redacted] stated [redacted] Additionally, [redacted] advised [redacted] may also be related to [redacted] advised he has met [redacted] at several social occasions since he [redacted] is a close friend of [redacted] described [redacted] as approximately [redacted] pounds, [redacted] hair, and approximately [redacted] years old. [redacted] stated he never discussed any insurance business with [redacted] and he did not know [redacted] was in anyway involved with [redacted] stated that [redacted] is an avid fisherman and that he, [redacted] with [redacted] on occasion.

Concerning the dissolution of [redacted] advised that [redacted] has told him that [redacted] was going to be dissolved due to a lack of business. [redacted] does not know who informed [redacted] that [redacted] was to be dissolved. [redacted] stated he did not know [redacted] name appeared on the dissolution papers concerning [redacted]

[redacted] was also asked to review a photostatic copy of the original articles of incorporation of NORCORP Equities Company, Incorporated. He stated that he has never heard of a company by this name, nor does he know who holds the stock of NORCORP Equities Company, Incorporated.

[redacted] advised during the nine months he worked [redacted] he did not write any insurance for this agency. However, he stated the bid was prepared and submitted to the Rhode Island Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund concerning group health insurance. [redacted] stated he had contacted [redacted] of the Rhode Island Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund regarding this matter. [redacted] explained this bid contained his signature, and that of [redacted] as agents for Old Security Life Insurance Company and did not bear the name of [redacted] further advised that it is not unusual for a bid to bear the name of the insurance brokers rather than that of the insurance agency. Concerning Old Security Life Insurance Company, [redacted] advised Old Security is very prominent in the field of group insurance and it is for this reason that [redacted] wished to write Old Security policies. [redacted] advised the Rhode Island Laborer's Health and Welfare Fund health insurance bid was prepared by Old Security and possibly submitted to [redacted] who is the accountant for the fund. In addition, [redacted] believes an individual by the name of [redacted] of New York Life prepared the specifications for the fund health policy. For approximately two months after the policy became effective, [redacted] advised he and [redacted] received a brokerage fee on the policy. He stated Old Security sent the brokerage fees directly to himself and [redacted] at the offices of [redacted]. After two months, [redacted] was notified by the Rhode Island Laborer's Health and Welfare Fund that there should not have been a brokerage fee on this policy and that the payment of such would be discontinued. [redacted] stated this plan was strictly a health insurance plan, and the premium could have been approximately $284,000.00. [redacted] advised they tried to sell the Rhode Island Laborer's Health and Welfare Fund a whole life insurance policy but the fund was not interested.

[redacted]
[redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, home address [redacted] [redacted] Rhode Island, was interviewed and advised as follows:

[redacted] stated that he was [redacted] in the [redacted] for a little over one year in 1976. [redacted] stated at that time he was the [redacted] the Associated General Contractors of Rhode Island and one management trustee of the fund resigned. When that occurred, [redacted] appointed himself as a trustee with the approval of the Associated General Contractors. At the time he served as a trustee of the fund, [redacted] said that [redacted] were the other management trustees and [redacted] were the union trustees.

[redacted] said that he was a trustee at the time the fund changed carriers from New York Life to Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC). He stated that the reason the funds changed carriers was that New York Life had a record of poor claims service. He recalls that this was brought to his attention by [redacted] Both of those men said that there was a time lag for getting the claims processed. At that time the closest claim service representative for New York Life was in Boston. In the early summer of 1976 [redacted] proposed that the fund solicit new bids from insurance carriers. [redacted] does not recall the other discussions concerning the solicitation of bids but the trustees voted to solicit bids. [redacted] believes that the Martin Seigle Company was the funds insurance consultant and he recalls being spoken to by a Seigle representative in the office of [redacted] the fund's administrator at some point. His recollection was not good at this point since he did not recall what the role was of the Seigle representative. [redacted] recalls that [redacted] was legal council for the fund, but does not know whether he was consulted concerning putting out solicitations for bids to insurance carriers.

Investigation on 3/11/80 at Providence, Rhode Island File # BS 183-373by SAS [redacted] and [redacted] RPD/kac Date dictated 3/11/80

[] recalls that [] suggested the insurance carriers to whom solicitations would be sent and further recalls that he recommended Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC). When the bids were returned, OSLIC was the low bidder and [] said that a meeting of the trustees of both the Laborers Health and Welfare Fund trustees and the Heavy Construction Fund trustees was held at the Chalet Restaurant. At this meeting a representative of OSLIC, possibly named [] presented the OSLIC package. In addition to the trustees at this meeting, [] believes that there were other union representatives, but he cannot recall who they were. Following that presentation, the trustees voted to award the contract to OSLIC. [] stated that the vote to award the contract was unanimous. b6 b7C

[] could not recall any discussions at the Chalet meeting regarding term or whole life insurance. Several months after the contract was awarded to OSLIC, an article appeared in the paper regarding OSLIC going into receivership somewhere in the mid-West. [] recalls a discussion among the trustees regarding being prudent in their dealings with OSLIC. b6 b7C

Shortly thereafter, [] resigned from the Board of Trustees due to pressing business problems. b6 b7C

During the time that he was on the Board he does not recall being pressured by ARTHUR E. COIA regarding his OSLIC vote and stated he was not pressured by anyone else outside the trustees' meetings.

[redacted] of Old Security were knowledgeable of this transaction. He stated [redacted] were aware of the FNLIC payoffs, and the identities of the various Laborers he was dealing with.

[redacted] stated on several occasions during the period 1974-1975, [redacted] informed him that they would obtain business from "Fat Tony" Salerno, [redacted] and Santos Trafficante in regard to the operation of FNLIC. Their intention was to cut out [redacted] and [redacted] retaining Trafficante and Salerno as "our new partners" since they had the connections which would enable [redacted] go national. [redacted] informed him that by bringing Trafficante and Salerno into the deal, the available shares of stock to the other participants in the future national concern would have to be reduced with premium income increased.

[redacted] stated the above-described information is an overview of events and transactions of which he is knowledgeable; however, it does not represent everything that he knows about these matters.

[redacted] was in the process of setting up a new insurance company in the city of Providence and asked [redacted] to attend a meeting which involved the potential purchase of a life insurance company in New Jersey. The meeting took place sometime in February or March, 1976 in the office of [redacted] who is an attorney in Providence. Present at the meeting were [redacted]

[redacted] related that he was very reluctant to participate in the above described meeting primarily because it was his understanding that [redacted] and the others present were attempting to obtain more than five million dollars in financing in their efforts to take over the New Jersey life insurance company. [redacted] explained that the loan limit for the Citizens Bank is 1.4 million dollars so that right off the top, he had a very negative view to the potential loan of five million dollars. However, he became even more cautious when he observed the demeanor of [redacted] who by [redacted] description "completely turned me off". [redacted] stated that [redacted] walked into the meeting with a dark tan and explained his flight into town was on his privately owned Lear Jet. [redacted] received the impression that [redacted] was attempting to "give a real snow job" to some small time bankers from Providence, Rhode Island. [redacted] did, however, present a package to [redacted] which told the assembled group that he would review to determine if the bank would be willing to loan five million for the purchase of the life insurance company. [redacted] stated that in deference to [redacted] his bank did make some preliminary inquiries concerning the collateral which

He was [redacted] his predecessor, FRED TURGEON, passed away. He was appointed by the Associated General Contractors Executive Committee. Since he has been a trustee, the other management trustees have been [redacted] and [redacted], both of whom have since resigned. [redacted] who is currently a trustee and [redacted] who replaced [redacted]. The union trustees are currently [redacted] replaced [redacted] who was convicted of a felony six or seven months ago. [redacted] was a trustee when the fund switched insurance carriers from New York Life to Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC) in 1976.

[redacted] recalls that during the spring or early summer of 1976 [redacted] the laborers [redacted] brought up complaints about the unsatisfactory claims service of New York Life. [redacted] and [redacted] also brought up complaints to the trustees regarding the poor claims service of New York Life. The matter of changing insurance carriers was brought up at a trustees' meeting and a list of companies to whom solicitations were sent were presented to the Board by the administrator, [redacted]. Approximately ten companies were solicited among them being New York Life, Blue Cross, OSLIC, Union Labor Life and Aetna. The name of OSLIC came from one of the labor representatives on the Board of Trustees and [redacted] assumes that they probably followed the lead of the Massachusetts Laborers who apparently already signed a contract with OSLIC.

[] said that when the bids came back, OSLIC was the low bidder and following the receipt of the bids, a joint meeting of the Health and Welfare Fund trustees and Heavy Construction Fund trustees was held in an upstairs room of the Chalet Restaurant, North Providence, Rhode Island, early summer of 1978. In addition to the trustees, ARTHUR E. COIA, [] [] from OSLIC attended. [] presented the OSLIC package and stated that that company would employ the London Insurance Agency to handle local claims. [] recalls that prior to this, he had read some adverse publicity concerning the principles of London Insurance Agency in the paper. He received information concerning something about a bribe concerning the Providence Civic Center. He did not bring up his concern at a trustees meeting, but discussed the matter privately with []. At the time the bids were solicited, [] now deceased, was retained as insurance consultant and he prepared the bid package with [].

National Financial Agency (NFA) [redacted] insurance agency. The principals of NFA were [redacted] and possibly [redacted] NFA received a large amount of commissions from FNLIC. [redacted] stated this was due to the high expenses incurred by [redacted] in acquiring additional business for FNLIC. In addition to NFA, [redacted] created a number of agencies throughout the United States. The first of the agencies was PF Agency (PF) in Chicago which acquired the Indiana Laborers contract. [redacted] advised the other agencies, not in the order of their creation, were Worldwide Insurance Agency (WW) in Washington, D.C., Northeast Insurance Agency (NEIA) in Providence, Rhode Island, National Group Insurance Agency (NGIA) in Boston, Massachusetts, and Transcoast Insurance Agency (TIA) in California.

With respect to the MLHWF contract, [] stated there was an agreement between the MLHWF and OSLIC to maintain the premium monies on deposit in a Massachusetts bank. [] added this agreement was violated when a large amount of the MLHWF premiums were wire transferred from a bank in Massachusetts to Arizona. To further explain this transaction, [] added the premium monies from MLHWF were to be used in the purchase of GALICO. [] advised this transaction was improper in that the premiums should have remained as assets of OSLIC.

[] advised [] of the Martin E. Segal Company (MESC) was consultant to the MLHWF. Initially, MESC was to receive a $40,000 fee from OSLIC which was the same agreement the MLHWF had with the prior carrier. MESC would not oppose OSLIC as insurance carriers, but would oppose the whole life insurance program. In the end, MESC received $25,000 which was most likely paid out of an FNL account on a monthly basis. [] recalls MESC initially wanted payment to be made secretly, however, when the payment was made to MESC, the trustees of the MLHWF were informed.

In the early part of 1976, Great Pacific Corporation (GPC), [redacted] company of which [redacted] attempted to purchase GALICO, a New Jersey insurance company. GALICO was a subsidiary company of American Financial Corporation (AFC). b6 b7C

To realize the purchase of GALICO, a two million dollar down payment was to be made to AFC. In order to generate the capital for this purchase, a 1.8 million dollar dividend was declared from Family Provider Life Insurance Company (FPL) in Arizona to GPC, and two hundred thousand dollars cash from an account controlled by FNLIC. [redacted] stated 1.1 million of the 1.8 million came from premiums of the Central States Teamsters contract. He is not sure of the source of the remaining .7 million. As the purchase of GALICO never materialized, these funds were subsequently used in the purchase of National American Life Insurance Company (NALICO). The 1.8 million dollar dividend was decided upon as a method of generating cash for purchase of GALICO by [redacted] at a meeting in Los Angeles. [redacted] advised meetings were also held in Providence, Rhode Island, concerning the purchase of GALICO. [redacted] did not attend any of the meetings, as he had not been in Providence, Rhode Island, since 1968. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalls [redacted] had made statements that money could be borrowed from "RAYMOND" in Rhode Island in respect to the purchase of GALICO. [redacted] added that he did not know whether to believe these statements or not. b6 b7C

[redacted] retained the law firm of Zazzali and Zazzali in New Jersey to handle legal matters in the purchase of GALICO. [redacted] is not aware of [redacted] of [redacted] was retained to provide legal services, however, payments were made to COIA & LEPORE, Ltd. for their efforts to locate financing for the purchase of GALICO. [redacted] advised the COIA & LEPORE payments were for reimbursable expenses. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised [redacted] inferred he was going to use political influence in New Jersey to assure the purchase of GALICO. [redacted] recalls [redacted] saying he discussed the purchase of GALICO with [redacted] and [redacted] inferred he was going to meet with [redacted] however, [redacted] has no knowledge of this meeting ever taking place. [redacted] recalls a bill coming through FNLIC for payment from NFA representing travel between Florida and New Jersey for [redacted] [redacted] refused to make payment on the bill. She stated that [redacted] was intrigued with the insurance business but he did not know what it was about.

In the fall of 1974, [redacted] indicated he was going into the insurance business. He said there was alot of money to be made in this area. [redacted] advised that [redacted] and [redacted] began to have a number of conversations concerning necessary office space, office location, office furnishings and where the money would come from to run the office. She stated financing was to come from Farmer's National Life Insurance Company, possibly through loans to National Group Insurance Agency (NGIA). Farmer's National Life Insurance Company would get NGIA going and commissions would eventually get NGIA on its feet.

b6

[redacted] advised [redacted] told her he would need someone to get the office set up and someone to manage the office. [redacted] and she believes [redacted] stated that she may appear on the corporate papers as [redacted] NGIA. She stated [redacted] or his attorney [redacted] handled the incorporation of NGIA.

b6

According to [redacted] was [redacted] NGIA. She is unable to recall the exact amount of [redacted] salary, however, believes it was going to be about $50,000 a year. [redacted] did not receive a regular salary but would have a check for several hundred dollars made payable

b6
b7C

[] advised that she left NGIA in June 1976 to look for a new job because there was no business and nothing to do at NGIA. She stated that she also urged [] to get out because of the money problems with []. She remembers on one occasion when [] sent a check for $20,000 or $25,000 that bounced when it was deposited in the bank.

b6
b7C

[] advised the main goal of NGIA was to sell a whole life insurance plan to the Massachusetts Laborer's Health and Welfare Fund (MLHWF). She stated the sale of this plan would provide NGIA with the necessary capital to get underway and eventually sell other group plans. [] advised she recalled several conversations concerning the advantages of the whole life plan in respect to term life insurance. She stated the whole life plan is a very expensive plan but can be treated as an investment and provide the fund members with collateral to make loans; it has a cash surrender value; and can be retained after retirement.

b6
b7C

[] stated she made several business and pleasure trips to Florida and Las Vegas while she was at NGIA.

b6

[redacted] advised on one occasion she met [redacted] of Tolley International and JOHN BODEN at Hanscom Field and drove them to NGIA where they met with [redacted]. After they met [redacted] they went to the Howard Johnson's Motor Inn at Gateway Center, Newton, Massachusetts where the trustees of MLHWF meet. She also believes [redacted] may have met with the MLHWF trustees concerning the whole life plan.

In general, [redacted] advised that she had dinner at the Union House Restaurant in Framingham, Massachusetts. [redacted] told her that business would never be discussed at dinner or in front of women. She stated that ARTHUR E. COIA is a very emotional person that likes to talk to [redacted] about the various locals and negotiations taking place. She advised ARTHUR E. COIA may have been there when [redacted] first met [redacted]. To the best of her knowledge, she does not know if NGIA had first been proposed to ARTHUR E. COIA. However, she advised [redacted] discussed NGIA with ARTHUR E. COIA. In addition, there was also discussion with [redacted] when the whole life plan was proposed to MLHWF. [redacted] stated she does not know if any of the trustees of the MLHWF met with [redacted] or anyone else outside the meetings when the whole life plan was proposed.

b6
b7C

[redacted] advised that she has also been to Giro's Restaurant, in the North End of Boston with [redacted] ARTHUR E. COIA, [redacted] (LNU). While at Giro's, [redacted] GENNARO ANGIULO to her, however, no contact was made with anyone at Giro's. She stated ARTHUR E. COIA always liked to go to Giro's when he was in Boston.

b6

[redacted] advised she knows the names [redacted] and [redacted] but does not recall who they are. While at the Union House Restaurant an old man came over to their table and introduced himself but she does not recall his name. She thinks he could of been the owner of the Union House Restaurant.

[redacted] recalls bank statements were mailed on a weekly basis to OSLIC at a location in Florida. There were also telephone conversations between [redacted] and OSLIC concerning some of these same topics.

The initial deposit in November, 1975, was a MLHWF check drawn on the Shawmut Bank. This deposit represented premiums paid OSLIC for health insurance. On April 27, 1976, a check for 1.3 million dollars was deposited into the account. [redacted] recalls making a telephone call to Shawmut Bank to clear the check prior to accepting the deposit. He believes Shawmut would have been contacted concerning the initial deposit also. One of the major concerns [redacted] was that this account would require substantial time and manpower to maintain due to the expected activity. Therefore, [redacted] explained the account balance was very significant factor in determining the profitability on the account.

After the initial deposit, OSLIC officials notified [redacted] the account would have very little activity for a while and authorized [redacted] to purchase four Certificates of Deposit maturing at different times. On October 3, 1980, [redacted] voluntarily appeared at the offices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Room 900, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts, and was advised of the identities of the interviewing Agents and the nature of the interview. [redacted] furnished the following information:

[redacted] went to work for [redacted] in 1967 as a [redacted] shortly after his graduation from [redacted]. Presently, [redacted] is a [redacted].

In the spring of 1975, [redacted] received a telephone call from [redacted] told [redacted] he may be able to get him in on the ground floor of an insurance brokerage firm which would specialize in underwriting labor union group insurance business. [redacted] related the agency would be located in Boston and that he, [redacted] knew one of the principals of the agency, and would like to introduce [redacted] to him. Several weeks had passed before [redacted] again heard from [redacted]. Then one morning [redacted] went down to Lewis Wharf where [redacted] introduced him to [redacted]. [redacted] was one of the executives and would run the operation in Boston. It was explained to [redacted] this office was affiliated with a Florida insurance operation. [redacted] recalls [redacted] offices were very attractive and they were in the process of moving in. [redacted] had a short conversation with [redacted] concerning his experience in the group, and health and welfare insurance field. [redacted] told [redacted] he would arrange a meeting for [redacted] with [redacted] described [redacted] as a successful insurance man from Los Angeles. [redacted] stated [redacted] agency was named National Group Insurance Agency.

Approximately a month or two later, [redacted] received a telephone call from either [redacted] or directly from [redacted] in order to set up a meeting with [redacted] at the Lewis Wharf offices. When [redacted] arrived at Lewis Wharf, [redacted] apologized that [redacted] was delayed with another appointment and could not make the meeting. [redacted] stated there was very little discussed at this meeting, and [redacted] told him that he would be in touch.

In late June, 1975, [] received a telephone call from [] just prior to leaving on a business trip to Milwaukee. [] recalls he went to Milwaukee on a Tuesday afternoon. [] asked [] if he could meet with [] and some other insurance people in Washington, D.C. on Thursday of that same week. [] also told [] he would meet some key people in the labor movement. [] was advised that all expenses would be taken care of.

[] flew from Milwaukee to Washington, D.C., where lodging had been arranged for him at the Hay Adams Hotel. He recalls arriving at approximately 4:00 or 5:00 PM. Shortly after he arrived, [] received a telephone call from [] [] told him to meet him in the lobby as soon as possible as they were going to McLean, Virginia, for dinner. [] went to the lobby, where he met [] along with three or four individuals from Los Angeles, and several others. In total there were about 10 people altogether.

After everyone gathered in the lobby, they got into two limousines, which were waiting outside, and went to [] Virginia. [] stated [] was a Laborers' International Union official. [] group was met at the door by [] Everyone went downstairs for drinks, more people continued to arrive until there were approximately 25-30 people at [] said it appeared everyone knew everyone else, except for himself. After everyone arrived, they went to an Italian restaurant for dinner.

[] was told there was a golf and card playing tournament the next day sponsored by the D.C. Friends of Ireland. He was asked if he would be playing golf or cards. [] indicated that he would play golf. He explained that plans for the next day seemed to be the major topic of discussion at dinner.

At dinner, [] sat beside a tall, slender, dark-haired individual who said he was [] This individual had one time been employed by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company. [] discussed health and welfare insurance with the actuary. This individual explained to [] their plan to replace group term life with group permanent life on the union health and welfare business. [] told this individual he believes the replacing of term life with permanent life on a group basis could be in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act. [] has a plan where they make permanent life coverage available directly to the individual on a payroll deduction basis. [] policy differs from what was explained by the actuary, in that [] policy is sold to the individual, not to the fund. In addition, [] plan would not result in the extremely high commissions, as would the actuary's plan. [] stated the actuary told him they had all the details worked out on this plan, and there would be no problems. [] told him [] did not have a product to offer along those lines. [] stated the dinner ended around midnight and they took the limousine back to the Hay Adams Hotel. The only people [] could recall from dinner were [] the actuary from [] insurance company, an individual who spoke with an Irish brogue, and the people with [] from the West Coast.

[] was told to go to the pro shop and get the equipment he needed to play golf. [] recalls buying a golf shirt, shorts, socks and golf shoes amounting to approximately $100. The clerk at the counter told [] that payment had been taken care of. In addition, [] stated green fees, clubs, balls and golf carts had also been taken care of.

[] stated there was a buffet dinner after the golf match where a raffle was held. [] recalls he bought a $10. raffle ticket and won a set of Ben Hogan golf irons. Other items raffled off were TVs, stereos and small appliances, all donated by various labor unions and businesses in the Washington, D.C. area. [] stated this was a yearly affair, sponsored by the D.C. Friends of Ireland in support of the Irish Trade Unions and a scholarship fund. After dinner was over, [] returned to the Hay Adams Hotel. [] does not recall any insurance business being discussed at the Friends of Ireland affair.

that [] would be set up in Boston to do work for the [] group. [] wanted [] bank to handle the account for this business. [] stated that it was his understanding that he would only be a depository banker in this matter. [] felt that that was fine. He stated that [] thereupon opened an account for the Old Security Life Insurance Company. [] stated that the bank never opened up an account for the FNLIC.

[] stated that at about the same time [] started to indicate that this business would be the start of something big. [] asked []

[] would mind if [] sat on the Board of Directors of FNLIC. [] stated that it was his understanding that this would be on an infrequent basis inasmuch as FNLIC was located in Miami, Florida. [] stated that initially FNLIC wanted a loan officer on the Board of Directors, however, this was not acceptable to the bank. He stated that at some point he signed papers agreeing to be on the Board of Directors of FNLIC. He advised that the purpose of him being on the Board of FNLIC was "to protect the depository nature of the relationship" and to act as a buffer between the Loan Department of the Middlesex BayBank and FNLIC. He stated that in the event that FNLIC needed a loan, the loan request would come through him.

[] advised that most meetings of the Board of Directors as he recalled it took place over the phone. He stated that he did receive some phone calls from FNLIC and some additional papers to sign. He advised that he was never invited to a meeting of the Board of Directors and that the minutes were mailed to him to read and sign. He stated that in fact he never attended a meeting of FNLIC and that he did not consider this strange since [redacted] advised that London Insurance Agency besides paying the claims served as the consultant and insurance broker to the fund. He stated that in addition to the Trustees, representatives from London Insurance Agency and [redacted] the Attorney normally attended the Trustee meetings.

[redacted] advised that the Trustees did vote to award their insurance contract to Old Security. He stated that he did not recall the meeting on the vote. He advised that the Trustees very seldom disagree in their voting. He explained that [redacted] the Attorney had recommended to the Trustee that they should not disclose what an individual Trustee votes in a situation. He advised that this evidently has something to do with liability of the Trustees.

[redacted] advised that he does not recall that any outside legal consultants were brought in to advise the fund regarding insurance purchases. He stated that someone else besides [redacted] from his law firm may have attended some of the Trustee meetings, but that other than that he does not recall any outside legal consultants being brought in.

[redacted] advised that the minutes at the meetings are recorded by [redacted]

[redacted] All of these individuals are associated with London Insurance Agency.

[] advised that the reason the Trustees terminated their insurance contract with Old Security was actually that Old Security canceled their coverage effective February 28, 1977. [] stated that he recalled that there was also a congressional investigation into Old Security and that there was an article in the Providence Journal Newspaper. He recalled that a letter was sent by the Union to its members to explain what was happening with its insurance coverage. This was in response to the article in the Providence Journal. At some point [] from Old Security came to the Trustee meetings to answer questions about Old Security. Additionally the administrator received summonses to provide records to the Senate Sub Committee investigating this matter. [] advised that the fund received the letter indicating that their coverage had been discontinued by Old Security and that he does not recall whether or not there was an actual vote on termination of the contract.

[] advised that he does not know whether the fund suffered any financial loss as a result of the Old Security contract but that the fund did have to absorb some financial losses as a result of either the Northeastern contract or the Old Security contract.

[] advised that he was never contacted outside the Trustee meetings regarding his voting on this contract. Date of transcription 11/30/79

On October 28, 1979, [redacted] The Union Labor Life Insurance Company (ULLIC), 850 Third Avenue, New York, New York, 10022, telephone number [redacted] was advised of the official identities of the interviewing Agents and the nature of the investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) into the activities of the Massachusetts Laborers' Health and Welfare Fund (MLHWF) leading up to the awarding of MLHWF group insurance package to Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC).

Also present during the interview was [redacted] Union Labor Life Insurance Company. [redacted] was interviewed at the business offices of ULLIC and provided the following information:

[redacted] advised that he has been in the insurance business since the 1950's and has been with ULLIC for [redacted] years. He stated he came with ULLIC in 1965 as a group sales executive. In 1968, he was made a [redacted] and in 1970 a [redacted] - Group Sales which is his present position.

[redacted] advised in 1975 ULLIC had been servicing the MLHWF group insurance contract for the past 25 years. [redacted] stated the ULLIC renewal rate increase in 1975 was higher than the previous year and it was decided by the trustees of the MLHWF to put the contract up for bid. [redacted] explained the ULLIC renewal rate increase in based on experience with this contract as is policy with group contracts in general. [redacted] advised the Martin E. Segal Company (MESG) informed ULLIC they were under-bid by OSLIC by approximately $500,000.00. [redacted] stated ULLIC did not submit a bid on the whole life alternate included in the MLHWF contract because he felt ULLIC did not have a competitive product in the whole life area. According to [] ULLIC was not concerned with providing a group permanent life insurance product but were concerned with conserving the MLHWF contract since it was a large contract exceeding five million dollars per year in premiums.

[redacted] CJS/emf Date dictated 11/29/79

b6
b7C

[] advised it was in an effort to conserve the MLHWF contract that he travelled to the Boston, Massachusetts area during the weeks of October 6th and 13th, 1975 in order to personally interview the trustees of the MLHWF concerning their reasons why they were considering changing to a new insurance carrier. [] advised he conducted the interviews alone because he felt he may be able to obtain more information than if accompanied by [] representative for ULLIC.

b6
b7C

The interviewing Agents discussed the contents of a memo prepared by [] dated October 20, 1975. This memo contains the general observations and results of [] interviews with the trustees of the MLHWF.

b6
b7C

[] advised the management trustees were in support of ULLIC and were complementary of the service provided by ULLIC to the fund but were receiving pressure from the District Council and International Vice-President Arthur E. Coia to vote in favor of the low bidder on the contract. Low bidder was OSLIC.

b6

[] was asked to comment on the following statement contained in the memo of October 20, 1975:

b6

"To a man, they are aware of a bad situation which has unmistakable overtones of a 'deal' - 'a bribe' - a 'rip-off' (all expressions were used)."

[] advised some of the terms he used such as "deal", "bribe", "rip-off" may be exaggerated in describing the events concerning the MLHWF insurance contract. He continued that he presently does not recall if all of these expressions were used to describe this situation. b6 b7C

Concerning his statement that a BTEA contractor by the name of [] had threatened Trustees [] with the loss of his job if [] does not "play ball" with the International Vice-President and District Council, [] explained he heard this in conversation he had with Martin E. Segal Company (MESC) representatives who were discussing pressures that were being exerted on trustees. [] stated he could have possibly heard this from [] of MESC, however, he is not sure. [] added he believes the only pressure on the trustees was to accept the low bid and ULLIC was not the low bidder. b6 b7C

[] advised the union had to vote according to the recommendations of the District Council who were reflecting the views of the union members. He stated he may have again exaggerated in describing this situation in his memo of October 20, 1975. b6 b7C

In a personal interview with [] the MLHWF, representing the management trustees he indicated [] revealed a bribe incident. [] further described this situation as involving the International Vice-President and that if [] would "go along" with the OSLIC - Farmers National Life Insurance Company (FNLIC) package [] need only pick up a 1976 Mark IV Lincoln Continental from a car dealer in Newport, Rhode Island, who is a close relative of the International Vice-President. [] b6 b7C advised he does not presently recall if the mentioned bribe incident was directed to [redacted] or if he, [redacted] was just relating a story he had heard involving someone else. He stated he is not sure if the bribe involved a Mark IV or some other make of automobile. [redacted] advised this interview took place at [redacted] office in [redacted] Massachusetts.

[redacted] advised he interviewed [redacted] management trustee, at [redacted] office located at Logan International Airport, Boston, Massachusetts. [redacted] stated [redacted] was against replacing ULLIC; however, [redacted] may have to vote in favor of the low bidder. [redacted] advised [redacted] may have been threatened with work slow-downs. [redacted] told [redacted] he should look at the history of ULLIC on MLHWF contract rather than just looking at the higher premium dollar. [redacted] stated that he is not sure if [redacted] used the words "pressure" or "threats" during his interview.

b6
b7C

[redacted] advised he interviewed [redacted] management trustee at [redacted] office in [redacted]. [redacted] stated he told [redacted] of the OSLIC - ENLIC set-up, including what he knew about [redacted]. [redacted] advised [redacted] to consider ULLIC past service and low retention when considering the up-coming MLHWF contract. [redacted] was asked to comment on the following statement contained in his memo:

b6

[redacted] is a small contractor and afraid of what the laborers could do for him in his needs for men."

b6
b7C

[redacted] explained that statement is his words not [redacted] words and means that [redacted] would probably have to go along with the recommendations of the union.

b6
b7C

[] advised he interviewed [] at his business offices located in [] Massachusetts. During this interview also [] advised he stressed ULLIC low retention and 23 years of service to the fund. [] stated [] told him he would rely on the recommendations of the consultant and the co-counsel. [] advised [] had received telephone calls to vote for the low bidder on the contract. [] advised the calls were from laborers and he could best describe them as calls attempting to persuade [] to vote for the low bidder on the contract.

b6
b7C

[] advised he interviewed [] union trustee, at the union offices in [] Massachusetts. [] stated [] advised him that [] felt ULLIC did a good job but did not have very much to say. [] advised from past experience that it is not unusual for union officials to act in this way.

b6
b7C

[] advised he interviewed [] union trustee, at the offices of the Massachusetts Laborers' District Council in [] Massachusetts. He stated if he recalls correctly [] did not have much to say except he would follow the recommendations of the District Council.

b6

[] advised he interviewed [] union trustee, [] at his residence. [] advised [] he wanted to stay with ULLIC and that ULLIC had provided excellent service to the fund over the years. [] told [] that he felt he would have to take the low bid; however, he would be guided by the recommendations of MESAC. [] was asked to comment on the following statements from his interview with []

b6

"He really opened up to me. He said it was a shame "things were happening." He acknowledged that he was very uncomfortable talking to me. He said "I am a family man and my job is at stake - and - you know what I mean."

Concerning the above excerpts from his memo [redacted] advised he probably exaggerated in writing this paragraph. [redacted] does not recall if these were [redacted] exact words.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised he attempted to interview [redacted] Massachusetts Laborers' District Council (MLDC); however, he was advised by office personnel that [redacted] was unavailable.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised he interviewed [redacted] a former MLHWF trustee, at the offices [redacted] Massachusetts. [redacted] advised he just ran into [redacted] at the MLDC by accident and that he had not intended to interview him concerning the insurance contract. [redacted] stated in his memo that [redacted] was removed as trustee of the MLHWF approximately three years ago because [redacted] "wouldn't take orders." [redacted] advised he does not recall if these words and other statements in his memo regarding the [redacted] interview are [redacted] exact words.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised he had met with Arthur E. Coia at his offices in Providence, Rhode Island around this same time or just prior to interviewing the trustees. Coia stated he was not a trustee on the MLHWF; however, he, Coia, would speak on behalf of ULLIC for the conversation of the MLHWF contract. [redacted] also stated

b6
b7c

Coia had promised him an opportunity to make a presentation on behalf of ULLIC, to the trustees of the MLHWF. [] advised that he never did make a formal presentation to the trustees regarding the contract. [] stated he had met Coia at a conference in San Francisco, California about a week after he had talked to the trustees of the MLHWF. Coia said the trustees had voted in favor of the low bidder OSLIC.

b6
b7C

[] advised in October or November of 1975 he had met some of the trustees of the MLHWF at a convention in Hawaii. He recalled [] saying we had to take the low bid. [] advised he felt the bottom line of this situation was the trustees felt they had to take the low bid.

b6
b7C

[] advised in a memo dated October 20, 1975 directed to [] he set out the results of an interview he had with the Deputy Commissioner of Insurance of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. [] stated he made [] aware of everything he knew concerning [] OSLIC, and FNLIC. Specifically, the re-insurance agreement between OSLIC and FNLIC. Initially, [] advised [] was very interested and assigned some investigators to work on the case; however, as it turned out, [] stated he does not believe the Massachusetts Insurance Commissioner ever did anything about the situation.

b6

In conclusion, [] stated he exaggerated in his memo of October 20, 1975 describing the course of events leading up to awarding of the MLHWF contract, because he felt it was necessary to have something in his company's file setting out reasons why ULLIC may lose the MLHWF contract. [] advised this memo could possibly be considered deceptive and could very well be misunderstood by the reader.

On March 30, 1977, [redacted] and [redacted] [redacted] were interviewed at their office. [redacted] Certified Public Accountants (CPA), [redacted] by Special Agent [redacted] Federal Bureau of Investigation, at which time they advised as follows:

At the inception of the interview [redacted] advised that he had not participated in [redacted] Great Pacific Corporation, but that his [redacted] [redacted] advised that he desired to be present at the interview however, inasmuch as it involved a matter concerning the forgoing CPA Firm in which they were both partners. Both [redacted] advised that they have had previous communications with the Security Exchange Commission (SEC) concerning this matter and that [redacted] had furnished an affidavit to the SEC concerning the matter. They advised that they were disturbed inasmuch as they had heard rumors in the financial community that there had been problems concerning the legal and financial conditions of the Great Pacific Corporation.

It is noted that at this time they were advised by Special Agent [redacted] that they were free to consult with their attorney prior to being interviewed, if they so desired, but both parties advised they would defer consulting with their attorney at this time and would consent to being interviewed concerning this matter.

[redacted] advised that he had actually conducted an audit of the Great Pacific Corporation on February 11, 1976,

[redacted] was advised of the official identities of the interviewing Agents and of the nature of the interview. Also present during the interview was [redacted] Consulting Attorney for [redacted]
[redacted]

[redacted] advised that he was [redacted] Agency. [redacted] advised that sometime in the early part of 1976, possibly March of 1976, he was told by [redacted] a golfing and business acquaintance, that Old Security Life Insurance Company was looking for the Laborer's business in the Rhode Island area. In conjunction with the Laborer's group insurance business, Old Security Life Insurance Company was also looking for a local company who would provide a claims payment service to the insured members. [redacted] stated that he told [redacted] when a representative of Old Security Life Insurance Company came into town, that he should contact [redacted] at London Insurance Agency inasmuch as [redacted] was interested in providing the claims payment service.

[redacted] advised that a claims paying service is a service in which the agency receives the claim, audits the claim against the contract, and then pays the claim. Afterwards, a check is drawn on the account of the carrier to cover the claim. In effect, [redacted] would have the power to draw on the accounts of the insurance company to pay the claim. [redacted] also explained that in many instances, the insurance company itself would be the claims payer, however, this was often not as efficient as having a local company provide the claims paying service.

extremely good price at that time. He stated that in effect, that was why [] was interested in conducting business with Old Security Life Insurance Company. [] advised that inasmuch as he was interested in securing the Rhode Island Laborer's Health & Welfare Insurance Plan, he was willing to accept a 3 1/2 percent fee, as opposed to the normal 5 or 6 percent. [] stated that [] did bid the claims paying services for the Rhode Island Laborer's Health & Welfare Fund. He stated that the bid was made to Old Security through []. He stated that he believed that Old Security's bid to the Rhode Island Laborer's Health & Welfare Fund included the price of the Claims Paying Service. [] advised that he wanted to use Old Security on some of his own clients since they could provide such a favorable rate. He stated that eventually, he used Old Security Life Insurance Company on the following union funds:

| 3. Amalgamated Food Handlers Local 328, Trust Fund | Agent & Claims Service |
| 4. Local 10, Amalgamated Food Workers Health & Welfare Fund | Agent & Claims Service |

[] advised that he had looked into Old Security Life Insurance Company and that he had found out that it was an old line company and that it was wholly owned by a conglomerate. [] stated that from all appearances to him, it appeared to be a solid insurance company.

b6

[] advised that he believes that the Laborer's Union ended up as the Agent on the Health & Welfare policies. He stated that he appeared before the directors of the Laborer's and made a presentation regarding the services which he could provide. He stated that he is still servicing the Laborers for claims payment. He advised that New York Life Insurance Company is now the insurance agent for the laborers. He stated that he is very proud of the fact that New York Life has retained [] Insurance Agency as the Claims Paying Service for the Laborers. He stated that this is not the usual policy with a company like New York Life. He stated that it is because of the effective and efficient way in which he conducts his insurance agency that it was retained. Regarding the Laborers acting as their own insurance agent, he stated that he believes the Laborers went directly to Old Security Life Insurance Company in this matter, and that therefore, they would not have needed an Agent. He was not sure on this point.

[] advised that he met ARTHUR COIA, Sr. at the meeting where he presented the facts regarding his claims paying service. He stated that he knew [] through golf. He advised that he never discussed business with [] and that there was no meeting at any time with [] regarding the securing of the Laborer's insurance contract.

[] advised that he was not aware of any reinsurance contract between Old Security Life Insurance Company and Farmer's National Life Insurance Company of Florida. [] advised that he received the checks to pay the claims from either Old Security or Nationwide Administrators. He stated that he received drafts on which he could draw on the accounts of either Old Security or Nationwide. He stated that at one point he did have problems with insufficient funds. He advised that the first premium check which he received from Local 10 was forwarded to another company which he believes was located in Florida. He advised that he did not like this policy of sending checks to a company other than the insurance company involved, and that he complained to Old Security that in the future all checks would have to go to them. He recalled that one of his female employees had received a call to forward the check.

[] advised that he did not handle any of the Old Security Life Insurance policies. [] advised that he had never heard of a company called Northeast Insurance Company, Inc. He advised that he thinks that [] were in business together. He stated that he was not sure of that though. [] advised that he paid [] $2,000 as a finders fee. He stated that [] had called him and advised that he felt that since he had located Old Security that he was entitled to such a fee. [redacted] first contact with Farmer's Life was in early July, 1975, shortly after the Fourth of July. During the afternoon of that day, [redacted] called him and told him to "get his ass over here" to the [redacted]

[redacted] Since [redacted] was an excellent business contact [redacted] dropped what he was doing and went to the [redacted]

When he arrived at [redacted] he found several men examining a set of blueprints. Those that he recalled were [redacted] some of [redacted] staff, and an architect; [redacted] and [redacted] who were apparently associated with [redacted] excused himself from the group, ushered [redacted] outside the office, and told [redacted] he was resigning from LIUNA to open an insurance office, which he wanted [redacted] to furnish. This came as a severe shock to [redacted] because [redacted] would be giving up a well-paid position of influence and authority with LIUNA, as the [redacted] LIUNA.

b7c

When they returned to [redacted] office, [redacted] looked over the blueprints and found that [redacted] planned to move into a large suite of offices on the eighth floor of a new building at 1150 Connecticut Avenue, N.W. [redacted] was a "tall order", since [redacted] wanted it completed by [redacted] and wanted nothing but "first class" [redacted] When [redacted] asked if he thought he could do it, he told [redacted] that it would be tough, but he thought he could have [redacted] in business by September. Since [redacted] was going bear hunting in Alaska, and would not return until September, he told [redacted] to report to his associate, [redacted] to work out the details.

[redacted] had met [redacted] the previous year (1974), when [redacted] introduced them. During that year, LIUNA had received a government contract, which required them to move into separate office space. According to the terms of the contract, which involved some type of "study", the project could not be conducted in LIUNA's own building. The LIUNA group was known as Laborers International AGC (Associated General Contractors) and was headed by [redacted] hired [redacted] the new office space, which was in a building owned by Blake Construction. The building was located near the intersection of M Street, Connecticut Avenue, and Rhode Island, N.W.

It was during the period that he was working on this office that he met [redacted] introduced him to [redacted] while they were in a restaurant or cocktail lounge. [redacted] who was connected with the building or construction industry in Boston, Massachusetts, was familiar with the new LIUNA office space and appeared to have some interest in it. [redacted] knew all the top LIUNA officials on a "first name" basis, from the President down. [redacted] appeared to be closely acquainted with [redacted] apparently had confidence in [redacted]

b6

The next occasion that [redacted] was in July, 1975, at the Blake Construction offices when they were discussing the new insurance company's office.

Within a week of reviewing the blueprint plans in [redacted] had drawn up a contract and a set of design plans. The contract required payments totalling approximately $100,000.00, with one-third to be paid as a downpayment when [redacted] one-third to be paid within thirty days; and one-third to be paid upon completion.

b6
b7C

[redacted] came to WDC, reviewed the plans, made certain changes, and signed the contract. The contract was made in the name of National Group Insurance Agency (National Group). To the best of his recollection, [redacted] signed the contract as [redacted] of National Group. [redacted] thought this was peculiar, because he had assumed that [redacted] would be the [redacted] [redacted] was obviously in charge of the company in WDC and was "running the show."

After [redacted] signed the contract, [redacted]

[redacted] A month passed, [redacted] but he had not been paid by National Group. He had [redacted] without first receiving a deposit, based entirely on [redacted] assurance that he would be paid. He contacted [redacted] who said that he would contact Farmer's Life about the payments. [redacted] assumed that Farmer's Life was the parent company of National Group.

b6

After a few weeks had passed, and he still had not received any payments, [redacted] informed him that Farmer's Life had decided to [redacted] [redacted] to arrange for the leasing contract, which would involve selling [redacted] then leasing it back.

b6

MM 183A-588

[redacted] made the leasing arrangement through [redacted] with whom he had made similar arrangements in the past. [redacted] traveled to WDC and attended a conference with [redacted] personnel. [redacted] was interested, but wanted a financial report from National Group. [redacted] promised to provide this report by forwarding it through [redacted]

b6
b7C

A few weeks later, a huge packet of material arrived from Farmer's Life, rather than National Group. [redacted] forwarded the packet to [redacted] without reviewing the materials. After [redacted] had studied and analyzed the materials, they posed several questions, which they forwarded to [redacted] through [redacted]. The financial statement has apparently revealed that Farmer's Life owned numerous other insurance companies and that, in several instances, money had been shuffled from one subsidiary to another. [redacted] requested financial data on the subsidiaries, but never received it. Eventually [redacted] cancelled the agreement, and the leasing deal collapsed. [redacted] did not know the names of the Farmer's Life subsidiaries.

By this time, it was well into September. [redacted] had [redacted] and other equipment, and he was beginning to feel panicky. Fortunately for him, [redacted] was having difficulty completing the construction on the new building, so he could not have moved the furniture into the office in any event. Throughout September and early Fall, and after the leasing deal had been cancelled, he made repeated efforts to contact [redacted]. He called [redacted] Boston office eight times a day, but he could never get past [redacted] secretary. [redacted] never returned his telephone calls.

b6

During the same time period, he began calling the Florida office of Farmer's Life. After several unsuccessful attempts to reach someone in a position of authority, he conversed with [redacted] Farmer's Life. [redacted] told him to forget about [redacted] was "out." He never again heard from [redacted]

Since the [] deal had fallen through, [] wanted [] to find another leasing company. He found a highly respected leasing company, which was based in Chicago and was known as Trans America. When Trans America showed an interest in the deal, Farmer's Life forwarded its records. Trans America was apparently pleased with Farmer's Life's financial statement, but wanted an advance payment of ten percent while it completed its investigation of Farmer's Life.

b7C

In November, 1975, Trans America received a $10,000.00 check from Farmer's Life, but the check was returned for insufficient funds. Either [] promised to transfer funds and send another check. The second check was also returned for insufficient funds.

b6

During late December, he received a $10,000.00 check drawn on The Flagler Bank, Miami, Florida 33126 and made out to [redacted]. The check was drawn on account number [redacted] which the heading of the check indicated was an account for National Financial Agency, Inc., 3705 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, Florida 33137. The check was dated December 9, 1975, and was signed by [redacted]. Beneath [redacted] signature appeared the signature of a [redacted]. He was not acquainted with [redacted] but the name seemed familiar. She may have been employed by the Miami office of Farmer's Life. He deposited the check in his account at American Security and Trust (AS&T), account number [redacted].

b6
b7c

On January 5, 1976, he was notified by AS&T that the check had been returned for insufficient funds and for the unauthorized signature of [redacted]. The back of the check was stamped "Paid; Dec 29 '75; 63 951." Above this stamp was the following: "Cancellation Rescinded; Dec 29 1975; Inter-continental Bank of Miami, Florida 63-951/660."

b6
b7c

After this check was returned, [redacted] his banker at AS&T, reached someone in Miami and demanded that $10,000.00 be wired to [redacted] account. A few days later, this deposit was wired to his account, and he began [redacted].

b6

During this period of time, he received telephone calls from several individuals who were unknown to him. He could not recall any names, but he did remember that a number of them "ended in 'o'", i.e. "sounded Italian." Most of the callers demanded to know why he had not started the Farmer's Life office or wanted to know when he expected the office to be opened.

Eventually, Crocker National Bank, from California, accepted the leasing deal for the furniture. Crocker sent substantial funds -- $45,000.00, initially, then an additional (approximate) $35,000.00 -- but would not pay for such fixtures as panelling, wallcovers, and draperies.

It was in approximately April, 1976, that [redacted] the office and Farmer's Life moved in. At first, [redacted] was the only occupant in this huge complex of offices. Later, a man from New Jersey was sent down to assist [redacted] who knew nothing about insurance. The New Jersey man was supposed to be an insurance expert. A secretary was also hired. [redacted] did not know the identities of either the secretary or the insurance expert. He saw [redacted] in the office only once -- when he [redacted] was in there working.

b6

After the suite was occupied, Farmer's Life still owed him $20,000.00. He talked often with [redacted] (telephonically), who always assured him that funds were forthcoming. One day, [redacted] called him and told him to get his invoices together, because [redacted] was coming to town to pay him in full. Later, [redacted] called and told him to meet them [redacted] and at Fran O'Brien's Silverbird, a local nightclub.

b6

When he arrived at Fran O'Brien's, [redacted] introduced him to [redacted] could not pay him anything that day, but promised to send him a partial payment, immediately, and the balance within thirty days. [redacted] later sent him $1,000.00. He received no further payments from Farmer's Life.

b6

A few days after this meeting, [redacted] called him and told him to come to his office with a truck and a deliveryman. [redacted] wanted to move some furnishings from his office to his home. The furnishings [redacted] wanted to move were a four-drawer file safe, an icemaker, a refrigerator, and various other items, all of which had been ordered after April, 1976, and none of which had been paid for.

b6

While he was helping move these items, [redacted] told him that the office was closing as of that day. [redacted] told him to keep quiet about it, because he had not told the secretary or the man from New Jersey. [redacted] walked out of the insurance office that day and [redacted] has not seen him since then. This occurred in July, 1976.

b6

[redacted] told him to contact [redacted] for the remainder of the money due him. He called [redacted] several times with no result. Ultimately, he received a notice from the Florida Insurance Commission that Farmer's Life had declared bankruptcy.

made in California: It was the elaborate, fancy furniture that is known in the furniture business as "Hollywood" style. Some of the furniture had tags which indicated it originated in California.

Whatever the name of the WDC insurance company, it was apparently a subsidiary of Farmer's Life. When [redacted] was acting as [redacted] the company, it was known as National Group Life Insurance Agency. When [redacted] was out of the picture, the name was changed to Worldwide Insurance Agency. [redacted] installed the logo and the lettering for Worldwide. He also recalled that the payments from Crocker National Bank referred to Farmer's Life.

[redacted] never mentioned what he intended to do with the insurance company. [redacted] knew absolutely nothing about the insurance business. He had the big, lavishly furnished office, complete with bars and private restrooms, but he would have had to depend on someone else to run the insurance business. Possibly to accomplish this end, there were six or eight different offices established for vice presidents.

It was [redacted] belief, based on what he had heard from other sources in the labor unions, that the insurance company was "going after" union business, especially the money available in the various union pension and trust funds. He assumed that the company would use [redacted] as an asset to attract the union business.

At the conclusion of the interview, [redacted] reviewed a list of twenty-six (26) names and identified the following individuals, not previously mentioned during the interview:

[redacted] was the [redacted] or [redacted] of Farmer's Life in Miami. [redacted] would often put [redacted] in touch with [redacted] when [redacted] was trying to collect on his invoice.

[] advised [] consultant to the fund, submitted reports to the trustees setting out the excessive costs and deficit spending which would be incurred by the fund should whole life insurance be approved. In addition, he stated there were many unanswered questions concerning the taxability of whole life to the members, along with unanswered questions concerning OSLIC in general. b6 b7C

[] advised a second consulting firm was called in to review the whole life of concept of life insurance. [] believes it was [] who recommended TIC. [] stated [] made a presentation to the trustees recommending whole life insurance for the MLHWF; that whole life was successful in other areas of the country and would be beneficial to fund members. b6 b7C

[] advised during the MLHWF insurance contract negotiations two telegrams were received from [] LIUNA, advising against the inclusion of whole life insurance in the MLHWF contract due to excessive costs to the fund. He stated these telegrams were read into the fund meetings and appear as attachments to minutes of the meetings. b6 b7C

[] advised on two occasions, a motion was made to award the contract to OSLIC including the whole life concept, however, it was voted down by vote of the trustees. [] stated it is necessary to have a minimum of two trustees from each side (union and management) vote in favor of a motion to pass it. [] advised concerning the insurance contract vote all union trustees voted in favor of OSLIC and whole life, while only one management trustee voted favorably. He indicated [] was the management trustee who voted in favor of OSLIC and whole life insurance. [] stated subsequent to James Merloni advising the trustees that the whole life alternative was being excluded from consideration in the MLHWF insurance contract, a third vote was taken to award the contract to OSLIC and was unanimously approved by the trustees.

[] advised during the negotiations of MLHWF contract he was not aware of the re-insurance agreement between OSLIC with Farmers National Life Insurance Company (FNLIC), [] insurance company in Florida. He stated he became aware of OSLIC reinsuring 95 percent of the risk with FNLIC until the time of the U.S. Senate investigation into labor union insurance. [] stated he has since reviewed the transcripts of the hearings before the United States Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations concerning labor union insurance.

[] advised his intentions during the negotiations of the MLHWF contract in 1973 were to rely on the recommendations of the MESC regarding the bid proposals and whole life insurance. He advised both he and co-counsel [] were in agreement concerning whole life insurance especially on the question of taxability of the policy to the policy holders. [] continued that to the best of his knowledge there was no unusual pressure exerted over himself or over any of the trustees during the negotiation of the MLHWF contract. [] advised he was not aware of any threats to trustees concerning loss of jobs or any situations involving bribes, if one would vote in favor of OSLIC and whole life insurance.

not sure who introduced him to [redacted] but that he recalled that he met [redacted] at an affair in Washington, D.C. He stated he got to talking with [redacted] and that they discussed life and the world in general. He stated that during the conversation, [redacted] indicated to him that he was interested in having practical management type people around him and working for him in his insurance business. He asked [redacted] if he would be willing to sit down with him and discuss details at a later date. [redacted] stated this is where it started. [redacted] advised he later made a telephone call to [redacted] requested he meet him in Miami and discuss the possibility of future employment. [redacted] advised shortly thereafter, exact date unrecalled, he flew to Miami to meet with [redacted]. He advised he could not recall who paid for the flight, however, he stayed at the [redacted] Collins Avenue, Miami Beach, Florida, as a guest of [redacted]. During his stay in Miami, [redacted] met with [redacted] in [redacted] room at the [redacted] and at the offices of Farmers National Life Insurance Company (FNLIC), Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, Florida. On this trip, he met some of the staff and employees of FNLIC. [redacted] stated [redacted] indicated to him that he needed someone who understood the construction industry and the laborers. [redacted] indicated he wanted someone who could provide leadership and direction for him. [redacted] indicated [redacted] could fit that role. [redacted] stated he does not believe that [redacted] mentioned [redacted] at this meeting. [redacted] advised he was provided financial statements of FNLIC which showed improvement in the financial condition of FNLIC since the [redacted] group had taken over. It was [redacted] overall impression after this first meeting that [redacted] wanted a business executive with management and administrative abilities to oversee the operations of the Home office in Miami, since [redacted] wanted to be free to conduct sales activities around the country. In short, he wanted someone there to run the business. [redacted] indicated to [redacted] that he had the necessary background through his involvement with the Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts and his broad experience in labor negotiations. [redacted] advised he told [redacted] that he was interested in the position. At the conclusion of the first meeting, [redacted] indicated to [redacted] he would get back in touch with him in a week or two.

[redacted] advised after he returned to Boston, he made no mention of the [redacted] business proposition other than discussing it with [redacted]. They agreed that he should look into the matter further. A short period later, [redacted] agreed to meet in Miami again. [redacted] advised that he again flew to Miami. On this occasion, [redacted] paid for the flight. Again he stayed at the [redacted] guest. [redacted] stated between August, 1973 and December, 1974, he made three or four trips to Florida. He stated each time he stayed at the [redacted] guest. He is not sure what occurred or whom he met on each trip. He stated he did recall spending time at FNLIC in Miami. He recalled meeting with [redacted] all Officers of FNLIC. They discussed the insurance business at Farmers and where Farmers was going to be headed with [redacted] in control. They also discussed insurance which could be bid on in Massachusetts. [redacted] advised he told them that Laborers Union Insurance was bid on a regular basis in Massachusetts. He advised [redacted] it was possible to bid on the MLNMF Insurance. [redacted] stated the basis of the job proposal was not conditioned on securing any insurance business in Massachusetts. The concept of freeing [redacted] to sell insurance around the country was again discussed as was the possibility [redacted] and his family relocating. [redacted] stated he discussed the possibility of moving himself and his family to Florida with attorney [redacted] at the time. [redacted] advised [redacted] stated the bulk of his business was Labor Union business in general, in that he had secured the Labor Union business of the Florida Laborers, the Florida Plumbers and the Florida Carpenters Unions. Again [redacted] stated that [redacted] discussed the concept of freeing [redacted] up so that he could conduct business in other parts of the country.

[redacted] advised sometime in December of 1974, he came down to Florida with [redacted]. It was during this visit that it was settled that [redacted] would go to work for [redacted] sometime after the first of the year. [redacted] advised he also had some construction business matters to tend to before engaging in the insurance business. [redacted] advised the decision was made to open an office in Boston. [redacted] advised the immediate goals of the agency were to make brochures and to plan on who was going to do what. [redacted] advised the Massachusetts Laborers Health and Welfare Insurance was beginning to creep into the picture in that it was due to be rebid in or around April, 1975. He advised it was usually rebid every couple of years or it was bid at anytime at the request of the trustees. Moreover the trustees had a right to bid the contract each year.

[redacted] advised that [redacted] concept was to sell a group health insurance package along with a group permanent life insurance plan. All benefits funds were different and therefore the insurance plans had to be tailored to the specific fund in form of rates and coverage. The permanent life insurance plans being proposed were really developments of single life plans tailored to groups. [redacted] advised he was familiar with the arguments against whole life. However he stated that in his opinion, a properly structured whole life program is better than the term life insurance plans generally provided by the Unions. [redacted] advised with these types of policies, an employee who retires ideally has a paid up life insurance plan with a cash value attached. He noted it was more expensive than term insurance over the first few years. [redacted] advised there was a minor attempt at FNLIC to encourage cancer life insurance policies. [redacted] stated he did not like cancer life insurance policies and that they were never part of anything offered in Massachusetts.

b7C

[redacted] advised his role in attempting to secure the insurance contract for the MLWFF was to attempt to arrange for the FNLIC bid. [redacted] advised he understood that there was a reinsurance agreement in force between FNLIC and Old Security Life Insurance Company (OSLIC). He stated OSLIC was licensed in Massachusetts. [redacted] stated he believes he contacted trustee [redacted] Laborers Local number [redacted] and/or [redacted] the Massachusetts Laborers District Council, and advised them that he would like the opportunity to have OSLIC submit a bid at such time as the MLWFF bid out their insurance. [redacted] stated they had no quarrel with this, however, the only difference was that he asked them to bid whole life in addition to term.

[redacted] advised sometime after the first of the year, 1975, he began to setup NCIAL. He advised that he went to [redacted] and that he contacted [redacted]. He added that he has known [redacted] since he was [redacted] years old. He stated he explained to [redacted] basically what he was doing. He described to him the type of business. He advised that he requested [redacted] to come to work for him on a part-time basis to see how things would workout. He advised [redacted] was a licensed insurance agent in Massachusetts. At some point prior to contacting [redacted] he had spoken to [redacted]. He advised he had also explained the situation to [redacted]. At some point before he hired [redacted] he had [redacted] meet with [redacted] at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston, Massachusetts. The purpose of the meeting was that he wanted [redacted] to talk with [redacted] and get the feel of the potential value of this deal. He also wanted [redacted] to see if he would be interested in the deal. Another reason for the meeting was that it would give [redacted] the opportunity to counsel [redacted]. He advised he does not recall the specifics of the meeting between [redacted]. He advised that [redacted] opinion was that [redacted] was a sound insurance salesman and that he appeared to understand the insurance business. [redacted] stated [redacted] had no objections to [redacted] becoming involved but that it would be up to [redacted] to make the decisions.

[redacted] advised that he was very budget conscious when it came to expenses. He stated [redacted] wanted an office that looked good and smart. [redacted] was looking to Boston, Philadelphia or maybe New York as being his main office. It was decided to rent the premises at 220 and 222 Lewis Wharf. The premises were rented from Lewis Wharf Management Company at a rent of $1600 a month. [redacted] recalled that [redacted] sent some amount of money to setup the insurance agency and he believed it was somewhere in the area of $5,000 or $10,000.

[redacted] advised, as a matter of information, the agreement which he reached with [redacted] at the end of 1974 was verbal but that [redacted] would be drawing $1,000 per week.

salary plus expenses, and the use of an automobile [redacted] or National Financial Agency would be reimbursing [redacted] for these expenses. It would be [redacted] responsibility to [redacted] insurance agency in Boston. [redacted] advised that he leased an automobile from Alan Horowitz Peabody Cadillac, which is a small leasing company located in Peabody, Massachusetts.

At this point in the interview, a break for lunch was taken. Attorney [redacted] advised that they would be returning within the hour. After approximately one hour, [redacted] returned to resume the interview.

[redacted] advised that whatever date was reflected on the Articles of Organization was the date that NGIAI was incorporated. This date was March 24, 1975. He advised that NGIAI was located at 220 and 222 Lewis Wharf, Boston, Massachusetts. The premises were rented from Boston Waterfront Development Corporation, 129 Lewis Wharf, Boston, Massachusetts. The monthly rent was $1,668.97 and the Lease was signed on April 8, 1975. [redacted] advised that he had signed the Lease and that NGIAI was located there from March of 1975 until approximately September of 1976. Furniture for NGIAI was purchased from Offices Unlimited for somewhere between $15,000 and $17,000. [redacted] advised that he ended up paying for this furniture personally. He stated the furniture was abandoned when he left 222 Lewis Wharf. He stated he had taken out a loan at the Middlesex Bay Bank in the name of NGIAI but that he had signed personally on the loan. He advised in addition to [redacted]

[redacted] had offices at NGIAI. [redacted] stated he was the one hundred percent stockholder of NGIAI, however, the stock was never issued. He stated there are no stock certificates in existence and [redacted] never requested any stock certificates. [redacted] stated it was [redacted] responsibility to be available as the insurance man for NGIAI, that [redacted] was an assistant and she wrote the brochures and assisted in working on the proposals and that [redacted] handled the phone and bookkeeping duties. [redacted] stated [redacted] received $250 a week salary, [redacted] $300 a week salary, and [] $150 a week salary. [] advised he estimated that he drew out approximately $15,000 during the year and a half that NGLAI was in existence. He advised NGLAI received somewhere in the neighborhood of $85,000 from [] over its existence. When asked if it was possible he received an amount closer to $127,000 from [] stated that seemed to be too high a figure. [] maintained the cash receipts and cash disbursements journal. [] advised he had no objections, however, he wanted to review the records before turning them over. [] advised NGLAI had two checking accounts, one was at Middlesex Bay Bank and the other was at First National Bank of Boston. [] described the account at the Middlesex Bank as an account which was used for the deposit of agency money and he described the account at the First National Bank as the business operating account since that bank was situated more conveniently to the operation of business. [] added that he made a $35,000 deposit of the agency into his personal account at the First National Bank of Boston. [] advised this $35,000 check was a check which he had received from [] in settlement for his involvement with NGLAI. [redacted] and that if he thought the plan had merit that it was okay with him. [redacted] stated he next probably contacted [redacted] and discussed the plan with him. [redacted] stated someone, name unrecalled, came up with a notion that [redacted] should come to Florida to see FNLIC and its setup. It was felt this would give [redacted] exposure to the insurance business. [redacted] noted [redacted] was considering retirement and that he [redacted] [redacted] stated he made arrangements for [redacted] to go to Florida and he charged [redacted] ticket to the National Financial Agency. [redacted] stated the ticket was never paid for and that about a year and a half later, he had to pay for it out of his own pocket. [redacted] together with his wife, flew to Florida and evidently went to FNLIC. [redacted] stated he did not accompany them on their visit to FNLIC, however, he was in Florida during the period [redacted] was there. [redacted] stated he recalled explaining the difference between whole life and term insurance to [redacted] and that possibly he may have mentioned that there would be a job available for [redacted] upon his retirement. [redacted] stated he had known [redacted] for many years and that he had sat across from [redacted] during many negotiations between the Union and the Massachusetts Association of General Contractors.

[redacted] advised it was around this time that he began to have discussions with [redacted] regarding the bidding of the MLHWP Insurance. [redacted] stated he had no direct input into the decision of the MLHWP trustees into putting the insurance out for bid. He stated [redacted] advised him that he had sent a bid proposal to OSLIC and that included in the proposal was the specifications for the health and welfare insurance, the term life insurance along with an alternate for whole life insurance. This insurance was to be bid on by many companies.

[redacted] advised he does not know who prepared the specifications for the MLHWP bid but he assumed that the Martin E. Segal Company, a consultant to the fund, did. He stated OSLIC was the low bidder on the base and alternate policies, Union Labor Life, the prior insurer was second. [redacted] stated he never attended any of the trustees meetings, however, he had telephoned trustee [redacted] and had advised him that [redacted] had an interest in the bidding. He recalled [redacted] was one of the trustees who voted against the whole life concept.

b7C

Regarding inside information from the fund, [redacted] advised a complete history of the prior contracts was provided in the proposal package. He stated this was mailed to OSLIC. He stated he was informed by [redacted] and [redacted] as to what the other companies might bid. [redacted] advised he obtained additional information from Martin E. Segal Company concerning the age levels and other actuarial information pertinent to the whole life aspect and necessary for [redacted] actuarial calculations.

b6

[redacted] advised after the bids were opened, the Union trustees still wanted the whole life insurance but the Management trustees and the funds legal counsel did not. He stated that the trustees were in a stalemate. It was decided to put the matter to a study. [redacted] was opposed to the study and to the whole life policy of OSLIC. [redacted] advised that in an effort to settle the matter, the group contacted [redacted]

[redacted] had been in favor of the whole life program in Indiana. [redacted] advised at that time he did not know of the existence of [redacted]. He believes that [redacted] told him about [redacted]. [redacted] advised [redacted] came to one of the trustees meetings at the request of the Union trustees. He stated the trustees eventually voted OSLIC for the term insurance.

[redacted] advised the Martin E. Segal Company received the commission on this insurance inasmuch as they are the only broker for the fund. They receive the insurance commission in lieu of a fee. He stated he believes that [redacted] is a licensed insurance agent for OSLIC and that they received about a $20,000 commission on this insurance.

[redacted] advised he had anticipated some type of agency commission from the insurance company in this matter. He stated that during the battle, he realized he was not going to get a commission. He advised also during this time, he was trying to contact [redacted] was not sending him the funds as promised. It was during this time that [redacted] was becoming very disgruntled with the entire setup. [redacted] stated [redacted] was not only falling behind in his payments but that some of the checks which he was receiving were not good. He advised he decided he wanted to bail out of the insurance business. He advised attorney [redacted] had also advised him to get out of the insurance business. [redacted] was becoming very difficult to contact and that he kept cancelling meetings which [redacted] was setting up in Boston to get the insurance business off the ground. [redacted] advised he had planned to solicit other business in the New England area. He had obtained Department of Labor filings for various New England area funds. He stated at the same time he is trying to coordinate his efforts with the people in Florida. He stated he attempted to schedule meetings with people interested in insurance to make his company work but that [redacted] kept cancelling the meetings. [redacted] advised he recalled a meeting at the Chalet Restaurant which could have been in the latter part of 1975. In attendance at this meeting were ARTHUR E. COIA, [redacted] and himself. He stated that he could not recall anyone else being there. He advised that at this meeting he recalled that [redacted] gave him a check for $15,000. He advised he recalled that this check bounced.

[redacted] advised in conjunction with OSLIC securing the MIMW insurance that a checking account was setup at the Middlesex Bay Bank. The account was to operate as follows. A premium check from the Health and Welfare Fund was to be deposited into the account. Payments on claims would be paid out of this checking account. The signers of the account were [redacted] and possibly [redacted] all officers of MIMW. OSLIC had no control over this account. After the claims were paid by a check, a computer print out of claims paid was sent to OSLIC for their approval. [redacted] stated the first premium check mailed came to him and was deposited into this account. He stated he had had discussions with [redacted] Middlesex Bay Bank, regarding the handling of the large sums of money which would be coming in. He was trying to make an arrangement whereby certificates of deposits would be purchased at various rates coming due at various due dates in order to secure the most favorable interest and at the same time to cover the cash flow of the account. [redacted] called from Florida and transferred one million dollars from the fund after the first check was deposited. He contacted [redacted] and was advised that [redacted] had been able to secure a better rate for the million dollars. [redacted] stated he received a telephone call from [redacted] who advised him that all the work done to calculate for the certificates of deposits had been wasted since the money had been transferred out. [redacted] stated that all he knows is that the money was redeposited on time to pay the claims. [redacted] stated he protested this transfer since there was a clause in the contract to keep the funds in Massachusetts.

[redacted] advised regarding the two parcels of land that he looked at with [redacted] was attempting to determine whether or not the prices being requested for the land was reasonable. He was also trying to determine whether or not he should ultimately dispose of or develop the land. [redacted] offered him some equity position in the land as the compensation for bailing out of the insurance business.

[redacted] advised during his relationship with [redacted] he had never actually threatened [redacted]. He stated that he may have mentioned on an occasion that if [redacted] was there he would throw him out a window but that was said at a time that [redacted] was not present. [redacted] stated that he was very angry. [redacted] advised that he also did a lot of "showboating" trying to convince people that he was in fact angry.

[redacted] advised he became aware of OSLIC's coinsurance agreement with FALIC after it was done. He believes the coinsurance agreement called for twenty percent to be held by OSLIC and eighty percent to be held by FALIC. [redacted] advised he had heard of the National Pacific Corporation and all that he knew was that [redacted] was involved with it and that it was on the West Coast. He stated he had heard of Family Provider Life Insurance Company and he described it as a little insurance company owned by FALIC. He

By the end of 1975, FNL was in financial difficulties and an impending audit by the Florida Insurance Commission was being initiated. [] had expressed his concern earlier in 1975 [] would ultimately be in trouble. [] wanted to obtain a large insurance company outside Florida and one which he would not have to reinsure through OS or others. An early attempt to purchase Galico failed.

b6
b7c

In the meantime in late 1975, [] while in [] that he was initiating a [] Thereafter, Family Provider Life (FP) was activated in Arizona and Great Pacific Corporation was formed to purchase FP naming [] $50,000 was taken from FNL through Actuarial Consultants, Incorporated, to GPC in order to purchase FP.

b6

Also about this time, [] was surprised to learn that [] had reinitiated his business contacts with [] American Financial Corporation of Cincinnati, Ohio, which owned Galico of New Jersey and once again it appeared that [] would in fact purchase Galico.

b6

and from [] concerning these mortgages. [] that for $600,000 FNL could secure over two million dollars in mortgages. NFA would owe the debt and FNL would own the assets. During November-December, 1975, [] transmitted from Miami to Los Angeles by either Delta or National Airlines, a package containing Sage Mortgage transfer papers and a satisfaction of mortgage which [] signed. [] also signed a satisfaction which [] and [] witnessed. These papers were then transmitted back to Miami. [] advised that [] was concerned about this transaction and had asked [] to make sure that these were "good" mortgages. [] expressed concern that [] were smarter than [] and might "screw" them in this transaction.

b6
b7c

Also of concern was where the monies to purchase these mortgages would come from. Because there was no money available to close this deal in late 1975, the actual closing took place in early 1976. [] that [] were working out the details to obtain this $600,000 which was ultimately consummated and FNL received additional assets.

b6
b7c

Through the urging of [] Transcoast Insurance Agency was incorporated to take care of any West Coast business and "clean" from any of the FNL problems. [] agreed to establish Transcoast whereupon [] obtained an insurance license. This company was incorporated in early 1975. Ultimately, [] wanted back in California and felt that Transcoast could possibly front insurance business for him in California. [] had been receiving a $2,500 monthly salary from NFA. [] $2,500 a month plus expenses of about $4,000 to $5,000 per month for Transcoast. Transcoast was not actively involved in selling insurance during this time, however, afterward when FP was formed, Transcoast became the administrative offices for the various [] entities.

b6
b7c

Approximately January-February, 1976, [] a meeting in Miami in FNL offices. Present were [] and possibly [] The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the preparation of the application of GPC to purchase Galico of New Jersey. Specifically,

b6

there was a need for a GPC financial statement to present to the New Jersey Insurance Commission. [redacted] was called in and presented with the problem. [redacted] was "too busy" to prepare an audited statement so quickly. [redacted] suggested that [redacted] had an accountant that would conduct such an audit. [redacted] telephoned [redacted] concerning an accountant. That same afternoon, [redacted] appeared at FNL offices. [redacted] advised that he had conducted audits [redacted] and was thereafter presented with the problem. [redacted] and others that this statement must show that GPC has enough cash to purchase Galico and enough assets to project GPC as a viable corporation. Also discussed at these meetings was the use of additional Sage mortgages to "boost" the assets of GPC. At some point of the [redacted] audit, [redacted] that he had utilized [redacted] (phonetic) to certify the audit. [redacted] was paid $10,000 for this certification in February, 1976. [redacted] delivered this GPC statement to the New Jersey Insurance Commissioner. A number of questions were presented concerning the statement. A particular Sage Corporation mortgage was challenged by the commissioner. Thereafter, a new statement was prepared in Los Angeles by [redacted] around April-May, 1976. [redacted] either took the statement to [redacted] for certification or [redacted] signed it in blank.

b6

During this time period, [redacted] and others were seeking two million dollars in order to purchase Galico but he was unable to obtain such funding. As it became apparent that funding was not available, [redacted] advised that the upcoming Teamster contract was necessary for the purchase of Galico. After many other meetings with attorneys and New Jersey Insurance Commissioner, the commissioner denied GPC the right to purchase Galico because GPC could not pay for the purchase without endangering Galico.

b6

[redacted] during this time, had obtained a reinsurance contract for FP with Old Security on an 80 percent - 20 percent basis. Before this agreement, [redacted] received a telephone call from [redacted] regarding the Teamster contract. [redacted] expressed concern to [redacted] about Teamster business being "trouble" but the premium income sounded

b6

very lucrative and was needed for the Galico purchase.

[redacted] recalled that [redacted] so [redacted] that he would send [redacted] to talk with [redacted] told [redacted] that the [redacted] meeting was favorable.

b6
b7C

Ultimately, the O. S. bid for the Teamster business was submitted. [redacted] became worried about [redacted] help with this bid because [redacted] had not delivered substantial union business to [redacted] did in fact obtain the Hawaiian laborers for [redacted] through [redacted] heard that [redacted] Honolulu Attorney, handled this deal but did not know if [redacted] is an attorney for the Hawaiian laborers. [redacted] advised that [redacted] him he was paying [redacted] approximately $2,500 monthly for this contract. [redacted] also advised that [redacted] telephoned on several occasions regarding money owed him.

b6

[redacted] that he had introduced [redacted] to [redacted] in order to help [redacted] with his problems in the U. S. Department of Justice. [redacted] introduced [redacted] to [redacted] Department of Justice Attorney.

b6
b7C

On one occasion around May 3, 1976, [redacted] took a taxi from Sheraton Carlton Hotel to [redacted] office. Up to this point, [redacted] had never discussed [redacted] that they were going to [redacted] law office. Upon entering this office, [redacted] discussed the Continental Homes purchase. [redacted] and [redacted] that he would use his [redacted] in Arizona with this matter. [redacted] also discussed the purchase of Galico by GPC. [redacted] at some point of the conversation, came into this office. [redacted] stepped out of the office for some reason. At this point, [redacted] and asked for a checkbook. [redacted] a large corporate checkbook. [redacted] make out a check for $250,000 to [redacted] No mention was made as to the reason for the check at this meeting. [redacted] later appears at this meeting and [redacted] excuses himself to meet privately with [redacted] in another office of this law firm. [redacted] expressed concern that there was no money in the bank for this check. Around this period of time, [redacted] a one million dollar transfer from a Massachusetts claims account to Diplomat Bank for the purchase of Galico

b6
b7C

b6
b7C

and because [] had a hidden interest in this bank and he had agreed to keep one million dollars on deposit at this bank at all times. Before this conversation, [] advised that after a meeting with [] in a telephone conversation to Miami, that the Galico deal looked good and that he would need funds for the Galico closing. [] that getting the money was [] and that he [] did not care how [] got the money just that he get it.

b6

In order to show cash in GPC, [] an illegal 1.8 million dividend to be declared by FP to GPC to show that GPC had the cash to purchase Galico. This was not actually paid; however, New Jersey Insurance Commission checks with the Arizona Insurance Commission concerning this dividend and finds that it was an illegal dividend. The Arizona Insurance Commission contacted [] and a hearing is set in Arizona. [] first meets with the Arizona Insurance Commission and thereafter a meeting was set in [] office in Washington, D.C. At this meeting were [] and possibly [] [] advised that Arizona Insurance Commission had demanded that 1.8 million be returned to FP within 48 hours. (Between the discovery of the illegal dividend and this meeting the Teamster contract was awarded and funds were sent to the Provident Bank.) In the [] meeting at some point, was the American Financial Corporation Attorney [] It was determined that the 1.8 million dollars would be returned to a Family Provider account outside the State of Arizona. [] however, had to obtain [] approval for a FP account to be opened at Provident Bank. Provident Bank later sent a telegram to the Arizona Insurance Commission to this effect. Later this same day, Diplomat Bank, Washington, D.C., sent a telegram to Arizona Insurance Commission indicating that the Family Provider account had on this date $700,000 in funds on account. [] knew that [] during this time, had written a $100,000 check to FP and that most likely this check was not good.

b6
b7C

b6
b7C

[redacted] telephoned both banks to determine that the telegrams were actually sent.

b6
b7c

May 24 through May 28, 1976, another meeting was held in Washington, D.C., to determine whether or not the Galico deal was approved. By the end of the last week in May, the New Jersey Insurance Commissioner denied the purchase of Galico.

[redacted] flew back to Los Angeles.

b6
b7c

[redacted] During this period,

Before leaving Washington, [redacted] telephoned [redacted] to ask if he would find an insurance company for sale in some state where prior insurance commission approval is not necessary.

b6
b7c

On June 2, 1976, [redacted] received a telephone call [redacted] stating that [redacted] had located such a company and that an attorney in [redacted] office, [redacted] (phonetic) is flying to Los Angeles to discuss the details. [redacted] at the airport and was told that National American Life Insurance Company (NALICO) of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, was for sale. There was no prior approval needed in Louisiana, the purchase price was six million dollars with two million dollars down. After viewing the financial statements the price seemed high. [redacted] that he was not familiar with the details but that [redacted] told him that this was the price.

b6
b7c

The next morning, [redacted] at his home to discuss NALICO purchase. [redacted] could not answer many of the questions so [redacted] and a meeting was set with the owners of NALICO. This same day, [redacted] was instructed by [redacted] to set up a holding company for NALICO. [redacted] suggested that it be called National Pacific Corporation and that it be a Delaware corporation.

b6
b7c

[redacted] suggested that [redacted] actually be shown as [redacted] and thereafter [redacted] was named [redacted] NPC with [redacted] as President and [redacted] as [redacted] with all three as directors.

b6
b7c

It was later found through meetings in [redacted] office that a couple of [redacted] insurance consultants were clients of [redacted]. Discussions were made concerning additional reinsurance with American Commonwealth Financial Corporation of Texas in order to dissolve the agreement with Old Security.

b6
b7c

Approximately June 12, 1976, [redacted] received a telephone call from [redacted] telling [redacted] that the NALICO deal looked good and that [redacted] should fly to Baton Rouge.

b6
b7c

On June 14, 1976, [redacted] met with [redacted] and NALICO attorneys to begin closing the deal. [redacted] arrived in Baton Rouge on June 15, 1976. [redacted] arrives in Baton Rouge. [redacted] had a cashiers check for 1.8 million dollars and a briefcase with $200,000 cash. At this closing were

b6
b7c

[redacted] and others. [redacted] indicated that he preferred a check rather than cash. The cashiers check for 1.8 million dollars was given to [redacted] along with a $200,000 check and another check for the purchase of additional stock from [redacted]

Going back to the Teamster contract with Old Security in the first part of May, 1976, [redacted] advised that he heard that they had received the Teamster contract.

b7c

In Los Angeles approximately the first part of May, [redacted] discussed the funds to be received from the Teamsters. It was decided that [redacted] go to Chicago to obtain the Teamster money and bring it back to Arizona. At some point, it was found that [redacted] would also be in Chicago. On the day of the "pick up" in Chicago, [redacted] waited in Los Angeles for word that the money had been picked up. [redacted] became increasingly concerned during the day and later tried to telephone the Teamster office to locate [redacted]. Later in the day, [redacted] heard either [redacted] had received one of the checks and the other check had gone into an Old Security account in Chicago. [redacted] became very upset because he had expected both checks and at this point had neither.

b6
b7c

The next day, [redacted] finds that 1.5 million dollars had in fact been transferred into Arizona. Subsequently,

b6

[redacted] had caused the transfer to be made. b6 b7C

Just prior to the NALICO purchase, it was decided [redacted] associate Branch that FP should be liquidated. [redacted] suggested that agreements be made whereby FP would cede the business to NALICO in conjunction NALICO would buy from NPC the 2,260,000 of convertible surplus notes from FNL for which NALICO would pay $880,000 in cash and a surplus note for the rest. This meant that the money would pass from FP to NPC in order to save time and account for the FP money passing to NPC. Now it could be said that the facts were that FP never gave GPC 1.8 million dollars but really 1.1 million dollars, therefore, FP was only entitled to 1.1 million and $700,000 should be returned to GPC anyway. At this point, GPC has become a subsidiary of NPC by the transfer of shares of stock. This would explain for the movement of money from FP to NPC. [redacted] sent the necessary papers for [redacted] to sign into effect. In effect, FP wound up in the same shape as it was prior to moving to Arizona, "a shell company". b6 b7C

A NALICO bank account in Diplomat Bank is opened. [redacted] at the New Orleans Airport and asked them to sign the signature cards and corporation resolution forms for the NALICO account in blank. [redacted] advised them that [redacted] wanted this account opened. After a review of bank records it was apparent to [redacted] had already opened this account but still needed the papers signed. b6 b7C

After the closing of the NALICO purchase on June 15, 1976, [redacted] and others were invited to the Governor's mansion for lunch where Governor EDWARDS welcomed the group to Louisiana. b6 b7C

After the transfer of the 1.5 million from Chicago, [redacted] from Miami to Los Angeles and [redacted] O.S. was upset about the transfer. [redacted] and attempted to placate him with little success. [redacted] telephoned again to say that he had talked [redacted] into accepting the Sage mortgages in return for the 1.5 million dollars. [redacted] was not involved in b6 b7C this transaction. On June 18, 1976, [] O.S. flew into Los Angeles and met with [] to dissolve the O. S. fronting agreement.

b6
b7C

On June 23, 1976, [] fly to Kansas City from Baton Rouge to meet with [] to give them the financial statement of NALICO and discuss the transfer of Teamster business into NALICO. [] flew back to Los Angeles and [] flew to Chicago where he was to meet [] and together to meet with [] the Teamsters to discuss the transfer of business into NALICO.

b6
b7C

On July 9, 1976, [] flew from Los Angeles to Kansas City and signed several agreements whereby NALICO assumes the liability of FP and FNL and agrees to assume all the business possible from O.S.

b6
b7C

There is also a settling of this agreement and [] gave a two million plus check to [] and [] that they would continue to secure the Teamster okay on this matter.

b6
b7C

[] fly back to Los Angeles where [] picks up this check from [] tells [] took the check to [] who in turn has [] fly to Washington, D.C., to deposit this check into the NALICO Diplomat account.

b6
b7C

[] plans to leave for Israel on July 19, 1978. Prior to his leaving, [] made arrangements for [] to write a check from NALICO to NPC for $200,000 for administrative expenses. Out of these funds, [] wrote a $90,000 check to Transcoast to pay for [] earlier bills, NEA bills and Transcoast expenses. Later, [] finds that [] actually wrote a 1.2 million dollar check from NALICO to NPC. [] could not explain this to NALICO employees. [] telephoned [] in Israel and told [] that he could not do this and that he must return it. [] told [] that he would straighten it out when he returned on about August 18.

b6
b7C

[] later confronted [] in Washington, D.C. concerning the return of one million dollars to NALICO.

b6

[] that he had taken the money out to prevent [] from "getting his hands on it." [] told [] that he had no objections into returning it to a NALICO account in which [] was not a signatory. [] also told [] that he would be able to return $800,000.

[redacted] that he wanted [redacted] to fully explain this to [redacted]. A meeting was set at [redacted] home on a Sunday morning. [redacted] and [redacted] discussed the various problems with the Teamsters, Old Security, and Security Exchange Commission. [redacted] that they should stop paying claims for Old Security and "to shove it up Old Security's ass."

When it became apparent at this meeting that [redacted] was not going to discuss the Zeevco matter, [redacted] asked [redacted] if he had something to tell [redacted] that he had entered into a reinsurance agreement to provide them with a fronting company involving Manufacturers Life of Canada which would allow them to write business in Canada and the United States.

b6

[redacted] asked to see evidence of the agreement to which [redacted] promised to deliver them. After about a week, it became apparent to [redacted] that no such agreement existed. [redacted] did mention that [redacted] (phonetic) was involved as head of the Swiss Banking Association. Later, [redacted] viewed a Telex from [redacted] purporting to explain the Zeevco matter. [redacted] advised that this Telex did not explain the matter to his satisfaction.

b6

About this period of time, SEC was successful in appointing a receiver for NALICO which effectively "cut off" any funds of NALICO. Later, consent decree was signed. [redacted] complained strongly about the terms of the consent decree and that NALICO gave up without a good fight.

b6

Meetings between [redacted] became less frequent. [redacted] discussed entering into various business without success.

b6

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/18/81

[redacted] was interviewed in the presence of his attorney, [redacted] at the law offices of Greenberg, Dauber and Epstein, Room 815, Gateway One, Newark, New Jersey. [redacted] were advised of the official identities of the interviewing Agent and of Strike Force Attorney [redacted] and of the nature of the interview which concerned an attempt by the Great Pacific Corporation (GPC) to acquire the Great American Life Insurance Company (GALIC) of East Orange, New Jersey.

[redacted] advised that regarding this matter, his best recollection is that at some time prior to February 4, 1976, he received a telephone call from [redacted] Laborers International Union of North America (LIUNA) to the effect that [redacted] would be receiving a telephone call. [redacted] stated that he could not recall all the details of this conversation and it was not until he received a telephone call from [redacted] and subsequent conversations that he realized the actual referral of this matter had been made by [redacted]

[redacted] advised as a matter of background that [redacted] law firm had done business for [redacted] LIUNA and that he had known [redacted] for a number of years. He described their relationship as "close" and feels that [redacted] was aware of his background [redacted] for that same entity and as [redacted] in the 1973 election as a member of the [redacted] [redacted] added that he had also served as [redacted] prior to 1976. however, he has not served in any advisory position to [redacted] In summary, [redacted] advised that he feels that [redacted] was "generally aware" of [redacted]

[redacted] advised that between February 4 - 6, 1976, he had what he described as "miscellaneous" telephone conversations with [redacted] who was in Miami. He advised that [redacted] that he was interested in acquiring an insurance company. [redacted] stated again that he did not recall all of the details of these conversations, but that he believes as a result of these conversations he began to make inquiries regarding the application procedures for acquiring an insurance company in New Jersey. He also believes that as a result of these conversations a meeting was scheduled in his office on February 9, 1976.

[] advised that in preparation for the February 9, 1976 meeting he prepared a letter dated February 8, 1976, which concerned instructions regarding the acquisition. This letter was probably presented at the meeting, but [] was not sure. b6

[] advised that the first meeting of which he is aware regarding the proposed acquisition of GALIC occurred in the conference room at the law offices of Zazzali and Zazzali, Gateway One, Newark, New Jersey on February 9, 1976. [] stated that present at this meeting were [] b6
b7C

[] a man whose name began with a "V" who may have been [] and [] During the course of the meeting other attorneys from the firm may have come into the meeting to "glad hand" clients.

[] recalled that when he first entered the conference room for the meeting he was surprised at the number of people present. He had known [] LITNA, because he had "appeared" before him on a number of labor matters consisting of appellate union matters held in New York City. He was not sure if he knew [] before the meeting, but believes it may have been the first time he had met him. He somehow knew [] was an attorney. He thinks he made a comment to [] about being [] He was aware that [] were "close". b6

[] advised that during the meeting all of the "clients" talked. They indicated that they wanted to acquire GALIC. They described how the acquisition would take place by one company acquiring another. They stressed time. They indicated that they had to "move fast" and that "full attention" had to be devoted to the acquisition. Documents would have to be "hand delivered" by a messenger service and that they were working with a contingency contract and that they must have approval by the New Jersey Insurance Commission by June 1, 1976. [] advised that it was his impression that cost would be no object in the acquisition. b6

BS 183A-373

[] advised that at this meeting he believes he reviewed the contents of his February 8, 1976 memo concerning the approval process and that he may have discussed Administrative, Federal and State laws relative to this matter. He also believes that [] talked about his background and familiarity with the Insurance field. [] would have also made his "standard speech" about the firm not being able to predict the outcome of the matter. b6 b7C

[] advised that it was his impression that the insurance application to the New Jersey Insurance Commission would be "Pro Forma" and that it would take about two months to complete. Arrangements were made to have a second meeting in Florida on February 12, 1976. [] could not recall who suggested the meeting. b6 b7C

[] advised that according to his records, on February 10, 1976, [] had a meeting with New Jersey []. On February 11, 1976, he did some work on the Biographic Forms needed for the filing. Also on the 11th he had phone conversations with people in Florida about the trip. He recalled that the client prepaid the airline tickets. Also on the 11th he spoke to Deputy [] about a filing date of February 13, 1976. b6 b7C

[] advised that February 12, 1976 was the date he left for Florida. [] stated that as he recalled it he arrived at the airport late for the 8:00 AM flight. [] was waiting for him. He is not sure if [] was present. He remembers some conversation about [] but is not sure. He recalled some "casual" expression of disappointment to the effect that [] was not on the plane. There may have been a mention to one of the clients about [] being on the flight or that [] was also going to be in Florida but again, he could not be sure. b6 b7C

[] stated that he had recently discussed this matter with [] and that it was [] recollection that [] arrived late for the flight but that it was a ticket agent who said [] was going to be on the plane. [] stated that [] was certain that [] was not on the flight and that the ticket agent made a call and established the fact that [] would not be on the plane. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that he did not recall seeing a ticket for [redacted]. He recalled that in either Florida or Newark there was some mention of a reservation for [redacted] but does not recall who made the remark. He stated that this was only conjecture, that somehow the client became aware the [redacted] was going to be on the flight. He stated that he recalled some awareness of this on the part of [redacted]

b6
b7C

[redacted] advised that after he and [redacted] arrived in Miami they were picked up by a limousine. They were driven to the offices of the Farmers National Life Insurance Company where they went to the office of [redacted]. There they met [redacted]. [redacted] explained that these individuals were either there when they arrived, or came in later.

[redacted] recalled that at this meeting he had some discussion with [redacted] about meeting [redacted]. There was also some discussion between [redacted] about an insurance agency in New England. [redacted] stated that it was clear to him that everybody knew each other. [redacted] recalled a comment by [redacted] with words to the effect about [redacted] being a good man. [redacted] described the meeting as friendly. After the meeting he and [redacted] took a taxicab back to Farmers National Life Insurance Company. During the cab drive back, [redacted] recalled that he discussed the application process with [redacted]. Also during this conversation, [redacted] if he had ever been convicted of a crime or been investigated. [redacted] answered "No, absolutely not" to the questions.

[redacted] explained at that point in time he believed that [redacted] was to be included in the application to purchase GALIC and the questions would be necessary for the biographical data to be submitted to the New Jersey Insurance Commission. In the meeting of February 9, 1976, his firm had actually been asked to work with [redacted] and for that reason, subsequent correspondence such as a letter on February 11, 1976, is directed to [redacted]. [redacted] stated that he knew when they came to Florida that they would be working at Farmers, however, he cannot recall

b7c

[redacted] advised that after they arrived back at Farmers he went to the conference room where [redacted] worked on the application, its exhibits, the position paper and biographical data on the proposed acquisition of GALIC. He recalled there was a lot of shuttling of people in and out over the next 2 - 3 days. During the period February 12-14, 1976, there were a number of work sessions in the conference room where they worked almost exclusively with [redacted] and [redacted] on preparing for the Acquisition Documents.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised that on February 13, 1976, he and [redacted] continued to work on the previously mentioned areas.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised that on either February 12 or February 13, [redacted] came in to he and [redacted] and said that there was no need for [redacted] name on the application since there was no slot on the application for it. [redacted] stated that he is not sure who came in and made the statement. He advised that the response given was that it [redacted] won't be (on the application) if it doesn't have to be. If it does, it will.

b6
b7c

[redacted] advised that he was told by [redacted] that they owned the Great Pacific Corporation [redacted] respectively.

b6

b6

[redacted] stated that [redacted] was another person who would be in contact with him regarding the acquisition. [redacted] advised that one night they stayed at the Americana and that the other night they stayed at some club. He stated that he cannot be sure which night they stayed at the Americana since they may not have paid and there was no bill. [redacted] stated that [redacted] that he recalled running into [redacted] one night at the hotel and [redacted] had made a comment to him to the effect that he had referred a good one to him.

[] advised that he left Miami on February 14, 1976; and he is not sure if [] flew back together. The morning of the 14th was spent finishing off the position paper and [] believes that the paper may have been typed in Miami. Arrangements were made for the client to bring the exhibits to New Jersey. b6 b7C

[] advised that it was during the period February 12-14, 1976, that he last saw []. Also, February 12, 1976 was the only time he met [] relative to this matter. [] advised that he had met [] once before and was aware that he had been formerly the [] or [] LIUNA. [] stated that he doesn't recall who he heard it from, but that [] left LIUNA because of "union politics". He stated that he began to get the impression of a "relationship" between LIUNA officials, [] and the insurance business. b6 b7C

[] advised that he believes that on February 17, 1976, [] took a limousine from Newark to Trenton, New Jersey to make the filing. [] is not sure if the exhibits were brought up at this time. In any event, [] signed the application on behalf of Great Pacific and the filing was made at Trenton. [] advised that he recalled driving across state to Trenton to be at the filing. b6 b7C

[] advised that on February 20, 1976, he spoke with representatives of the insurance department and recalled that there were phone conversations to obtain additional documents. There were also some problem areas on the documents. b6 b7C

[] advised that according to his records, on February 18, 1976, there was apparently a phone call to [] from [] regarding the status of the acquisition. [] stated that when he reviewed the time cards he was surprised to see this call. b6 b7C

[] advised that in March, 1976, he ran into [] either in his office or some other location. He stated that at the time [] made a remark to the effect that you know that case I referred to you, I don't care what you do with it. [] stated that the remark had impact on him since it was so negative. He stated that in his opinion [] is a "cryptic type" person in some of his statements and was not exactly sure what [] meant by this statement. b6 b7C

b6
b7C

[] advised that as a result of a jurisdictional dispute between one of the Laborer Locals and LIUNA in 1978 or 1979, he has become persona non grata with [] LIUNA. [] stated that his firm still represents the local, but not in the jurisdictional dispute.

b6

[] advised that he knows [] and he believes there is a close relationship between [] and [] stated that he has heard [] sing at a couple of union functions. [] advised that he knows of no association between [] and the insurance matter. He has heard []
